A soft-footed, dusky figure had a minute before lighted the tree of candles which stood upon the carved cabinet within the hall. The light shone through the broad entrance and spread across the portico, but Jane resolutely kept her face turned towards the twilight, which was deepening into night, and the brilliant glow at her back served rather to throw her features into shadow than to betray their emotions.

"And you—what, Jane?" Godfrey prodded gently.

She clasped and unclasped her hands nervously. The task she had set herself was a lacerating one, but she went on with it bravely, if falteringly. "And it may be that I—in my anxiety that my old-time friend, Miss Mary's brother, should not recklessly throw the chance of saving his life away, it may be that in the flurry of the moment, in the press of crowding events, I—led you to believe—my feelings"—she stopped, and then she gathered her determination and continued—"were of a different—character——"

"Jane!" The cry was that of a wounded animal.

There was a heavy silence, weighed upon her side with rising fear, with the strangling of loving impulses; upon his, with a gathering torrent of anger that was sweeping away the daze the blow had caused him. When next he spoke his voice was harsh. There was in it none of the gentleness of appeal, none of the sweetness of that faith of which he had boasted.

"And so," he said at last, "Miss Ellery had resort that night to her well-known talent for acting—one of her many gifts—to deceive me into the belief that the life she offered was really of value. Now that I am acquainted with its true worth, you may be sure I shall guard it well."

He strode down the steps, across the gravel, into the gloomy interior of the avenue. He had forgotten that his horse was in the Ellery stables. Out through the wide gates he went, into the dusty road, over the miles that lay between his home and Jane's; and Jane still leaned, a white and broken figure, against the pillar of the portico.

CHAPTER XV.

A JOURNEY.

A year had passed, and had brought to Jane much sadness, for her father's death had occurred in the spring.

Her stepmother, worn out by nursing Mr. Ellery through his long illness and by the later cares of the estate, had broken down, and was only just recovering from a fever when word came that Edward had been severely wounded in a skirmish with Lafayette's army in Virginia and was lying, it was feared, at the point of death in Portsmouth. It was Bessemer who wrote, and he urged that Jane and her stepmother set out at once for the young soldier's bedside. It was impossible for Mrs. Ellery to go, but Jane prepared immediately for the journey, upon which her aunt determined to accompany her.

Soon after they entered Virginia they learned that the British forces had abandoned Portsmouth and proceeded to Yorktown; hence it was towards the latter place they directed their course; but, carried out of their correct route, they found themselves in the midst of Gen. Lafayette's army. This might have been somewhat embarrassing had not a colonel of one of the Continental regiments proved a cousin of Mrs. Ellery's and vouched for that lady's loyalty and Miss Ellery's discretion. It was well towards the afternoon before they could set out again upon their journey. Dusk had fallen when they reached the town where they were to stop for the night, and with the dusk had come a heavy rain.

The inn at which they took refuge was a ramshackle affair. Mrs. Ellery went early to bed, and after an hour Jane followed her aunt's example, though her vigorous youth rebelled against the too early bedtime and she lay awake; half worrying about her brother, half wondering what reception they would meet with in Yorktown, when there was an entrance into the room back of hers, against whose partition wall her bed was placed.

Highball Won Driving.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Highball added another classic to his already long list by capturing the $15,000 Junior Champion stakes for two-year-olds at Gravesend. Half a length back came the favorite, Leonidas, with Ormonde's Right taking the short end of the stake. Aristocracy and Leonidas jumped away in front, with Highball in third position. Rounding into the stretch, there was a general closing up. Aristocracy dropped back beaten. In the drive through the stretch Highball won.

SPORTING NEWS.

BETWEEN THE INNINGS.

Umpire Lorenzo Townley showed his ability by impartial and satisfactory work at the Alis-Westfield contest, Saturday.

The Dunellen Athletic Club gained the third consecutive victory over the Bound Brook team Saturday by defeating them by a score of 6 to 3.

Manager Denman's colts will visit Crescent Oval next Saturday afternoon and try its strength with Alis. It is generally believed that Westfield will have to play gilt edge ball to win. "Warry" MacLaughlin and his own catcher, Murray, are expected to occupy the points.

Kavanaugh, who has been playing shortstop for Alis this season, has gone with a New York State Hospital team and will not be seen in an Alis uniform again this year. Just who Manager MacLaughlin will get for that position for the rest of the season has not yet been determined.

The Plainfield Eagles, the latest local organization to enter the baseball arena, is looking for games for the next two Saturdays. They would like to arrange games with the managers of any strong amateur team in this vicinity, Cranford, Rahway and Garwood teams preferred.

The East Millstone baseball team played a game on Saturday with Franklin Park at the latter place and won the contest by a score of 28 to 8. "Jimmie" Montross pitched for East Millstone. The same teams will meet at East Millstone on Saturday and Montross will again do the twirling for the home team.

WILL BOROUGH FOLLOW SUIT?

MAYOR SMALLEY GIVES ADVICE TO HIS IMITATORS IN THIS CITY.

Republican Bolters Should Lay Low, He Says, Until Time to Administer Punishment.

Mayor Smalley declined to say last night what attitude the North Plainfield delegation will take in the Somerset County Republican convention further than that boroughites do not seek a place on the ticket. Asked whether there is any likelihood of a secession from the convention if North Plainfield is not given its rights he said: "If they feed us bolting food, there's no telling but that it may take effect. Somerville has it in for us the same way Elizabeth has it for Plainfield. The Plainfield bolters are showing their hands too plainly to that Elizabeth crowd. It'll pay them to lay low until the time to do the trick arrives. The MacMurray people are right and they ought to keep hammering away."

GIVEN UP FOR LOST SON RETURNS HOME

Walter Frazee Again Under Parental Roof After Long Absence From Home.

WANTED TO SEE WORLD

FATHER AND MOTHER OVERJOYED BY HIS REAPPEARANCE.

Disappeared One Night in 1890—Searched in Vain—Thought to Have Been Victim of Foul Play.

"Vas dot der leedle veelage of Falling Vater?" were the words of Rip VanWinkle when he beheld his native town after his long sleep in the Catskills. "Is that the little village of Scotch Plains?" were the words of Walter Frazee, yesterday, as he again beheld the town of his birth after he had been mourned for dead by his parents and friends for thirteen years. The little children have heard their elders tell of the mysterious disappearance of young Walter Frazee in the winter of 1890, and of how the woods were searched each night for a week for his body and the fire bell called the people of the hamlet together to organize searching parties, in vain; but as the tall handsome young stranger went from place to place seeking his aged parents, the school children returning from the school which was not there when he lived in that town, little dreamed that their hero was before them. The prodigal had returned and was seeking his father's house.

The story of the remarkable disappearance from home thirteen years ago is still fresh in the memory of the residents of that town.

Young Frazee, who was considered a steady worker and a lad of good character, was employed in his father's business, which was that of a carpenter and mason. After retiring one night, the discovery was made that he had disappeared. It was found that he had made his escape out of a window. Stories of foul play were at once started and then it was suggested that the young lad had been decoyed into a kidnapping plot.

A meeting was called, the people being called together by the ringing of the fire bell. Searching parties were organized and for a week the large woods in that locality were searched night and day. Stories of the appearance of a strange wild man were concocted and this led many to believe that the boy had been kidnapped. No trace of the missing lad was ever found and the parents, believing that the lad was the victim of temporary insanity, had strolled away and was probably dead, mourned him as such.

The first heard of him in the thirteen years of his absence was yesterday when the young man, tall and handsome, appeared at his father's home in Westfield and said that he was the long lost son. His aged mother bowed down by sorrow over the supposed death of her boy, was overcome with joy and swooned. Mr. Frazee, who could hardly believe the good news and was perhaps a little skeptical, wanted farther proof and sweeping his hand over his son's brow uncovered a long scar which the boy had inflicted while chopping wood. This was sufficient and the father fell on his son's neck and wept for joy.

In explaining his action in going away so mysteriously Walter says that he was inspired to do so through stories of adventure which he had read. He wanted to see the world. He quietly left home without telling anyone and during the thirteen years in which he has been away he has been in many parts of the world.

"Progress," Reported.

Progress is being made on the new barn to be used, when completed, for the police patrol wagon and horse. Chairman Randolph, of the Police Board, recently made a trip to Trenton to see the patrol wagon and is well satisfied with the progress of the work. Within a short time it is expected that the wagon will be painted and soon afterward it will be ready for delivery in this city.

STRUCK AT RECORDER IN POLICE COURT

Prisoner Sent to Jail Because He Used Insulting Language and Attempted to Hit Doud.

CHARGE AGAINST FAHN

RECORDER SAID THAT BOTH MARSHAL AND PRISONER WERE INTOXICATED.

Recorder Doud Compelled to Act as Policeman—Mayor Smalley Indicated as to County Politics.

Charged with striking a magistrate while the latter was seated at a court of Justice, Nicholas Clickner, of Somerset street, was arraigned before Mayor Smalley, sitting in the North Plainfield borough court last evening and was fined $10 and given seven days in the County jail at Somerville. In default of the payment of the fine he was sentenced to seventeen days in jail.

The charge was made by Recorder Thomas Doud, upon whom the attempt at assault was made. Under oath the Recorder charged the prisoner with using insulting language and with making two attempts to strike him. He also charged Marshal Fahn, who appeared against the man, with arraigning a prisoner while both were under the influence of liquor. He said that while he was hearing the case the prisoner reached over the desk and struck at his face. He then ordered Fahn to take the man to the cells below but the officer was so much under the influence of liquor that he was hardly able to carry out the orders and that he, Recorder Doud, was obliged to assist. While Recorder Doud was in the act of taking the man to his cell Clickner made another vicious strike at him.

Chief Campbell had a charge against the man for beating his wife and causing a disturbance in his house but this was dismissed and the first one pressed.

RESULT OF PICKING PIMPLE

MISS LOTTIE BENNER AFFLICTED WITH A CANCER.

Operation to be Performed at Roosevelt Hospital—Miss Benner But Sixteen.

A peculiar case of illness was recently brought to the attention of physicians. Two months ago Miss Lottie Benner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Benner, of Duer street, was greatly annoyed by the appearance of a small pimple on the gum just inside her mouth. She frequently picked at it.

Finally the pimple and the right side of the face became very sore and it was decided to have the young woman see a dentist. Dr. Leonard, of Park avenue, was consulted. After an examination he suggested that the woman see a physician, refusing himself to pull what seemed to be a troublesome tooth.

Miss Benner, who is but sixteen years of age, then consulted Dr. Marcus L. Clawson, who recommended that she see a specialist. Following this advice the young woman went to New York yesterday and an examination was made by a specialist. He at once decided that the little pimple was nothing less than a cancer. An examination disclosed the fact that the cancer had found its way along side the entire right jaw. Miss Benner was afterwards taken to Roosevelt Hospital, where an operation will be performed on Friday for the removal of the growth.

He is a nephew of A. C. Vail, of West Eighth street. The defense made by the Middlesex and Somerset Traction Company was that the man was intoxicated at the time. John Smalley, of North Plainfield, was a witness for the plaintiff.

ONE HALF CENTURY OF MARRIED LIFE

Mr. and Mrs. G. L. VanEmburgh Observe Their Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary.

RECEPTION TO COUPLE

TRINITY REFORMED CHURCH CONSISTORY PRESENTS A TOKEN.

Gifts From Sunday-School Class, Fellow-Employes at Store and Others—Robert Clark, Jr., Makes Happy Address.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lyman VanEmburgh, at their home at 331 East Second street, yesterday celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. Fifty years of married life marked the occasion for an informal reception at which many people from this city, Newark and New York State gathered.

The house had been decorated with flowers symbolic of the event. Golden rod, dahlias and other flowers had been used with profusion to carry out the golden color scheme. From four until ten o'clock last evening Mr. and Mrs. VanEmburgh received the congratulations of their friends. Mrs. VanEmburgh, attired in a black peau de soie gown with white trimmings, and her husband, with Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. VanEmburgh and Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. VanEmburgh, received in the front room.

Mr. and Mrs. VanEmburgh were married in Newark September 15, 1853, at the Methodist parsonage in Union street, by Rev. Richard VanHorne. News was received yesterday of the death of the minister, whose funeral was held the day of their anniversary.

Mrs. VanEmburgh was Miss Saphronia Ryerson Colfax, of Greenwood Lake, N. J. Soon after their marriage they came to this city to live. The birthplace of Mr. VanEmburgh is Newark where he was born in 1832. He graduated from the Howell High School in his native town. Mr. VanEmburgh represented the Edsall & Price, a dry goods concern. He bought the stock of James E. White and later went into partnership with Edward White and the firm was known for many years as VanEmburgh & White. The firm occupied the store where Hill & Shupp's store is now located. Mr. VanEmburgh is now identified with Woodhull & Martin.

Two children of the union are living: Frederick Manderville VanEmburgh and Harry Clifford VanEmburgh, of this city. The first born was named after Dr. Frederick Manderville, a practitioner in Newark. Harry Clifford, the younger son living, is the civil engineer for North Plainfield, Roselle and Westfield.

Mr. and Mrs. VanEmburgh are prominent members of Trinity Reformed Church. Mr. VanEmburgh was one of the founders of Trinity Reformed Church in Newark which was a branch of the old Second Reformed Church, of which he was an elder.

Mr. and Mrs. VanEmburgh stood beneath a canopy made of golden colored ribbons. The balustrades and upstairs rooms were decorated similar to those below, with golden rod, dahlias and yellow daisies. In the reception room, up stairs, the remembrances of family and friends were in brilliant array displayed. Among the gifts was a golden colored bag made to represent a gold brick in which were 1,000 gold pennies, presented by "the boys at the store;" a little golden carriage filled with gold coin "with which to take a wedding trip," a letter from Class Number 12, of Trinity Reformed Church, of this city, wishing him many returns of the day and inclosed $10 gold piece, and $50 in gold, presented by Robert Clark, Jr., of Trinity Reformed Church, on behalf of the consistory, in recognition of his faithful services at that church and of the fact that he is the senior Elder of the congregation. Mr. Clark said:

We are apt on an occasion like this to be reminiscent and to call up from the past scenes and incidents that has assisted in making the history of the event that we have met tonight to celebrate. It is the work of the historian and to me has been assigned the delicate task of revealing to your friends who have assembled to do your honor that part of your life that is embraced in the event that we celebrate tonight.

The task would have been a hard one if I had not had access to the family annals, wherein is revealed the courtship of the adolescent George and the coy Sophronia. It reveals the fact that your ardor as a lover could not be surpassed by Romeo and that your heart traveled a long distance to obtain a wife. The family record indicates that it was forty miles and a lap at the end.

You, early in life, became a diligent student of the Bible and you had a great desire to impart this knowledge to others and it is said that Sophronia was the willing student. It is said that in a quiet hamlet near the shores of Greenwood Lake there was inaugurated a Sunday School class and that both "teacher and pupil" were very responsive. Whenever this class would meet, George would place his arm around the sylph-like waist of Sophronia and exclaim "let us make the waist place glad" and Sophrona would respond vigorously, "Oh, may your arm never be shortened." It is said you were much given to the practice of "Osculation" and as your courtship occured when tallow dips were used and you had been led to believe that a performance of this kind would set waves of air in motion that would cause the candle light to flicker and so absorbed were you both in the experiment that under its soothing influence you both would fall asleep and Sophronia waking in confusion would sneak off to bed leaving poor George to sleep on, unconscious of the fate that awaited him, when his irate father-in-law to be, would rudely shake him by the shoulder and tell him it was time to go home.

But the brightest page is where you appear in the role of father, what tender care exhibited. What solicitude manifested during the period when the baby reigned supreme. If Sophronia called for the soothing syrup during the silent watches of the night, George quickly got up and got it.

There is a picture of you very carefully preserved among archives of the family as you went fluttering up and down the room at night in your undress uniform, talking undignified baby talk, and trying to sing, with a little velvet head resting on your breast and when you proposed to stop the little velvet head would intimate that nothing suited him like exercise and noise and how you toiled on until the morning stars appeared before you had conquered little velvet head and as you laid him in his crib you were heard to exclaim "Sufficient unto the day is one baby."

"Rock-a-bye Baby"

But brother, all this labor would have been but a labor of love if the object and aim of your life has been accomplished. It is the desire of every father that the family tree planted with so much care and whose growth is watched with so much anxiety shall ever continue to grow—constantly putting forth new branches and whose fruitage shall increase as the years come and go. But alas brother you seem to be doomed to disappointment, despair seems to be written upon every lineament of your countenance. Long and anxiously have you waited for the family tree to put forth new branches—and it seems a sad commentary that when you visit at the homes of your children you should not be greeted with those familiar words "here comes Grandpa and Grandma. It seems to indicate that when the future writer comes to write the annals of the illustrious House of VanEmburg there will appear at the end of the narrative the sad words "Extinct."

You cannot stop the trend of thought or the feelings that ebb and flow or the suggestions that come to us and tonight, dear brother and sister, standing as it were on an eminence and looking back over fifty years of wedded life, how thoughts and emotions crowd upon each other—what bright and beautiful and happy associations must cluster around those years. How they speak of lives early dedicated to the service of the Master. Lives nurtured by prayer and holy living—given to deeds of self-sacrifice in the service of the Master. My mind goes back to the beginning of your christian service in the historic 2nd Reformed Church of Newark, N. J. where you served with fidelity and zeal unsurpassed by none. How you transferred your labors to another field of activity, where with prayers and tears and amid surroundings most uncongenial was formed the present Trinity Reformed Church of Newark, N. J., and although, dear brother and sister, you have transferred your labors to Trinity Reformed Church of Plainfield, God has permitted you both to live until this church which received so much of your fostering care has lengthened her cords and strengthened her stakes and which has been instrumental in gathering many souls into the Kingdom. It indicates to us that you have never grown old in the service of the Master. That your zeal has never diminished or your ardor grown old and that today in your present sphere of usefulness you are serving your Master with a fidelity and devotedness that knows no abatement.

It calls to the mind, dear sister, of us all and more especially to your children, who are here tonight to do you honor, the sweetest and dearest name that was ever uttered by human tongue "Mother" whose watchful care over the beginning of their lives, and whose kindly nature first started them on their journey of life—whose words of consolation has assuaged their many griefs and whose admonitions has saved them from many a wrong—whose tear stained cheek was more eloquent than words that might be uttered—the mother whom they should regard with most reverent respect and whose memory should be cherished as the choicest possession of their lives. And brother, it reminds us all, but at this time more especially you, of that blending of all the forces that make happiness—in the female creation the wife—who in the early beginning of your life linked her fate and fortune with yours and confidingly put her hand in yours prepared to go on through the storm and through the sunshine; who has been by your side in all of your trials, in all of your sufferings and in your hour of triumph; whose patient endurance has been to you of the utmost value; whose words of consolation have poured balm into your sore and bleeding heart; and whose words of commendation have brought added pleasure to the exquisite joy of your triumph. The wife who now, when the bloom of youth is gone and frosty fingers have turned the tresses of that early time into a snowy crown, still stands by your side and steadily looking forward, goes with you down into the narrowing vail, where the branches bending lower and still lower above your heads, shut out the view and keep you from observation of the real beyond.

For her no gown is too rich or costly that human fingers can fashion, no gems of loving thought too priceless for which your tongue can frame a setting.

And now dear brother, dear sister, may God grant you both still many years of happiness, and when life's journey is ended and your stars of life shall set, may they set as sets the morning star which goeth not down behind the darkened heaven, but melts away into the brightness of the golden dawn.

Dear brother:—The members of the Consistory of Trinity Reformed Church, of which you are a valuable and much esteemed member, desire at this time to express to you in some form their appreciation of your life

HIS MOTHER-IN-LAW WANTS A HUSBAND

Wife of John J. Goff, Jr., is a Daughter of Mrs. Earle, Who Seeks Life Partner.

ADVERTISES FOR HUBBY

LONGS FOR SENSIBLE MAN TO MANAGE A HOTEL.

Mrs. Earle Was Once a Circus Performer—Has Received Many Replies to Advertisements—She is Good Looking.

Mrs. Lola Earle is a good-looking widow. She owns a hotel in Hilton, N. J., which is called the Hilton House. She wants a husband to help her manage the place. She advertised her want, and has received letters from men all over the country who are "willing to take a chance."

Mrs. Earle is said to be the mother of three daughters. One of her daughters, named Gypsy Earle, is the wife of John J. Goff, Jr., of West Fourth street, this city. Mrs. Earle and her family lived at one time in Dunellen and it was there that her daughter Gypsy met and married John Goff, Jr. Mrs. Goff is said to be in New Orleans at present living with her sister, and Goff himself is employed in Philadelphia. John J. Goff, Sr., has been running a seafood market on West Second street up to the present week and is well known about town.

Mrs. Earle comes of a family of circus performers, and she herself once donned tights in the sawdust arena and performed marvelous acrobatic feats. It has been several years since she was connected with Barnum's Greatest Show on Earth and it is said she does not intend to go into the tanbark circle again.

When Mrs. Earle's husband died, he left her the hotel at Hilton, but she found great difficulty in running it without the advice and assistance of a man. This led to her advertising for a husband and brought letters from men in all walks of life and all parts of the country. She has not yet made a selection but is said to favor a New York chef. She has this to say in regard to the letters: "Most of them are from men who write a nice love letter and in the last line say that they have no money. I don't want that kind. I want a good sensible man, who isn't looking for a soft snap."

One of Mrs. Earle's daughters, sister to Mrs. Goff, is at present connected with a circus, performing with several other women under the name of the "Earle sisters."

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Marsh left the city to enjoy a honeymoon in New York State. Upon their return they will take up their residence in East Second street. Both Mr. and Mrs. Marsh are members of the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed Church and the bride is a member of the church.

W. B. Heidloff Owner of the Buildings—Occupied by Nicholas Martone and Frank Hand—The Losses.

The building at 41 to 43 Somerset street, on the borough-city line was completely gutted by a fire that swept through it at 3:09 o'clock this morning. W. B. Heidloff is the the owner. Frank Hand, a blacksmith, occupies one portion and Nicholas Martone has the other for a fruit store. The building was unoccupied at the time the alarm was turned in from box 12 by Patrolman Flynn and the cause of the blaze is unknown.

The damage from water and flames amount to something over $1,000, covered by insurance to the amount of $1,500. Hand had $600 insurance on his portion of the building. The adjoining stores of Herman Keller, tobacconist, and Adolphus Emery, bicycles, were damaged considerably by water. Keller's loss was $75, insured; and Emery's, $35, also insured. The firemen worked an hour and six minutes before the whistle blew for "all out." The walls were left standing intact except to a small extent in the front. The structure is located on the dividing line between Union and Somerset Counties.

The entertainment was under the auspices of the Woman's Home Missionary Society.

SUSPICIONS UNFOUNDED.

North Plainfield Police Can Prove No Case Against Suspect.

The police of North Plainfield have exonerated the young man who was under surveillance suspected of rifling the pockets of Peter Marky at the fire at his house on Vine street Friday after thoroughly investigating the case.

Suspicion was directed at a young North Plainfielder who, it was believed, had been guilty of dishonesty at the fire. Mr. Marky, said when seen by Chief Campbell last evening that he had found the buttons of his trousers and what he believes to be the remains of a piece of a dollar bill. The young man who was suspected is not a member of the North Plainfield fire department.

RAIN AND WIND CAUSE SOME DAMAGE

Storm Sweeping Through Here Today Blows Down Trees and Causes Floods.

STREAMS ARE SWOLLEN

WAGON, IN WHICH WAS MAYOR'S SON, HURLED THROUGH STREETS.

Flagpole at Bryant School Snapped—Grocery Store Flooded—Ferera Building, Somerset Street, Damaged.

Wind, hail and rain combined to do considerable damage to propery in this locality this morning and at 11 o'clock a perfect hurricane was blowing over this city. Pedestrians were drenched, umbrellas were turned inside out and trees and electric light and telephone wires were damaged in many parts of the city. It was one of the hardest blows this city has experienced in several years.

Green brook was swollen to almost three times its normal size and the lake at Watchung avenue, known as Tier's pond, was almost a foot higher than it has been in a year. Mountain brook, as usual, overflowed its banks and Greenbrook road was awash.

A tenant in the Ferera building on Somerset street, opposite Manning avenue, went away and left the front windows open on the top floor. It was found that the driving rain had done almost $200 damages to the walls and to the apartments below. A roof on a building in Prideville was blown off.

While driving along Park avenue, near the Park Avenue Baptist Church, with Clarence Smalley, son of Mayor Newton B. Smalley, a wagon driven by David Drake, was lifted from its wheels by the wind and carried to the other side of the street. The wagon stopped against a tree which prevented it from overturning.

The flag pole at the Bryant School snapped in two. A large tree opposite the home of Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan blew down this morning and carried with it some telephone wires. Several awnings were also blown down by the storm and among the merchants who suffered losses through this feature of the storm was Hill & Shupp. The fire alarm system was crippled this morning and telephone linemen were engaged most of the morning in getting this service in operation in case there should be a fire. At the corner of Franklin place and East Seventh street a big tree was blown down as were also two near the Crescent Avenue Church. On West Fourth, near Sycamore, a falling tree broke a trolley wire. Floods on Richmond street have stopped traffic on the Plainfield-Elizabeth line. The floor of R. H. Keenan's store is covered with water.

LUNCHEON FOR EXCHANGE

AFFAIR GIVEN AT HILLSIDE IN AID OF WOMAN'S SHOP.

Mrs. Waring, Mrs. VanBuren and Miss Cock in Charge—Financially a Success.

Under the auspices of the Plainfield Woman's Exchange a delightful luncheon was given at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, yesterday afternoon for the benefit of the exchange. The affair was very informal, yet socially and financially it was a success. There were about eighty members and their friends present. Luncheon was served on the front porch by the club steward, Mrs. Lena Helstrom. The decorations consisted chiefly of wild flowers.

Mrs. O. T. Waring, Mrs. D. T. VanBuren and Miss Elizabeth Cock, as officers of the exchange, as well as all of the members of the executive committee, arranged the affair and were in charge. The exact net proceeds will be known in a few days.

Black Adder After Him.

Harry Connett, a caddy employed at the Hillside Club, narrowly escaped being bitten by a flat-headed adder on the golf grounds yesterday afternoon. Connett stepped on the snake and was barely able to knock it on the head as it was drawing back to strike.

Auto Broke Down.

An auto, driven by Charles Meade, of Elizabeth, broke down yesterday noon between this city and South Plainfield. A part of the machinery was lost on the road and the machine was drawn into town by horses.

The Genuine vs. Counterfeits.

The genuine is always better than a counterfeit, but the truth of this statement is never more forcibly realized or more thoroughly appreciated than when you compare the genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve with the many counterfeits and worthless substitutes that are on the market. W. S. Ledbetter, of Shreveport, La., says: "After using numerous other remedies without benefit, one box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me." For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles no remedy is equal to DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Sold by L. W. Randolph.

National Irrigation Congress In Session at Ogden.

"THE TIME HAS COME TO DO THINGS."

Policy of Workers In the West Is to Conserve the Flood Waters of the Great Rivers to Water the Country.

OGDEN, Utah, Sept. 16.—Twenty-six states and territories of the Union are represented at the eleventh national irrigation congress, which has begun a four days' session in the Ogden Tabernacle, this being the largest number ever represented since the beginning of the movement for the reclamation of the arid west.

Delegates were present even from New York, Pennsylvania and Vermont, while from the states of the western plains and mountains representatives of state and municipal governments and commercial organizations of all kinds came by hundreds.

An international aspect was lent to the proceedings by the presence of two representatives of foreign governments, Mexico and France, while the government at Washington was represented by Secretary of Agriculture Wilson.

At both the morning and afternoon sessions the building was packed with delegates, and the keynote of the present congress as expressed both by Governor Wells of Utah in his speech of welcome and President W. A. Clark in his response that "the time has come to do things" was heartily cheered.

The first resolution, introduced by Senator Burton of Kansas, favoring the conservation of the flood waters of the great rivers as a part of the scheme of irrigation of the west, was received with so much favor that there seems to be no doubt that such action will be overwhelmingly favored.

Other resolutions outlining a distinct plan of forest preservation are expected to be adopted before the session of the congress closes.

A brisk fight for the honor of entertaining the delegates to next year's convention is being made by El Paso, Tex.; Boise, Ida.; Reno, Nev., and Portland, Ore. Sentiment seems unanimous for the re-election of President W. A. Clark and the other officers.

The Storm In Florida.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 16.—Wire connection was made with Arcadia, in De Soto county, about forty miles farther south than Tampa. A special from that place says: "Reports are slowly coming in of damage done by the hurricane. No trains are running south of Solfo. The damage to the orange groves is very great. The loss to the county by damage to the bridges and roads will amount to $10,000. The roads are impassable, and the farmers are having difficulty in getting food supplies. Many houses were blown down, but the only loss of life is that of Hugh Morton, who was drowned at Wilder's sawmill."

Fatal Fight Over Cards.

SHERIDAN, Wyo., Sept. 16.—Henry Shroder, a saloon keeper at Bayton, was shot and killed and Edward Simms, his bartender, seriously injured by Jack Hanley as the result of a dispute concerning money lost at cards. At the point of a gun Hanley compelled the employees of a livery stable to saddle a horse for him and he rode away. A posse of citizens overtook Hanley, who refused to surrender. He was captured after his horse had been shot from under him and his leg broken by bullets fired by the posse. He was brought here and placed in jail.

Failure of Labrador Expedition.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Feb. 16.—Dr. Grenfell, the superintendent of the medical mission in northern Labrador, reports the partial failure of the Labrador exploring expedition under Colonel Willard Glazier of New York which has been attempting to enter the unknown territory toward Ungava bay. The expedition has been unable to secure a sufficiently large craft to convey them north. One member of the party, Dr. Binion, has abandoned the trip and is remaining with the Moravian missionaries at Hopedale.

Submarine Boat a Success.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 16.—The submarine torpedo boat Adder succeeded in torpedoing the torpedo boat Craven in a naval exhibition. So stealthily did the Adder creep up on the Craven that the wooden torpedo successfully fired struck the Craven a smart blow below the water line amidship before the crew on the floating war ship could man the guns or the torpedo tubes.

French Convoy Suffers.

ALGIERS, Algeria, Sept. 16.—An unconfirmed dispatch from Ain Sefra, a small oasis 152 miles from Tlemsen, says a French convoy under Major Buchenit, escorted by sharpshooters, was attacked recently in the vicinity of Beenlabbes and that Buchenit and thirteen men were killed.

Suspected Church Robbers.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Sept. 16.—Edward and Michael Sullivan of Boston and John Nichols of Providence, R. I., were arrested as suspicious characters, and on them were found pieces of a solid gold church communion plate.

Fire at Elba, N. Y.

BUFFALO, Sept. 16.—The general store of W. E. Ganshaw, in which the post office was located; Maccabee hall and the Gentleman's club at Elba have been destroyed by fire.

Autumn Exposition
1903——Season——1904.

Fine Millinery, Costumes, Lingerie, Dress Fabrics, Silks and Furs.

WERE you here yesterday? 'Twas a trifle warm outside, though it would require more than a misplaced summer day to diminish the enthusiasm of the crowds which attended this magnificent "20th Century Style Show."

How nice and cool our store was—it's always comfortable here—so large, so spacious, perfectly ventilated, light and cheerful—that a visit at any time is a pleasure, and particularly so when Dame Fashion reigns supreme.

All summer long, while you were vacationing and enjoying yourself, our foreign and domestic staff were busily engaged in preparations for this annual event so dear to the hearts of the fair sex. The results of their efforts are now revealed by this bewitching display of stunning Autumn Raiment.

The Millinery Salon presents a vision of lovliness rarely if ever equaled. Side by side the exquisite creations of European and American skill and ingenuity vie with each other in the beauty of their rich colorings and designs.

The Cloak and Suit Parlor is radiant with captivating new fall costumes, faultless in style and fashioning and possessing all the grace and charm of superior workmanship. The dainty French lingerie and American beauties of fluffy lovliness are all that's to be desired—while the Silks, Velvets and Dress Goods are in endless profusion of exclusive designs and rich color schemes. And the Furs, —they, too, make a splendid showing—all the very choicest kinds. The Laces and Trimmings and Neckwear—and, well, in fact the whole store—participate in making this unquestionably the most fascinating Autumn Exposition in the history of our store. Everything that anybody could possibly wish for is here in plentiful abundance—and the standard of excellence is as high as our prices are low.

BULGARIA'S REPLY.

Government Casts Onus of Coming War on Turkey.

PRINCE FERDINAND AT THE CAPITAL

It Is Said That the First Three Divisions of the Army Have Been Called Out For Defense of Frontier.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Sept. 16.—A general insurrection in the vilayet of Salonika, east of the Vardar river, is announced to have begun. The region is divided into eight districts, each commanded by a Bulgarian officer. General Zontcheff, president of the Macedonian committee, is the commander in chief.

Replying to notes of the Turkish representatives here, in which it was alleged that the insurrection in Macedonia was the work of Bulgarian bands who had crossed the frontier, the Bulgarian government has replied, refuting the accusations, reviewing the history of the insurrection and claiming that the outbreak was the direct result of the existing form of government in Macedonia, which had forced the youth of the country to gradually organize the insurrection. Bulgaria also declined all responsibility for the events at Adrianople, which, it is claimed, are due to the persecution of the Bulgarian population. Finally Bulgaria stated that the Turkish government was prolonging a situation filled with perils to their principality and pointing out that there was danger of a catastrophe disastrous to both countries.

It is expected that a week will suffice to enable the ministry to judge of the extent to which its final appeal to the powers is likely to prove successful. Doubts are expressed in diplomatic circles whether the Bulgarian note will bring any decisive results, but there is every disposition to recognize the sincerity of the ministry's attitude and its complete justification for issuing such a document in view of the immense forces that Turkey is gathering in threatening close proximity to the Bulgarian frontier.

It is stated that the porte has protested to Austria against Austrian and Hungarian firms being allowed to furnish the Bulgarian government with cartridges at the present time.

More fighting is reported from the vilayet of Monastir. A large body of troops sent to the Pelister mountains to disperse the bands concealed there were attacked by the insurgents and suffered heavy losses from bombs. The Turks also lost many men in a fight near the monastery of Kamikia at Okrida.

It is announced that a detachment of Turkish troops which went to the Greek monastery of Bareshani, near Monastir, to seek a number of revolutionaries supposed to be hiding in the building, finding none there, set fire to the monastery and killed the servants and the women. At Konskigiavi, near Rosengrad, a body of Turkish infantry and cavalry, accompanied by a mountain battery, fought a three hours' engagement with a number of insurgents. The Turks had thirty killed and many wounded.

Prince Ferdinand has returned to the capital. Important steps are likely to be taken at this present critical juncture, now that Prince Ferdinand has returned, and a reply from the powers or some intimation from them is hourly expected in response to Bulgaria's note.

It is said that the first three divisions of the army, having their centers at Sofia, Philippopolis and Silvno, have been called out. In official quarters it is declared that it has been decided to summon to the colors the men of the first three divisions who retired from the army during the last three years. This will give a force of some 10,000 men, who will be chiefly employed in strengthening the troops along the frontier.

The revolutionary headquarters has received news of a terrible situation at Losengrad. The whole district is filled with Turkish and Albanian troops and Bashibazouks. Twelve villages have been burned, and over a hundred families have been massacred. Many of the women and girls captured have been sent to various harems. About 400 widows and orphans have arrived at the frontier village of Tekendje from Losengrad.

All the Bulgarian prisoners in the town jail at Losengrad have been killed by Mussulman prisoners, aided by the prison guards.

John Saxton Released.

BUFFALO, Sept. 16.—John Saxton, formerly of Pittsburg, who was taken into custody by the police pending an investigation into the cause of the death of Mrs. Saxton, has been released. Physicians were of the opinion that Mrs. Saxton's death was due to narcotic poisoning.

Prominent Mason Dead.

OSWEGO, N. Y., Sept. 16.—William Hancock, a prominent Mason, is dead of heart trouble, aged seventy. He was well known in fire department circles, having attended nearly every state firemen's convention for forty years.

Old Newspaper Man Dead.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Sept. 16.—C. Samuel Nichols, a newspaper man, who had founded numerous papers in Kansas, Missouri, Colorado and Wyoming since the close of the civil war, is dead here, aged sixty.

Fatal Riot In Athens.

ATHENS, Sept. 16.—A demonstration in connection with the municipal elections here was followed by hand to hand street fights. Fourteen persons were either killed or wounded.

Plainfield is baseball mad.

Is your name on the registry list for the special election?

The local political thermometer registers a heated spell.

The list of entries for the Republican gubernatorial nomination race includes Edward C. Stokes "and others."

No, the City Councilmanic police board did not exactly "put the cart before the horse." They've got the horse and are waiting for the patrol wagon.

Local newspapermen have arranged a game of baseball with the lawyers. There ought to be a scramble among the reporters to occupy the pitcher's box. It would be such a fine opportunity.

The editor of the Fort Worth Register rises to ask if the President can't talk of something besides good citizenship and replenishing the earth. Actions speak louder than words. It's nearing presidential election time.

Unquestionably the North Plainfield Council took the right position in refusing permission to allow a building to be removed to the park district when it was found that the structure would disfigure the beauty of that locality.

The Star Spangled Banner is the National hymn according to an order issued in the Navy Department, but this doesn't prevent the proud American from singing any one of a half hundred songs which tell of his country's greatness.

Never write an advertisement when you are feeling blue, is the advice of Mahin's Magazine. If you can not take a rosy view of things, find some man that can, who has the ability to tell your story in a cheery way, and the very reading of it will put new hope into you.

Rev. Sam Jones, the evangelist, landed his right fist on a right eye worn by a Southern postmaster, the other day and following the assault issued a bulletin in which he stated that the only injury he received was a sprained fist which came in sudden contact with the eye. Rev. Sam belongs to the old school of fighting parsons, but of a particular brand not to be emulated.

When will the wonderful discoveries of Dr. Harper's educational mill cease. Dr. Shinkishi Hatai (correct pronunciation lost), who pumps knowledge into youthful craniums at the University of Chicago, declares that he has discovered a food substance that makes a person grow sixty per cent. faster and greater than does the ordinary diet. Just to think of our descendants bumping their heads against the stars.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN.

Lewis Rouin, an Italian laborer employed at the stone quarry of Garretson & Gray, was arraigned before Recorder Campbell last evening on a charge of wrecking a trolley car with rocks and using indecent language. Trolley car No. 8, with Motorman James Donohue in charge, was on its return trip when the incident occurred. Rouin wanted to get on the car and when it did not stop for him he hurled large pieces of stone after it and at the same time expressed his opinion of the motorman in rather forcible language. Donohue claims he did not see him at all. Luckily his aim was inaccurate and the missles went wide of the mark, injuring no one. The trial was held in the own hall last evening and the Italian was given the alternative of paying a fine of $10 or thirty days in the County jail. He paid the fine and departed after receiving a reprimand from the Recorder.

The Dunellen A. C. will hold a social tomorrow evening in Apgar's Hall. Over 200 invitations have been issued for the affair. This is the first of several which will be held during the winter months for the benefit of the baseball team.

The employes of Levering & Garrigues' Iron Works expect to place a football team on the gridiron this fall. There is some excellent material and with a little coaching a good eleven could be turned out.

Wm. Hetfield, who has conducted a meat market on North avenue for the past twenty-five years, has sold out his business to Mr. Davis. The latter took possession yesterday at noon.

The Ladies' Aid Society, of the Methodist Church, will hold a clam chowder supper tomorrow evening in the lecture room. Ice cream will also be on sale.

Many in the borough will regret to learn of the death of Engineer Case, who ran the 7:45 express from here for a number of years.

Stakes have been driven and flags delivered for the new walks which have been ordered laid on North avenue.

The Juniors held their bi-monthly meeting in Apgar's Hall last evening. Routine business was transacted.

The residence of Peter Snyderwin on Prospect avenue, is being improved by the addition of a veranda.

Earnest Peters will leave tomorrow for Nyack, N. Y., where he will spend two weeks visiting friends.

A wealthy real estate man from Philadelphia has purchased a number of lots in Dewey Park.

Mrs. James Martin has been on the sick list for the past week, but is slowly recovering.

John Logan, Jr., who has been laid up with a poisoned arm, is entirely well.

NEW MARKET.

Walter Nelson, a member of the class of '03, of the New Brunswick High School, has secured a scholarship to Rutgers College and will enter the freshman class next week.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Managers Johnston, of the locals, and Owens, of St. Mary's, have arranged for a game on Hope Common on Saturday afternoon. Linderman will pitch for the locals and as this is his first appearance in the pitcher's box a large number of the lovers of baseball will be on hand to see the game.

Allen, Bosterli, Cronins and Williams, the infield for the local ball team, are a regular stone wall for ground hits. But few balls are able to find their way to the outfield when this quartette is playing its game.

"Happy" Bligh, who has been secured to umpire the ball games for the locals, seems to be the right man in the right place. Happy is a protege of Cullin, who gave such satisfaction in the Westfield game.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Peterson, who have been spending a week with Mrs. Peterson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Clark, have returned to their home a Montclair.

IN THE CHRISTIAN FIELD

WORK IN THE CHURCHES OF THE CITY AND BOROUGH.

Commencing Sunday the afternoon sessions of the First Baptist Church Sunday-school will be held at the usual hour, 2:30. The morning service will begin at 10:30.

The Ladies' Aid Society, of the German Reformed Church, will hold its regular monthly meeting tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. Schorb, 115 East Front street. Arrangements will be made for a fair.

The Union County Sunday-school Association will meet in annual session in the Presbyterian Church, Cranford, Thursday, Oct. 8. Plainfield, as usual, will be largely represented and the programme promises to be one of unusual benefit to Sunday-school workers.

The Consistory of the German Reformed Church on Craig place, has recently put the basement of the church in first-class condition in order to make it comfortable and attractive for the Sunday-school services. Learning of the positive need of more school accommodations the Consistory has offered to let the Borough Board of Education have it for a school room, and the offer will probably be accepted by the school board.

INCREASING POWER.

High Voltage for Feed Wires on Trolley Lines Between This City and Elizabeth.

There is a well founded report that the Public Service Corporation intends to run new feed wires between this city and Elizabeth with an increased voltage making it possible to carry a greater number of cars. It is said that most of the power will be furnished from the Elizabeth end and that a high voltage will be maintained until this city is reached. Here a decreased voltage will be used as the number of cars in the service do not require so much.

Regarding the running of such a high voltage wire, the question of making the company place it underground has been raised, especially in this city. In the outlying districts there would probably be no danger, but in Plainfield it would be somewhat hazardous to allow such a wire to be suspended in the air. If for any reason it should break or fall to the ground there is no doubt but what it would burn everything in sight.

Engineer Case Dead.

STRANGE CLAIM.

Woman Believes She is Daughter of President Lincoln's Assassin.

Laura Ida Booth, an actress, of Bound Brook, has made up her mind that she is the daughter of John Wilkes Booth, that Booth was not killed after the murder of President Lincoln, and that he married the widow of a Kentucky mountaineer in the early '70s. More than that, Miss Booth is ready to believe that David E. George, who died at Enid, Oklahoma, in April of this year, was John Wilkes Booth. George, according to Miss Booth, left an estate of several hundred thousand dollars, a will as yet unopened, and no known relatives.

Liveryman's Verdict.

John M. Schorb, a local liveryman, brought suit in tort against Joseph Sutphen, in Justice Von Minden's court in New Market, yesterday, and was awarded judgment, there being no defense offered. It is alleged that Sutphen hired a horse and carriage of Schorb with the understanding that he was to drive it about Plainfield. Instead of this Sutphen is said to have gone to Scotch Plains, become intoxicated and from his reckless driving injured the horse and wrecked the carriage to the extent of $25 damage.

Child Returned.

Patrolman Quass discovered a lost child on the corner of Grove and Front streets, yesterday. The officer was informed by Jacob Block that the child's name was Kadansky and that he lived on Spooner avenue. The youngster was taken to that address and the parents found.

New Pastor Here.

Dog Attacked Him.

Cold Comfort From Doctors.

Doctors say neuralgia is not dangerous. This is poor consolation to a sufferer who feels as if his face were pierced with hot needles and torn with a thousand pairs of pincers. The blessed freedom from pain which follows this treatment cannot be told. There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'.

Proceedings of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County.

[OFFICIAL]

Regular meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County, N. J., held on Thursday, Aug. 6th, 1903, at Elizabeth, N. J., at 2:30 p. m.

Roll call showed all members present except Freeholder Cady.

The minutes of the previous meeting, reading of bills being omitted, were on motion approved as read.

PETITIONS, COMMUNICATIONS, ETC.

From Thomas N. McCarter, president.

To the Honorable the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union:

Gentlemen: Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railway Company respectfully petition your honorable body for permission to change the location of its tracks on the bridge at Cranford, so that they shall be located on said bridge as shown on the diagram hereto annexed.

Two accidents have been caused by the present location of the tracks on said bridge, one of them quite serious, and the proposed change will, it is believed, entirely obviate the danger.

Respectfully,

Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railway Company.

By Thos. N. McCarter, President.

Dated July 22, 1903.

Freeholder Tillman moved that the communication be received and referred to the county road committee with power, which was so ordered on roll call by a unanimous vote.

From Robert J. Muldowney, city clerk Summit, N. J., as follows:

The honorable Board of Freeholders, Union County, N. J.

Gentlemen: At a meeting of the Common Council of the city of Summit, held July 18, 1903, a resolution was adopted dividing the second ward into two election districts. We will therefore need an additional ballot box and a set of election booths for the coming election.

Respectfully yours,

Robert J. Downey, City Clerk.

On motion of Freeholder King received and referred to the clerk of the board with power.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

By the committee on Price and Lumber street bridge, in Linden township.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders:

Gentlemen: Your committee appointed to examine and report as to the condition of bridge in Linden township, and known as Lumber and Price streets bridge, respectfully report they have examined the same, and recommend the building of a new brick arch girder bridge at a cost not exceeding $200.

Signed,

Henry Krouse, E. K. Adams, Thos. J. Pierson, B. King, Joseph McCandless, Committee.

Freeholder Farrell moved that the report be received and recommendations contained therein adopted, which was so ordered on roll call by a unanimous vote.

By the committee on petition of P. H. Gilhooly, et als.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders:

Gentlemen: The committee to whom was referred the petition of P. H. Gilhooly and Anna H. Noyes, in reference to Calf Pasture Creek, report that they have investigated the matter, and do not believe that the plan proposed for draining said creek is feasible, and we believe the county might be liable for damages to property owners who now drain their land to said creek.

Joseph McCandless, John Farrell, Henry Krouse, Committee.

On motion of Freeholder King report received and placed on file.

By the committee of the whole:

July 27, 1903.

J. Frank Hubbard, Esq., Director of the Board of Chosen Freeholders.

My Dear Sir:

Respecting the bridge matter on Elm street, at Westfield, I desire to say that before the Board of Freeholders decide to build said bridge diagonally across the street at an expense above what it would cost to rebuild the bridges in their present location, of $1,100 or $1,200, as I understand the engineer places the figures, they must be satisfied in their own minds that it would be to the county's interest and benefit.

In other words, the board would not be justified, in my opinion, in making such additional expense for the purpose of benefitting private property or private individuals.

If the present bridges are not sufficiently large to carry the water, of course it will be the duty of the board to rebuild or enlarge the present bridges so as to avoid the damming up of the water.

Then, too, the Board of Freeholders would not have any lawful right to change the course of the present stream without the consent of all parties which said change would affect, and that consent should be in writing and waive all claim for damages by reason of said change.

It is a good thing for the Board of Freeholders to ever bear in mind that they are the custodians of the public funds of the county, and to so apply the funds as will result in the greatest public benefit without making themselves liable to criticism or censure.

I am, very respectfully yours.

W. R. Codington,
County Attorney.

On motion of Freeholder King received and placed on file.

By the committee on bridge at Branch Mills, Springfield township, as follows:

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union:

Gentlemen: Your committee appointed to examine and report as to the condition of the bridge at Branch Mills, Springfield township, would respectfully report that they have examined the same and find it in dangerous condition, and we would therefore recommend the building of a new iron beam brick arch bridge at this point at a cost not to exceed $700.

Signed,

E. W. Bonnel, Chas. A. Smith, John F. Wahl, Committee.

On motion of Freeholder Farrell the report was received and recommendation contained therein adopted on roll call by a unanimous vote.

NEW BUSINESS

Freeholder Farrell stated that the relatives of Daniel McIntyre and John Hoehle (both veterans of the civil war) had placed in his hands copies of the discharge papers of the two parties just named, with the request that the county provide headstones, properly inscribed, for the graves of said veterans.

These applications were made under a recent law, and as the matter had not heretofore been before the board he moved that the same be referred to the county attorney for his opinion, which was so ordered.

By Freeholder Smith.

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to examine and report at our next meeting as to the advisability and probable cost of a new bridge on New street, near Rahway avenue, in the town of Westfield.

On motion of Freeholder Krouse the resolution was adopted without dissent.

The director appointed as said committee Freeholders Smith, Robison and Brucklacher.

By Freeholder Swain.

Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed to examine the bridge on Pine Grove avenue, Summit, N. J., and report the probable cost of repairing same at the next meeting of this board.

On motion of Freeholder ——— the resolution was adopted without dissent.

The director appointed as said committee Freeholders Swain, Wahl, Pierson, Farrell and Klee.

By the committee of the whole.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders:

Gentlemen: This board, as a committee of the whole, having inspected the location of the bridge applied for on Elm street, Westfield, therefore be it

Resolved, That it is the sense of this board that at the present time and under the existing circumstances said board is not warranted to build a bridge diagonally across said street as applied for; and be it further

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to inspect said location at the first opportunity, or time of high water, and during or immediately following a heavy rain, for the purpose of ascertaining the extent to which, if any, water may be dammed up at said point, and whether the same is occasioned by reason of the insufficient size or throatway of the present bridge, or whether the same is occasioned by stoppage of the water course at other points.

Freeholder Woodruff moved the adoption of the foregoing resolutions, which, after some debate, were adopted on roll call, receiving 17 ayes, Freeholders Embree and Smith voting nay, 2; Freeholder Cady, absent, 1.

The director appointed as said committee Freeholders Connoly, King and Woodruff.

On motion of Freeholder King the board took a recess of ten minutes.

Upon reassembling after recess roll call showed all members present except Freeholder Cady, 1.

By Freeholder Woodruff:

Resolved, That permission be granted to Roselle Park borough for opening the telford in crossing the county road for the sewer system at points named in the petition, the same borough to enter into a bond of $500 for replacing the same road in as good condition as before opening, the repair work to be done by the county road inspector at expense of the borough, bond to be executed for two years.

Freeholder Pierson moved the adoption of the resolution, and on roll call it was unanimously adopted.

By Freeholder Westphal:

Resolved, That the bill of $38.55 of P. S. Kiely for court charges be paid when properly approved by the County prosecutor.

Freeholder Westphal moved the adoption of the resolution, and on roll call it was unanimously adopted.

An Ideal Location

Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE

LINDEN, N. J.

Beautiful and Accessible

2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark, 14 MILES FROM NEW YORK

On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL, or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

A Real Daughter of the Revolution

By CAROLINE GEBHARDT.

Copyright, 1902, by J. B. Lippincott Company.

THE RIDING BACK WAS HARDER THAN THE COMING.

There were three voices audible. One she recognized as the innkeeper's; the other two were unfamiliar and more cultured. She gathered that they belonged to a couple of British officers who had stopped at the inn for supper. They spoke of the heavy storm without, and ordered their host to have a fire built that they might dry their drenched garments. Soon she heard him laying it, and presently it began to crackle and roar.

When the fire was well started the host went out. Finally, supper was brought in and there was a merry clatter of dishes. The officers bade the servant who brought it leave them, and then one of them commenced to fret about the heat from the fire. As a result, they moved the table up close to the partition wall, as far away from the fireplace as they could get it. This brought it just on the other side of Jane's bed.

They began to talk in low tones, but the girl, after the first pleasurable interest in their entrance had died away, occupied her thoughts with other matters and soon dozed. It was the name of Bessemer which startled her from her light slumber, and involuntarily her ears were on the alert. Then followed some quick, low words which gave her an inkling of what was in the wind. A night attack upon Lafayette's army!

What was she doing—lying there listening—spying? Had she fallen so low as that? Was it not her duty to make some movement which should betray her presence to those men; should apprise them that they were being overheard? Yes, clearly, it was her duty. She, an Ellery, had been bred to know that. Yet she made no movement. They began to boast to each other, always in their subdued voices, that the annihilation of Lafayette's army would mean the crushing of the American cause. It was too weak to stand such a blow as that. The French would be affrighted; there would be no more of their aid forthcoming, and without it where would Mr. Washington be? On his knees before King George.

They finished their supper and arose from the table. Jane could hear them tramping about the room, moving chairs and buckling belts, evidently preparing for departure. She had gathered that they were to ride eastward and join Bessemer to report the result of their reconnoissance. The attack was to be made that night. The door opened and closed. They were gone.

She arose, lighted her candle, and looked at her watch. A quarter of eight. Slowly she dressed. Mrs. Ellery's snores were plainly audible from the next room. She opened her door and peered into the hall. It was deserted. A torch over the stairway and another at the farther end were its only lights. She walked to the head of the stairs and began the descent. They ended in a corridor below. She passed along this to the rear of the house. The way was dark, but she had been over it before, for the carriage had driven through the inn-yard to the stable and she and her aunt had alighted there, entering by the back way.

She gathered her skirts about her and went down the corridor steps. The stable was only a short distance from the house. One of its double doors stood open. A lantern hung within. She made her way to the traveling-carriage and took from under the back seat a hooded cloak, which she threw about her. Then she took a look at her horses, like the southern woman she was. There were the carriage-horses—strong, sturdy, a little overfed, turning calm, questioning eyes upon her. There was her aunt's Black Nan, once the fastest horse in all the country round, but grown too old. There was her own Beetle, sleek coated, fiery eyed, long limbed, turning a knowing gaze upon her. Upon the nails close to hand were neatly placed his accoutrements.

She took down the saddle and bridle and the other paraphernalia. No one knew better than Jane how to saddle a horse, nor would it be the first time she had ridden sideways on a man's saddle. It was easy to summon back tom-boy tricks.

The wind shook the stable, rattled the windows, knocked impatiently at the closed half of the door, fluttered the straw in the forward stalls, flickered the lantern's light. Out into the wind and sputtering rain went Jane and the horse. She had led him through the stable-yard, out through the carelessly open gate. It was good weather to be in the house, not weather to tempt idle loungers out doors.

It was a most unseemly thing for a young woman, unattended, to dash up at half-after twelve o'clock at night to a sentry guarding the outpost of a camp, and demand to be taken to his commanding general; or, if not to Gen. Lafayette himself, then to Col. Jocelyn, of the Continental forces. When at last she was face to face with Col. Jocelyn, he listened gravely to what she had to say and hastened to headquarters. The sleeping camp was hurried into wakefulness. Her tale was believed.

Col. Jocelyn urged her to allow him to send an escort back with her, but Jane declined. Yet the riding back was harder than the coming. She and Beetle had no enthusiasm to sustain them. The horse's head was not turned homeward; her mission was accomplished, and the reaction had set in. What would Edward, what would Bessemer, say if they knew what she had done? They would look upon her as a traitor.

Yet, did she regret what she had done? From her aunt's standpoint, from the standpoint of any of her kinspeople but Edward, had she not the right to rejoice if she had indeed saved the American army? She recalled Col. Jocelyn's words, that there was no calculating the service she had rendered her country in saving the army from such an attack. Her country? Yes, it was her country.

Off in the distance a panther had set up an insidious, persistent cry. For awhile it was the only sound which broke through the pouring rain and sobbing wind; but presently there came another sound, a heavy sound that shook the ground. The British were approaching. She drew in among some trees and, dismounting, laid her hand upon Beetle's bridle. The sound came closer. The front ranks were up to her now. There was a clanking of spurs; the creaking of damp saddles; a low-spoken word of caution or command. They were passing. DRESSED CHICKENS.

There is nothing quite as good for dinner as Chicken, is there? It is something of which we never tire. A tender, juicy fowl, nicely browned and a hungry man—well, they instantly become one. We pride ourselves on our Dressed Chickens. We would like to have your meat trade also, and we think a nice plump fowl would be a good introduction. Seafood very fine and prices right. BUILDING INSPECTOR NEEDED IN BOROUGH

The House Moving Case Has Aroused Citizens to a Realization of the Fact.

THE COUNCIL MAY ACT

MAYOR SMALLEY FAVORS PLAN TO ESTABLISH DEPARTMENT.

Somerville Has Such An Officer—How Ordinance Could be Framed—Spite Structures—Mr. Smalley's View.

Some talk has been heard in North Plainfield since the application of Charles Sebring to move a building from this side of the brook to North Plainfield, was refused, about the need of a building inspector in the borough, and a suitable building ordinance designed to cover similar cases.

The need of such an officer has been felt for a number of years and with the steady growth of that part of the community it is more important today than ever before. There is a "fire district" in North Plainfield, where it is not permitted to erect any structure unless it be of brick or stone but there have been cases where, in that district additions have been built which have not been so constructed.

If a building ordinance, with a section covering such a case as that which was presented before the Council Monday night had been in force at the time, Mr. Sebring would have been restricted to some extent.

Somerville has a building inspector and New Brunswick has recently appointed one. Although North Plainfield is smaller than these places the property in some places is very valuable and the community is rapidly growing and due protection against fire is a factor in the question which should not be over looked. The ordinance could be framed in such a manner so as to restrict the erection of such houses as could come under the head of "spite" structures whether it be an ordinary fence or an unsightly residence. In such a locality as Washington Park, where the residents of a place are desirous of making the place attractive, it is unfortunate that such a condition as the present should exist.

Mayor Smalley, in speaking of the matter last evening seemed inclined to favor such a plan as he said that a building inspector had been needed in the borough for some time. It is possible that this matter will be brought up for consideration at the next Council meeting.

HANDSOME TERMINAL FOR CENTRAL ROAD

Elaborate Arrangements for New Metropolitan Depot Presented in Detail.

OLD BUILDINGS TO GO

FERRYHOUSE TO BE A TWO-STORY STEEL-FRAME STRUCTURE.

Passengers to Use Both First and Second Floors in Reaching Boats—A Covered Bridge—Recreation Pier.

Plainfield commuters, who take pride in their city and in the railroad which has been the means of building up the town to a large extent, will hail with much pleasure the contemplated improvements at the New York terminus of the Central Railroad of New Jersey. For years, in fact, as long as many of the local commuters can remember, passengers have been obliged to enter a small, rather uninviting ferry building on West street, New York. At one time the building harmonized well with the rest of the road but today, with the system improved in every way, until it ranks with the best in the country, the ferry house on the Metropolitan side of the river stands in dreary contrast to the up-to-dateness of the rest of the road and serves as a monument of the unprogressive policy of former administrations.

Work has already been commenced on the new structure which, when completed, will extend from all along North river front on West street, at the foot of Albany, Cedar and Liberty streets. The buildings will be entirely new as all the existing structures are to be removed. These improvements will result in the greatly increased convenience of passengers on the New Jersey Cenral, as well as additional facilities for the road itself in the proper handling of all classes of business. People will no longer be compelled to work their way through the crowded traffic of West street, but will have an option of going over the street in a covered passageway which will conduct them to the upper deck of the ferry boat. The boats were all built having these ultimate arrangements in mind, and only a day or two of work will be necessary to convert them into the new system. Similar arrangements will be made for landing passengers from the upper decks of the ferry boat on the Jersey City side.

West street is to be widened by the building of a granite bulkhead wall at a distance of 250 feet from the easterly line of West street. The buildings will include a ferry house, two covered freight piers, and a building along the bulkhead, between and in front of the piers. The buildings will be of steel construction.

A further feature of this improvement will be the construction of a promenade or recreation place on top of the two-story office and ferry buildings along the full length of the West street front, approached by broad stairways from the street. This promenade is built at the request of Commissioner McDougal Hawkes, department of docks and ferries, New York, to afford recreation places along the water front.

The ferry house will be a two-story steel frame structure equipped on both floors with all facilities for the proper handling and comfort of passengers. The second story will be connected with the opposite side of West street by a broad foot-bridge.

The bulkhead building will be a two-story steel frame building forty-five feet wide and 335 feet long. The ground floor will be devoted to receiving and handling freight and the second story fitted up for offices of the freight department.

The roof promenade to be located on top of bulkhead building and ferry house, is forty-five feet wide and 510 feet long, approached from street by broad stairways at each end, and affords a recreation place for the public where a view of the harbor and the cooling breezes may be enjoyed.

Pier No. 10. This pier will be eighty feet wide and 750 feet long, covered with a single-story steel freight shed.

Pier No. 11. This pier will be fifty feet wide and 780 feet long, covered with a single-story steel freight shed.

FATAL COLLISION ON THE CENTRAL

Somerville Express Dashes Into Coal Train, Killing Brakeman of Latter.

FIREMEN JUMP IN TIME

ENGINE DRIVERS OF BOTH TRAINS SOMEWHAT INJURED.

No Passengers Were Hurt—Panic on Train—The Coal Train Was Switched From Siding.

When the eastbound Somerville passenger train crashed into the engine of a coal train at the Division street crossing of the Central Railroad of New Jersey in Elizabeth, yesterday W. J. Mink, head brakeman on the coal train, who was riding on the engine, was killed instantly and John C. VanFliet, locomotive driver of the passenger train, sustained a severe scalp wound and was taken to the General Hospital. Frank Hummer, driver of the coal train, was badly bruised, but escaped serious injury. Both firemen jumped a moment before the locomotives came into collision.

Passengers were thrown violently from their seats by the force of the impact, and many, it is said, were cut and bruised. They were in the utmost panic and rushed from the train in a mad scramble for safety.

The coal train was leaving a siding for the main track when the passenger locomotive struck the other one in the middle and both engines were overturned, Mink being pinned under a boiler and terribly scalded by escaping steam. He lived in West Eighth street, Bayonne.

BADLY INJURED IN RUNAWAY

MISS CARRIE FOWLER, OF WESTFIELD, NARROWLY ESCAPES DEATH.

Received Internal Injuries—Accident at the Westfield Station—Children Escape.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, Sept. 17—Miss Carrie Fowler, of Branchville, was seriously injured last evening at the Westfield depot in a runaway accident. Several children, playing on the sidewalk, narrowly escaped being killed.

Miss Fowler had driven to the depot to meet her mother who was expected home on an evening train. While waiting she drove up to a watering trough and allowed her horse to drink. In backing away from the tank a shaft broke and entered the horse's side. It bolted and dashed up the main street at a furious gallop. It finally ran onto the sidewalk and become wedged between two trees after throwing Miss Fowler out. The young woman received internal injuries and was taken to the home of friends with whom she was visiting.

Drake's Honesty.

Ignoring the rights obtained by a discharge in bankruptcy, Silas Dewey Drake, real estate operator and promoter, has commenced to pay one hundred cents on every dollar of the indebtedness, which is legally wiped out. He is determined to keep his credit as good as that of Mark Twain, who labored for years to pay conscience claims. Mr. Drake walked into the Trenton Times office, after his discharge, and paid his bill in full.

Funeral of Mrs. McDonald.

Funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Richard McDonald, whose death occurred Sunday, were held yesterday afternoon at 2:30 from her late residence at the corner of Watchung and Mountain avenues. Rev. Dr. Edwin L. Earp conducted the services. The burial was this morning at the M. E. cemetery.

STORM DISASTROUS IN CITY AND BOROUGH

High Wind Lifts One Man Into Space, and Wrecks Buildings.

MANY TREES FALLEN

RAIN WORKS RUIN TO SEVERAL BUILDINGS IN GREATER PLAINFIELD.

The Chamois Factory at Lincoln Wrecked—Floods Did Much Damage Here and Elsewhere.

A man, a pot of black paint, two pounds of veal cutlet, an umbrella, blown through the air in indescribable confusion, was one of the queer "stunts" of yesterday's storm. Thos. McCormick, of Liberty street, is not a particularly heavy man, but he had a particularly stout umbrella when he went out on some errands yesterday morning in the height of the storm. He purchased a pot of black paint and some veal cutlets at stores over the brook, put up his umbrella and started out to return to Hedden's livery stables, where he is employed. When he arrived in front of Patrick Homan's place on Somerset street, a tremendous gust of wind struck him, lifted him clean off his feet and up into the air several feet before the umbrella turned inside out and returned him with a dull thud to earth. McCormick was considerably bruised by his fall and his clothes and the remains of his umbrella were soaked through with black paint. His veal cutlets and his hat have not been heard of since, both being at a height of some twenty feet when last seen.

The same gust of wind that struck McCormick blew over a heavy wagon belonging to J. P. Homan, of Somerset street. Besides this there was considerable other damage in the borough in addition to the limbs of trees that were blown off and the trunks of stout oaks and maples that were rived and split by the force of the gale. A portion of the slate roof on the house of William J. Conroy, of Somerset street, was hurled into the air. Windows in the store of Henry Voehl, of Somerset street, were blown out, and the skylights in J. J. Stahl's house on Grandview avenue were broken, the damage being $15.

Water flooded the cellar and damaged the walls in the High School building. Two windows in the High School were broken into bits. Several carriages standing in front of L. M. French's store were blown completely across the street.

A portion of the borough was in darkness until about 8 o'clock owing to the fact that the wires were down. In the city electric light wires were down on Farragut road, Crescent and Central avenues and Seventh and Eighth streets.

During the storm trees were blown down in all parts of the city, scarcely a single street or avenue escaping some damage. A large tree on Duer street, between Linden avenue and Greenbrook, went down, as did also one on Crescent avenue near the church and two trees in front of A. D. Cook's residence in East Seventh street. Townsend's marble yard office building, corner of Richmond and Fourth streets, was moved off its foundations. A window in the second story of the Babcock building was blown out. The glass in the front doors at Wm. Sebring's clothing store was blown into a thousand pieces and Codington & Swackhamer, Counsel for Promoters, File Necessary Papers at Trenton—$5,000 Has Already Been Paid In.

Articles of incorporation have been filed with the Secretary of State by Codington & Swackhamer, representing the Plainfield Tool Equipment Company, capitalizing the concern at $100,000. The papers were filed yesterday. The incorporators are Joseph B. Loughead, Robert H. Snider, Robert W. Barwood and Peter J. McDonald. The factory is located at the corner of East Fourth and Washington streets, which was formerly occupied by the New York Medical and Surgical Instrument Company.

There has been $5,000 paid in the shares selling at $100 each. There is no preferred stock. The papers of incorporation state that the company will manufacture all kinds of specialties for machinery and machine shops. The concern has been located in this city for nearly three months. It employs about thirty hands.

MARSHAL FAHN SUSPENDED

TO AVOID TRIAL FOR INTOXICATION HE RESIGNS FROM FORCE.

Said to Have Been Too Drunk to Obey Recorder's Orders—Old Offense.

Lawrence Fahn has been suspended from the North Plainfield police force for the third and probably the last time, on a charge of intoxication while on duty. He was arraigned before the police committee last evening and given a chance to explain his conduct. Instead of offering any defense it is said he handed in his resignation. James Block, of Stone street, was appointed in Fahn's place.

The charge against the officer was made by Chief Marshal Campbell on the testimony of Recorder Doud at a trial in the borough court Tuesday evening when Mayor Smalley presided. The Recorder, on oath stated that Fahn, in arraigning a prisoner before the bar, was too intoxicated to properly carry out his duty and that when the prisoner became unruly Fahn was unable to preserve order. Fahn admitted at the time that he was in the bar room of the Hotel Roselle with the prisoner and had "a little."

Fahn, this morning denied emphatically that he was intoxicated. When confronted with the sworn testimony of Recorder Doud and his own admissions before Mayor Smalley he declared that he "only had some soda water and soda water has never made him drunk."

Charley Williams Sentenced.

In the Court of Special Session at Elizabeth, yesterday, Charles Williams, of this city, for larceny of a coat, was sentenced to one month in jail, and Charles Saueracker, also of this city, charged with assault and battery, pleaded not guilty.

FALLEN LIVE WIRE KILLS SMALL BOY

Joseph Walls, Jr., Grasps Heavily Charged Wire and Is Electrocuted.

DOCTOR WORKED HARD

EFFORTS TO SAVE BOY'S LIFE UNAVAILABLE, DEATH FOLLOWS.

Walls Was Mascot of Hope Baseball Team and Was Popular Little Chap—Only Twelve Years Old.

Joseph Walls, Jr., twelve-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Walls, of Essex street, died last night as a result of a shock received by taking hold of a live electric light wire. The lad, in company with Willie and John Muir, Frank Rimmer and Arthur Mills were walking along West Third street. At the corner of Spooner avenue and Essex street the lads noticed the electric light wire hanging from a tree. Young Walls playfully jumped for the wire intending to pull it out of the tree.

He took hold the wire with both hands and instantly he was fast. His body stiffened and he became unconscious. The screams of the boys attracted the attention of Andrew Muir and George McComb, who were nearby. Mr. Muir made an attempt to take hold of young Walls, when McComb prevented him. Otherwise Muir might have sustained serious if not fatal injury. McComb immediately secured a broom and with this released the lad's grasp on the wire. He was then carried to his home, where Dr. Cregar worked faithfully to bring the boy out of danger. He was unsuccessful, and in twenty minutes after the occurrence the boy died.

The lad is survived by a father and mother, two sisters, Hattie and Bessie and two brothers, Arthur and an infant child. Young Walls went to the Irving School. During the past three seasons he has been the mascot for the Hope Y. M. A. baseball team and was well liked by everyone.

JOHN B. JUDSON, A BENEDICT

MARRIES MISS LUCY SMITH, THE WEDDING BEING QUIET.

Rev. Dr. Schenck, the Officiating Minister—Bride, Daughter of C. H. Smith.

Miss Lucy Smith, daughter of Chas. H. Smith, of John street, and John B. Judson, of West Front street, were married yesterday noon at the home of the bride's father. Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, officiated. The affair was a very quiet one, only the relatives of the contracting parties being present. During the afternoon the couple left the city on a wedding trip and upon their return they will live with the bride's father.

The groom formerly lived in New York State, but is now a resident of Plainfield and holds a position as clerk for W. W. Dunn, the Park grocer. The bride is an attendant at Trinity Reformed church.

No Improvement.

There is practically little or no change in the condition of Mrs. A. H. Lewis, who has been spending the summer in Rhode Island, although the change in climate is believed to have been somewhat beneficial.

HAROLD SERRELL'S FAMILY STRICKEN

Victims of Ptomaine Poisoning, But Are Now Out of Danger.

CAUSE IS A MYSTERY

NORTH PLAINFIELD BOARD OF HEALTH STARTS AN INVESTIGATION.

Father, Mother, Three Children and Servant Taken Violently Ill—Narrow Escape From Death.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Serrell, three children and servant had narrow escapes for their lives from ptomaine poisoning at their home at the corner of Sycamore and Myrtle avenue yesterday. The fact that Miss Florence Serrell did not partake heartily of the repast of the night before saved the lives of the rest of the family.

The first known of the cases of poisoning was when the servant became suddenly ill. The family was awakened at midnight by groans from the servant's room and they found her writhing in intense pain. In a short while Mr. Serrell became deathly sick and was followed by Mrs. Serrell and the three children. Miss Florence, who had become thoroughly alarmed, telephoned for Dr. J. T. Fritts, who hurried to the house at once. He worked hard over the patients and soon relieved them. Today they are out of danger, although all are ill in bed.

Dr. Fritts has reported the matter to the North Plainfield Board of Health and a rigid investigation is being made. So far they are of the opinion that it is ptomaine poisoning. Some of the food partaken of at the evening repast will be chemically examined. Dr. Fritts declared that if he had been called half an hour later it would have been impossible to have saved Mr. Serrell's life.

Editor, The Daily Press:

Whosoever is deceived by alcohol, whether as a beverage or medicine, is not wise, as many instances will prove. I will give but one instance that recently came under my personal observation. Recently, a man in this city was taken ill with typhoid fever, and upon recovery when the physician was about to discontinue his visits, said to the patient that he wanted him to take a draught of whiskey three times a day until he fully recovered his strength. The whiskey was poured and the patient has been taking it ever since, although he is now perfectly well. Previous to his illness he never knew the taste of intoxicating drinks, but what is the result. The young man was a good clerk in a store previous to his illness, but owing to his intemperate habits he has lost his position, as well as his self-respect and his mother is heart-broken. Let us not through any act of ours bring such sorrow and anxiety to any person or home.

AMUSEMENTS.

Breezy and clean is the terse approval given "Peggy From Paris" which is enjoying a run at Wallacks. It is Savage's offering of George Ade's latest and best musical hit. The music is by William Loraine.

At the Broadway Theatre, James T. Powers is drawing great houses in "A Princess of Kensington," an unrivalled comic opera success. As usual "Jimmie" Powers is a show in himself. There's lots of good music in it.

It is seldom that a playright receives such praise as has been given by the critics to Stephen Phillips for his Ulysses, which is playing at the Garden Theatre. A great success and a grand spectacle is the Herald's endorsement.

All the Rogers Brothers shows are good, but the Rogers Brother in London is the greatest success yet. Klaw & Erlanger present the Rogers Brothers at the Knickerbocker for an eight-weeks' run, Saturday matinee only.

Next Monday evening Klaw & Erlanger's reconstructed and redecorated New York Theatre, now one of the handsomest in the city, will reopen with this firm's colossal Drury Lane production of "Ben Hur" as the attraction. This is the greatest dramatic spectacle ever staged in the world. More than 500 people will appear in the arena and Mount of Olives scenes and the marvelously realistic chariot race will be presented with four chariots and sixteen horses.

SUFFERED TORTURES!

Boston Woman Describes Her Own Experience.

Chance Word Overheard Brings Much-Needed Relief.

"It's wonderful how women are able to endure such pain and suffering as would make a man groan!" exclaimed a well known medical practitioner.

The question is why should women suffer from female weakness and diseases when Dr. Greene's Nervura, the great all the year round tonic will at once relieve them? Read the following statement from Mrs. Anna V. Clarke, 39 Sharon St., Boston. Mrs. Clarke's experience is not unusual. Thousands of women have been cured by Dr. Greene's Nervura. Mrs. Clarke says:

"It is with great pleasure that I enclose my photograph, giving you full permission to use my name in any newspaper or pamphlet, for suffering women to hear how I was cured of female weakness. I suffered great torture and tried all kinds of medicine and several doctors, but with little relief.

"About a year ago, a nurse who was attending me, mentioned in my husband's hearing what she thought about Dr. Greene's Nervura. On the next day he bought a bottle and insisted on my trying it. I did try it to please him, and I felt so much better I commenced taking the second bottle and kept on taking it until I had taken six bottles, after which I was completely cured. At the present time I am a well woman and would not be without Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy in the house."

Dr. Greene is a specialist in female diseases. He has had a lifetime of successful experience. Write to him at 101 Fifth Ave., New York City, for free advice. He will tell you how to get well.

PRESIDENT IN PERIL

Yacht Sylph, With Roosevelt Party, Braved Severe Storm.

WAS A HURRICANE AT HELL GATE

Landed at Navy Yard, Where, as the Storm Had Abated In Fury, It Was Decided to Go on to Ellis Island.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—While President Roosevelt was en route from Oyster Bay to New York on the naval yacht Sylph he passed through a terrifying wind and rain storm, during which the vessel was in imminent danger.

Shortly after 10 o'clock, nearly an hour later than had been arranged, President Roosevelt boarded the Sylph in Oyster Bay. He was accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt and their son Kermit, Mrs. Richardson, a New York friend of Mrs. Roosevelt; Secretary Loeb, Professor Albert B. Hart of Harvard college, Professor J. B. Moore of Columbia university, C. Grant La Farge of New York and Jacob A. Riis of Richmond Hill, Long Island. In addition the guests of the president included members of the executive staff and representatives of the press.

When the Sylph weighed anchor the skies were dark and forbidding, and as the vessel drew out of the bay a light rain fell. Less than an hour after the Sylph had entered Long Island sound she ran into a terrific wind and rain storm. The storm increased in severity rapidly, and off Fort Schuyler it developed into a hurricane. The wind blew, according to an estimate made by Lieutenant Preston, commander of the Sylph, at the rate of sixty-five miles an hour. The Sylph, a comparatively small vessel, pitched heavily and off Willett's point listed very sharply to starboard. The president and his guests had been forced to go below, and, beyond a drenching, none of them suffered inconvenience.

The storm became even more severe as the vessel neared Hell Gate. The waves and wind swept the deck, making it almost impossible for the sailors to remain exposed to their force. The baggage of the party, consisting principally of hat boxes and dress suit cases, was swept about the deck, and everything movable on deck had to be clewed down to prevent its being swept overboard. In Hell Gate, a quarter of a mile off the port bow of the Sylph, a tugboat having in tow a large three masted schooner was capsized by the wind and waves. She sank stern foremost, but did not settle completely out of sight for perhaps five minutes. A small boat from the tug put off with the crew, except two men, who clung to the bow until the vessel disappeared. It appeared from the Sylph that the two men were taken aboard the yawl.

Lieutenant Preston wished to stand by to render such assistance to the tug crew as he could, but Captain William P. Brainard, an experienced pilot, who was at the wheel, declared it would be foolhardy for the Sylph to attempt a rescue in such a storm; that she almost certainly would be wrecked herself in the attempt. President Roosevelt knew nothing of the capsizing of the tugboat until nearly an hour afterward. He then expressed the wish that some assistance might have been rendered the crew.

It was the expectation that Mrs. Roosevelt, Mrs. Richardson and some of the guests of the president could be landed at Twenty-third street, Mrs. Roosevelt desiring to pass the day in the city with relatives. Owing to the severity of the storm, which still was raging with furious energy, it was found impracticable to make a landing at that point. Mrs. Roosevelt, Mrs. Richardson, Kermit Roosevelt, Professor Hart and Mr. La Farge were landed at the Brooklyn navy yard.

Rear Admiral Rodgers, commandant of the yard, went aboard the Sylph and after consultation with the president, the storm meanwhile having abated and the wind having veered from southeast to west, it was decided that the proposed visit to Ellis Island could be made in safety. The Sylph weighed anchor and arrived off Ellis Island, where the president and his party were landed.

During the visit many interesting incidents occurred, the president acting upon his desire to go directly among the immigrants themselves with a view of ascertaining personally how they were treated. He was particularly interested by the fact developed that forty-nine out of fifty of the applicants for admission were supplied with American money. The president's interest was attracted by a comely German woman, Adele Walter, from Leutendorf, who bore in a wicker basket a tiny seven-month-old babe. After chatting a moment with her the president slipped a five dollar bill into the hand of Jacob Riis to be given to the woman for her child. She nearly fainted upon learning that the gift was from the president of the United States.

Ellison Banks Suspend.

LIGONIER, Ind., Sept. 17.—The Ellison banks at Topeka and Lagrange have suspended payments. Much excitement was caused in the adjacent farming districts, as many had large deposits in these banks. The estimated deposits of the two institutions are $300,000. Both institutions were controlled by Rollin Ellison of Lagrange.

A TROPICAL STORM

New Jersey Coast Struck by Terrifying Hurricane.

ATLANTIC CITY WIRES WERE CUT OFF

Hotels, Pavilions and Summer Residences Suffered Severely Down by the Sea—State Camp Received Wind's Full Fury.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 17.—The tropical storm which struck the New Jersey coast was one of the severest experienced for a long time. The wind blew with hurricane force and while it lasted kept up a speed of seventy miles an hour. The storm was terrifying to a degree, but the damage was not as great as at first was believed. A conservative guess places the entire damage at $25,000 or $30,000. The telegraph and telephone lines leading out of the city are down, and the fact that the city was cut off from connection with the outside world started wild rumors that the great resort had been entirely swept away.

The first train in from Philadelphia and other points brought down excited relatives and friends who were anxious after the welfare of their loved ones and who found them happy and telling amusing stories about the freaks of the storm.

Great damage was done along the board walk, where the one story pavilions suffered to a considerable extent. The storm's fiercest attack was made on the McClay apartment building at Pacific and South Carolina avenues. The roof was more than half torn off, entailing a loss of $2,500.

The other largest damage was done at the Hotel Strand, situated on Pennsylvania avenue, close to the beach. This hotel's handsome brick and frame porch was completely ripped out and demolished by the wind. Outside of these places the damage otherwise consisted of broken plate glass windows, tin roofs curled up, awnings blown down and trees uprooted, while in the inlet district, at the upper end of the city, a number of boats were torn from their moorings and several boathouses were blown over.

When the roof of the McClay building blew off the fifty or more families in the house were thrown into a panic. They were quickly pacified, however, and all left the building.

One sick lad, John Flanagan, suffering from fever, was hurried to a hospital.

Young's pier was slightly damaged. The territory in the vicinity of the pier was made dangerous by flying glass.

The state camp at Sea Girt was exposed to the full fury of the storm. Tents and flooring were lifted bodily and carried over a hundred feet.

Big bulk windows gave way under pressure of the storm, and pieces of the glass flew in all directions. At this point Dr. Richard Pancoast, aged seventy years, of Philadelphia, was blown down by the wind on the board walk and suffered a fracture of the hip. He was hurried to the City hospital.

Among the hotels whose roofs were damaged in the storm was the Marlborough, Metropolitan, Kuenhler, Kenilworth and Richmond. None was very seriously damaged.

Railroad trains left on schedule time, and a large number of timid visitors hurriedly left town. The 2 o'clock express was the longest train out of this city this season.

Telegraphic communication between this city and the Delaware breakwater has been effected. Reports to the Maritime Exchange say that during the storm an unknown three masted schooner was wrecked near the breakwater. The crew was taken off by the pilot boat Philadelphia. A two masted barge is sunk at the mouth of Delaware bay, and the schooner Sea Bird is sunk as the result of a collision between the schooners Adeline Townsend, Emily F. Northan and the Sea Bird.

KODOL
Digests What You Eat.

Weak Hearts

Are due to indigestion. Ninety-nine of every one hundred people who have heart trouble can remember when it was simple indigestion. It is a scientific fact that all cases of heart disease, not organic, are not only traceable to, but are the direct result of indigestion. All food taken into the stomach which fails of perfect digestion ferments and swells the stomach, puffing it up against the heart. This interferes with the action of the heart, and in the course of time that delicate but vital organ becomes diseased.

Kodol

Digests What You Eat

Mrs. Loring Nichols of Penn Yan, N. Y., writes: After eating, my food would distress me by making my heart palpitate and I would become very weak. Finally I got a bottle of Kodol and it gave me immediate relief. After using a few bottles I am cured.

Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders, and gives the heart a full, free and untrammeled action.

Bottles only. $1.00 Size holding 2½ times the trial size, which sells for 50c.

THE VAN WORMERS.

Unique Case In the Criminal History of New York State.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 17.—Thrice unique in the criminal history of this state was the hearing before Governor Odell on the application for commutation of the death sentence in case of the three brothers Van Wormer, awaiting execution for murdering, in his own doorway, their uncle, Peter As Hallenbeck, at Greendale, Columbia county, on Christmas eve, 1901.

The unique features of the case are that three brothers, all under thirty and one barely twenty-one, stand together in the peril of the electric chair, that five jurors, representing eleven of the jury which convicted the Van Wormers, appeared in opposition to the appeal and that a Christian minister argued for the infliction of the death penalty. Further, a petition signed by 263 residents of the vicinity of the crime urged that the governor show no clemency.

Former Judge J. Ryder Cady of Hudson, who was originally detailed to defend the boys, argued for the appeal, pleading, among other things, the lack of childhood care due to their mother's early death.

District Attorney Chase of Columbia county opposed the application, as also did Rev. C. E. Corwin of Greendale. The latter cited many tales of the alleged misdoings of the Van Wormers.

Governor Odell said he would render a decision by Monday.

ARMENIAN CHURCHES.

Armenians In the United States to Petition President Roosevelt.

BAKU, Caucasia, Sept. 17.—Disorders among Armenians caused by the transfer of the Armenian church property to the state have broken out here. The troops fired on a crowd of Armenians, who retaliated with revolvers and stones. One man was killed, and twenty others were wounded. Three of the latter have since died.

Disorders have recently occurred at Tiflis, Elizabethpol and other towns in Caucasia arising out of the transfer of Armenian church property to the Russian state in which a number of Armenians were killed or wounded. A dispatch from Boston says the Armenians in the United States are preparing a petition to President Roosevelt asking him to prevent "the confiscation of $60,000,000 worth of church property in Russia owned by the Armenians of the world."

Cossacks Suppressed Kars Riot.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 17.—Further Armenian disorders have occurred at Kars, Transcaucasia, and were suppressed by the Cossacks. Several of the latter were wounded, one Armenian was killed, and seventy-seven others, including two priests, were arrested.

A BIG BLOW.

Fierce Windstorm Sweeps Over New York.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Death, damage and wreck followed in the path of the sixty mile an hour storm which struck New York shortly before noon.

One man was probably fatally hurt by being struck by parts of a heavy plate glass window at Fifth avenue and Twenty-second street. Many people were bruised by falling signs, broken windows, demolished chimneys and other portable articles whirled through the air by the wind.

Vessels in the harbor except the stoutest craft were compelled to put back to their piers. The police reported that the tug James Key was wrecked on Hog's Back reef in Hell Gate. Merritt-Chapman Wrecking company tugs went to her assistance.

Captain De Nyse of the tug Unique rescued a man whom he found clinging to the bottom of an overturned boat in Sandy Hook bay. The man was in an almost exhausted condition and said he had been there for several hours.

While returning toward New York the Unique picked up the yawl yacht Narkeeta of Boston, which was off Sandy Hook, dragging her anchors and drifting seaward. The yacht was taken in tow and anchored off Staten Island.

Racing In Mud at Gravesend.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Mud runners of a pronounced type were in demand at Gravesend. The Willow stakes for two-year-olds, the stake event on the card, was won by Majoram. Gamble Confessed Substitution.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17.—Deputy United States Marshal Gamble has made a complete confession of his connection with the substitution of old and decrepit Chinese for young Chinamen under sentence of deportation. For his connection with the plot for the liberation of the men who were ordered transported Gamble was arrested and released under a bond of $2,000. Under the rigid scrutiny and questioning of Mr. Woodworth he has confessed, implicating several well known Chinese and several whites, some of whom are in the employ of the government, and only one deputy sheriff. Gamble's confession completely upsets the stories of many of the suspected persons. Several arrests will probably be made as a result of Gamble's confession.

Boy Poisoned His Stepmother.

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 17.—Thirteen-year-old John H. POWERS NOT TO HELP

Bulgaria Not to Expect Help From Foreign Arms.

TURKEY RAPIDLY MOBILIZING ARMY

Military Party Urging the Sultan to Cross the Hostile Frontier Without a Declaration of War, Principality Being Vassal State.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Sept. 17.—Although no formal replies have been received to the Bulgarian government's note, it is stated that the representatives of three great powers have repeated their counsels to Bulgaria to remain quiet, as in the event of a war with Turkey Bulgaria need not expect any help in foreign quarters. It is further reported that the same diplomats visited General Petroff and endeavored to persuade him to postpone the mobilization of Bulgarian forces, but the premier declined.

One of the ministerial organs in an editorial on the government's note says it hopes it will be the last time that the Bulgarian government will issue a note. If the powers do not intervene to restore order in Macedonia Bulgaria will undertake with the feeble forces she possesses to do what is expected of her and give Europe the pleasure of witnessing a bloody drama in Macedonia.

From Burgas comes a report that a general massacre is beginning throughout the district of Losengrad. Turkish troops and Bashibazouks attacked a Greek village near Losengrad, killed twenty-five peasants and destroyed the church, schools and many houses. The Turks attacked the village of Paoulevo and killed everybody they found on the streets.

A fight is reported from Petchenitza between a band of 100 insurgents and 300 Turks. The insurgents, who occupied a strong position, fired on the attacking Turks, killing twenty-five.

A telegram from Uskub says the mobilization of the Turkish army is proceeding rapidly, while dispatches from Constantinople assert that the military party is urging the sultan to order his troops to cross the Bulgarian frontier without a declaration of war, which the party regards as unnecessary, inasmuch as Bulgaria is a vassal state of Turkey. The sultan is said to be still hesitating.

Dispatches from Constantinople report that in an encounter which took place between the Turks and a large body of insurgents at the village of Kermon, near Lake Perlepe, the insurgents were routed and had over 100 killed and a great number wounded. In the same vilayet the insurgents set fire to the village of Kachin. One hundred and fifty houses were burned, and six women perished in the flames.

Powers to Warn Bulgaria.

VIENNA, Sept. 17.—It is reported here that the powers have arrived at a decision to make a new collective representation at Sofia warning Bulgaria against commencing a war.

AN EAST RIVER MURDER.

Proprietor of Old Shakespeare Hotel Shot to Death.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Grim memories of the old "Shakespeare" murder in the East River hotel some twelve years ago were revived when William H. Keyes, thirty-nine years old, who for the past eighteen months has been proprietor of the hotel at Catherine slip and Water street, was shot through the heart and instantly killed. He was sitting in a chair in front of the Water street entrance to the hotel when the fatal shot was fired.

Keyes' dead body was carried into the rear room of the hotel, and O'Toole called Mrs. Alice Keyes, the dead man's wife, who was asleep on the second floor with her daughter. She rushed to the rear room and, after gazing at the dead body of her husband, fell into a swoon.

Meantime Policeman Mullen and several other officers of the Oak street station, who had been attracted by the shot, rushed to the hotel and placed O'Toole, Murphy and Pendleton under arrest. Before they reached the place it was discovered that Keyes' pockets were turned inside out, and $250 in cash was missing.

He will take the position that at present all of the inhabitants of this district are amenable to the articles of war.

Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 17, 1903.

The Daily Press has a higher circulation rating than is accorded to any other paper in Plainfield.—Printers' Ink.

Kirk vs. Moffett, a battle royal.

Plainfield politicians have forgotten all about the talk of "the crime of '73." They're discussing "the crime of '03."

Big Bill Devery has some sparking things to say just at present "touching on and appertain' to" the way he was squelched by Tammany Hall.

Dispatches state that snow visited Nebraska during the present week. Whether the office of The Commoner was included in the visit is not reported.

The elements had it in for Plainfield yesterday and as a result the city is minus many stately trees which added attractiveness to the handsome thoroughfares.

Through the courtesy of The Suburbanite, The Daily Press reproduces a picture of the Central's New York terminal as it will appear when the much needed improvement is made.

A New Brunswick woman claims to own the greater part of New York. That's nothing when compared to the Elizabeth people who seem to have an impression that they should boss the earth.

Captain William B. Martin's record at Sea Girt is one of which every Plainfielder feels proud. As the commandant of Company K he also made an equally fine record. Captain Martin is all right.

The Attorney-General has decided that if you want to register your vote against the proposed constitutional amendments you must write the word "against" on the margin of the ballot. This is well to remember as is also the provision that black ink solely must be used in writing the word "against." Such arrangements are novel, but possibly the Legislature knew its mind in the matter.

Many of the State politicians, and particularly the lesser fry in Elizabeth, are not inclined to take the Plainfield bolt from the majority party's ticket in this County at all seriously. It is broadly stated that the warring factions will be "the same old crowd" before the time to cast the ballots arrives. The question is, can Mr. MacMurray and his friends afford to surrender after taking such a determined stand?

John Martin, of the Potter Press Company's plant, has returned to work after several days' illness.

William Donaldson, Elmer TenEycke and William Nickelson, all of the Campbell Printing Press Company, are in New York for a few days erecting a large auto plate press for the New York Herald.

City Counsel Davis, of Orange, was asked by the aldermen at a recent meeting to advise them of the legality or illegality of letting contracts to firms employing union labor only. Mr. Davis's opinion, just rendered, is that to let contracts under such agreements is to make them void.

The National Metal Trades Association, of Chicago, has started a movement to reduce the wages of machinists all over the country 10 per cent. If this reduction is accomplished it will effect 100,000 machinists, both union and non-union men. Wage agreements with all western unions affiliated with the International Association of Machinists expire on Jan. 1, 1904, and preparations are being made by the manufacturers to insist upon a reduction when the negotiations for new agreements begin.

The printers who struck at Tiffany & Co.'s factory at Forest Hill worked a clever trick on their former employers yesterday by calling out the seven non-union men, who three weeks ago, by supplanting the union men, were the cause of the strike. Since the beginning of the strike the former employes have been quietly at work among the non-union men, until on Monday night they succeeded in initiating them into the union. Besides these seven men, the apprentice boys, who had been registered in the union, were also called out.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN.

The gale that struck the borough yesterday did considerable damage. Trees and branches were blown down all over town and the electric light wires were blown down on the Bound Brook road and the borough was left in total darkness last night. At the residence of Mrs. Carman on Front street, a heavily loaded grape arbor was borne down and four window panes broken on the rear of the house. The parents of the school children sent carriages after them at noon, and Principal Meserole allowed none of the smaller children to leave the building until the storm had subsided. The windows in the cab of drill engine No. 27 were also broken.

The fourth game of the series between the Dunellen A. C. and the Bound Brook team is scheduled to take place Saturday afternoon at the Forester's picnic in Riverside Park. The Bound Brook boys seem confident of victory, and they claim they have a few surprises up their sleeve. Our team will remain unchanged and Manager Smith is satisfied that if they continue the snappy ball they have been playing, we will have little trouble in trimming them again.

Since the transfers for passengers going to and coming from Plainfield have been abolished on Bound Brook cars, there have been several complaints against the motormen for not stopping the cars when signaled. It is up to the Council to get after the trolley company and see that Dunellen citizens are treated properly.

The home of Miss Elsie Peters was the scene of a pleasant gathering of young people Tuesday evening. The evening was spent in games and music and later refreshments were served. Friends were present from the borough, Plainfield and Bound Brook.

The committee in charge of the securing of the town for the fire bell, report that same is expected to arrive in a day or two and the subscription for the flag pole is doing nicely. We will soon have an up-to-date fire department.

A pleasant party was held at the home of Miss Elsie Peters on Tuesday evening. The time was passed in dancing, music and games. Guests were present from the borough, Plainfield and Orange.

Many of the property owners about town are glad to sign a petition to have new sidewalks laid, but they are very backward about paying for them after they are down.

The wreck at Roselle last night delayed a number of the New York trains and several of the commuters from the borough did not arrive home until late.

Archibald Brakeley, who recently graduated from the Plainfield High School, will leave Saturday for Princeton University.

Bernard Siriski is entertaining relatives from Raritan this week.

NEW MARKET.

Members of the Y. M. A. expect to place a football team in the field this fall. There are plenty of good heavy fellows around town and there is no reason why a good team could not be gotten together.

Robert Carpenter and Fred Haynes have purchased a handsome new canoe. They take at turn on the lake every evening and are becoming quite skilful oarsmen.

The band met for weekly practice last evening, in Kelley's office. It was decided give another open air concert sometime in the near future.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The storm yesterday did considerable damage in town, especially to the shade trees, a number of which were uprooted or broken. The large back stop on the ball grounds was blown down, corn fields were injured, the stalks in many places being flat on the ground. The greatest loss was probably to the apple crops, some of the trees being entirely cleaned of fruit which was just beginning to ripen. The downpour was one of the heaviest the village has had this summer.

The heavy rain Wednesday morning crippled the trolley service temporarily, water under the Richmond street bridge in Plainfield, being nearly two feet deep for several hours. Cars were unable to plow through it.

A handsome group photograph of the ball team has been taken and is being sold for the benefit of the team. Arthur Haskard, secretary of the club, is booking orders for those who desire the photo.

Work on what will be the largest tenement house in Scotch Plains is practically completed. Antonio Martine is the owner of the building which is situated on Hunter avenue.

Mrs. Ellen Trainor, a resident of the Plains for thirty-five years, is makng arrangements to move to Newark, where she will live with her daughter.

Miss Addie Johnston left Wednesday, for Vassar College. Miss Johnston is a graduate of the class of '08 at Peddie Institute, Highstown, N. J.

Jacob Schakleton and family, who have been occupying the Allen house on Westfield avenue, have removed to the Cleaver cottage on Park avenue.

The local ball team will take a large crowd with them on Saturday afternoon when they meet St. Mary's on Hope Common, Plainfield.

Mrs. Isaac Oliver has returned to her home at Kearney, after a visit of several weeks with Mrs. John Flannery, of Westfield avenue.

The quarterly conference of the Methodist Church will be held tonight. Presiding Elder Halleran, of Elizabeth, will preside.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dobbing, who have been living in the village during the summer, have returned to Newark.

Mrs. Ella Rogers, of Brooklyn, has returned to her home after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Alvah Rogers.

Mrs. DeForest Thomas, of Grand street, has been entertaining her sister, Miss Stuart, of Boston.

Fred Shepard, of New York City, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Shepard, at the Gables.

Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., hold its regular weekly meeting in the library rooms tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Alberts have started housekeeping in the Traynor cottage in the borough.

Mrs. Orbie Price has returned from a two-weeks' visit with friends at Wilkes Barre, Pa.

Mrs. Thomas M. Paff, Sr., is detained at home with illness, for several days past.

William Jimerson has returned from a week's outing at Ocean Grove.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The wind and rain storm yesterday caused much damage in this neighborhood. Many valuable shade trees were broken and others uprooted, and fruit was blown off from fruit trees. The large iron smoke stack was entirely removed from the pumping station of the water company and landed in the brook, doing damage also to the brick wall inside. A large advertising board near the railroad depot was partly destroyed by the wind. Mr. Holley's windmill was also broken down, and some fences on farms were leveled to the ground.

Ralph, the infant child of Mr. and Mrs William Johnson, died of dysentery Tuesday night. The funeral services was held at the church this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and was conducted by Rev. J. A. Cubberley.

A large dog owned by Miss Laura Manning, yesterday afernoon fastened his teeth so firmly into the cheek of a pig running in the field, that a crowbar had to be used to pry the dog's mouth opened before he let go.

R. B. Manning, accompanied his regiment from Newark to the battle fields of Antietam and Gettysburg, where he will pass the time until Saturday.

Baggage Master Edward Guttahall has returned from his vacation spent in visiting relatives at Mount Holly Springs, Pa.

J. J. Hannon, conductor on a local freight on the Lehigh Valley Railroad, has moved into town.

Want Reduced Fares to Bound Brook and Return Tickets—Legal Entanglements Possible.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Sept. 17—The officials of the Middlesex and Somerset Traction Company and the borough fathers of Somerville are still at war and it begins to look as though the company would have a suit upon its hands or be compelled to live up to the old borough ordinance requiring it to obey certain restrictions which are not now enforced under the new ordinance.

The Board of Commissioners proposes that the trolley company may replace the poles now standing with modern ones instead of iron poles. This has been the principal bone of contention. They also conend that conductors must be allowed to sell tickets on the cars, good for the round trip from Bound Brook to Somerville, for ten cents. Seven single tickets must be sold for twenty-five cents.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Sept. 20—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Why and how we should bear witness for Christ.—Acts v, 27-32.

Times change with the passing years and centuries. Witness bearing for Christ is very different today from what it was in the time of the apostles in the early Christian centuries and amid the denominational controversies and antagonisms of the later centuries. Then to bear witness for Christ meant the possibility of serious persecution and even martyrdom. But Christian men and women did not falter in their witnessing for these reasons. The apostles, when commanded not to teach in the name of Jesus, kept on teaching, and when brought to task for their disobedience calmly but boldly replied, "We ought to obey God rather than man."

Today we are not called upon to witness for Christ under the same circumstances or at the risk of the apostles and early Christians, and yet the duty of witnessing for Christ is just as incumbent upon us as upon our ancestors in the faith. Methods have changed, but the thing itself has not changed. 1. We should bear witness for Christ because we have been divinely commanded to do so. Christ has commanded us to let our light shine, to confess Him before men, and we also ought to obey God. While there are no men today to command us not to teach in His name, there are often other things to discourage us in our witnessing, but they should not be allowed to have dominion over us. 2. We should bear witness because of what Christ has done. He has died on the cross to save the world from sin, and the world needs to know the facts of His life, death, resurrection, ascension and of His power to save. And, if the world does know, the church must give forth this knowledge, and every Christian should do his part as a witness bearer. 3. We should witness for Christ because we will want Him to confess us. He has promised to confess us if we confess Him, but declares that He will not confess us before our Father in heaven if we do not confess Him upon earth.

As there are different reasons for confessing Christ, so there are different ways of confessing Christ. 1. There is the confessional method, the confessing of Christ by uniting with the visible church of Christ. All who believe in Christ should confess Him in this way, take their stand among the people of God and let the world know where they stand. 2. The conversational method. This is presenting Christ to those who have not accepted Him. We should witness for Him by telling others what He has done for us and leading them to accept Him. 3. The epistolary method. This is the living method, being "living epistles read and known of all men" that we are Christians.

BIBLE READINGS.

A Plea For Larger Fellowship.

The following petition had unanimous adoption at the Denver convention and is being largely signed. Any reader of this paper who sympathizes with its suggestion and desires to attach his name, residence and denomination may do so and mail to Dr. F. E. Clark, Tremont Temple, Boston, Mass.:

A Plea For the Larger Fellowship of Protestant Christianity Through the Christian Endeavor Movement and a Petition From the Christian Public.

We, the undersigned members of churches and Christian Endeavor societies and lovers of concord and Christian fellowship, earnestly petition all ecclesiastical governing bodies to allow full and untrammeled liberty to their young people to unite together in the interdenominational and international Christian Endeavor movement.

This movement, as the history of more than twenty-two years has proved, promotes thorough loyalty to the church and denomination as well as fraternity between all churches and denominations, and we only ask that in the future the young people may be allowed freely to give both the interdenominational fellowship and the Christian Endeavor name either alone or in connection with their denominational name.

No one can measure the good that has been accomplished in the past by this united movement of millions of youths for good citizenship, pure politics, worldwide missions in home and foreign fields, in prisons and upon the sea; for the unevangelized of our great cities, for promoting confession of Christ and active service among the young people of all churches and a cordial fraternity with all who love the Master, thus in part fulfilling His dying prayer "that they all may be one." Much has been accomplished, far more can be accomplished, by the constantly increasing hosts in the future if no ecclesiastical barriers to their fellowship are put in the way.

No other organization has ever done the work of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor. No new organization could do it, since the Christian Endeavor society for a score of years has won the affection of the young and the confidence of the old and already embraces within its ranks nearly four millions of members in eighty evangelical denominations and more than forty nations.

Not only may the society be an increasingly important link between the denominations, but between the Christian forces of all the nations as well, especially the English speaking nations, where it is already so thoroughly established. It brings the younger forces together in their great international conventions, promotes their sympathy for and interest in one another, helps to make war impossible and a lasting peace, based upon the principles of the Prince of Peace, ever more and more sure.

In missionary lands, where the unity and not the divisions of Christianity should be particularly emphasized, this union of forces is still more important and any unnecessary separation of forces still more deplorable.

We therefore earnestly implore all those who have authority or influence not only to remove restrictions where any exist, but to promote the reunion of Protestant Christendom the world around, so far as it may be accomplished by the common methods, the united prayers and the concerted work of the Society of Christian Endeavor.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Sept. 20, "The Call of Jeremiah." Text, Jer. i, 4-10.

The thrill of a new thought is one of the most delightful experiences possible to us. The first glimpse of a beautiful landscape awakens keen enjoyment, but a view of some truth never before realized and now bursting unexpectedly on the soul stirs us more deeply than a sunrise flooding wide miles of valley, hills and lakes with light as we look upon it from some towering height.

Higher still than the discovery of a new idea is the glow of a new impulse, the birth of a new ideal. When a soul catches sight of higher possibilities of attainment which it may hope to achieve, of nobler tasks it may strive to accomplish, of better being to which it may come, there is not only outlook given, but there are uplift of passionate desire and determinate setting of purpose to reach up toward the ideal revealed.

This opening of a new world is a real discovery which each soul must make for itself. No other eyes can see it for us, none others ever see it just as we do. It is our discovery. Others must explore for themselves and see their worlds for themselves. We see with our own eyes.

But there is more than this in it. Every such sight and uplift is also insight. It is a view into ourselves, our nature and possibilities. This is far the more significant fact in the case. The real vision is in us and not in the things seen. They are unconscious, inanimate. We discern the beauty, are conscious of it, are moved by it, animated and active. It thrills through us, throbs and glows into recognition. It lives for and in spirit and not merely in material form. This is real worth. Here is its measure of value. It becomes vital and personal. The soul carries to itself and recognizes its capacity, its power and its task. It comes to free activity, becomes born into a larger and more worthy world and can grow to a larger and more worthful self.

But this is not all, nor the best of it. The new idea, the higher ideal, the thrill of emotion and impulse to action, the choice of the better and grasp of the good, are more than sight of an outer world of beauty and value, are more than insight into the realm of personal spirit in self with all its range of worth. They are revelations of Spirit revealing Himself through things to spirits who can think and feel and do and be like Him.

The experience of Jeremiah is not an unnatural one. Unusual it may have been, but it was normal to our nature and should be common. The physical system must come to birth or it has no individual existence in the physical world. The mind must likewise come to individual exercise if its powers or imbecility and idiocy bind fast what intelligence and rationality alone could set free. So must the powers of spirit have birth into conscious, free exercise or the soul can neither see nor hear nor feel the presence of the Divine One. "Ye must be born from above." This is the door of entrance into all heavenly realities here and now, hereafter and ever.

Jeremiah heard God speak, felt Him touch his mouth. Then he could speak also. He understood God's meaning, he thought His thought, felt the thrill of divine feeling and thrust of infinite energy. He could interpret eternal truth into language of human duty and happiness because he had come to himself. That is, God had come to him and into him. God called and he answered. God put His words into his mouth and this made him a prophet—one who speaks before and for God.

In some way, somewhere, at some time, the Divine Spirit calls every human spirit to be His prophet. The crucial questions decisive of destiny for each one are these:

Do you hear?

What do you say?

A Short Life.

A short life need not be at all one of but small influence. A short story or sermon has frequently more effect than the more lengthy. It is only speaking from a human standpoint to say that a life is prematurely closed which covers but a portion of the time allotted by the psalmist. Our Lord's public ministry occupied but three short years, yet at their close He declared finished that most stupendous work—the redemption of the world. Great achievements are permitted a few, but boundless opportunities of influence are imposed on all, for we are living epistles known and read of all men, and our living preaches more eloquently than our words. If therefore to live is for Christ to shine in us, our lives are but the working out of the divine plan, and when in accordance with that plan we are called away who shall say that the "Well done!" leaves room for doubt as to the completion of the task assigned?—Thomas Leiper Hodge.

A Perpetual Struggle.

We should see to it that no failure comes to that intrusted to us by carelessness, indifference or lack of personal devotion. The struggle must be perpetual.—Episcopal Recorder.

The Priceless Lesson.

I've learned as days have passed me
Fretting never lifts the load,
And that worry, much or little,
Never smooths an irksome road.
For you know that somehow, always,
Doors are opened, ways are made,
When we work and live in patience
Under all the crosses laid.

He who waters meadow lilies
With the dew from out the sky,
He who feeds the fluttering sparrows
When in need for food they cry,
Never fails to aid His children
In their stress, though great or small
For His ear is always open
To their faintest faree call.

The New Turned Up Toques—Dresses of Dark Serge.

Quite a beautiful gown of black lace over white had pyramids of tiny flounc ings in a V form, starting at the hem in the center of the back and repeated on either side, giving great grace to the skirt. The bodice was quite pouched, the black lace forming a sort of coatee over a white front, from which descended long tassels with panne ends, made like a gigantic mulberry in a light mauve tint. The violet color was repeated in small chiffon violets appliqued to the decolletage and to the angel sleeves. The satin belt was also of the same hue.

Many of the new toques turn up very abruptly on the left side and are simply trimmed with a bird and loops of velvet ribbon.

A most useful dress is one of serge, dark blue or dark red, both being equally attractive, with a plaited skirt bearing a plain yoke and a plain front. Gowns of greenish plaid are also considered ultra smart for fall wear.

The cut shows a plaid mountain suit with white vest and lapels.

Accordion Plaited Skirts Still Popular—Chiffon Roses.

The accordion plaited skirts are really fascinating, and in the autumn they will be revived for evening wear, especially among girls. A good many in net volle and chiffon have been seen in various trousseaus, and the accordion plaited blouse, too, will have a revival of favor. It was always a smart mode and suited all slight women.

Many gowns are made of linon de soie incrusted with two or three different makes of lace in the form of medallions.

Chiffon roses are still used as trimmings, even on afternoon frocks. It is a lovely but perishable mode. The lace medallions are more lasting and look charming on box plaits of different sizes. This is a smart idea for a supple fabric.

The cut shows a dinner dress of white satin, covered with bands of jetted lace. The coat is of black chantilly over white chiffon.

CHAPTER XVI.

YORKTOWN.

It was gray dawn when she rode into the inn stable-yard, but there was no stir about the premises, and she found the stable-door open, as she had left it. While she was putting up her horse and slipping back to her room the British were returning from their fruitless attack. That afternoon, when Bessemer rode out from among the trenches and redoubts of Yorktown to welcome her and her aunt to the fortified town, he little suspected that it was this girl who had compassed his defeat.

The Ellerys found Edward quite as ill as Bessemer's letter had led them to suppose, and for the next few weeks their hands were full with nursing him. When they arrived the town wore an air of careless ease. Young officers in gay uniforms swaggered through its street, their talk loud boasts of what would be done when reinforcements from Sir Henry Clinton arrived or when the British fleet came; but gradually all this changed. One day hope ran high; the British fleet had been sighted; it was coming; the next, there was the bottomless pit of despair. The fleet was De Grasse's.

Next came information of Washington's arrival; then news that the French and American forces were marching forward from Williamsburg. On the twenty-eighth the town was thrown into a panic. The front column of the approaching armies had been sighted. Orderlies dashed hither and thither; the lines of soldiery were put in motion; the manning of the works was strengthened. The besiegers came; the British abandoned their outer works and huddled within the intrenchments; the siege had begun.

During all the worry and excitement of these troublous times Bessemer did not neglect Jane nor fail to look after her comfort as well as he could. It was no secret among those high enough up to know that, had Cornwallis followed the advice of his colonel of dragoons, he would have made a bold dash out of Yorktown ere the allied forces had a chance to pen him up. Even now Bessemer begged his commander to make the attempt, and so far prevailed as to win from him permission to make the first essay.

Returning from the conference with his chief, he stopped to see Jane and took her into his confidence sufficiently to tell her something of the enterprise he had on foot.

"If we succeed, sweetheart," he said, "if we get out of this hole where we are held like mice in a trap, then we shall be able to soon turn the tables upon these allies and bring the war to a speedy close; then I shall, shall I not, claim the fulfillment of your promise and carry you back to England with me as my wife."

"Col. Bessemer," said Jane, who tried more than once to interrupt him, "I thank you for the confidence you have reposed in me this afternoon, but I feel that I have been most remiss in receiving it without first acquainting you with something which, when you learn of it, may cause you no longer to desire me for your wife."

Bessemer leaned forward. "You mean—" he said.

Then, with voice which faltered not a little under the growing anger in his eyes, she acquainted him with her ride to warn Lafayette's army. Bessemer's brow darkened; his lips compressed. Pushing back his chair, he walked to the window. "And so," he said, turning to her at last, "you thought to serve a double purpose by your treachery? To save the partisans of your lover, and to forge a means of making me repent the wish to make you my wife? You have miscalculated in the last. You shall marry me. Had I time, did not other matters press, we would be wedded to-night; but as it is, the delay will not be for long, and I will take care that my wife shall be loyal."

He strode from the room. Jane sat for a moment, trembling under the lash of his anger and not less under the misconstruction he had put upon the motive of her confession; then she moved towards the window. It looked out upon an October sunset. To the north and west a crimson curtain had been dropped, and against this curtain was clearly the figure of Col. Bessemer as he rode towards the river.

A heavy fog had wrapped the little town and its environments in a chill embrace when, next morning, the British rode out from their quarters. It was not yet four o'clock, and the sun had not thought of rising; nor was there a streak of dawn. The troops rode silently, for their mission must be performed quietly or not at all. It was, in truth, to capture some new batteries on the French side which had only been completed the day before and were supposed to be poorly guarded. If the effort were successful, it was proposed to throw the whole weight of the British army against the weakened point and cut through a road of escape.

Bessemer and his legion were in the lead, for it was his plan and he was to take the brunt of its execution. He and his men went forward gallantly; they swarmed upon the batteries; they captured them—but, ere the rest of the British force could come up, the alarm had been sounded along the French and American lines: guards rushed to the rener of the assailed point, and the British were driven back, leaving their dead and wounded strewn along the batteries; leaving there too the body of their leader.

It was the last attempt of the British save one to escape from the toils which held them, and when that last effort had been made and foiled, it was little wonder that Lord Cornwallis gave up in despair, nor that he should send proposals for surrender to Mr. Washington.

The day of the surrender dawned fair, but Jane refused to go with her triumphant aunt to see the spectacle. She felt that it was a small enough act of loyalty towards both the dead Bessemer and the living Edward to remain away from a scene that would have been so humiliating to both had they been present to witness it.

But Aunt Susannah was deterred by no such scruples, and, arrayed in all the finery she could muster, with her head held very high, she set forth to view the pageant.

The spectacle was well worth coming miles to see, and many had so come. There was a surprising concourse of onlookers considering the smallness of the town, the poor facilities for travel between the place of surrender and the surrounding country, as well as the haste with which the whole affair had been arranged.

Upon the left stretched the long line of French troops; upon the right, the even longer line of Americans with Washington, the one splendid figure, upon his white charger at their head. The appearance of the triumphant armies was shabby. The uniforms showed the hard work of the seige; the mud-stains of the trenches; the powder burns; the mildew patches woven by foggy nights and hot days. Of the Americans, many were threadbare, and not a few in tatters.

Between these faded columns came the British in their bright new clothes which Cornwallis had that morning, in a final spurt of lavishness, ordered issued; but if their garb was bright their faces were in contrast. With sullen countenances, downcast eyes, and leaden tread they marched down the long, wide aisles that had been left for them, their colors cased and their drums beating sardonically that appropriate tune, "The World is Turned Upside Down."

It was after the ceremonies were over that Mrs. Ellery and Godfrey met, for young Worthington, it seemed, was a captain of infantry in Gen. Washington's army, and his had been one of the very companies that engaged in the defeat of Bessemer on the foggy morning so fatal to that warrior. Nothing would do but Aunt Susannah must carry him back in triumph with her to the house where she and Jane and Edward were quartered, and on the way Mrs. Ellery's tongue was not idle.

As they entered the door-way of the house Jane was just descending the stairs, on her way to the dining-room for some food for Edward. At sight of Godfrey the color—considerably dimmed by events of the past months—deserted her cheeks, and she laid her hand upon the balustrade for support. It was surprising how so sizable a woman as Aunt Susannah could melt away so quickly, but disappear she did, and Worthington and Jane were left the only occupants of the hall.

"Jane." He came swiftly towards her. "Jane, your aunt has just told me what you have done, what you were to do for my sake, of sacrifice you had made and were to make to save my life. My God, to think that you could have sacrificed yourself thus for me, and that I, fool, poltroon, should have misread you, should have—Jane, can you forgive the words I spoke at your father's house the last night we were together? Can you, perhaps, still care a little for a man so dull that he could not read your too generous heart aright, and must needs have it interpreted for him by others? Tell, me, Jane, can you care for such a one?"

The gay strains of a martial band passing the house drifted in from the street as he bent his head to receive his answer.

THE END.

A HINT TO THE WISE.

This Advice Will Bear Repeating in Plainfield.

"Don't chase shadows."

Doubtful proof is but a shadow.

You can rely on testimony of people you know.

You can investigate local evidence.

Mrs. Margaret Reville, of 732 West Third street, says: "For a long time I was troubled with a lame and weak back and I never found anything which gave me any relief until I obtained Doan's Kidney Pills from L. W. Randolph's drug store and began to use them according to directions. It was only a short time before I felt the good effect and from that time on I improved steadily, under the treatment. My back pained me and was so weak and sore that I dreaded to bend and when I had a cold or overexerted myself I suffered severely. I used several different kidney remedies but got little if any relief. I give Doan's Kidney Pills all the credit for my improvement. I think they are a fine medicine for a lame back."

CRIME AND LYNCHING.

Negro President of Convention Deplores Disgrace to the Race.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 17.—Nearly 2,000 delegates were present at the opening session of the annual national negro Baptist convention, every state and territory in the country being represented. The convention, which will continue for six days, is being held in the National Export exposition auditorium. Much of the business of the convention will be the discussion of missionary and educational work.

Rev. E. C. Morris of Helena, Ark., presided and in his annual address referred at considerable length to prevailing crime and lynching. In the course of his address he said:

"Let us consider that most of the blood curdling outrages committed against the pure womanhood of the country are charged to members of our race; and, no matter if the persons against whom those charges are made do come from the lowest element of the race, there is room to consider whether or not we have made sufficient effort to restrain that element that is bringing such disgrace to the race and shame upon the country. I am sure there is no sympathy in the breast of any true man for the wretch who has fallen so low as to commit an outrage against any woman. It should be the verdict of all true men that every woman shall be safe in her person from the attack of any brute, white or black, no matter whether she be in her quiet home in town or city or walking along a country road. Every man everywhere should be made to know that to commit an assault upon the innocent womanhood of the country means that the strong arm of the law is to be exercised upon him without reserve. I say law, for I am unalterably opposed to mob violence and consider mobs more dangerous to good, potent government than any other form of lawlessness.

"As the representatives of the largest church organization among our people we cannot ignore the responsibility which the Lord has put upon us to lift up our people to a standard of Christianity which when attained will make impossible the heinous crimes with which, so many hitherto have been charged."

Upon conclusion of Dr. Morris' address the convention suspended the rules by unanimous vote and elected him president for the tenth year.

Rev. T. G. Jordan of Louisville, foreign mission secretary, delivered his annual report, in which he discussed the work being done by the negro Baptists in foreign fields.

HAS APPENDICITIS.

Sir Thomas Lipton Very Ill at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—Sir Thomas Lipton, reported as seriously ill, is suffering from colitis and catarrhal appendicitis, according to an official statement made by his physicians.

Sir Thomas complained of a pain in his stomach when he arrived in Chicago. A few hours later he was compelled to take to his bed at his hotel. His physicians held a consultation, and it was decided that the patient must remain indoors for a few days at least. The social engagements prepared for him have been canceled.

Last night the condition of Sir Thomas Lipton had not materially changed. The physicians in charge said that the condition of the patient was satisfactory.

No positive decision had been reached as to whether or not it would be necessary to perform an operation, but the opinion of the doctors was that the probabilities are against the necessity of such a step.

ARMY CANTEENS.

General Baldwin Favors Their Re-establishment.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Brigadier General Frank D. Baldwin, commanding the department of the Colorado, in his annual report urges the re-establishment of the army canteen under proper restrictions and says:

"I have been deeply impressed by the very marked difference in discipline and general contentment among the enlisted men since the abolition of the canteen feature of the post exchange. If men are unable to get a glass of beer in a decent and orderly manner in the garrison they will resort to the vile brothels which cluster around the borders of the reservation, where they drink all manner of alcoholic beverages and often sink into debauchery and ruin."

Venezuela Desires Peace.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Dr. Hernandez, the Venezuelan minister here, received a dispatch from Minister of State Urbaneja authorizing the legation to deny the reports published in this country that Venezuelan troops have been sent in the direction of the Colombian frontier and suggesting that war between the two countries is inevitable. The dispatch says that Venezuela is at peace and desires to remain so.

Naval Experts and Torpedoes.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Because of strong protests to the secretary of the navy from various naval experts against the action of the board of construction in deciding to fit no more battle ships with torpedo tubes, Secretary Moody has declined as yet to approve the action of the board.

Patrol Steamer Lifted Nets.

ASHTABULA, O., Sept. 17.—The Canadian patrol steamer Petrel has lifted and confiscated a number of fish nets belonging to American fishermen in Lake Erie. It is supposed the nets were set on the Canadian side of the line.

RACE WITH DEATH.

Son Arrived Too Late to See His Mother, Mrs. Margaret Gilligan, Who Died Today.

Mrs. Margaret Gilligan, died this morning from heart trouble, at St. Joseph's Sisters' home on Manning avenue. She was seventy-two years old and lived at the home for five years. Her son, John arrived here this morning, too late to see his mother before the end came. He will have the remains taken to Providence, R. I, his home, and interred in the family plot there. Masses will be held in St. Joseph's R. C. church and the remains will probably be taken away tomorrow. The funeral arrangements have not been completed.

IN THE SAME TWICE.

John Manley Confined to Hospital Suffering With Injured Leg.

John Manley, of Park avenue, is at Muhlenberg Hospital, under treatment for a second injury to his leg. Several days ago, while at Asbury Park, he fell and sustained an injury to the leg in exactly the same place as originally injured in an accident in Park avenue, which occurred while returning from a baseball game one Saturday afternoon.

Would Make a Speedway.

As there does not appear to be a single person objecting to the proposed extension of Dunellen avenue into North Plainfield, the prospects for this improvement being carried out are considered excellent. One of the leading arguments in favor of the scheme is that it would give persons who own horses and carriages an opportunity to use a thoroughfare away from the trolley.

No More Special Meetings.

Unless there should be something important to engage the attention of the Common Council it is not likely that that body will meet before the regular time, Monday evening, Oct. 5. In the meantime politics will be uppermost in the minds of those engaged in the affairs of the city.

Common Council's Intention.

The action of the Common Council in borrowing money for the improvement of the sanitary sewer system in this city, appears to be misleading. The money is to be used for the extension of the sewer system in the West End, commenced some time ago.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Saunders, of North Plainfield, are at present stopping at the Hotel Marie Antionette, New York.

PORTRAIT OF GENERAL JOSEPH BLOOMFIELD, FIRST DEMOCRATIC GOVERNOR.

W. H. Griffen, the Artist—Gift to State by Charles Bloomfield.

There is now on exhibition at Swain's art store in West Front street, a fine portrait of General Joseph Bloomfield, Governor of New Jersey in 1801, 1803 and 1812. He was also the first Democrat elected to that office. The painting is an excellent piece of work and was done by the well-known artist, W. H. Griffen, of this city. It has been placed in a handsome gold frame with name plate by Mr. Swain. The portrait is a gift to the State by Charles Bloomfield, of Rahway, and is to hang in the State House at Trenton.

It has been decided by the members of Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., to attend the annual field day to be held at Atlantic City, October 15. Efforts are being made to eclipse all former events of this kind.

WAS OLD SOLDIER WEALTHY?

RELATIVES OF MAN WHO KILLED HIMSELF SO BELIEVE.

Some of the relatives of Thomas A. Oliver, who killed himself in South Plainfield two weeks ago, believe that he left a fortune of $10,000. They say that he received bounty money from the government some years ago and that he was also very saving of the pension money that he got. When he died a woman appeared from Brooklyn who claimed to be the man's sister and she took charge of his effects.

Mr. Oliver is also survived by two granddaughters, Mrs. Gerturde Lees and Mrs. Mary Jane Hobby, of this city, and two stepsons, James Johnson, of Menlo Park, and Frederick Johnson, of this city. John H. Johnson, of Highland Park, is another relative, he being a step-grandson.

ZAMBA'S WORK EXHIBITED

PAINTING BY THE GREAT FRENCH ARTIST NOW ON EXHIBITION.

Picture of Parisian Beauty Which Seems to Undergo a Transformation.

An oil painting valued at $50,000, the work of the great French artist, Zamba, has been procured for a limited time by Hill & Shupp and is exhibited in their show windows from 7 to 10 every evening. The remarkable character of the painting does not reveal itself at first glance. A Parisian beauty pictured on the canvas in evening attire seems to undergo a gradual transformation as one gazes upon her. Her opera attire gives place to lingerie, the white roses she carries become red and the whole effect is one to excite wonder. Another picture has in fact succeeded the first, of which not a trace remains. And then if one looks long enough, the picture as first seen returns. There is absolutely no optical illusion to the effect, the result being merely the work of a great artist.

IN THE CHRISTIAN FIELD

There will a meeting of the official board of Grace M. E. Church this evening.

Rev. Francis E. Whiteside has resumed his studies at Drew Theological Seminary.

Rev. C. E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, who has just returned from his vacation, will occupy his pulpit next Sunday.

The Ladies Aid Society of Warren chapel will hold its first fall meeting at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Mrs. McKelvey will give a talk on her trip abroad.

The annual State convention of the New Jersey Christian Endeavor Society will be held at Orange in October. All of the local societies will be represented.

Comfortable quarters have been fitted up in the basement of the Mt. Olive Baptist church for the use of the primary department of the Sunday-school. The improvements in the main part of the church are gradually nearing completion.

A quilting party was held at Rescue Mission Tuesday afternoon and evening and was attended by a large number of the members of the congregation and friends. During the evening a part of the programme was for the men to complete the quilting left undone by the women in the afternoon. Refreshments were served.

QUIET WEDDING.

Kearney Girl Becomes Wife of New York Man, and Will Reside at South Plainfield.

Miss Ellen Lloyd, daughter of Peter Lloyd, of 37 Tappen street, Kearney, and Preston LaBau, formerly of this city, but now a New York architect, were married last evening at the parsonage of Christ church, Harrison, by Rev. J. J. Tilley, the pastor. The bridesmaid was Miss Bessie Lloyd, a sister of the bride, and the best man was Edward Green, of East Newark. The couple will take up their residence on the Drake farm at South Plainfield, recently purchased by Mr. and Mrs. John W. LaBau. The wedding was a quiet one on account of the recent death of the bride's mother.

a similar accident happened at Charles Hand's office in Watchung avenue. A very large tree was blown into Tier's pond and now occupies a prominent position in the centre of that body of water. Another tree was blown down and fell on Mrs. Sutton's house in Elm place and in front of Wm. Sebring's house in Duer street, a tree was uprooted.

At Bayonne the water stand pipe was blown down and in the tumble many electric wires were destroyed.

At Lincoln the chamois factory was damaged. The uppear story was partly blown in and the large sign of The Daily Press along the railroad destroyed.

While the storm was raging at its height Murray Hill and Berkeley Heights were troubled with mad dogs. Editor Bender's fine St. Bernard went mad, while two valuable dogs owned by Gus Dandelin at Berkeley Heights and one owned by Harry Young, of New Providence, went mad and they bit a number of other dogs, the owners of which have since tied them up.

Morton Hochburger, while walking along East Fifth street during the storm, narrowly escaped being seriously injured with falling limbs.

During the heavy rain storm yesterday Muhlenberg Hospital suffered to some extent. The old building leaked badly, water being driven into a number of the rooms as well as the wards.

The storm did much more damage to this city than was at first supposed. The trees in Plainfield and North Plainfield principally suffered. Huge limbs were blown off as though they were splinters and at the upper end of Somerset street the trolley cars were unable to go further than Codington avenue on account of trees blowing over and pulling down some of the trolley wires.

Reports from the country in back of the mountains are to the effect that the storm was felt there with unusual severity. Many barns were unroofed. On the farm of Phillip Kirch, it is reported that a cow was killed by a tree falling upon her. Crops were damaged to some extent, especially the corn still standing.

Street Commissioner Andrew J. Gavett says that it will take several days before the limbs can be gathered and carted away. Some of the city streets resemble the sights of the day after the great sleet storm of two years ago.

CLAIMS PART OF HARLEM

NEW BRUNSWICK WOMAN CHASING RAIN-BOW.

If She is Successful Mrs. Flavell Will be a Millionairess—Basis of Claim.

Mrs. A. M. H. Flavell, of New Brunswick, is one of the claimants to about two-thirds of Harlem, Borough of Manhattan, New York City. Mrs. Flavell's maiden name was Montayne, and it was a Montayne that originally settled on the disputed land as one of the 28 English patentees. But it is claimed that he was wrongfully dispossessed and the ownership of the land has descended to this day without good title.

A New York lawyer has taken up the matter and is collecting direct heirs of Montayne. There are about 1,600 already discovered with more to hear from. With the present number each would get about $1,500,000, for the estate is said to be worth something like two billions. The lawyer who has taken the matter up promises to carry the case through without a cent of cost to the heirs unless there is a successful termination. A meeting will be held in about two weeks by the heirs to decide upon what course to take.

Mrs. Flavell is an heiress to the Harlem property on her father's side. On her mother's side she has a claim on the Trinity Church property, New York City, which has also been the subject of much dispute as to ownership. If she can make good claims she will be heiress of most of Manhattan Island, for the Harlem claim begins near where the Trinity claim leaves off.

Newark Girl's Complaint.

Bert Randolph, of this city, was arrested this morning on a serious charge by a Newark detective. He was held in $500 bail by Justice Mosher to await trial in the First Criminal Court of Newark tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. James Walker furnished bail. All the parties to the case are colored.

Changes in Constitution.

The regular fall meeting of the Plainfield High School Athletic Association was called this morning and several changes in the constitution were approved.

HOME SEEKERS ARE BEING TURNED AWAY

Real Estate Brokers Unable to Meet Demand for Houses Here.

MOST ATTRACTIVE CITY

ELSTON M. FRENCH SAYS ITS THE FINEST EAST OF THE ROCKIES.

The Part a Wife Plays in Selecting a Place of Residence—Park a Much Needed—An Interview With Real Estate Operator.

Plainfield, the home of the tired New York business man, seeking recreation in the cooling suburban breezes, away from the din and excitement of the metropolis, is about to launch forth into a great season of real estate activity. Realty transactions are to be found on every hand and the real estate dealers have many schemes on foot to bring Plainfield before the eyes of New York business men who seek homes in the suburbs. This goes to show that while other cities seem content to continue in a dormant condition year after year, Plainfield, through its active real estate dealers, is on the jump for "new business."

Elston M. French, one of the leading real estate men in this city, said yesterday when interviewed regarding the growth of the city and the prospect of a busy season:

"There never was a time when the houses in Plainfield and North Plainfield were so well filled as at the present. Owing to the meagre supply to meet the great demand for homes of all descriptions, the real estate agents are turning home seekers away almost daily. Rents are going higher, and the old, run down properties are being repaired and put in tenable condition. There is today a better opportunity for investments which will net an income of from six to seven per cent. or more in the real estate market than there ever has been in the history of the city. I make this statement notwithstanding the comparatively high price of building materials. All kinds of houses are in demand, and the home-builder will net a gross income on his investment of from ten to twelve per cent. When the present leases on the properties expire I predict that the owners will demand increased rentals.

"This town is so situated between New York and Philadephia, with such fine train service, that it is bound to grow much more rapidly in the next ten years than it has in the past ten. The fact that many of the Central Railroad's prominent officials, such as General Manager W. G. Besler and General Passenger Agent M. C. Burt, are among our residents has already mitigated in our favor. Today the Today the railroad is giving us better local passenger service than any road in the country.

"I have been in almost every city of importance this side of the Rocky Mountains, and know of no more attractive place of residence, when everything is considered, than this one. The home and surroundings are uniformally well kept and attractive. New comers invariably remark this fact. The Women's Town Improvement Association has been of great service in this regard, but could do much more by keeping the matter before the people.

"Women are the greatest builders of suburban towns, and they can do more towards booming this city by speaking well of it to their out of-town friends than all the men put together. It is a fact that in selecting a home the husband defers to the opinion of his wife and unless his wife is attracted to this city and is willing and anxious to settle here, it is useless for the husband to propose such a scheme. If the women of this city want to make it more prosperous, they have the matter largely in their own hands.

"In western cities particularly, all residents are boomers. They have nothing derogatory to say of their own city, but on the other hand are continually sounding its praises. Some people in this city who are discontented for any reason, are inclined to blame all their woes to the fact that they live here, forgetting that this is not only the queen city of New Jersey, but the most healthful in the State, and one of the best governed."

"Do you think a city park is necessary to the growels of a community?" asked the interviewer.

"All admit that a city park aids much in developing a city," he said, "and one is very much needed. Every year's delay increases the cost of acquiring the land, and there is no time like the present to bring this to a conclusion."

WEDDING TALE A JOKE EXPLAINS MISS KANE

Young Woman, the Cause of Domestic Unhappiness, Exonerates Gordon.

THE CHARGE DROPPED

MISS MAMIE KANE SPREAD FALSE REPORT OF WEDDING.

Robert Gordon's Wife Swore Out a Warrant for His Arrest—Alleged Bride Hurried With Denial—Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Re-United.

"It was all done for a joke," was the statement of Miss Mamie Kane, of 312 Plainfield avenue, this city, in explanation of the rumor circulated a week ago that she was married to Robert Gordon, of Westfield. It was on the strength of this rumor that Gordon's lawful wife at Westfield preferred a charge of bgiamy against her husband.

Miss Kane told Recorder Toucey, of Westfield, that she had circulated the rumor herself and had had the report of the marriage published. She said that she had been intimate with Gordon for more than a year and that Mrs. Gordon had attempted at various times to break off the relationship. She had not intended any harm, merely a joke, she said. In the published story it was stated that Gordon and Miss Kane were married by Father Gassmeyer, of St. Michael's Parish, Jersey City, but Judge Toucey found upon inquiry that no such priest and no such parish existed.

Gordon was brought before Recorder Toucey for examination yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The case was dismissed, Mrs. Gordon having become satisfied that no marriage had taken place, as indicated by her husband's statement and Miss Kane's as given above. Miss Kane did not appear in court. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon departed for their home at 142 North avenue, Westfield, after the examination and to all appearances peace and quiet now reign. The wife was represented, in her prosecution of the case, by her brother, Detective Gary, of the second precinct of Newark, who has noticed the newspaper reports of Gordon's marriage to Miss Kane, and who promptly investigated.

RECEPTION TO THEIR PASTOR

ORGANIZATION IN FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH HONOR REV. C. E. HERRING.

Under Auspices of Ladies' Aid Society a Musicale Programme is Rendered—The Committee.

The Ladies' Aid Society, of the First Presbyterian Church, tendered a reception to the pastor, Rev. C. E. Herring, last evening. It was the first social at the church since the return of the pastor from his summer vacation spent in the Western states.

The Euterpia Quartette, consisting of Elmer Cutting and E. Maxwell Honeyman, tenors, and Wilson Derby and Sidney Titsworth, bass, rendered several popular selections, and Martin A. Korff performed acceptably on the violin. Clifford Braider was accompanist. Miss Ada Dunham sang, accompanied by Miss Remsen, and Wilson Derby gave a solo. The church was attractively decorated with autumn flowers.

Mrs. A. E. Hoagland had charge of the arrangements for the reception, and she was assisted in her labors as chairman of the committee by Mrs. Charlotte Ross, Mrs. Russell Bond, Mrs. Harry Williams and Miss Bessie DeForest.

Got Full Amount.

In the contract case of Squires against Ivamy in Justice Nash's court, yesterday afternoon, judgment was awarded the plaintiff for full amount and costs. A jury had been empanelled, but was dismissed at the last moment at request of counsel. G. W. V. Moy represented the plaintiff and William G. DeMesa the defendant.

Roasts the Mayor.

The Newark Evening News says: "Mayor Newton B. Smalley, of North Plainfield, criticises the Republicans of Plainfield because they talk too much. It is peculiar how the faults of an individual always make that person see distinctly the same fault in others."

Child Dead.

Blanche Terry, the three-year-old daughter of Winfield Scott and Elizabeth Terry, of Fanwood township, died yesterday morning.

AGED CHARACTER COMMITS SUICIDE

John Hickory, of Westfield, Hanged Himself in Richard Carpenter's Barn.

LIQUOR HIS DOWNFALL

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS OLD MAN, WHO SPENT HIS MONEY ON RUM.

Case Reported to Police—Undertaker in Charge of Body—The Second Man to Kill Himself in Barn.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, Sept. 18—John Hickory, one of the best known characters in this vicinity, committed suicide about 6 o'clock last night in the barn of Richard Carpenter. A long rope was used and the old man strangled himself to death quickly and effectually. The lifeless body was discovered by some neighbors.

Hickory was 75 years old, and had lived in Westfield many years. His wife died about a year ago and since then he has had no home. He was a laborer, but seldom worked. As soon as he would get a few pennies the money would be spent quickly for liquor. It was seldom that Hickory was sober, yet it is claimed that when he was seen a short time before he took his life, he was in his right senses. The case was reported to the police and Undertaker Connolly has taken charge of the body. It will be buried under the direction of the overseer of the poor. So far as known Hickory left no relatives.

This is the second man to commit suicide in Mr. Carpenter's barn, the first one being last June, when James Reilly, of this place, went there and took a quantity of Paris green, dying very soon afterwards.

MAYOR BILL SMITH'S MISHAP

CRUISING ALONG FRONT STREET HIS GOOD SHIP BECOMES FAST.

He and His Crew Waited for High Tide and Then Cruiser Floated Off the Rocks.

"Mayor" William Smith was in town yesterday with his auto. The trolley company was made aware of the fact as were the people residing in the vicinity of Rock avenue and West Front street, by the stalling of eight cars and the general disturbing of the peace for almost an hour.

History states that he drove down West Front street at a fast clip until he struck Rock avenue, when he suddenly stuck fast in the mud in the driving rain. He put on "full steam ahead" and called to the stoker to crowd on full sail, but the great coaster still stuck fast. Trolley workmen had been engaged in tearing up the tracks at that point and soft mud was, in that spot, in profusion.

People residing in that locality say they heard loud noises in the street. Upon going to their front doors they heard strange sounds coming from the interior of a big red machine in the middle of the street. "Shiver me timbers, mate, 'tis indeed a nor'easter fresh from the banks, en were hard en fast on a hidden reef." "Pipe all hands on deck, and splice the main brace." (The main brace was accordingly spliced in a near by store.) "Shake out the baby baloon jibe and sew up the hatches." "All hands man the pumps" and other nautical terms, led the people to believe that there was about to be a yacht race for international honors. "Mayor" Smith was of a different opinion, however, when a call from over the starboard rail announced the arrival of succor. A trolley car crew volunteered to throw a line to the disabled cruiser but "Captain" Smith stood on the bridge, and, with a look of scorn repeated the words of his forefathers, "We'er all right and don't need to be tow'ed into port" and, turning to his crew, repeated Nelson's famous command, "Don't give up the ship boys."

People watching the disabled cruiser on the rocks relate that Smith and his crew waited for high tide and then floated off the rocks, and with "main sheet reefed," and "bow-sprit set on the port tack," started back for New Market as unconcerned as though he had won the America's cup.

BOYS IN SERIOUS COLLISION

REGINALD FAWCETT MAY HAVE CONCUSSION OF BRAIN.

Walter Scott and Laurence Meade Ran Into Him—Narrow Escape From Death.

In an effort to pass in front of a trolley car this noon, at the corner of Front and Grove streets, Reginald Fawcett, son of Hugh Fawcett, of 105 Rockview avenue, was knocked down and severely injured by Walter Scott, Jr., son of Walter Scott, of the Scott Printing Press Company, and Laurence Mead.

They were rendered unconscious by the collision and young Fawcett was taken to his home in an ambulance. Young Scott was also taken home where Dr. J. B. Probasco examined the wounds. Young Scott was injured the least of the two. His injuries consist of severe sprains of the limbs and other body contusions.

Fawcett's injuries consist of a severe blow on the top of the head where young Scott, who was on a bicycle, collided with him. He is believed to have concussion of the brain. Inquiry at his house this afternoon at 2 o'clock elicited the information that the injured boy was regaining consciousness at that time.

That both Scott and Fawcett were not instantly killed by being run over by the car is due to the presence of mind of the motorman, whose name is said to be Maguire. When both boys fell in front of his car he reversed the power and brought it to a sudden stop.

MRS. TOMLINSON'S ADDRESS

COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT OF W. C. T. U. SPEAKS BEFORE LOCAL UNION.

Told of the National Body's Work—N. Y. State Union Still in Office.

A meeting of unusual interest was held in the W. C. T. U. rooms yesterday afternoon, under the auspices of the Union. Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, County superintendent, was in charge and she gave a helpful talk on the subject "Picking up the Fragments." She told much of what is being done by the National body, and especially of the work of Mrs. Hunt, who has charge of the scientific instruction in the public schools. Mrs. Tomlinson also stated that the report to the effect that the president of the New York State Union had resigned her position to get out of temperance work, was untrue. She still retains her interest in the work.

MYSTERY SURROUNDS FAMILY POISONING

Board of Health Unable to Find Any Cause for Illness of Harold Serrell's Family.

MILK SUPPLY TESTED

WATER AND THE COOKING UTENSILS SUBJECTED TO EXAMINATION.

Mystery still envelopes the poisoning of the family of Harold Serrell, and although the Board of Health of North Plainfield and Dr. John T. Fritts, are still investigating they have so far arrived at no conclusion as to what could have been the cause of the family's illness. A remarkable thing about the case is that Miss Florence Serrell partook of everything of which the rest of the family ate but was the only one in the household who was not taken ill. The poison victims are still confined to their beds.

Dr. William E. Honeyman, the secretary of the Board of Health, said this morning, that no canned goods were eaten during the evening meal. The milk supply has been carefully examined and the milkman who supplied the family was questioned and his farm inspected. The water was subjected to tests as were the cooking utensils. It was thought that possibly a new pan might have been used for the first time and a trace of acid could be discovered. All the pans used in the preparation of the meal have been used before.

It had been overlooked by all that spinach was indulged in by the family at supper time. What was left of the greens was thrown away after the meal. Some of this was recovered and will be subjected to a test. It is thought that some poisonous weed may have gotten in the spinach and poisoned the entire dish of greens.

CHIEF SAW HORSES IN AIR

T. O. DOANE WITNESSED WONDERFUL SIGHTS DURING STORM.

Returning From Firemen's Convention He Tells How Atlantic City Was Wrecked.

Chief T. O. Doane, of the fire department, returned from his vacation at Atlantic City last night. He reports a delightful trip, and tells most interesting tales of the storm and its effects in Atlantic City, which was probably the worst faring of any of the resorts along the Jersey coast. The storm broke several hours earlier in Atlantic City than here and was on in full blast by 6 in the morning with its fury spent three hours later. The Chief himself saw a heavy wagon and team of horses blown into the air and turned completely upside down and viewed the wrecks of numerous buildings.

The Chief said that the 31st convention of the International Association of Fire Engineers was the most successful he had ever attended. Representatives were present from all over the United States and Canada. The Exempt Firemen's Association convention was also extremely successful and marked by the presentation of a handsome dinner set to Bird W. Spencer who had begun his twenty-fifth term at the head of the organization. The next convention of the International Association of Fire Engineers will be held next year in Chattanooga.

BOROUGH FUGITIVE RECAPTURED HERE

Patrolman Higgins Takes Harry Hayes Into Custody in Spooner Ave. House.

ESCAPED FROM JAIL

HAYES, A MEMBER OF PARTY, WHICH BROKE FROM SOMERSET'S JAIL.

Taken Back to Somerville—No Effort Had Been Made by Somerset's Authorities to Effect a Capture.

Harry Hayes, of North Plainfield, who broke out of the Somerset County jail at Somerville with two others July 11 last, was recaptured at about 8 o'clock last night by Patrolman Higgins of the Plainfield force. Hayes was taken in a house on Spooner avenue where he was visiting friends. He did not resist arrest.

The information as to Hayes' whereabouts was supplied by one of his acquaintances who had seen Hayes about town and who notified the police, Sergeant Frederickson immediately sending out Higgins to get him. This is the third time that Hayes has been seen in the vicinity of this city and the borough since his escape and at no time have the authorities of the Somerset jail made any effort at his recapture.

Hayes was asked by the police last night how he managed to break jail and replied that he simply found the doors open and walked out. He said assistance had been received from outside. As to Henry Watson, who escaped at the same time, Hayes at first refused to talk, but finally admitted that if he so desired he might be able to put the police on his track. Watson, it will be remembered, was arrested by Detective James Totten on a charge of criminal conduct preferred by his sister, and was awaiting trial before the Grand Jury at the time he made his escape. He was the father of little Theresa Watson, who was shot last May by her ten-year-old playmate, Willie James, in an attempt on the boy's part to imitate the deeds of dime novel desperadoes.

Hayes, when he escaped, was awaiting trial for stealing chickens in North Plainfield. He was turned over to Chief Marshal William B. Campbell, of the borough police, last night, and this morning Chief Campbell took him back to the county jail at Somerville. The third prisoner who broke jail, Daniel Cobb, serving a short sentence for disorderly conduct, has not been heard of since his escape.

CLAIMS ADJUSTED.

Insurance Companies Settle for the Damage Done in Somerset Street Fire.

Insurance adjustments were effected in three of the stores damaged by fire Tuesday evening on Somerset street. The company in which Nicholas Martone, the fruit dealer, in whose store of the fire broke out, has not settled so far, and it is alleged that the reason is because the value of the stock damaged is rated too high.

Frank Hand, the blacksmith, settled with the German Insurance Company for $65, although he claims his loss was $500. Herman Keller, who was insured in Union Insurance Company, settled for $75 and Adolphus Emery, who was insured in the Western Insurance Company, received $25, the full amount of his damages. All the companies are represented in this city by Henry Leifke. The insurance on the building has not been adjusted.

Work of Mother and Daughter.

Among the items of current talk on books and authors is the promise of a new book by Mrs. Laura E. Richards, to be brought this fall by Brown, Little & Co. It is to be entitled "The Golden Windows" and is a collection of fables. The design and decoration of the cover is drawn by Miss Julia Ward Richards, the daughter of the author and grand-daughter of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, of Boston. Mrs. Richards is a sister of Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, of Madison avenue.

Got First Tax Receipt.

Frank W. Miles is the first man in the borough to pay Collector George F. Brown his taxes for 1903. The property includes several building lots on Johnston's drive, near Somerset street.

The Somerset County Board of Elections will be in session on Saturday for the purpose of registering voters for the special election to be held on Sept. 22.

EFFORT BEING MADE TO BUILD UP CHURCH

Congregation of German Reformed Church, in Borough, Saddled With Debt.

REPAIRS MUCH NEEDED

PASTOR STRUGGLING TO PLACE THE CHURCH ON FLOURISHING BASIS.

Mission of the Reformed Church in America—German Langugo Used—A Church Fair Its Means of Assistance.

An heroic effort is being made by the members of the German Reformed Church at the corner of Duer street and Craig place to release the church from debt. Saddled with an indebtedness of $3,000 the congregation has found it a hard matter to keep up the payment of interest on the mortgage and as a consequence the interior of the church is in great need of repairs. It is planned to renovate the church and put it in first-class condition.

A fair is to be held next week, beginning Tuesday, September 22, the proceeds of which will be used to defray the expenses of the repairs. The committee in charge of the affair is the Consistory, which includes John Schorb, Sr., Phillip Bach, Joseph Angerbauer, Christian Debele and Fred Endress, assisted by Mrs. Angerbauer, Mrs. Bach, Mrs. Schorb and Mrs. Jacob Blimm, representing the Ladies' Aid Society.

The church has been enlarging the scope of its work since the present pastor, Rev. John Justin, took charge. He was appointed to the charge by the Board of Domestic Missions of the Reformed Church in America to ascertain what could be done with the little mission church in the way of placing it upon its feet again. Much more interest has been taken in the church work there since he has been in charge and the working forces of the congregation have been brought together. When it has been placed on the right road to prosperity an ordained pastor will probably be called.

There is need of a German church in this vicinity where there are so many people who speak the German language. There are two German speaking churches at present. The German Reformed Church represents a large class who would otherwise not go to church because they are unable to benefit from a sermon preached in the English language which they do not fully comprehend. It is believed that when the church once gets on its feet it will be the means of doing much good in the borough and city.

ON ANTIETAM FIELD

New Jersey Dedicates Monument to Fallen Brave.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S ADDRESS

A Glowing Tribute Paid to the Men of 1861—Same Qualities Which They Possessed Needed Today in Civil Life.

SHARPSBURG, Md., Sept. 18.—The visit of President Roosevelt and his party, with Governor Murphy and other New Jersey state officers, was an unpleasant one so far as the weather was concerned. The president came to receive, in behalf of the federal government, a monument which has been erected on the battlefield of Antietam by New Jersey in memory of the men who represented the state in that battle.

A terrific storm broke over the battlefield of Antietam just as the president began to speak, and Mr. Roosevelt was drenched before he finished his address.

The president and Governor Murphy were met at the station by New Jersey G. A. R. veterans, who came here on an earlier train 600 strong. Besides the veterans from New Jersey many old soldiers from nearby places turned out, and it was estimated that there were 1,500 or 2,000 men who took part in the civil war, many of them in the battle of Antietam, on the field.

The exercises connected with the unveiling took place at noon. The veterans rallied at the old Dunkard church and formed there in four columns. The president, with Governor Murphy and the governor's staff, headed the line, which marched to the battlefield. The Rev. Dr. Fraser of Newark offered prayer, and James O. Smith read a report in behalf of the commissioners who have had charge of the erection of the monument. Governor Murphy accepted the monument in behalf of New Jersey, and the president received it for the federal government. A national hymn was sung, and the exercises were concluded with the benediction by the Rev. William H. McCormack. After that the president and the other visitors made a tour of the battlefield.

GOVERNOR MURPHY.

The monument is a Corinthian column of granite, forty-four feet high, surmounted by the figure of a soldier.

In his address at the dedication ceremony on the battlefield the president spoke in part as follows:

I thank you of New Jersey for the monument to the troops of New Jersey who fought at Antietam, and on behalf of the nation I accept the gift. We meet today upon one of the great battle fields of the civil war. No other battle of the civil war lasting but one day shows as great a percentage of loss as that which occurred here upon the day on which Antietam was fought. Moreover, in its ultimate effects this battle was of momentous and even decisive importance, for when it had ended and Lee had retreated south of the Potomac Lincoln forthwith published that immortal paper, the preliminary declaration of emancipation, the paper which decided that the civil war, besides being a war for the preservation of the Union, should be a war for the emancipation of the slave, so that from that time onward the causes of union and of freedom, of national greatness and individual liberty, were one and the same.

Men of New Jersey, I congratulate your state because she has the right to claim her full share in the honor and glory of that memorable day, and I congratulate you, Governor Murphy, because on that day you had the high good fortune to serve as a lad with credit and honor in one of the five regiments which your state sent to the battle. Four of those regiments, by the way, served in the division commanded by that gallant soldier, Henry W. Slocum, whom we of New York can claim as our own. The other regiment, that in which Governor Murphy served, although practically an entirely new regiment, did work as good as that of any veteran organization upon the field and suffered a proportional loss.

If the issue of Antietam had been other than it was it is probable that at least two great European powers would have recognized the independence of the Confederacy, so that you who fought here forty-one years ago have the profound satisfaction of feeling that you played well your part in one of those crises big with the fate of all mankind. You men of the Grand Army by your victory not only rendered all Americans your debtors forevermore, but you rendered all humanity your debtors. If the Union had been dissolved, if the great edifice built with blood and sweat and tears by mighty Washington and his compeers had gone down in wreck and ruin, the result would have been an incalculable calamity not only for our people—and most of all for those who in such event would have seemingly triumphed—but for all mankind.

The great American republic would have become a memory of derision, and the failure of the experiment of self government by a great people on a great scale would have delighted the heart of every foe of republican institutions. Our country, now so great and so wonderful, would have been split into little jangling rival nationalities, each with a history both bloody and contemptible. It was because you, the men who wear the button of the Grand Army, triumphed in those dark years that every American now holds his head high, proud in the knowledge that he belongs to a nation whose glorious past and great present will be succeeded by an even mightier future.

I confidently predict that when the final judgment of history is recorded it will be said that in no other war of which we have written record was it more vitally essential for the welfare of mankind that victory should rest where it finally rested. There have been other wars for individual freedom; there have been other wars for national greatness, but there has never been another war in which the issues at stake were so large, looked at from either standpoint.

It now rests with us in civil life to make good by our deeds the deeds which you who wore the blue did in the great years from 1861 to 1865. The patriotism, the courage, the unflinching resolution and steadfast endurance of the soldiers whose triumph was crowned at Appomattox, must be supplemented on our part by civic courage, civic honesty, cool sanity and steadfast adherence to the immutable laws of righteousness.

There was no patent device for securing victory by force of arms forty years ago, and there is no patent device for securing victory for the forces of righteousness in civil life now. In each case the all important factor was and is the character of the individual man. Good laws in the state, like a good organization in an army, are the expressions of national character. Leaders will be developed in military and in civil life alike and weapons and tactics change from generation to generation as methods of achieving good government change in civic affairs, but the fundamental qualities which make for good citizenship do not change any more than the fundamental qualities which make good soldiers.

In the long run in the civil war the thing that counted for more than aught else was the fact that the average American had the fighting edge; had within him the spirit which spurred him on through toil and danger, fatigue and hardship, to the goal of the splendid ultimate triumph. So in achieving good government the fundamental factor must be the character of the average citizen; that average citizen's power of hatred for what is mean and base and unlovely; his fearless scorn of cowardice and his determination to war unyieldingly against the dark and sordid forces of evil.

The qualities essential to good citizenship and to good public service now are in all their essentials exactly the same as in the days when the first congresses met to provide for the establishment of the Union; as in the days, seventy years later, when the congresses met which had to provide for its salvation.

There are many qualities which we need alike in private citizen and in public man, but three above all—three for the lack of which no brilliancy and no genius can atone—and those three are courage, honesty and common sense.

The president on his trip down made two short speeches, one at Chambersburg, Pa., and the other at Hagerstown, Md.

During the afternoon the rain ceased and the sun came out brilliantly. The president, together with Governor Murphy, Senators Kean and Dryden and accompanied by General Carmen, who commanded the Thirteenth New Jersey volunteers in the battle, entered a carriage and drove to various points of interest on the historic field. General Carmen gave the president a vivid description of the battle, indicating every point of interest and importance. The president alighted at Burnside bridge, where some desperate fighting occurred; at "Bloody lane," a scene of frightful carnage; at the beautiful National cemetery in the center of which stands the colossal granite statue of an American soldier keeping silent guard over the dead lying buried there, and at the quaint little Lutheran memorial church.

During the drive, which occupied about two hours and a half, a singular fact was developed by the discussion of the battle. It was that throughout the ceremonies of the day, actively participated in entirely by citizens of New Jersey, with the exception of the president, the name of the commander of the Union troops in the great engagement, General George B. McClellan, a citizen and afterward a governor of the state of New Jersey, was not mentioned once. Governor Murphy himself recalled this curious although quite unintentional lapse and was concerned deeply about the matter, lest the omission might be misconstrued.

In conversation with the president about General McClellan the governor recalled the fact that he now lies buried in the city of Trenton, N. J., and that a member of McClellan's staff is one of his most intimate friends. He warmly eulogized McClellan as one of the great commanders of the war and as a governor of which New Jersey had reason to be proud.

Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 18, 1903.

The Daily Press has a higher circulation rating than is accorded to any other paper in Plainfield.—Printers' Ink.

City was torn by a gale on Wednesday. Another is said to be due here on election day.

Mayor Low cracked a joke at the Associated Press banquet. Wonders will never cease.

Pope Pius X has been likened unto Lincoln. It is a great tribute to the College of Cardinals, which is responsible for the elevation of the Patriarch of Venice.

J. George Frederick says, an advertisement is only good when it sells something. It is not whether it is a good-looking ad. or a well-reading ad.; it is not that the sentence has an original turn, but whether the right end of the sentence is turned toward the public.—Condensed from Judicious Advertising.

A Jersey City woman says she braved Wednesday's storm without rubbers and that her feet were kept "dry as a tinder" by faith. If she can keep her house warm this winter with the same prescription, it is safe to say that her husband will not object to her attending faith curists' meetings seven nights in the week.

It is suggested that an example set by Atlantic City be followed whenever a storm similar to that of Wednesday makes its appearance. When the high winds were sweeping through the seashore city, all danger from fallen electrically charged wires was removed. The electric light company had taken precaution to shut off the current the minute the storm commenced. Consequently there were no injuries reported, though the wires were scattered about the thoroughfares. Had this been done in Plainfield, one life would have been saved. It is well to remember this fact in the future.

President Roosevelt's address at the unveiling of the New Jersey monument on the Antietam battlefield yesterday is typical of the man. His remarks on the duties of citizenship were truisms well worth a reflection, particularly his utterance: "The patriotism, the courage, the unflinching resolution and steadfast endurance of the soldiers whose triumph was crowned at Appomattox must be supplemented on our part by civic courage, civic honesty, cool sanity and steadfast adherence to the immutable laws of righteousness." It may be that he had in mind the present condition of affairs in New York when speaking, but his statement applies equally well to all parts of the country.

The Newark minister who likened the average Christian voter to a balky horse standing in the way had some excuse for his contention that the better class of citizens stand and kick against vice but do nothing to correct political abuse. It is a fact that corruption would be largely minimized if the Christian voter would only perform his duty. Band together, attend the primary, and work with a mighty will for the nomination of fit men. Put some life in the campaign and take off your coat and get down to hard work on election day. That's the way the practical politician does the trick, except he uses the long green when needed but this feature would be largely eliminated if the Christian politician kept careful watch.

Democrats in Conference.

The Democratic County Committee will meet tonight to discuss plans for the coming campaign.

AMONG MEN IN THE SHOPS

SEEN AND HEARD IN PLAINFIELD'S INDUSTRIAL PLANTS.

While pouring hot metal yesterday afternoon a colored laborer at the Pond Machine Tool Company's foundry was badly burned about the right foot. The injured man was sent home in a cab.

Two large printing presses hve been shipped from the Walter Scott Company's works to Texas. One of the machines is a four-decker. This press was built especially for a large newspaper firm in Dallas, Texas. The other machine is a three-decker and was shipped to a publishing house in Forthsworth, Texas. The four-decker prints 100,000 papers an hour. Ninety per cent. of the printing presses in that Lone Star State have been built by the Walter Scott Company.

Letters are being sent to all lodges of the International Association of Machinists by President James O'Connell, directing them to be very cautious about ordering strikes. President O'Connell says that there are more than 100 strikes in progress among the machinists, and that the troubles during the past year have proved a heavy drain on the International treasury, which is now practically empty. For this reason he urges caution, and says that additional trouble might swamp the treasury.

President Frank Buchanan, of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' International Association, was put through a severe cross-examination with regard to his action in revoking the charter of the New York local, yesterday. The matter was finally left to the convention which is to be held in Kansas City, next Monday, to be settled, and the seven Chicago delegates were instructed that in case Buchanan proved he had acted legally in revoking the charter of the New York union they were to vote to exclude the New York delegates, but if Buchanan is unable to prove his case the Chicago delegates will side against him.

The Genuine vs. Counterfeits.

The genuine is always better than a counterfeit, but the truth of this statement is never more forcibly realized or more thoroughly appreciated than when you compare the genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve with the many counterfeits and worthless substitutes that are on the market. W. S. Ledbetter, of Shreveport, La., says: "After using numerous other remedies without benefit, one box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me." For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles no remedy is equal to DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Sold by L. W. Randolph.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Mrs. Katie Gearty and family and Mrs. Gerty Carroll, who have been boarding at Mrs. Mary N. Pyatt's, on Clinton avenue, during the summer, have returned to their homes in New York City.

A large force of men worked all night repairing the damage done to the furnace of the water company's plant by the storm of Wednesday.

William D. Clawson, of Clinton avenue, is attending court at New Brunswick as a petit juryman from Piscataway Township.

Miss Susie Boylen has returned from an extended visit in Massachusetts and is spending the week with her aunt, Mrs. Ayers.

The smokestack on the pumping station blew down in Wednesday's gale, doing considerable damage to the station.

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society, of the Baptist Church, was held at the parsonage yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Labaw's new house on Clinton avenue is nearing completion and will be ready to occupy in about a month.

No meeting of the P. O. S. of A. was held last night on account of the stormy weather.

The Genuine vs. Counterfeits.

The genuine is always better than a counterfeit, but the truth of this statement is never more forcibly realized or more thoroughly appreciated than when you compare the genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve with the many counterfeits and worthless substitutes that are on the market. W. S. Ledbetter, of Shreveport, La., says: "After using numerous other remedies without benefit, one box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me." For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles no remedy is equal to DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Sold by L. W. Randolph.

—Gavett is pushing his Vulcan gas logs and also his Baokus heaters, gas and steam combined. He claims it is the time now to put this kind of work in.

—Lewis Bird, of Duer street, is taking the place of John B. Judson as clerk in W. W. Dunn's store, Lincoln place, while Judson is away on his wedding tour.

—"While man may sow and Providence send the increase," remarks the Hunterdon County Democrat, "it is well to remember that Providence works with a good deal of equity and the lazy and shiftless man usually gets what he is entitled to and no more."

An Ideal Location
Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

FOR INFORMATION concerning lots in these beautiful Park Cemeteries, and FREE transportation to prospective lot buyers, apply at once to any LEADING UNDERTAKER or offices of the Associations:

CHINAMEN MOBBED.

One Killed and Others Badly Beaten at Tonopah, Nev.

EIGHTEEN ARRESTS FOLLOW ATTACK

Citizens Meet and Pass Resolutions Condemning Action of the Mob, Which Was Composed Largely of Cooks and Waiters.

TONOPAH, Nev., Sept. 18.—A mob of twelve or fifteen men invaded Chinatown, at this place, and at the point of guns compelled a number of Chinamen to leave town at once. Several who did not comply were badly beaten, dragged to the outskirts of the town and told to take the road to Sodaville. Later on all but one returned to town and notified the officers. They stated that Ping Lung, a seventy-three-year-old man and the proprietor of a washhouse, was one of the victims, and they believed he had perished on the road. Searching parties were sent out later, and they found his horribly mutilated body three miles west of town.

The Chinamen were also robbed of several hundred dollars before being run out of town. Eighteen men, mostly cooks and waiters, have been arrested and are now in jail. Among the number is F. M. Arandall, president of a labor union.

A meeting of the citizens of Tonopah has been held at which 1,000 or more persons were present, and a committee was appointed to adopt resolutions denunciatory of the action of the mob.

The following was adopted as the sentiment of the meeting and residents of the district: "Resolved, That the citizens of Tonopah view with horror and denounce in unmeasured terms the outrages which, according to the present evidence, have been committed; that the citizens of Tonopah regard this act as not alone an atrocious violation of the law, but also a heinous crime against inoffensive people and against society and civilizaton; that the people of Tonopah will support the officers of the law in all possible ways in their effort to bring the criminals to justice."

The Miller Case Again.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—The case of W. A. Miller, the assistant foreman in the bindery of the government printing office, who was removed from his position because he had been expelled from the local bookbinders' union and who afterward was reinstated at the direction of President Roosevelt, has been taken up by the Central Labor union of this city. That body has sent to each of the central labor unions in the United States, representing the entire number of organizations affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, a resolution adopted by the Central Labor union of this city calling attention to the Miller case, declaring that the order of the president cannot be regarded in any but an unfriendly light and urging organized labor to petition the president to modify his order "of discrimination and to order W. A. Miller's dismissal from the government service to promote the efficiency of that service."

A Long Chase Ended.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 18.—Detectives McAnamy and McGuire have arrived here with Carey Snyder, whom they had arrested in a small town near Billings, Mont., more than a week ago. The return of Snyder was not made without a series of dramatic incidents, and his imprisonment in Kansas City now ends the chase that was commenced in May of last year and extended over a great part of the United States. Snyder is charged with holding up and robbing O. H. Stevens and his wife on the night of May 1, when, it is alleged, he secured diamonds and other jewels valued at about $6,500. Charles E. Farrow, now a prisoner in the county jail, is said to have confessed to the police that he was one of the robbers and implicated Snyder as the other.

Storm's Damage Great.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—The full extent of the loss of life and property in Wednesday's fierce storm is only just being realized as reports are received from different districts showing the havoc of the gale. It is now believed that at least twenty lives were lost in accidents on land and along the coast. The property loss can be estimated only vaguely, but it is thought that it will reach $1,000,000. Stories of narrow escapes from death are told from all quarters, and incoming vessels had harrowing narratives to relate about battles with the hurricane.

Many Vessels Need Repairs.

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 18.—Hampton Roads is rapidly filling with sailing vessels which are putting in for repairs. Nearly all of the vessels are reported to be coal carriers which met the storm while coming down the coast. An examination of the hold of the Princess Anne, which was in the hurricane, disclosed that the cargo had suffered but little, considering the fact that she ship was tossed about by the storm for eight hours. All the passengers who were hurt by being thrown about are reported as doing nicely.

Steel Works In Frisco Burned.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18.—Fire has destroyed the steel works of Francis Smith & Co., located on Townsend avenue, entailing a loss exceeding $60,000.

South Dakota Corn Nipped.

CANTON, S. D., Sept. 18.—A very severe and destructive frost has visited this region, doing much damage to the corn crop.

Weather Probabilities.

Fair and cool; fresh to brisk northwest winds.

WILL LEAVE SHAMROCKS HERE

Lipton's Disposition of the American's Cup Challengers.

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—Sir Thomas Lipton has decided to leave the three Shamrocks on this side of the ocean.

According to Captain R. V. Webster, Sir Thomas since coming to Chicago has made up his mind what he wants to do with his racers.

"All of them—Shamrocks I., II. and III.—will be kept on this side of the ocean," said Captain Webster. "Sir Thomas is looking for bidders for Shamrocks I. and III., the first and last racers he brought over here to lift the cup. Shamrock II. is his favorite. He wants to keep her, for he feels that she made the best showing of all his racers. He has a tender spot in his heart for the way she pushed the Columbia in every race two years ago. The Erin will go home by way of the Azores, but the yachts will be kept here indefinitely."

Good Racing at Readville.

READVILLE, Mass., Sept. 18.—A southwest gale swept down the stretch at the Readville track, and, while it prevented Dan Patch from attempting to break his record, it did not hinder some excellent racing in the regular events, especially the 2:08 pace. In this race Nervolo was the favorite, although many backed Locanda when it was found that the son of Allerton was to be driven by James Golden. Locanda won the first two heats in close finishes, the half in the second heat being paced in 1:01. The third proved to be the turning point in the race. Hudson, who was driving Nervolo, took his horse directly in the rear of Locando's sulky, thus making the latter a wind shield. The two kept in this order until within a sixteenth of a mile of the finish, when Nervolo came out and, being stronger, won the heat by a yard. The next heat was also well fought, but Nervolo still had the speed and not only won that one, but the next and the race.

Handvice Wins Easily.

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—Only three of the six starters finished in the Emerald steeple chase over the short course, which was the feature of the Hawthorne card. Handvice, at 7 to 2, proved an easy winner, pulled to a walk, with six lengths to spare over Falella, at 9 to 2. Indian II. was third, fifteen lengths back. Slap Dash and Moranda fell. Joe McGee broke down badly and was pulled up. In the fall of Slap Dash Jockey Morrison was painfully hurt.

Gravesend Results.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Mud runners were again in demand at Gravesend. The big fields were greatly reduced by scratches, owners not caring to risk their charges in the mud. The Parkville handicap, for three-year-olds, was won by the favorite, Shotgun, who led from start to finish. Daisy Green, at 8 to 1, took the Speculation stakes by a head from the favorite, Rostand.

Belmont's Colt Won.

BUFFALO, Sept. 18.—Dick Turpin, August Belmont's Henry of Navarre colt, won the Quickstep selling stakes, for two-year-olds, at six furlongs, at Kenilworth. Jule Garson ran the winner up from $2,500 to $5,000, at which price Trainer Frank Regan bought the winner in. Rain made the track slow.

Racing at Delmar Park.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 18.—The weather was chilly and track heavy at Delmar. Miss Mae Ray, at even money, won the September stakes, with Jordan second. It was a great race between the two horses.

Lipton's Condition Satisfactory.

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—The physicians report that the condition of Sir Thomas Lipton is entirely satisfactory. The crisis is expected within the next twenty-four hours. If no evil symptoms develop within that time his speedy recovery is said to be certain.

Senator Scott Out of Danger.

DENVER, Sept. 18.—United States Senator Nathan B. Scott of West Virginia, who has been seriously ill with illeocolitis at the Brown Palace hotel in this city, is now pronounced out of danger by the attending physicians.

CHAMBERLAIN QUITS

Three Members of the British Cabinet Resign.

KING ACCEPTS THE RESIGNATIONS

Secretary For the Colonies Sets Forth His Reasons For the Step Taken In a Letter to Premier Balfour.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—The official announcement of the resignations of Mr. Chamberlain and two other members of the cabinet was made late last night at Downing street in the following communication:

"The following ministers have tendered their resignations, which have been accepted by the king: Right Hon.

JOSEPH CHAMBERLAIN.

Joseph Chamberlain, secretary for the colonies; Right Hon. C. T. Ritchie, chancellor of the exchequer, and Lord George Hamilton, secretary for India."

Then follows Mr. Chamberlain's letter, dated Birmingham, Sept. 9, commencing, "My dear Balfour," in which he sets forth his reasons for his resignation. An extremely interesting feature of the letter is the following statement concerning a preferential tariff:

"For the present, at any rate, a preferential agreement with our colonies involving any new duty, however small, on articles of food hitherto untaxed, even if accompanied by a reduction of taxation on other articles of food equally universal in their consumption, would be unacceptable to the majority of the constituencies. However much we may regret the decision, however mistaken we may think it, no good government in a democratic country can ignore it. I feel, therefore, that as an immediate practical policy the question of preference to the colonies cannot be pressed with any hope of success at the present time, although there is a very strong feeling in favor of the other branch of fiscal reform which would give fuller discretion to the government in negotiating with foreign countries for a freer exchange of commodities and which would enable our representatives to retaliate if no concession was made to our just demands.

"If, as I believe, you share these views it seems to me that you will be absolutely justified in adopting them as the policy of your government, although it will necessarily involve some changes in its constitution. As secretary for the colonies during the last eight years I have been in a special sense the representative of the policy of a closer union, which I firmly believe to be equally necessary in the interests of the colonies and ourselves. I believe it is possible to-day and may be impossible to-morrow to make arrangements for such a union. I have had unexampled opportunities of watching events and appreciating the feelings of our kinsmen beyond the seas. I stand, therefore, in a different position to any of my colleagues, and I think that I should justly be blamed if I remained in office and thus formally accepted the exclusion from my political programme of so important a part thereof.

"I think that with absolute loyalty to your government and with no fear of embarrassing it in any way I can best promote the cause I have at heart from the outside, and I cannot but hope that in a perfectly independent position my arguments may be received with less prejudice than would attach to those of a party leader. Accordingly I would suggest that you limit the present policy of the government to an assertion of our freedom in the case of all commercial relations with foreign countries and that you should agree to my tendering my resignation of my present office to his majesty and devoting myself to the work of explaining and popularizing these principles of imperial union which experience has convinced me are essential to our future welfare and prosperity."

The first portion of this letter refers to Mr. Chamberlain's first speech on the subject at Birmingham and Mr. Balfour's reply to the corn tax deputation. Mr. Chamberlain says that neither of them was intended to provoke a purely party controversy. He points out the unyielding opposition of the Liberal party, which scouted the idea that a system generally accepted in 1846 could possibly require modification in 1903. Meanwhile the advocates of the reconsideration were at a great disadvantage owing to the admitted differences of opinion inside the party. The political organization of the party was paralyzed.

Mr. Chamberlain declares that an unscrupulous use has been made of the old cry of "the dear loaf," and that serious prejudice has been created. In the rest of the letter he goes briefly over the same ground regarding protection as did Mr. Balfour in his recent statement.

AFTERMATH OF THE STORM

DAMAGE DONE IN AND ABOUT CITY AND BOROUGH.

Telephone, Telegraph and Electric Light Wires Put Out of Service—Other Losses.

The electric light and fire alarm systems were out of working order in the West End all last night and twice yesterday afternoon the same trouble occurred in the East End. Members of the police force were instructed to turn in alarms of fire to police headquarters over the Gamewell system should occasion arrive, and had a fire broken out the alarm would have been conveyed to the fire department indirectly through the police.

A gang of men at work on the wires yesterday afternoon and last night until further handling of them in the dark became dangerous. Work was resumed early this morning and by 8:30 o'clock everything was again in perfect running order.

The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company has a large force of skilled linemen at work on the city streets repairing the damage to the system. It was the hardest storm, outside of the sleet storm of two years ago, with which the company has had to contend. Although the company did its best to keep its service intact during the storm three hundred telephones were out of order.

By yesterday noon the lines were in fairly good working order and the system was rapidly nearing the condition it was in before the storm struck but the gale of yesterday afternoon tore out the work which had been accomplished to a certain extent and the company was crippled last night almost as bad as it was the night before.

Men at work along the trunk lines kept communication open between this city and New York, New Brunswick and other places. The falling limbs of trees caused most of the damage to the wires in this city. No great trouble was experienced with the underground conduits as the system was recently put in first-class condition in that department.

Manager Charles Runyon says that within a day or two the lines in this city will be in good order again.

Chairman James K. Arnold, of the street committee of the North Plainfield Common Council had a gang of men at work on the borough streets yesterday clearing up after the storm. Many of the trees in the Park were damaged worse than was at first supposed. It is probable that some will have to be chopped down. In some places the storm sewers were choked up and the flooding of the streets washed out some of the gutters and pavements. Work has been delayed in consequence of the storm on the macadamizing of Pearl street.

SPORTING NEWS.

CAUGHT NAPPING.

Manager Owens, of the St. Mary baseball team, has arranged three games with Manager Denman, of the Westfield's, for October 3, 10 and 17. The first game will probably be played in this city.

Westfield will play five more games during the present season, three with St. Mary's and two with Alis. The three games with St. Mary's will be played at Westfield. The first Westfield-Alis game will be played at Plaingeld, on Crescent Oval, Saturday, and the second will be played at Westfield.

Saturday's game between Alis and Westfield will be umpired by Mr. Cullum, whose work in recent games has been received with such complete satisfaction. The other game in the Alis-Westfield series and all three games in the Westfield-St. Mary's series will be umpired by Messrs. Cullum and Bligh, both of whom are Connecticut State League umpires.

There will be two big baseball games in this city, Saturday. Alis will play Westfield for the first time this season on Crescent Oval, while St. Mary will play Scotch Plains on Hope Commons. It was intended that the teams should conflict in this way, but on account of a misunderstanding, together with the elements which caused several postponements of games, the teams will play at the same time in different parts of the city.

According to the Westfield end of the story last Saturday's Alis game was simply lent to them and the down-the-line team is coming to take it back this Saturday with interest. It will be a game between equals anyway and the true sport who misses the game will get poor consolation in hearing others talk it over afterwards. The series now stands, Westfield won two, Alis won one. Saturday's rub is the Alis' chance to tie the series and everything points to the very best game of the season.

Manager John G. McLaughlin, of the Alis Club, has secured a strong lineup for tomorrow's game with Westfield on Crescent Oval, and if the home team does not win it will not be its fault so far as effort goes in a determination to down the Westfield team. Koon, a crack college player, will be on second base, it being impossible to have Quinby for this game. Snow, the brilliant outfielder from the University of Michigan, will play in left field and Linderman will probably play in centre field as a change pitcher. "Warry" MacLaughlin and Armbruster, his catcher, will occupy the points. They need no mention as to their ability as a battery. Gastmeyer will go to his old position at short stop and Noye, one of the strongest players from New England, will play third base. This is the lineup:

Koon, 2b; Noye, 3b; Snow, lf; Richardson, 1b; Armbruster, c; Linderman or Gormley, cf; Barnes, rf; Gastmeyer, ss; McLaughlin, p.

AMUSEMENTS.

At the Victoria Theatre, Blanche Ring is starring in The Jersey Lily. It's a good show all through and Miss Ring is at her best.

Mrs. Fiske is the attraction at the Manhattan, the management presenting her in Mary of Magdala. The dramatic critic is speaking highly of the play. Mrs. Fisk is too well and favorably known to the playgoing public to need a mention.

John Drew has effected his reappearance at the Herald Square Theatre, acting with his accustomed lightness of touch and gayety of spirits the chief role in a comedy entitled "Captain Dieppe," written by Anthony Hope and Harrison Rhodes. Mr. Drew's name is sufficient to warrant that the show is a good one.

Temperance Play.

"Ten Nights in a Barroom" will be presented by the W. C. T. U. in its rooms on Madison avenue Monday evening, September 28.

BENEVOLENT COUNCIL; SECOND ANNIVERSARY

Juniors Observe the Second Year of Their Organization As a Council.

MANY GOOD SPEECHES

VAUDEVILLE PERFORMANCE A FEATURE OF JOLLY CELEBRATION.

Visitors From a Number of Nearby Councils—Banquet An Attraction—Committee in Charge of the Affair.

In appropriate celebration of the second anniversary of the founding of Benevolent Council, No. 256, Jr. O. U. A. M., the members last night regaled each other with music and speech, and feasted elaborately in the early morning hours in the auditorium of Washington Hall.

Members of the order from out of town assisted in the celebration, among them delegates from Newark, Bound Brook, Mt. Bethel, New Market, Westfield, Rahway and Dunellen. The committee in charge from the local lodge consisted of J. V. Beekman, chairman; S. C. Terry, George A. Ballantyne, Orra Baker and Henry Adams.

Preceding the regular evening's entertainment was the business meeting in the lodge rooms, at which rousing patriotic speeches were made by National Representative William B. LaRue, of Bound Brook, Councilor Harry Winn, of Franklin Council; Walter Walker, of Somerset Council, and Attorney Robert M. Clark, of Newark, and Counsellor Harry C. Runyon and Frank L. Manchester, of this city.

The entertainers in the vaudeville performance that followed the business meeting were all members of the local lodge, and they exhibited a surprising amount of talent. Garrett Shepard's "stunts" on the slack wire were nothing short of marvelious, and "Professor" Louis Thompson's ragtime performance on the piano started every foot in the hall shuffling in the effort to keep time. Both were rewarded by continued outbursts of applause. Songs by M. C. MacCregar, phonograph selections by Robert Loughlin and coon songs by Fred Pope made everybody happy. The address of welcome was delivered in a happy vein by Harry C. Runyon. An elaborate banquet followed the musical feast.

MORE ASSEMBLY NOMINEES

CHARLES H. MOORE, OF ELIZABETH, BOOMED HERE BY DEMOCRATS.

Plainfielders Argue That He and Moffett Would Make Strong Candidates—Others Mentioned.

Their hopes raised by the Republican bolt, local Democrats believe they see an opportunity of electing an assembly ticket to be named by the Union County Democrats on October 15. Charles L. Moffett has been unanimously agreed upon by the Plainfield members of the minority party as a candidate for an assembly nomination.

Local Democrats are booming Chas. Moore, of Elizabeth, for a similar place on the ticket. Mr. Moore came within a very few votes of defeating B. Frank Coriell, of this city, the Republican candidate for sheriff, at the last election. He has a strong hold on the members of his party here and it is not unlikely that he will get the Plainfield delegation if his name is presented to the convention. William N. Fowler, of Elizabeth, whose name has also been mentioned, it is said, will probably decline to run. President Gunn, of the Springfield Democratic Club, is considered a probability for an assembly nomination.

Aerial Cables.

Not wishing to continue the underground telephone conduits through West Front street, this year, the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company has constructed an aerial cable on West Third street from the corner of Liberty street to the corner of Grant avenue. Manager Runyon hopes to build the underground on West Front street next year.

PAINTER IMPALED; CONDITION SERIOUS

Lewis L. Clark Fell From a Scaffold Fifty Feet Above the Street.

INJURED INTERNALLY

HE WAS REMOVING ONE OF THE ROPES AND LOST HIS BALANCE.

Clark is But Twenty-One Years Old and Has Been Employed as a Painter for Two Years—A Rib May be Broken.

While painting the Moran row of houses on South Second street this morning, Lewis L. Clark fell from the scaffolding, fifty feet above the street, and was impaled on a picket fence. His injuries are said to be serious. He was taken to the Muhlenberg Hospital.

Clark, who is the step-son of Contractor Thomas J. McGann, of Lincoln place, had been working on the house for almost two weeks. He was about to complete the work this morning and was removing one of the ropes when he lost his balance and fell headlong to the street. His feet struck against the side of the building throwing him outward. He struck the fence on the small of his back and it is feared he has injued himself internally. One of the pickets tore a deep gash in his side.

He was lifted from the fence by friends and was laid upon the sidewalk. Walter Hetfield, Jr., who was near by, telephoned to the young man's parents, notifying them of the accident. At the hospital this morning no information would be given out as to the extent of the young man's injuries. Those who saw the accident say that he is badly hurt and some of his ribs may be broken.

Young Clark is 21 years old and has been employed as a painter for two years. He is a member of Warren Engine Company, of the North Plainfield Fire Department.

EPWORTH LEAGUE HAS PLANS

ARRANGEMENTS OF ORGANIZATION IN MONROE AVENUE M. E. CHURCH.

Epworth House Library to Open Oct. 2—New Books Recently Added.

Plans for coming events and for the fall and winter work were discussed at the meeting of the Epworth League of the Monroe Avenue Church, last night. The invitation was accepted to attend and join in the entertainment of delegates at the district convention of Epworth Leagues to be held at the First M. E. Church on Thursday, October 15.

The league also accepted an invitation to attend a conference of chapters to be held in the M. E. Church at Dunellen next Friday evening, when Dr. Anderson, of Westfield, will make an address. It is expected that chapters from Westfield to Raritan will attend. It was announced that on Friday, October 2, the Epworth House Library will be opened for the fall and winter. This has been closed to permit of repairs and to make additions to the library. A number of the latest books have been added during the summer months.

BURGLARS AT WORK.

House of John B. Groendyke Entered, Nothing Taken But An Overcoat.

The house of John B. Groendyke, of West Front street, was entered last night by a thief who left no clue as to his identity. The occupants of the house discovered this morning that the kitchen window had been pried open, and that a heavy winter overcoat, of considerable value, had been stolen. The overcoat was hanging from a peg in the lower hall. It is thought, from the fact that the only thing taken was the coat, that the thief must have been frightened at some sound and left before he had opportunity to continue his operations.

EDITORIAL OPINIONS ON PLAINFIELD BOLT

Expressions of the State Press Regarding Wisdom of Local Republicans Action.

CHASING RAIN-BOWS?

BOLTERS TOO HIDEBOUND TO CARRY OUT THREAT, SAYS ONE.

Merely Keans Pawns Says Another—Wonderful Discovery Regarding Annexation Scheme.

May Be in the Wrong.

The Plainfield Republicans now threaten Union County with the same mutiny that the North Plainfield Republicans practiced upon Somerset County last year. Because they could not control the action of the county convention they refuse to stand by its nominees. And it never seems to have occurred to these Plainfielders that they should not have everything their own way, and that they might occasionally be in the wrong themselves. —Somerset Unionist-Gazette, (Rep.)

Representing Whole County.

The fifteen Plainfield delegates who bolted the Union County convention because their candidate for Assembly was not named, have little excuse for their action. A Plainfield man was named for assemblyman, and while he was not the one chosen by the majority of the Plainfield delegates, it should be borne in mind that he was not to represent Plainfield alone, but the whole county, and that being the case the county's choice should have been honored. There is no good reason for abiding by the lines of the old assembly districts except that of political policy. In wiping out the assembly districts ten years ago the Supreme Court showed emphatically that assemblymen represent entire counties. — New Brunswick Home News, (Ind. Rep.)

Kean's Pawns.

If there is any who doubt that Senator Kean's path to a re-election is not beset with serious obstacles, and that he realizes the fact all too well, the proceedings of the Republican county convention ought to have an enlightening effect upon them.

As between Buckle and Kirk he probably cared not a whit which one would go to the Legislature, only that he wants to be sure that one or the other will vote for him next year if they should be fortunate enough to be in the Legislature again, subject, of course, to the will of the voters and custom of the G. O. P. Of Kirk he is certain that he will vote for him, but of Buckle he knows that the chances are that he would line up where Fowler dictates. Therefore, he would take no risk on Buckle, even at the expense of disrupting his own party.

It looks as though Senator Kean had over-reached himself, however, and that his candidates for Assembly will be subject to a stinging defeat by the Democratic candidates to be named shortly, for whom the bolting Republicans declare calmly and intensely, they will work and vote.—Elizabeth Evening Times, (Dem.)

Too Hidebound.

The editor of the Summit Record does not share with his brethren of the Democratic press the belief that the Democrats are to be benefitted by the bolt of a few delegates from the recent Republican convention. He says: "From now until Election Day we may expect to be regaled with all sorts of fanciful tales about the advantages that are to accrue to the Democratic candidates for Assembly row developed in the Republican convention at Elizabeth on Thursday. Stories of all the Republicans in Plainfield who attend to vote against Kirk will be told and retold until no doubt many will be convinced of their truth and accuracy. And then on Election Day—well, the hidebound partisans of the city of Plainfield will go to the polls and cast their ballots for the Republican candidates without a scratch or mark. Democrats who hope to gain any advantage from a Republican faction fight in Union County are chasing rainbows, of beautiful coloring but extremely remote location."—Elizabeth Evening Journal., (Rep.)

Amusing Explanation.

In the Union County Republican convention, held at Elizabeth last Thursday afternoon, fifteen of the nineteen delegates from Plainfield marched out of the convention hall in

NEW TROLLEY CARS FOR LOCAL LINES

Present Cars to be Placed in Junk Pile, and Better Ones Substituted Before Winter.

NO SMOKING SECTION

COMMUNICATION WITH METUCHEN AND OAK TREE; NOT WITH NEW MARKET.

Larger Cars to be Placed on the Through Line to Elizabeth Before Winter Sets In—Main Line Cars to be Used Here.

It is authentically stated today that the "yaller" cars which have been doing duty for passenger service in this city on the local lines since the company began operating here will be piled up on a junk heap this winter and in their place a consignment of new double truck cars will be placed in operation. Most of the cars which will be used here will be those used last winter on the main line between this city and Elizabeth.

The company has recently placed an order for 150 new double truck cars which will be used on the main line. It has been found necessary to use larger cars on that branch of the road because of the heavy traffic.

Regarding the much talked of trolley line between this city and Metuchen, The Daily Press's informant stated that it was the intention of the Middlesex and Somerset Traction Company to ask the local company to run its line two miles south of the present extension of the line on Park avenue, and there meet the tracks of the Metuchen road. It is probable that the local company will do this, and thus give Oak Tree trolley communication. New Market will not be considered for the present.

It is said that the smoking apartment feature of the closed cars on the local line will be abolished in the new cars. An official of the road stated that this feature has been abused and instead of a smoking place it has been a place for boys and men to disturb the other passengers by their loud talk and profanity. There will be no smokers on the new cars.

LACKAWANNA ROAD TO ENTER THE CITY?

Report Has It That Road Will Build Line Through Plainfield.

TO MAKE COMPETITION

AFTER CENTRAL'S PASSENNER AND FREIGHT TRAFFIC.

Said That Line Will Be Run From Millburn to Springfield, Plains, Plainfield and Bound Brook.

Representatives of the Lackawanna Railroad are quietly securing consents and rights of way for what is believed to be a new line to this city, by which the company hopes to invade the territory heretofore monopolized by the New Jersey Central Railroad. The Lackawanna people apparently not only want to capture the passenger traffic, but they are after the freight business of the Central as well. From indications the new line will branch off at Millburn, run to Sprinfield, to Scotch Plains, and then to Plainfield. Hampton Junction, Bound Brook and Somerville will be on the line.

The barn was struck by lightning. Little of the contents were saved. The loss will amount to several thousand dollars and is partly covered by insurance.

SCHOOL BOARD PLANS FOUR-ROOM BUILDING

The Borough Authorities Arranging For a Brick Structure.

THE SITE NOT SELECTED

ALL PUPILS TO BE GIVEN ACCOMMODATIONS ON MONDAY.

Lot at Corner of Park Place and Somerset Street May Be Chosen as Location for the New School Building.

In spite of published reports to the contrary the North Plainfield Board of Education is not considering erecting a portable school building but at a special meeting held this week decided to secure estimates on the cost of a four story permanent brick school building, adjoining the school on Somerset street or on the school property facing on Vine street. The public will probably be given a chance to vote on the matter as to the amount to be appropriated for the building.

Several sites have been looked at. It is thought feasible to erect on the lot at the corner of Somerset street and Park place an addition to the present high school building, providing the lot can be secured at a reasonable price. In the event of the owner asking an unreasonable price for the property, the building may be erected on the Vine street front. The objection to this site is that only a four room structure could be erected there, if it would conform to the architecture of the other school buildings. These are the two sites most favorable to the proposed building.

Arrangements have been made so that on Monday all the pupils who have been unable to secure admission to the schools in the borough, can be accommodated. Forty pupils were notified this morning that they can secure admission to the schools the first of next week. Miss Clara Plum, a graduate of the Elizabeth Normal School, will have charge of the new class in the Watchung School. It will be known as class 3 B. The class room in the store building on Somerset street will be occupied by the little seekers after knowledge.

The health of the pupils demand that the school rooms be properly ventilated. In the school rooms in stores and other structures there is not sufficient ventilation and a new building, permanent, and erected to the demands of the health of the children, near the present high school building, is imperative and the sooner it is secured the better.

BETWEEN THE BARS.

Orange Field Club's Gridiron Being Gotten in Shape for First Game of the Season.

There will be a practice game Monday night at the home of Harry Smith, on Westervelt avenue.

ARRANGEMENTS MADE FOR THE CONVENTOIN

Union County Democrats to Meet in Lyceum Theatre, Elizabeth, Oct. 15.

MUSIC BY THE BAND

CANDIDATES NAMED MENTIONED AT EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE MEETING.

Story That John W. Whelan is Attempting to Persuade the Democrats Not to Nominate C. L. Moffett is Ridiculed.

The Lyceum Theatre in Elizabeth has been chosen as a convention hall for the Democrats when they assemble October 15. The executive committee so announced at a meeting of the Democratic County committee in Elizabeth last night. The executive committee were instructed to procure a band to provide music during the convention.

Judge O. P. Mahon presided over the meeting. The discussion was general as to the comparative strength of possible nominees for the Assembly. Opinions favorable to the candidacy of Charles L. Moffett, of Plainfield, were expressed, and four or five other names were mentioned of men who might be called upon to represent other places in the county. Joseph Dunn, of Springfield, was talked of as a probable township candidate. The story that has gained credence in this city to the effect that John W. Whelan, in support of Kean, was trying to dissuade the Democrats from nominating a Plainfield candidate in order to prevent the threatended split in the Republican ranks, was ridiculed. Andrew Nolan was the only member of the committee present from Plainfield.

MISSING GIRL FOUND HERE

MISS WARMAN, WHO RAN AWAY FROM STEP-FATHER, DISCOVERED.

Claims Mr. Hunt Persecuted Her —Friends Here Gave Her Shelter.

Miss Mabel Warman, the fourteen-year-old girl who was advertised for by her step-father, W. F. Hunt, of Dunellen last Tuesday, was discovered last night in a house on West Third street in the West End by Patrolman Higgins. Hunt's story to the police last Tuesday was that his step-daughter had stolen $10 from a Mrs. Hamilton, of Dunellen, by whom she was employed, and had run away immediately afterwards.

Miss Warman told Chief Kiely of the local police this morning that she had never stolen a cent from Mrs. Hamilton and that she had run away as the result of the persecution of her step-father. She had found friends in this city who had been willing to shelter her. Miss Warman's mother was notified of her daughter's whereabouts this morning.

Decision on School Law.

The Court of Errors and Appeals at Trenton is to hand down a decision on the legality of the McKee school bill on Monday.

NEW HIGH SCHOOL MAY NOT BE BUILT

Plainfield Board of Education Halted Pending Important Decision.

LAW CONSTITUTIONAL?

PLANS FOR $100,000 STRUCTURE MAY BE UPSET.

McKee Act Being Tested in the Court of Errors and Appeals—Decision Expected on Monday.

The constitutionality of the new school law is now in question and a temporary halt has been necessary on the part of the Plainfield Board of Education as regards the proposed new High School. A decision is now awaited from the Court of Errors and Appeals and until that is given nothing can be done in the matter. If the law is declared to be unconstitutional it will cause a serious hitch in the plans of the Plainfield Board of Education and steps will have to be taken to secure the adoption of a new law which will give that body such power as it will need to erect the new High School. It is reported that the court will hand down its decision on Monday.

VOTING MACHINES READY

UNION COUNTY GETS FOUR OF THE EIGHTY-FOUR.

Plainfield to Have One and Rahway Another, While Elizabeth Gets Two.

Union County will get four of the eighty four voting machines. One of these comes to Plainfield and one goes to Rahway while the others will be used in Elizabeth. The machines are left to the disposition of the Assemblymen and State Senators, who will turn them over to the municipal clerks of the town according to their desire, generally their home town. Assemblyman Newcorn has asked City Clerk James T. MacMurray to make disposition of the machine to be used here.

A carload of the machines were sent to Jersey City yesterday from which place they will be distributed. Another carload was sent to Camden for the lower section of the State. Yesterday was the date fixed by the commissioners for their delivery, and although it was rumored that the machines would not be ready in time, they are now in the State. The commissioners have purchased the bulk of the machines from the United States Standard Voting Machine Company, and the balance are of the Columbia type.

AMUSEMENTS.

"Viens Poupoule," the latest addition to the several score of splendid features of "The Runaways" has already become one of the sensational song hits of the season. Miss Fay Templeton, who has never failed in anything she has attempted on the stage, gives a particularly delightful tang to this latest favorite of the Parisian cafe chantants.

Perhaps the finest array of vaudeville acts ever collected for one week's entertainment is that which composes the programme this coming week at Mr. Keith's ever popular play house in Union Square. There are at least six acts on the bill which can truthfully be termed headliners and it is a difficult task to pick out the one which can be placed at the head of the programme.

Manager Sam. S. Shubert has made a most judicious selection for opening what tends to be a brilliant season at the Princess Theatre. The irresistible and interminable "Earl of Pawtucket," with Lawrence D'Orsay as "Lord Cardington," comes to this house with the prestige of being the first legitimate comedy to run in New York through an entire summer season.

By Bribing the Nerves
with opium a cough may be stopped temporarily, but the inflammation of which the cough is a symptom goes from bad to worse. Do not waste time and money on delusive "cough mixtures." Remember that Allen's Lung Balsam does not merely put the nerves to sleep. It gets right down to the root of the trouble and so cures even deep-seated affections of the throat and lungs.

Palpitation of the Heart Cured.

Extreme nervousness and certain disorders of the stomach and kidneys often result in alarming symptoms. The heart beats so loudly and quickly as to frighten the sufferer. This is not organic heart disease. There is nothing really the matter with your heart.

Physicians attribute this heart palpitation to "loss of nervous control." It is really nothing more or less than a nervous trouble.

Dr. Greene's Nervura
The World's Greatest Tonic

will cure all such "heart troubles," because it cures all nervous diseases. MR. P. T. WARD, of Cayuga, N. Y., student and newspaper man, says:

"Three years ago, while in attendance at the Cortlandt Normal School, I had what I supposed at first to be the symptoms of heart disease. The action of the heart was very irregular and seemed at times suspended. Often at night I was awakened from my sleep by the quick and loud beating of that organ. It was quite impossible for me to sleep while lying on my left side. Of course I was very much alarmed, and consulted a physician. His treatment produced no results. I consulted with other physicians, and bought various medicines which were 'guaranteed to cure anything and everything.' They proved worse than anything which I had yet tried. I grew despondent and morose, was greatly troubled with nervous tremors, and always imagined that something ill was about to occur.

"At last I went to work on a newspaper. Here a friend advised me to try Dr. Greene's Nervura. At first I refused to accept the advice. My friend was persistent, however, and at last I consented to try one bottle as an experiment. My friend was so confident of its efficacy that he offered to pay for the medicine in case it failed to help me.

"The first bottle gave me a little relief, so I tried another, and another, gaining in flesh and vigor, until before I had finished the fifth bottle I felt quite like myself again. I continued the medicine, however, until I had taken seven bottles, which effected a complete cure. I believe that Dr. Greene's Nervura can cure any ordinary case of nerve trouble or blood disease, as I have seen its effects on others than myself."

Dr. Greene's advice is free. Write at once to 101 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

WAR CLOUD WANING

A More Peaceful Tone Prevails at Sofia.

ACTION OF POWERS GIVES HOPE

It Is Reported That England, France and Italy Have Taken Steps to Curb the Rapacity of the Turk In Macedonia.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Sept. 19.—A distinctly optimistic tone now pervades government and diplomatic circles here, and hopes are again expressed that war may after all be averted. From London and Constantinople encouraging news has been received. From London it is reported that the British government will send a fleet to Turkish waters, while reports from Constantinople state that Great Britain, France and Italy have intervened to prevent the continuance of massacres in Macedonia.

It is said that the representatives of these powers have notified the sultan of their dissatisfaction with the methods of suppressing the outbreak and declared that the massacres must be stopped. It is stated that they made special reference to the excesses committed by the Turkish troops in the vilayet of Uskub, where the revolutionary outbreak is insignificant and affords no excuse to the soldiers for pillaging and burning the villages and killing the inhabitants.

The porte is said to have replied that Turkey is simply carrying out the wishes expressed by the powers which urged the sultan's government to adopt energetic measures to suppress the revolution as speedily as possible. The report that these powers have taken such action has been received with great satisfaction by the Bulgarian ministry.

The diplomatic corps here also appears to be more relieved that Turkey has taken the news of Bulgaria's mobilization steps much more quietly than was anticipated. At the present moment the whole situation is regarded as being distinctly better than at any time for some weeks past.

A special dispatch from Rela says several Bulgarian bands under Captain Stoyanoff attacked Melnik, province of Seres, sixty-five miles northeast of Salonika. Two regiments of infantry, with cavalry and artillery in support, were sent from Djoumaia to relieve the garrison, and they forced the insurgents to retire to the mountains, where they are being pursued by the troops.

Desperate fighting is reported to be proceeding in a defile of the valley of the Struma, near Kresna, between Turkish troops and bands under General Zontcheff. Re-enforcements of troops have been sent from Seres.

Nazir Pasha, the Turkish commander at Monastir, is reported to have declared to the consuls there: "We have had one insurrection. It will be the last in this territory."

The Young Men's Christian union in Sofia has issued an appeal to the Christian unions in Europe and America asking them to make Sept. 27 a day of general intercession in behalf of the Macedonians.

A dispatch from Salonika says that 300 Bulgarians have been killed in a fight between insurgents and Turkish troops between Okrida and Dubra. The Bulgarian dead included many officers, one of whom wore a Russian decoration. A battalion of redifs attacked the Christian gendarmes at Mitrovitza Sept. 16, and several of the latter were killed or wounded. The rest of the gendarmes took refuge at the Russian consulate, where they are besieged. The situation at Mitrovitza is extremely critical. The Bulgarian villagers who are opposing the Turkish forces in the neighborhood of Melnik are estimated to number 1,000.

A REIGN OF TERROR.

The Turks Charged With Revolting Cruelties at Monastir.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—As a result of the intervention of the British ambassador the decree of expulsion has not been enforced against the Daily Mail's correspondent at Monastir, who under date Sept. 16 telegraphs:

"A veritable reign of terror exists here. Suspected Christians vanish utterly, presumably to prison. Spies abound on every hand. The following are some tales of atrocities which I have thoroughly authenticated: The Turks burned eighteen children to death in a baking oven at Pisoder, near Armensko, on Sept. 12. They massacred 200 women and children at Jervan in revenge for a defeat at the hands of the insurgents. Fifty women and children returning starved from the mountains to their devastated homes were murdered by soldiers. Between Sept. 10 and Sept. 12 the Bashibazouks destroyed four villages near Krushevo in the presence of the kaimakan (administrator) of Krushevo in person, massacreing and mutilating the inhabitants."

The Daily Mail's Constantinople correspondent says the porte is dissatisfied with Bulgarian assurances that the mobilization of the Bulgarian forces is only intended to prevent bands from passing the frontier, and a high military commission is now sitting at Yildiz kiosk considering a plan for the invasion of eastern Roumelia.

El Paso Chosen For Next Year.

OGDEN, Utah, Sept. 19.—El Paso was selected as the meeting place of the national irrigation congress in 1904 on the first ballot. The convention then adjourned.

TREATY'S DOOM NEAR

Only Four Days Remain For Colombia to Ratify.

THE STATE DEPARTMENT WAITING

There Seems to Be Little Likelihood For Favorable Action Regarding Panama Canal Within the Time Limit.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Only four days remain within which the ratifications of the Panama canal treaty must be exchanged. Dr. Herran, the Colombian charge, transmits promptly to the state department such details of proceedings in the Colombian congress as come to him, but what their nature is he declines to disclose. He realizes the gravity of the situation, but says he has not had any instructions to request an extension of the time for ratification, nor has the American government intimated, so far as known, that it is anxious to grant it. The state department is simply waiting.

It is stated that official advices received here contain certain facts which, it is said, put an entirely new light on the obstructions which have been placed in the way of ratification by the Colombian congress. It was also said that these advices are to the effect that the object in introducing the radical amendments to the treaty was not with the hope of their being adopted, but in order to force the concession of certain minor amendments. It cannot be learned whether there is any foundation for these conclusions.

In some quarters the suggestion is made that a real stumbling block to the ratification of the treaty might be removed if the new Panama Canal company would consent to the payment to Colombia of a stipulated portion of the $40,000,000 which it is to receive from the American government for its rights, franchises and property along the route of the proposed canal.

According to the bill reported to the Colombian senate, that government wants $10,000,000 of this money, but it is believed by some persons familiar with South American affairs that a compromise might be reached whereby half that amount would be accepted by Colombia. The latter government thinks she is entitled to some portion of the money. It is also suggested that Colombia might be willing to forego insistence on some of the other important amendments which have been proposed if she were compensated by the Panama Canal company.

Nine Hurt In Railway Collision.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind., Sept. 19.—Eight passengers and a brakeman were injured yesterday afternoon at Crawfordsville Junction by the collision of Monon passenger train No. 6, from Louisville to Chicago, and a Vandalia freight train. The passenger train was passing the crossing when a Vandalia freight crashed into it, overturning the smoking car and a day coach. In the smoker were twenty-two passengers and in the coach fifty-seven. The accident was caused by the airbrakes on the freight failing to work. The freight engine struck the center of the coach, overturning it on the platform.

China Will File Claims.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—The Chinese government will make a claim against the government of the United States on account of injuries inflicted by people of Tonopah, Nev., upon Chinese residents of that place last Wednesday. The Chinese minister has telegraphed the Chinese consul general at San Francisco to send him as many affidavits as he can secure showing the names of persons injured and the nature of their injuries as well as any property loss they might have suffered.

New Orleans Strike Resumed.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 19.—The commerce of the port is again tied up by a strike of the longshoremen, which has been revived. Not a ship is being loaded. A contract between the ship agents and the longshoremen was signed Monday which, it was believed, settled the strike permanently. The rank and file of the longshoremen now refuse to abide by the contract and accuse their committee who brought about Monday's settlement of treachery.

AT YACHT CLUB DINNER.

President Attends Function Which Has Caused Much Comment.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Sept. 19.—Among the callers on the president yesterday afternoon were J. O. Thompson, internal revenue collector for Alabama, and Captain Charles Scott, two of the three Alabama advisers of the administration. They had a long conference with the president.

Eight or ten important federal appointments are to be made in Alabama within a few months. These were discussed at the conference. Some of the nominations will be sent to the senate soon after congress convenes in extraordinary session.

President Roosevelt was the guest of honor at night at the annual dinner of the Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht club at its handsome and spacious home on Center island, in Oyster bay. While many men prominently identified with yachting in the east were present and the dinner was a handsome and delightful affair, as a function it was not so elaborate as the dinner committee originally had planned.

The president gave the club to understand that he could not attend the dinner if it was to be made a great banquet, with many invited guests outside of the club membership. It was intended to have among those in attendance Sir Thomas Lipton and members of his party now sojourning in this country and a large number of distinguished army and navy officers, all of whom were to be invited to meet the president. This plan did not meet the president's approval, and the list of guests was curtailed. An invitation was sent to Sir Thomas Lipton, but he was unable to accept on account of illness and because of his engagements in the west.

The president about 8 o'clock last evening, escorted by Lieutenant Charles F. Preston, commander of the naval yacht Sylph, and Midshipman Hamner, entered a launch at the J. West Roosevelt pier and proceeded to the yacht club house across the bay. He was met at the club landing by Chairman Colgate Hoyt of the board of trustees and other officials of the club and escorted to the clubhouse. His entrance elicited applause and cheers.

Notwithstanding the fact that the president was among friends and fellow club members precautions were taken to insure his personal safety. Two secret service officers remained near him, and additional precautions were taken by the club itself.

Kaiser Visits Francis Joseph.

VIENNA, Sept. 19.—Emperor William has arrived here from Bellye, Hungary, in the vicinity of which place he has been stag hunting with Archduke Frederick. Emperor Francis Joseph, wearing the uniform of a German field marshal, met Emperor William at the railroad station. The German emperor wore the uniform of an Austrian cavalry general. He was accompanied by Chancellor von Bulow. The monarchs cordially kissed each other three times and then shook hands warmly. After an inspection of the guard of honor the emperors drove through the crowded and decorated streets to the Hofburg.

Farmers Driven From Home.

LACROSSE, Wis., Sept. 19.—Farms situated on lowlands within a radius of fifty miles of Lacrosse are tenantless because of floods which are sweeping away buildings, crops and cattle. The United States weather station here issued a warning to farmers residing in dangerous localities, and the police force and mounted couriers were engaged in carrying the warning to the people. Hundreds of families have abandoned their homes and are fleeing to the hills which follow the line of the river, leaving all to the mercy of the flood.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 19.—Fifteen hundred survivors of Wilder's famous brigade yesterday assembled on the Chickamauga battle field near the spot where the Wilder memorial monument has been erected and commemorated the fortieth anniversary of the battle of Chickamauga. An address was delivered at Chickamauga by General Wilder, Colonel Tomlinson Fort, a prominent Confederate veteran, and others.

Dan Patch Failed.

READVILLE, Mass., Sept. 19. — It seems quite probable that but for the slowness of the footing in the last 200 yards the champion harness horse, Dan Patch, would have succeeded in his attempt here to lower his own record of a mile in 1:59, made at Brighton Beach a few weeks ago. Paced by one runner the quarter was made in 30 seconds and the half in 59¼. From there on he had the benefit of two runners and reached the three-quarters in 1:29¼. The record then seemed to be trembling, but on getting into the stretch a heavy bit of track was experienced, which tired the pacer so much that he reached the wire in 2:00 flat.

One Favorite Won.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Bright, cool weather prevailed at Gravesend, and a fair crowd was in attendance. Only one favorite won. The Flatlands selling stakes for two-year-olds, the feature event, went to the 10 to 1 shot Latola. The favorite, Flamula, was second and Mordella third. Latola led from start to finish, but had to be hard ridden to win by one and a half lengths. Jockey Hicks, who had the mount on Albany Girl in the fifth race, fell at the start, the boy escaping serious injury. The track was slow.

Major Delmar Tries For Record.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 19.—Major Delmar, driven by A. P. McDonald, at the Philadelphia Driving park endeavored to beat his trotting record of 2:00¼, recently made at Syracuse, N. Y., and failed. The gelding, carrying its driver and sulky with the combined weight of 181 pounds, covered the mile in 2:06½. The track was in fair condition, and nearly 2,000 persons witnessed the trial. The time by quarters: Quarter, 0:32½; half, 1:04½; three-quarters, 1:35½; mile, 2:06½.

Six Favorites Won.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 19.—Six favorites won at Delmar park yesterday over a heavy track. Little Scout at 1 to 2 won the handicap in a gallop from Siddons. Alcom R. was driven out in the first. Worthington won handily. Quaker Girl was hard ridden to beat Wreath of Ivy, Stand Pat had no trouble in beating Light Opera, and Dave Somers won by three lengths in the last.

Last Day at Buffalo.

BUFFALO, Sept. 19.—Meriene and Caithness, heavily backed second choices, won at Kenilworth. The Kenilworth meeting closes today, and August Belmont, chairman of the Jockey club, is a guest at the track for the day. The majority of the horses here will continue the northern circuit at Detroit, Mich., others going to Toronto for the meeting there before returning east.

Chicago Bookmakers Indicted.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19. — Indictments have been returned against thirty-three bookmakers doing business on the local race tracks. The charge against them was made under the general law against gambling. Some evidence was offered against the officials of the racing association, but no bills were returned against them.

CHAMBERLAIN TALKS

First Public Statement Since Resignation.

THE PEOPLE MUST BE EDUCATED

Tariff Reform Has Plenty of Material at Hand With Which to Urge Its Conflict For Supremacy In Great Britain.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—Writing from his home at Highbury, Birmingham, Mr. Chamberlain made his first public statement since his resignation. His letter is in reply to C. A. Pearson, chairman of the executive council of the Tariff Reform league, who asked if Mr. Chamberlain coincides with his view that the examination of the tariff may be considered as sufficiently advanced and that the league should now use its resources to advocate the employment of a tariff for the purpose of consolidating and developing the resources of the empire and defending the industries of the United Kingdom.

Mr. Chamberlain says: "I agree with your views that we have sufficient material in the way of facts and figures. We have now to state our conclusions and endeavor to get the people to adopt them."

Mr. Chamberlain then gives his understanding of the position of the Tariff Reform league under two heads as coinciding with his position. Their objects, he says, are: "First, a closer union with the colonies by means of preferential tariffs in order to endeavor to make the empire self sufficing as regards its food supply; second, the employment of a tariff as a weapon to secure greater reciprocity with foreign nations or, failing such arrangement, to prevent loss to the home industrial markets under the competition of protected countries by retaliating upon them the treatment they mete out to us.

"On this understanding as to our views," concludes Mr. Chamberlain, "I wish the league success and the support of every one desiring the union of the empire and the continued prosperity of British commerce."

Palma's Visit to Santiago.

SANTIAGO, Cuba, Sept. 19.—During a speech made by President Palma in front of the palace last evening the people became excited because the crowds were forced back by the police, and a rifle in the hands of a sergeant of the rural guards was discharged by accident, it was claimed. This caused a panic, and the people turned and ran. A few persons were slightly hurt. Order was soon restored. The president, who was enthusiastically received, in the course of his remarks thanked the people for their loyalty and universal condemnation of those who had attempted to breed an insurrection and urged them to endeavor to further strengthen public sentiment against any seditious ideas.

Burned to Death by Gasoline.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 19.—Mrs. Mary E. Jahn and her thirteen-year-old daughter, Pearl, died from burns caused by gasoline, and Harry, the ten-year-old son of the woman, who turned the explosive fluid on in his sleep, cannot live. The boy had been in the habit of helping his mother about the stove during the day. He was a somnambulist and in his sleep turned on and lighted the stove. A fire resulted that burned Mrs. Jahn and Pearl, who ran to the boy's aid.

Canadians Oppose Reciprocity.

TORONTO, Sept. 19.—The Canadian Manufacturers' association has again emphasized its expression in condemnation of any attempt to accomplish a reciprocitiy arrangement with the United States. A plea for the severance of the tariff from politics was warmly received, and a motion was unanimously passed asking the government to appoint a commission of experts who shall have constant supervision of tariff policy and changes.

Blame For Olympia Accident Fixed.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—The report of the board of officers appointed to investigate the recent accident on board the cruiser Olympia at Norfolk finds that Corporal Yerkes of the marine corps, who was killed in the explosion of alcohol, was mainly responsible for the accident. The court martial of two of the enlisted men has been ordered.

Crane Commands Porto Rican Troops

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Sept. 19.—Lieutenant Colonel Charles J. Crane of the Eighth infantry has arrived at Ponce and was received with military honors. He has formally assumed command of the forces in Porto Rico, relieving Colonel James Buchanan.

Brooklyn Slaughter House Burned.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Fire has destroyed all but the walls of the extensive slaughter house of Abraham Levy & Co. in Brooklyn. The loss is estimated at between $100,000 and $125,000, principally of valuable machinery.

Clarke Challenges Hanna.

NORWALK, O., Sept. 19.—Hon. John H. Clarke, Democratic candidate for United States senator, in a speech here last night formally challenged Senator Hanna to meet him in joint debate on the issues of the campaign.

North Carolina Post Office Robbed.

RALEIGH, N. C., Sept. 19.—A special from Troy, this state, says the post office there has been robbed of between $300 and $500 in money and stamps. There is no clew to the robbers.

Weather Probabilities.

Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 19, 1903.

The Daily Press has a higher circulation rating than is accorded to any other paper in Plainfield.—Printers' Ink.

Two good games of baseball scheduled for this afternoon.

"Sam" Parks, "Mother" Jones and "Carrie" Nation—a combination hard to beat in their specialty act "notoriety seeking."

The weather man says this has been the coldest summer in eighty-seven years. But then the weather man—well we won't get personal.

An American syndicate has purchased the Popocatepetl volcano. We are awaiting an announcement that the spot has been opened as a pleasure park.

Joe Chamberlain steps down and out and is followed by two other members of the Cabinet, but fortunately Englishmen are not an excitable people and we won't hear of riots and revolutions.

What has become of that Cleveland boom? A suitable reward will be paid to the finder by Editor McKelvey, of the Brooklyn Eagle, Senator James Smith, of Newark, and Staff Little, of Princeton.

Some of the streets were in darkness last night because repairs had not been made to the electric wiring system. The city is paying for the lights and no time should be lost in resuming the service.

The Newark Evening News insinuates that Mayor Smalley talks too much. Far from it, the strenuous man of North Plainfield would be excusable if he did more talking, but he seems to prefer to make himself felt by creditable action.

In another column will be found views expressed by several newspapers as to the attitude of Plainfield Republicans towards their own county ticket. The opinions are widely diversent and have been collected at random from Democratic, Republican and Independent journals.

'Tis the constant drop of water
Wears a hole in solid stone.
'Tis the constant gnaw of Towser
Masticates the hardest bone.
'Tis the constant wooing lover
Carries off the cooing maid,
And the constant advertiser
Is the man who gets the trade.
—Brownsville Monitor.

The wisdom of selecting J. Herbert Case to fill a vacancy in the board of directors of the Plainfield Trust Company is unquestioned. Since the institution commenced business, Mr. Case has been a great factor in insuring its success and its present flourishing condition has been largely brought about by him as its secretary and treasurer.

The Plainfield woman who soberly announced her wedding to a already married man and then staved off bigamy proceedings by coolly saying that she was only joking has a peculiar sense of humor. It recalls the pessimistic declaration of Magistrate Crane, of New York, that he only believes one statement in a thousand made by a woman. Fortunately the character of women with which he comes in contact officially is a very small minority in this world.

Can anyone give a sensible reason for the practice of many Plainfielders doing their shopping in New York. Money earned here and spent out of town does Plainfield a positive injury. It detracts from the prosperity for it takes the money elsewhere. Excuse is sometimes made that local stores do not have such a line of goods from which to make a selection, which we think is an often exaggerated plea. Granting it to be so, however, when will the local stores be able to carry a greater stock if residents continue to purchase in New York. Whenever there is a demand, the shopkeeper is shrewd enough to supply it quickly.

AMONG MEN IN THE SHOPS

SEEN AND HEARD IN PLAINFIELD'S INDUSTRIAL PLANTS.

George Clarke, formerly with the Potter Press Company, has taken a position with the Rogers Corporation on Madison avenue.

Thomas W. Loyless, editor of the Augusta, Ga., Chronicle, visited the plant of the Potter Press Company last week. Mr. Loyless has just purchased a Potter press, which is a duplicate of those used by the Washington Star, Chicago Chronicle and other metropolitan dailies.

Arrangements are not quite complete from the awarding of the prize money for the best set of plans, although it is believed that this will be done in the near future.

—One thousand men from Plainfield go to New York every day. A few of these men have incomes of twenty-five thousand dollars and more. Many of them receive salaries of five thousand dollars. But a large number of young men are earning wages from eight to sixteen dollars a week. Thousands of eyes, here as elsewhere, are seeking the road that leads speedily from the five hundred to the five thousand dollar class. The gateway to the the road is opportunity, but first comes a gateway called "Fitness." The Y. M. C. A. educational classes give valuable assistance to young men in fitting them for the wonderful opportunities of modern business life. Write a postal to the secretary, asking him for information about the educational work.

To Be Or Not to Be.

In his speech nominating Mr. Buckle, in the Republican County convention last Thursday, Mr. MacMurray said that his fifteen delegates represented 1800 of Plainfield's 2200 Republican votes cast in the primaries. As Mr. Fowler had about 1200 majority there last fall, if these 1800 voters follow the example of their delegates, and bolt on election day, it would mean a big majority the other way this fall. But, will they?—Rahway Union-Democrat, (Dem.)

NEW MARKET.

Rev. W. T. Dorward, of Stelton, will occupy the pulpit of the Seventh-Day Baptist Church tomorrow in the absence of the pastor.

Mrs. Fred Holden, who has been suffering with a severe cold for the past week, is much improved.

George F. Bunting is now representing the township as a member of the Grand Jury.

James Stites is suffering with an attack of lumbago.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Now that the baseball season is on the wane, football is beginning to be boomed among the lovers of sport in town. There is fine material in town for putting an eleven on the gridiron, that would average close to the 150th mark. Most of this material are old players at the game who only need brushing up on team work and signal to get into the game. A meeting will be called in a few days when plans will be discussed by those interested for the placing of a creditable eleven on the gridiron to represent the village in the field of sport this fall.

There seems to be an error in the report that Linderman will be seen in any other uniform than a Scotch Plains one, this afternoon. Manager Johnston assures the baseball public that "Lindy" will be seen on Hope Common this afternoon, notwithstanding reports to the contrary. Mr. Cullin will also umpire the game, so the baseball public are assured of a clean and snappy game.

Mrs. Ann Dobbins, of East Front street, entertained the members of the Laidies' Circle of the Harrison Baptist Church, yesterday. Mrs. Dobbins, before her removal to the village, was a prominent worker in the society and her colleagues have not forgotten her, even though far away. The trip was made by trolley.

An early morning trolley going west would be appreciated by those who are employed in the shops at the West End of Plainfield, the first car leaving the village is 6:30. This is hardly early enough for those who are obliged to be at work by 7 o'clock.

The Brookside Gun Club will shortly resume its weekly shoots on their grounds near the mountains. A number of new members have joined the organization, making it one of the strongest gun clubs the village has ever fostered.

The usual services will be held at the Baptist Church tomorrow. Sunday-school, 9:30 a. m.; morning preaching by pastor, 10:45; B. Y. P. U., 7 p. m.; evening service, 7:45.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Marsh and family, who have been residents of the village for years, removed yesterday to Mercer avenue, North Plainfield.

Mrs. McCord, mother of Thomas Whitenack, who has been quite ill from a severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism, is reported as improving.

During the heavy storm of Tuesday, the wind blew in two of the large glasses in Scheelen Brothers show windows at Fanwood.

Seeley's paper mill has closed for two weeks in order that the machinery may be overhauled and necessary repairs made.

The State election on the constitutional amendments is called for Tuesday, polls being open the same as any general election.

Mr. and Mrs. Uhler and family, of the borough, have returned from their summer outing, which has been spent along the coast.

Mrs. Louis Morel has been entertaining her sister, Miss Debbie, of Stony Hill, for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gray, of Front street, are entertaining Mr. Gray's brother from New York.

Mrs. John Flannery is spending two weeks as the guest of Mrs. Isaac Oliver, at Kearney.

Mrs. Maria Noble is one of the latest of the residents to connect with city water.

John Rickerson was the guest Friday night, of friends at Berkley Heights.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

At the Baptist Church tomorrow, the pastor will speak upon interesting topics, both morning and evening. The Christian Endeavor meeting will be conducted by Mrs. Cubberly.

a body, before any nominations had been made, repudiating the whole Republican platform, which among other spread eagle buncome endorsed the administrations of Governors Griggs, Voorhees and Murphy and approved the acts of the late Legislature. This prompt action of leading Plainfield Republicans may be taken to mean not only that they at last see through the shallow sophistry which has heretofore held them in the grasp of a corrupt and treacherous political party, but also to indicate their intention while withdrawing from Union County politics to favor the annexation of their city to the more congenial county of Somerset, already redeemed from the bugbear of Republicanism and bidding fair to soon lead all counties in Democratic State government. So mote it be! — Bound Brook State Centre-Record.

Chasing Rain-Bows.

From now until election day we may expect to be regaled with all sorts of fanciful tales about the advantages that are to accrue to the Democratic candidates for Assembly as a result of the delightful faction row developed in the Republican convention at Elizabeth on Thursday. Stories of all the Republicans in Plainfield who intend to vote against Kirk will be told and retold until no doubt many will be convinced of their truth and accuracy. And then on Election Day—well, the hidebound partisans of the city of Plainfield will go to the polls and cast their ballots for the Republican candidates without a scratch or mark.

Democrats who hope to gain any advantage from a Republican faction fight in Union County are chasing rainbows, of beautiful coloring but exremely remote location. The average Republican in this county and particularly in Plainfield believes that the most consummate rogue in that party is more preferable for any office to the most able and conscientious Democrat ever named as a candidate. Union has became a hot-bed of petty, intolerant partisanship and faction squabbles in Republican circles are forgotten on election day.

Last year we heard more lurid threats of the intentions of the Fowler gang in Plainfield with respect to the candidacy of Senator Cross that even those blowhards were accustomed to but on election day they promptly turned in and gave him a majority of 683. The only feature of Thursday's row for which Democrats have any reason to be grateful is the fact that the gang backed by Fowler received such a complete turning down. Neither Union County nor the State has ever had a more petty, unscrupulous and worthless crew than that which Fowler has gathered in his political machine and it requires neither love nor respect for the Kean faction to regard its success with pleasure.—Summit Record, (Dem.)

BITTER-ROT APPLES

Something About the Disease Which Destroys the Fruit.

Comes in July and August and in Some Cases Plays Wholesale Havoc in Orchards—How It May Be Fought.

"Ugh," says the man as he bites into his apple and as quickly spits out the bite, "that's bitter." And so it is, for he has taken an apple which is infected with the bittor rot. With the coming of the new crop of apples to market, the unpleasant experience of the man who bit into the diseased part of the apple is quite a common one. But it is not as might be supposed a case of ordinary rot, due to bruise, but the bitter rot is caused by a fungus which grows in the ripening tissues of the fruit and induces decay.

The bitter rot appears in a apple orchard at different times during the months of July and August, the time of its first appearance varying with the climatic conditions during any particular season. The first spots usually develop on the apple fruits when they are nearly full grown. From that time on until the fruit is entirely ripened the disease is likely to occur with increasing severity.

Warm, sultry weather, particularly after a rain, forms the ideal condition for the development of the bitter rot. In cool, dry summers the bitter rot is usually present but sparingly. A short series of hot, wet days in August may bring about a sudden and very destructive attack. Nights with a heavy fall of dew alternating with hot days are usually followed by an extensive development of the disease. Numerous instances might be mentioned where the disease appeared in an orchard during the latter part of August, after a few hot days, destroying the whole crop in three days. A notable case of this kind occurred during the summer of 1900. Cold weather usually checks the disease and may stop it altogether.

The bitter rot fungus, like other species of the form genus Gloeosporium, has an almost world-wide distribution. In the United States it has been found in nearly all of the states east of and including Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas. A careful search through the mycological literature available at the Missouri botanical garden has shown that under one name or another this fungus has been reported from Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia, North Carloina, South Carolina, Alabama, Mississippi, Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Missouri, Arkansas, Kansas, Oklahoma, Indian Territory and Texas. The states east of the Mississippi from which the fungus has not yet been reported are almost unexplored mycologically. It is extremely probable that it occurs in all states where the apple is being grown, even in the most northern latitudes.

The first signs of the bitter rot appear in the form of a very faint light brown discoloration under the skin of the apple. The spots are exceedingly small at first, and as they grow larger they appear circular in outline. The spots rapidly increases in size, becoming darker brown. When the spot is one-eighth of an inch in diameter the area appears distinctly sunken. The borders of these spots are usually very nearly circular and sharply defined.

The cankers found on apple trees in Illinois appear as blakened depressions on apple limbs of various sizes, from last year's fruit spurs to limbs three to four inches in diameter. Thus far the cankers have not been found on the main trunk.

Although the bitter rot has been so destructive to apple crops for 30 years or more, little if any headway had been made until recently toward combating it successfully. The disease may still be regarded as one of the most difficult ones to control, although it now seems probable that greater success ought to attend preventive measures. These may now be placed under these heads:

1. Removal of diseased fruits and mummies.
2. Removal of limb cankers.
3. Spraying with fungicides.

WHAT IS MILKY WAY?

Interesting Chat with Astronomer on This Heavenly Wonder.

What Appears Like a Confused Mass of Starry Light Is Produced by Immense Numbers of Distinct and Glittering Stars.

The Milky Way, a "bow in the heavens" in monochrome, and permanent, is unfolded on the celestial vault as the most strange and most amazing of optical errors. Supposing that our retina—an admirable instrument, the most sensitive organ with which God has gifted the body, but yet far from being perfect—supposing that it were improved to such a degree that the extremities of its nervous ramifications presented surfaces that were ten or a hundred times on a smaller scale to the rays of light; then the image of many small and very close stars would each find their own path of communication with the brain, there would no longer be a "confusion in the dispatch." It is true that the accumulation of luminous impressions which takes place now would not be produced, but, instead, all the small stars, down to a magnitude too feeble for our perception—say, to the 9th or 10th magnitude—would be seen individually in the sky. In such a case we should see on very clear nights a great crowding along a somewhat irregular curve—300,000 stars in the visible hemisphere; it would be like the great atlas of Argelander, the celebrated "Bonn Durchmusterung," spread out on the celestial vault. But we should see nothing of the "Milky Way"—except on a somewhat misty sky which might produce here and there some whitish spots and bands.

This word "Milky Way," the name given to the phenomenon which causes this grandiose optical error, gives rise to some rather curious confusions. It establishes a fundamental distinction between the clusters of stars whose constituents are sufficiently bright and sufficiently separated to be seen as stars and gatherings of stars which produce on our eye the sensation of "lacteal" light—although the two phenomena are identical in their nature; whilst the imperfection of our visual organ makes us class together from their appearances, but quite wrongly, gaseaus nebulae and the Milky Way.

The visual organ is not equally good in all men, and this has two results: 1st. What is "Milky Way" for one man is not so for another. 2nd. What is called "Milky Way" in one quarter of the heavens is not called so in another quarter.

Those who are not accustomed to raise their eyes in the evening higher than the gas lamps in the street scarcely know the Milky Way at all, never having bestowed upon it more than a fleeting glance. They are amazed that any one succeeds in seeing in it more than a band, vaguely and uniformly luminous, and seen with difficulty.

In a very brilliant region of the Milky Way I have taken a surface measuring one per cent. in declination and four minutes in right ascension. A single star is visible to the naked eye in this region. On a photographic plate by Prof. Max Wolf, of Heidelberg, I have observed and classified as carefully as possible all the stars included in it, drawn with their estimated magnitude; 1,760 are counted, classified as follows:

Estimated Mag.	Number of Stars.	Total light produced by each class.
7.6— 8.0	1	248
8.1— 8.5	6	929
8.6— 9.0	6	584
9.1— 9.5	17	1048
9.6—10.0	42	1629
10.1—10.5	61	1509
10.6—11.0	103	1613
11.1—11.5	135	1338
11.6—12.0	134	849
12.1—12.5	141	539
12.6—13.0	188	473
13.1—13.5	229	362
13.6—14.0	697	697
Total	1760	11,828

These magnitudes are only estimated; they cannot be identical with Pickering's scale, for example, and the limits cannot be constant. But in any case it is clear that about half the total light (the share of each class of stars in the total light has been indicated in the last column of the table, the brightness of a star of the first-class having been taken as unity) is due to the magnitudes 9.6 to 11.5, or 9th to 12th, and that even large errors in the estimation do not sensibly modify this result; that neither the relatively bright telescopic stars (6th-9th mag.) nor the exceedingly feeble stars (12th-14th mag.) exercise any considerable influence in the production of the optical phenomenon of the Milky Way. A similar investigation in the region of the Milky Way much less brilliant leads to almost the same result.

An Ideal Location

Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE

LINDEN, N. J.

Beautiful and Accessible

2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark, 14 MILES FROM NEW YORK

On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

CARE OF THE CHILD

How It Adds to Its Health and Comfort

THE two babies sat side by side on the nursery floor on a warm day in summer. Both were plump, sweet and bright for their ages, but close observation showed that while one child played contentedly with its toes the other soon began to wriggle and act as if it were very uncomfortable. These performances ended in a roar of such volume that the mother hastily snatched up the uncomfortable youngster, exclaiming in annoyance: "Oh, what a bad temper my little Peter has! How I wish he would sit quietly and play like your sweet little Marion!" Marion's mother smiled quietly. "Will you let me see how you have dressed your baby?" she said.

Examination revealed the fact that poor little Peter was first confined in a wide flannel band pinned very tightly. Then there was a knitted shirt over the arms and high in the neck. Then the heavy flannel pinning blanket was fastened on by means of another tight band about the upper part of the waist. In addition to this, the poor child had a flannel petticoat fastened with still another band, and over all there came the dress, very long and covered with heavy tucking and embroidery.

The contented baby, on the other hand, thanks to her sensible mother, was dressed in this wise. First she wore a band of raw silk, then a pinning blanket of fine flannel plainly made and attached to a waist of thin cambric, in order to have all, even of that light weight, depend from the shoulders. Then came the simplest of little dress slips, edged only with fine thread lace.

Indeed, the tendency now is to dress the child as lightly as possible. It is as bad for the child to be overdressed as it is for a grown person. The newest little flannel petticoat for a baby is made like a princess slip, the upper part being of cambric. It is without gathered fullness and fastens on the shoulder with two narrow straps, each having a buttonhole and a button. Thus whatever weight there is comes from the shoulders.

The young child is merely a little animal which must be allowed to sleep and eat as much as possible and be perfectly comfortable in order that it may have a chance to grow strong rapidly. The notion of having the baby for show and dressing it up in frills and ribbons is one that has entirely gone out of style, which is a good thing, as it was a most unnatural and silly idea.

The modern baby's day is about as follows: At 6 it awakes after a sound night's rest, due to regularity in the bedtime routine. It is given an early breakfast of milk and limewater and is then taken out by its nurse in the baby carriage. Until half past 9 it inhales the fresh morning air, and then it is brought home to have its regular breakfast of milk, in which some simple, easily digested cereal has been put, or, if the child is old enough, it can eat mush and milk. Then follows an hour's romp, and at 11 o'clock the bath, which forms perhaps the most important event of the day. First, standing on the bath rug, baby's little gums, by means of a tiny wad of medicated cotton, are washed with boracic acid diluted into a weak solution. The little nose and also the eyes are thus treated. Then the baby is sponged and soaped in its fat little stomach and back, and last it is popped into the lukewarm water or its little tub to splash around happily for ten minutes. This part of the performance may be enlivened if toys of the floating variety are allowed in the water with the child. The bath then becomes an agreeable occasion and one to be looked forward to. After the bath comes a nap of two hours, and then the child's dinner, at which it may be given the yolk of a soft boiled egg or a little meat juice. Then it is tucked into its little carriage and stays out all the afternoon until about 4 o'clock. In warm weather it may be given another bath at this hour. Then comes the supper of mush and milk, and then bed at about 7.

Under no circumstances should the routine of a child's life be interrupted or changed. It is regularity above all else which insures good health and good temper on the part of your baby, and you should remember that.

PARIS OF AMERICA

Mexico City Has Earned That Place and Title.

The Mexican Metropolis Declared to Be a Jewel Set in the Crown of the Sister Republic of the United States.

Mexico City has been called the Paris of America, and with good reason, surely.

Mexico City is a jewel set in the crown of our sister republic; it does not shine with a light reflected from the great metropolis upon our eastern shore, nor does it pale in close comparison. It gleams alone undimmed and with a radiance peculiarly its own.

Set upon a hood plateau, with the ever snow-crowned mountains standing as a sentinel, this lovely city commands as grand a view as is to be found in all the world. To the north a never-ending chain of verdure-hung mountains, while to the south the glowing tints and voluptous beauty of the deep valleys and tropic gardens lie dazzling in the golden sunlight.

Here you will find the contrast of splendor and squalor, following the avenues of stately homes and pampered luxury will be the narrow alleys and swarming byways, the home of pestilence and crime.

The aristocracy of Mexico is found among the descendants of the pure Castillian Spanish and, with the flowing Mantilla and coffers of gold, have come the hidden dagger, the slow smile and treacherous hand of the Indian.

While you would miss the boulevard cafe of gay Paris, you will find its mate behind gorgeous gilded pillars and heavy hangings. Here, if you wish, a fine lobster the waiter will bring a huge platterful of the crimson monsters that you may have your choice and decide which shall be prepared for your delectation.

A long drive, through overhanging branches of ancient trees, will bring you to the superb Tacubaya, the Monte Carlo of Mexico. Here all day and all night is the click of the wheel and the clashing of the dice. For the Mexican is an inveterate gambler, and everything is decided by the destiny of chance.

A most charming trip may be taken to the floating gardens by way of La Viga canal. Here you glide gently along, propelled by the long pole which your gondolier thrusts deftly against the bank or some neighboring craft. You meet long, shallow canoes loaded to the water's edge with great masses of flowers. Thousands of poppies, armsful of roses, orange blossoms that scent the air for rods on either side. It is a sight never to be forgotten.

During the morning you will find the streets and the shops crowded with gayly dressed shoppers, carriages blocking the streets in front of a fashionable church, while the flower market does a thriving business for cavalier or mantled lady.

Right in the center of the city lies the lovely Alameda, the queen of parks or plazas, with broad stretches of velvet green, orange and magnolia trees spreading their fragrance over the promenades. Here are great fountains and magnificent statuary, while on each side run broad avenues of smooth asphalt, and shining clean.

One of these avenues passes between blocks of handsome buildings, until turning suddenly it widens to twice its width, and starting from that magnificent bronze statue of Charles IV., becomes one of the most famous drives in the world, the Paseo de la Reforma. This magnificent stretch of promenade is nearly three miles long, bordered on each side by fine statues of unforgotten heroes. Every once in a while it widens into an immense circle, to admit of a large and splendid monument and statue.

This drive ends at the park and castle of Chapultepec, the pride of Maxmillian.

No place in the world is there a spot to compare with this princely domain. Hewed from the rock is the bath of Montezuma standing like guardians in a row are countless mammoth cypress trees, the growth of centuries, and above all, on the crown of a flower-wreathed, rocky eminence, is the fairy castle of Maxmillian's bride.

It would take pages to describe the objects of interest and beauty in this city of the Aztecs. The government pawn shop, the grand old cathedral, second only to St. Peter's in Rome, Guadaloupe, the Mecca of all the faithful; the art galleries, the museums, all the hundred and one objects of interest and delight that unite in making this lovely city one of the finest, most interesting and most progressive of any of the places to be found in travel and research.

No Trouble at All.

WHITEHALL AS PARK

Estate Willed to United States in Trust for Public.

Heirs of Gen. Clay Will Contest Will and It Is Not Likely That Fine Kentucky Estate Will Ever Become a National Park.

In one of a half dozen separate wills left by Gen. Clay, and which have all been filed for probate in the county court of Madison county, Ky., the United States has been given the estate of Gen. Cassius M. Clay at Whitehall, which consists of 360 acres of fine land. It was his desire that it might become a national park, as is evident from the following provision in the will:

"The Whitehall lands and fixtures of 360 acres shall remain, including houses, trees, etc., forever the same intact—finest natural park on earth.

WHITEHALL, AS IT IS AT PRESENT.

It shall be in fee simple the property of the United States of America in trust for the inhabitants of this earth. It shall be so long under the care of my executors as may be deemed best by the federal government, and then be under their direction and support in the purposes of this legator."

In the following section he provided for the maintenance of the park by setting aside "my coal mines in Clay county, Ky., bought of Ell Bowlin, near Manchester, about 300 acres." He desired that they be controlled into a company and work to the end of supporting the park.

But it is very doubtful if the United States ever secures control over the estate, for the children of Gen. Clay have entered contest of the will and will maintain that their father was of unsound mind for several years before his death, embracing the period marked by his marriage to Dora Richardson, the 14-year-old girl from his kitchen, and beginning at the time that he shot a negro servant who disobeyed him.

On the other hand, friends of the old anti-slavery advocate say that if he was insane in the later years of his life he always was mad. It was a mad freak, they said, which made up his mind to talk against slavery to the southern planters, after hearing William Lloyd Garrison lecture at Yale. He was in many fights and duels before he issued a challenge to the world to come and try to take him out of Whitehall.

He never attempted a more dangerous thing, however, than editing "The True American," an abolitionist paper, in Lexington about 60 years ago. This is the way he fortified himself for it, according to his own account:

"I selected for my office a brick building and lined the outside doors with sheet iron to prevent them being burned. I purchased two brass four-pounder cannon at Cincinnati and placed them, loaded with shot and nails, on a table breast high. I had folding doors, secured with a chain, which could open upon the mob and give play to my cannon. I furnished my office with Mexican lances and a limited number of guns. There were six or eight persons who stood ready to defend me. If defeated, they were to escape by a trap door in the roof, and I had placed a keg of powder, with a match, which I could set off and blow up the office and all my invaders; and this I should most certainly have done in case of the last extremity."

Whitehall, which has been willed to the public, is a large two and a half story building of brick and in a grove of beautiful evergreen trees. There are forty-two rooms, but only three or four of the rooms on the first floor are furnished. The main parlor and hall hold many rare relics of Gen. Clay's strenuous life. There are immense vases and gorgeous rugs, divans and chairs, all bought by Gen. Clay in St. Petersburg when he was minister to the court of St. James, and sent to his wife at Whitehall. There are also bowie knives and revolvers and guns of various descriptions that he used in the army and in his various fights and duels. Relic hunters from all parts of the country are already inquiring for these things, and when they are offered for sale the competition for them will be exceedingly keen. The house is just as it was when Gen. Clay died, and nothing may be done until the legal battle in the courts result in the final disposition of the estate. The mansion, although in good repair on the outside and well preserved within, is too large for a modern residence, and it is doubtful if it is ever used as a private residence.

TRADE CONDITIONS.

Business Generally Good—Adverse Weather For Great Staples.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Business has made moderate progress during the past week despite unusual opposition from the elements. When all other industries are to a considerable degree dependent upon agricultural conditions reports of serious injury to crops by cold and wet weather are not calculated to stimulate confidence. Subsequent corrections indicated that the amount of damage had been exaggerated as usual, and prospects brightened.

Traffic was impeded to a considerable extent, especially by water, and at most of the large cities there was more or less interruption to trade by storms or unseasonably high temperature. Labor troubles diminished at the east, but new ones are threatened at the west, and a Texas mining town was depopulated by the emigration of strikers. The car shortage is beginning to be felt, especially in the Pittsburg district, where sufficient labor cannot be secured for handling freight. Manufacturing plants are well occupied as a rule, even the textile mills reporting less idle machinery, and at Chicago there is notable pressure for implements and hardware. Lumber is in better demand as structural activity revives.

Textile mills are rather more fully employed, on the whole, although additions have been made to the idle cotton machinery, partially offsetting the increased activity of other spindles. No developments of importance occurred in the dry goods market. Jobbing trade continues satisfactory, but at first hands the situation is unchanged, and no definite improvement can be expected until prices and stocks of raw material are more nearly normal.

Weather conditions have been adverse for the great staples during the past week. Cautious estimates of the total crop made allowance for damage by frost and heavy rains since the tardiness of the corn and cotton crops made injury almost ineyitable. When the corn crop was placed at 2,000,000,000 bushels it was not contingent upon ideal temperature; loss was expected. When predictions of bumper crops were reduced it was not because damage had actually occurred, but the backwardness of the season indicated that early frost would do harm. The expected has happened and prices are firmer, but there is no reason to anticipate famine conditions.

Failures this week were 219 in the United States against 199 last year and 19 in Canada compared with 25 a year ago.

The New Maine Out Again.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 19.—The new battle ship Maine, which has been undergoing repairs at Cramp's shipyards for structural weakness which developed under tests of her heavy guns, has left the works of her builders, proceeding to the League Island navy yard. The Maine, which is in command of Captain H. G. Leutz, will stop only long enough to take on a supply of provisions and coal and have her magazines stored with ammunition. She will then sail for Culebra, West Indies, where she will participate in the fall maneuvers of the Atlantic coast squadron. The Maine will also undergo an official speed test.

Grant Favors the Canteen.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—The annual report of General F. D. Grant, commanding the department of Texas, has been made public at the war department. General Grant favors the canteen and discusses the question of maintaining strong military stations along the Mexican border.

Fees for General Election Explained by Congressman Lanning—Rate $25.

Congressman-elect William M. Lanning, of Trenton, having been asked for an opinion as to the compensation of election officers for their services in making and revising the registers of voters for the special election on the constitutional amendments and for their services in conducting that election, has advised his clients that for the special registration each officer is entitled to $3 and for the election $5.

BENFORD HAS A NEW LEG

PRESENTED WITH AN UP-TO-DATE SUPPORT BY HIS FRIENDS.

William Hand Assisted Deserving Youth—Original Leg Lost in Railroad Accident.

Peter Benford, a protege of William Hand, proprietor of the stables on East Second street, is the proud possessor of a new leg. Benford lost his leg when a boy by falling underneath a freight train and since then has been hobbling about most of the time on a wooden stump. Some months ago he suffered a heavy fall, broke his wooden ambulator and has been obliged to depend upon crutches ever since.

Benford is a deserving young man and a hard worker, and has been kept from obtaining steady work by his misfortune. For some time past, William Hand, for whom he does "odd jobs," has been circulating a petition to assist the young man by purchasing him a leg and yesterday the last of the $100 necessary was subscribed and the limb bought. The subscription was headed by Mayor O. L. Jenkins, and almost every other citizen who was appealed to for assistance contributed something, the amounts ranging from twenty-five cents to five dollars. As a result of this worthy work Benford will be able to obtain steady employment under Mr. Hand and assist materially in the support of his aged mother. The limb was manufactured by a New York firm and is as perfect a specimen as money can buy. By its help it is probable that Benford will be able, within a short time, to walk with no more than the slightest perceptible limp.

THEIR ANNUAL FIELD DAY

TRINITY COMMANDERY TO ATTEND KNIGHTS TEMPLAR OUTING.

Committee at Work Arranging for Railroad Transportation—Palestine Commandery to Go.

Preparations are being made by the members of Trinity Commandery, No. 17, Knights Templar, to attend the annual field day at Atlantic City on October 14. A committee from the Commandery is now making an effort to secure a reasonable railroad fare between this city and Atlantic City. It is understood that the New Jersey Central wants $3 a round trip, and that a certain number of passengers are needed in order to secure that rate.

The committee has learned that the Newark and Jersey City Commanderies are to have a rate of $2.50 and believes that Trinity Commandery is entitled to the same rate.

Palestine Commandery, of Elizabeth, is planning to make the trip in a body and a special train has been chartered to convey the sir knights and their Masonic friends to Atlantic City. Others special excursions will be run from various parts of the State and it is expected that the attendance will be the largest in the history of field days.

BACHELORS DEFEATED BENEDICTS AT GOLF

Single Men Vanquish Married Men on the Park Golf Club Course.

HILLSIDE CLUB PLAY

FIRST HONORS TO SHOEMAKER IN COMMITTEE CUP CONTEST.

Nelson A. Millar Captures First Honors at the Park Club for the President's Cup, and Ray B. Carroll for Club Cup.

In addition to the weekly play for the President's and Park Golf Club cups at the Park Golf Club, on Saturday, there was a team match between the Bachelors and Benedicts. The single men won out by the large score of 14 to 1. The match was interesting throughout, for the victors, although the married men did not relish the defeat.

In the play for the President's cup Nelson A. Miller won first honors, Ray B. Carroll second and S. St. John McCutchen third, and for the Park Golf Club cup, scratch play, Ray B. Carroll won first, S. St. John McCutchen second and Charles A. Reed third honors. These scores do not change the standing for the two cups very much, although the point-winners move up a peg.

These are the scores for the two cups:

Nelson A. Miller, 107, 24—83; Ray B. Carroll, 93, 9—84; S. St. John McCutchen, 99, 14—85; Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, 105, 19—86; A. W. Anderson, 103, 71—86; Charles A. Reed, 100, 13—87; Charles B. Morse, 101, 12—89; Leon R. Thurlow, 10 6, 15—91; George T. Rogers, 115, 20—95; Samuel Townsened, 110, 15—95; Rev. J. O. McKelvey, 111, 15—96.

This is the summary of the team match:

Bachelors—Ray B. Carroll, 6; G. W. Faber, 2; Leon R. Thurlow, 2; Charles B. Morse, 4; Frank Rogers, 0. Total, 14.

Benedicts—Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, 0; S. St. John McCutchen, 0; Rev. J. O. McKelvey, 0; Samuel Townsend, 0; W. L. Murray, 1. Total, 1.

Owing to the fact that a number of the regular players went to Harbor Hill on Saturday to take part in a team match, there were not a great many contestants on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course to post their scores for the Golf Committee cup, weekly competition. E. B. Shoemaker won first honors with a net score of 74, while E. P. Goodwin finished second with a score of 75. The one remaining point was divided between H. D. Hibbard, George A. Chapman and H. F. Fox each making a score of 81. The course was in superb condition, permitting the best of play.

These are the scores posted for the cup:

E. B. Shoemaker, 94, 20—74; E. P. Goodwin, 93, 18—75; H. D. Hibbard, 88, 7—81; George A. Chapman, 99, 18—81; H. F. Fox, 99, 18—81; C. B. Morgan, 95, 12—83; Charles A. Stover, 100, 15—85.

HILLSIDE TEAM WON.

Plainfield Golf Aggregation Easily Defeated Harbor Hill Team.

A seven-men team from the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club played a match game with the Harbor Hill team on Saturday, at Harbor Hill. The Hillside team won a decisive victory, the score being 27 to 7 in its favor. The summary:

HELD FOR HEINOUS OFFENSE

SCOTCH PLAINS BLACKSMITH ACCUSED BY CHILDREN.

Justice Clark Releases the Prisoner When $500 Bail is Furnished—Awaits Grand Jury's Action.

Edward Gotlick, who conducts a small blacksmith shop in Scotch Plains, was arraigned before Justice Clark yesterday morning, charged with criminal assault upon his nine-year-old niece, Clara, daughter of Louis Funck, of Graceland. The complaint was preferred by the father. Gotlick, by his own admission, proved himself no fit man to be at large. After pleading not guilty to the charge he admitted that the little one's story as told, was practically correct.

Mr. and Mrs. Funck spent Saturday evening at Galvin's Park, leaving the children with their uncle, who had been making his home with them for some time. While the parents were gone, Gotlick committed the offense which may land him behind the bars at Trenton. When the parents returned the little one told them of the assault in her childish way. The father decided to make a charge against his brother-in-law. Gotlick was held in $500 bail to await the action of the Grand Jury. During the afternoon a Westfield man furnished bail and the prisoner was released.

In accordance with the provisions of the special law concerning the constitutional amendments, which are to be voted on tomorrow, the Union County Board of Election convened at the Court House Saturday, for the purpose of receiving personal applications for registry from any legal voter whose name may have improperly, or inadvertently, been left off the list.

Under the law, the applicant, having presented sufficient evidence to satisfy the board that he is a legal voter, entitled to vote at the special election, the board may give its certificate to him to that effect, and add his name to the proper register.

Having received his certificate from the board of election, the voter must present the same to the board of registry and election of the district in which he is entitled to vote, and under the law, the board of registry is obliged to receive and file the certificate, and add the name to the register, provided the board is satisfied that he is entitled to vote in the district in which the certificate is presented.

MERRY-GO-ROUND IN EIGHTH ENDS ALIS

With Score 1 to 0 Against It Westfield's Men Cross Home Plate Ten Times.

"WARRY" GOES TO PIECES

UNTIL NEXT TO LAST INNING ALIS IN FINE FETTLE.

Big Crowd Cheers Rival Pitchers on Crescent Oval—The Story by Innings of a Fine Exhibition of Baseball.

It was a heartrending game of baseball between Alis and Westfield on Crescent Oval, Saturday afternoon, and the one thousand spectators left the grounds more fully impressed than ever of the uncertainty of the National game. After shutting the Westfield team out for seven innings and not giving them a ghost of a show to score, "Warry" MacLaughlin went completely to pieces and allowed his opponents to score ten runs, some of which he forced over the plate by giving the batsmen free passes. It was a bitter pill for the home crowd to swallow, for up to the eighth inning every Alis man was playing gilt-edged ball and the Westfielders were at their mercy. Honors seemed evenly divided between MacLaughlin and "Red" Waller, who pitched for Westfield, up to that fatal inning. In fact "Warry" had the advantage.

Armbruster, serving as a backstop for "Warry," was in fine form, although a trifle weak at the bat. Richardson held down first bag in his old time form, while Cooney, a snappy little player, covered second to perfection. Gastmeyer filled short stop position faultlessly, while Noyes, from the New London team, held down third base and accepted every chance and made some difficult stops. In the field, Snow, from the University of Michigan, played a brilliant game in left garden, while Freidburg, of the Equitable team, covered centre to the satisfaction of all. Both he and Snow had all of the flies. Banes was in right field, but he had little to do. His catcher did his best to hold him down in the eighth inning, but "Warry" was up a mile.

The game opened with Westfield at the bat. Smithson, the first batter up, went out on a ball thrown from MacLaughlin to Richardson, and Pastor followed suit, making the second out. Soffel struck out, retiring the side. In the first inning for Alis Cooney struck out, Armbruster got a free pass and on Snow's hit to Jones, a double play was made, Armbruster being thrown out at second and Snow at first.

The second inning opened with Mallen at the bat. He flied out to Gastmeyer. Rotchford made a two base hit, Carey went out on a fly to Gastmeyer, Jones got a free pass, and Burke was thrown out at first by Noyes, leaving Rotchford on third base. In the last half of the inning Richardson was thrown out at first base by Jones, Noyes was hit by a ball and reached first. Friedburg got to first on an error of Waller, and Barnes and Gastmeyer, the next men up, struck out, leaving Noyes and Friedburg on bases.

Waller made the first out in the opening of the third inning, being thrown out at first by Noyes, and Smithson went out the same way. Pastor flied out to Snow. In this nining Alis made the one lone run. MacLaughlin made a three base hit. Cooney flied out to Mallen and after Armbruster struck out, Snow made the crowd yell when he hit for two bases, bringing MacLaughlin home. The inning was closed when Richardson went out from Smithson to Rotchford.

The fourth inning was a short one. Soffel went out from Noyes to Richardson, Mallen struck out and Rotchford went out on a fly to Snow. For Alis, Snow went out on a fly to Smithson. Friedburg made a two base hit, but Barnes went out on a fly to Jones and Friedburg was caught at second, retiring the side.

Neither side scored in the fifth inning. Carey flied out to Snow, and Jones flied out to Noyes, while Burke struck out. In the other half Gastmeyer was thrown out at first by Smithson, MacLaughlin and Cooney struck out.

In the sixth inning, Waller reached first on a hard hit which Richardson could not field, Smithson was thrown out at first by Cooney, Pastor got a pass and Soffel flied out to Friedburg,

BANKS TO BE OPEN TOMORROW

PAYMENT WILL BE DEMANDED ON PAPER FALLING DUE.

All Banks in the State Will Have Their Doors Open As Usual, Despite Election.

It has been decided that tomorrow, September 22, is not a legal holiday and the State banking institutions will be open for business during the regular hours.

The attorneys for the several banking institutions in Trenton held a meeting a few days ago and decided to advise that the banks keep their doors open for the transaction of such business as their depositors or any debtor might wish to transact. So far as commercial paper falling due on that day is concerned the advice will be that payment be demanded. In case the obligations are not met Tuesday the notes will be protested and if not paid Wednesday they will be again protested that day. It is generally believed that all of the banks in the State will remain open tomorrow.

STORM'S VICTIM AT REST

TOUCHING FUNERAL SERVICE OVER LITTLE JOE WALLS.

Services in Hope Chapel Attended by His Playmates and Friends —Burial at Hillside.

Joseph H. Walls, the ten-year-old son of Joseph and Elizabeth Walls, of Essex street, who was killed by grasping a live wire during last Wednesday's storm, was buried Saturday afternoon at 2:30 from Hope Chapel, amid a profusion of flowers and set-pieces contributed by his little playmates. There were beautiful set-pieces from the Hope Young Men's Association of which the boy was mascot, from his playmates of Essex street, from the members of his Sunday-school class at Hope Chapel and from his classmates in the Irving School. There was a large and especially handsome floral tribute from the boys who were with Joseph at the time of his death.

Rev. L. R. Howard, of Hope Chapel, conducted the services and the bearers were Joseph Sweeney, Hugh Sweeney, Russell Randolph, John Fritz, Edward Howes and William Firstbrook. The congregation, which filled the cahpel to the doors, joined in singing the boy's favorite hymn, "Safe in the Arms of Jesus." The interment was in Hillside Cemetery.

REV. J. S. ZELIE BEGINS WORK HERE

Commences His Labors As Pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian Church.

MAKES AN IMPRESSION

PREACHES TO LARGE CONGREGATIONS AT BOTH SERVICES.

He Speaks Clearly and Forcibly—Uses Simple Language Which Carries Conviction of His Intense Earnestness.

Rev. John Sheridan Zelie, late of the First Reformed Church of Schenectady, N. Y., preached his first sermons to Plainfield congregations yesterday morning and evening as pastor of the Crescent Avenue Church. He made a most pleasing impression and was greeted at both services by congregations that filled every pew.

Though not a great pulpit orator, Mr. Zelie is a satisfying one. He is easy and graceful in carriage and gesture, and speaks in clear and incisive tones. His voice is agreeable, perhaps with no hidden depths of feeling, but still convincing the hearer that its owner is thoroughly in earnest. Mr. Zelie's addresses yesterday were thoughtful, forcibly presented in simple language, and claiming attention from first to last. The speaker confined himself closely to his notes.

In his morning sermon, Mr. Zelie referred to Dr. Richards' "ministry of ministers, a part of the great traditions of the church, filled with God's fruitage and blessings and pointing the way to a hopeful future."

In the evening, he spoke of the meaning and power of prayer, stating that the true prayer consists in the constant striving to do God's work. Mr. Zelie assisted in the service at Hope Memorial Chapel, one of the church's missions, in the afternoon. He was everywhere extended cordial greetings, assurances of faith in his successful pastorage and congregations on his able addresses.

Second round—A. L. Otterson beat J. F. Middledith, 6-3, 6-3; A. D. Beers beat Francis deL. Hyde, 6-0, 6-2; H. D. Bulkley beat T. M. Day, Jr., 6-3; 10-8; F. W. Goddard beat Charles A. King, 6-0, 6-0.

Third round—A. D. Beers beat A. L. Otterson, 6-3, 6-2; H. D. Bulkley beat F. W Goddard, 6-4, 7-5. This leaves A. D. Beers and H. D. Bulkley to play the finals next Saturday afternoon.

COLORED BRETHERN ACTIVE.

Not Discouraged by Present Financial Troubles, They Plan Improvements.

Former Superintendent Jones says that Rev. Scott Wallace, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church, preached a sermon of exceptional interest last night. The audience was so large that all were unable to find seats. The pastor announced that the church is to be enlarged, a pipe organ is to be purchased and the edifice to be furnished with handsome new pews, all at an expense of about $3,000. Deacons Conway, Branch, Wellington, Probasco and Robinson declared their intention of backing the pastor to the limit.

TALKS TO TOILERS.

First of a Series of Special Sermons by Dr. Snodgrass.

"Too Little for His Place," was the subject of a sermon, the first of a series of four, delivered by Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, pastor of the First M. E. Church, last evening. He said that success comes from within and not from without. The truth of this statement was illustrated by drawing the lesson from Saul.

Blow at Irish Cause.

The Irish Republicans, the few there are, cannot think very highly of Senator Kean, since he has dealt so telling a blow against "home rule," as MacMurray puts it.—Elizabeth Evening Times.

BIG RALLY DAY AT TRINITY

ROLL-CALL AT REFORMED CHURCH'S SUNDAY-SCHOOL SHOWS 419 THERE.

Rev. Dr. Edwin L. Earp Makes An Address—Special Music a Feature.

After the customary vacation the pupils of Trinity Reformed Sunday-school flocked back to their Bible lessons yesterday afternoon, four hundred and nineteen strong. This is said to be the largest attendance at any one regular session of the school since it was founded. The Rally Day celebration at that church, and with special song service and an address by Rev. Dr. Edwin L. Earp, pastor of the Grace M. E. Church, marked the commencement of school work.

The choir of the church rendered several special selections and Miss Florence Bennett, late of England, sang two solos. The roll call was an interesting feature of the afternoon. Secretary Elias Bird read off the names of each class, five of which responded, "all present." These were the classes of Mrs. Virginia Chickering, Mrs. Frank Woodruff, Miss May Randolph, Miss Grace Berg and E. F. Sheppard.

The address by Rev. Dr. Earp was especially helpful to the pupils. Taking the meaning of the word "rally" as found in the dictionary, the pastor dwelt on the definition "uniting for strength." The speaker said that rally day meant the reorganizing of the Sunday-school for another year's work which meant spiritual strength for the pupils and for the church. The primary department sang a children's selection, entitled, "The Shepherd's Song." The opening prayer was made by Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck.

PENSION RESTORED.

A Poor Woman Again Placed on Uncle Sam's Bounty List.

An article appearing in The Daily Press regarding the pension laws resulted today in restoring a poor widow to a position on Uncle Sam's pension list. The woman is Mrs. Amanda C. Clark, nee Potter, whose first husband was killed while on picket duty at Atlanta, Ga., during the Civil War.

When she saw the article in this paper she went at once to Justice W. E. Mattison and filed papers petitioning the pension department for a monthly allowance. Mrs. Clark resides at 9 Grove street, North Plainfield. When her first husband died she married a dentist by the name of Clark. His death occurred several years ago and she has been practically destitute ever since.

SCOTCH PLAINS WON; BUT ONE RUN SCORED

Great Exhibition of Ball in Game Between Suburbanites and St. Mary's.

A PITCHER'S BATTLE

MAN IN THE BOX FOR THE VISITORS FINALLY CONQUERED.

Only Two Errors Made by Each Team—Much Hard Work Fanning the Air—Few Hits Made—Some Clever Fielding.

In a pitcher's battle on Hope Common Saturday afternoon, the St. Mary's team was defeated by the Scotch Plains nine, the score being 4 to 1 in the latter's favor. It was the final game in a series of three. Davis, in the box for the visitors, and Hughes, occupying a similar position for the home team, fought it out, the Scotch Plains man carrying off the honors. St. Mary's could only make six scattering hits and Davis forced eight of them to cut holes in the air. Hughes was touched up for a total of ten hits, and he made four of the visitors pound the air.

The support back of both pitchers would put some of the league teams to shame, only two errors being made by each team, one of these by Davis in the home team's first half, was the means of giving them their one solitary run. Gauvan hit along first base line, "Lefty" in fielding the ball made an error that landed the runner safe at first. Hartman, who had been presented with a free pass, went to second on error. Butler lined safe hit in left field which advanced both runners. Lamar came up and "Lefty" for some reason could not find the plate, and the batter walked, forcing in Hartman. One of the pretty features of the game was Mr. Cullin's unpartial umpiring, not a kick being made by either team. Following is the summary:

Moro Music.

Moro music is strangely unrhythmical to European ears. It consists mainly of a monotonous reiteration of sound, even a supposed change of air being almost imperceptible to an ear unaccustomed to the barbarous lack of tone. The Moro piano is a wooden frame shaped like the runners of a child's sled, on which small kettle drums are balanced by means of cords and sticks laid horizontally. These rather resemble pots for the kitchen range than musical instruments, but each is roughly tuned, forming the eight notes of the scale. Women crouching on the floor before this instrument beat out a wailing sound from it with shaped sticks, while from larger kettle drums, hung by ropes from a wooden railing at one side, two men accompanied the piano, and one old woman in the background drummed out an independent air of her own on an empty tin pan. —From "Tales of a Tawi Tawi Garrison," in Everybody's Magazine.

A Curious Fact.

A traveler writes: "I have often been struck by the ease with which people in southern Europe are amused. In Paris 100,000 people go out to Longchamps for the Grand Prix race and 500,000 people go out and line the roads on their return to see them come back. In Rome at the feast of the "Divino Amore" 5,000 people go out on the Campaigna to a spot where once stood a temple to Venus and hold a picnic, while 50,000 go out and line the Appian way to see them return. In Madrid this peculiarity is even more marked. On the Puerta del Sol about 1,000 people stand around and do nothing outdoors, while crowds of people sit indoors or lean frm balcnies to watch them do it. And in Seville the idle rich sit in clubs and cafes on the Sierpes to watch the lower classes walk by, while the lower classes walk by to watch the idle rich sitting in the clubs and cafes on the Sierpes."—Chicago Daily News.

FIGHT WITH POACHERS.

Pennsylvania Game Warden Shoots Violator of the Law.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 21.—E. W. Campbell, one of the game wardens of Luzerne county, has shot and probably fatally wounded Roman Dalos, aged thirty-five years, near Campbell's lodge, two miles from Pittston.

Several foreigners have been violating the game laws, especially on Sunday. Campbell, with other officers, found five men prowling around the woods with guns. He notified them to leave, which they refused to do. An attempt was made to put Dalos under arrest, when the latter raised his gun to shoot. As he did so Campbell seized the weapon. It was discharged in the scuffle, the contents entering Campbell's clothing. Both men fell to the ground. Dalos made an attempt to recharge the gun, on doing which Campbell pulled his revolver, and in a second struggle Dalos was shot, the ball striking him in the back.

The other four hunters, all foreigners, are under arrest.

Bold Jail Delivery.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Sept. 21.—A daring jail delivery has been accomplished here. Squire Hibler, Clayton Day and Frank Chenault, negroes, the first a convict and the other ex-convicts and all awaiting sentence to prison terms for murder and robbery, made good their escape. To accomplish it Chenault split the head of Deputy Jailer Merritt Williams with a bottle, seriously injuring him, and opened the doors for the others. The negro Hibler was wearing the garb of the state prison, from which he had been removed to the jail to stand trial for the murder of a fellow convict, and before leaving the jail he stole the citizens' suit of a fellow inmate and left his stripes behind. The alarm was given immediately, but the prisoners have not yet been found.

Boston Transfer Fraud Arrests.

LYNN, Mass., Sept. 21.—Two employees of the Boston and Northern Street railway have been arrested in this city in connection with the extensive frauds perpetrated upon that company by means of bogus transfer checks which have been exposed in Boston. The men are Herbert E. Shawman, janitor at the Central Square station of the company, and Herbert Morris, a conductor on the Lynn and Boston division. Shawman admitted having purchased about $4,000 worth of the counterfeit transfers at various times, while Morris at the time of his arrest had 400 of the bogus checks in his pockets.

No Clew Yet In Dexter Murder.

MALONE, N. Y., Sept. 21.—No clew has yet been found to the murderer of Orlando P. Dexter, a millionaire landowner of Norwalk, Conn., who was ambushed and shot in a lonely highway half a mile from his summer cottage on Dexter lake, in the town of Waverly, on Saturday. The scene is in the wildest section of the Adirondack mountains. Dexter was a lawyer and made a specialty of real estate and large land transactions. He was well known in this city and was frequently here on business. Whether he had an altercation with any one recently is not known.

Many Desertions Reported.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—General MacArthur, commanding the department of California, in his annual report says: "One thousand three hundred and forty-four men deserted during the fiscal year covered by this report. Of this number 914 were from the permanent garrisons in the department and represent approximately 19.42 per cent of the main strength thereof for the year. The remaining 430 were from recruits, casuals and regiments passing to and from the Philippines."

Long Fast For Health's Sake.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—News has reached Columbia university of the remarkable fast of Wellington Putnam, formerly instructor in elocution in the department of English at the university. Mr. Putnam succeeded in going without food for forty days near Silver City, N. M. The fast was not attempted as a mere experiment or for notoriety, but was undergone to cure a kidney affection with which the instructor had been bothered for some time.

Telegraph and Telephone United.

UTICA, N. Y., Sept. 21.—An innovation in the line of railroad telegraph service has been put into use on the New York Central railroad between this city and Albany. By means of the apparatus a single wire can be used for telegraph and telephone messages at the same time. While the operator is ticking away a telegram in the Morse code another person can telephone a message without the slightest interference.

Fishing Vessel Wrecked.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Sept. 21.—The French fishing vessel Aigion went ashore at Cape Ray, within two miles of the spot where the British steamer Topaze was wrecked, Saturday. The crew escaped, but saved nothing of their effects. One sailor had a leg broken. This disaster makes four within two days.

MORE RESIGNATIONS

British Political Crisis Grows Intense.

FOUR CABINET POSTS NOW VACANT

Speculation Regarding Premier Balfour's Appointments the Absorbing Theme in London Press and Gossip.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—Lord Balfour of Burleigh, secretary for Scotland, and Arthur Ralph Douglas Elliot, financial secretary to the treasury, have resigned and their resignations have been accepted by the king. Mr. Elliot was not in the cabinet. These two resignations make a total of four vacant cabinet posts and one secretaryship at Mr. Balfour's disposition.

The political crisis is still the sole topic of discussion in the United Kingdom. Premier Balfour is expected to have an audience of King Edward at Balmoral, after which, doubtless, he will present the nominations for the cabinet vacancies. The exact nature of these appointments still continues a matter of varied surmise. Regarding the eventual result of the upheaval the Spectator's forecast, that Mr. Balfour when he appeals to the country will be beaten and succeeded by a Rosebery cabinet, which will not last long, attracts the greatest attention.

It is learned from an authoritative source that Mr. Balfour expects Mr. Chamberlain to re-enter the cabinet in the event that an appeal to the country returns Mr. Balfour to power. Both desire, however, that the elections be postponed as long as possible in order to give Mr. Chamberlain the opportunity to impress his views on the people. If the government is returned, or if a weak Liberal ministry is returned in power only a short time, Mr. Balfour anticipates that he and Mr. Chamberlain will reorganize a new ministry.

"It has been Mr. Chamberlain's purpose," said a person who has every reason for knowing, "to form a party of his own, and he may take advantage of the present opportunity to carry out his intention. His reputation as the only public man in England with a definite policy, coupled with his strength of will and ability, may enable him to achieve his ambition. In case of the success at the elections of his advanced programme of preferential tariffs he would form his own cabinet and probably displace Mr. Balfour as premier."

At Birmingham Saturday a conference of 330 delegates from co-operative societies and trades unions in the United Kingdom, representing a membership of 240,000, was held. The conference adopted a resolution expressing belief in the advantage of free trade and condemning preferential tariffs as adding to the burdens of the working classes and creating international and colonial discord.

Coal Land Contest Settled.

PUEBLO, Colo., Sept. 21.—The coal land contest between the government and the Colorado Fuel and Iron company, which has occupied the attention of the Pueblo land office and the Washington authorities for the last four months, has been settled by compromise. The steel company will pay $20 per acre, the price asked for the coal land, instead of $2.50 paid for timber and stone land claims. It is understood the Colorado Fuel and Iron company will pay about $500,000. The Victor Fuel company has also settled with the government on the same basis on a large number of coal land claims taken up under the timber and stone act.

A Union Opposed to Strikes.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 21.—A labor union the fundamental principles of which are opposition to all strikes and in favor of settling disputes with employers by arbitration has been organized here. The organization is to be known as the Independent Association of Brass Workers. Delegates representing the brass workers in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Cleveland and other cities met the local craftsmen in a conference which resulted in the formation of the union.

Irish Want Independence.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—At the Auditorium last night a huge meeting under the auspices of the United Irish Societies of Chicago adopted resolutions declaring that no settlement of the Irish question short of national independence will satisfy the aspirations of the Irish people. The occasion for the gathering was the one hundredth anniversary of the execution of Robert Emmet. The speakers at the meeting included General Nelson A. Miles, Rabbi Hirsh, Judge Marcus Kavanagh and Hon. John F. Finerty.

BULGARIA EXPLAINS

Her Note to the Powers Not an Ultimatum.

GOVERNMENT'S DIFFICULT POSITION

While Trying to Avoid Hostilities the Macedonians Within Her Borders Are Continually Endeavoring to Force a Conflict.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Sept. 21.—Some apprehension having apparently been created owing to a misunderstanding regarding the precise meaning of Bulgaria's last note to the powers, explanations have been given to some diplomatic agents herd that the memorandum was not intended as an ultimatum, but was rather in the nature of an appeal for the intervention of the great powers before that interveation would be too late. The Bulgarian ministry, it was stated, was determined to maintain its attitude of neutrality up to the last moment, but it felt the impossibility of standing by indefinitely while the Turks exterminated the Bulgarian element in Macedonia.

The government's position is rendered increasingly difficult by the attitude of the Macedonian population in Bulgaria, which, vigorously backed up by the revolutionary committee, is persistently endeavoring to force the government's hand and provoke hostilities with Turkey.

A special dispatch from the monastery of Rila, Bulgaria, says the condition of the Turkish garrison of Melnik, sixty-five miles northeast of Salonika, is believed to be extremely critical. It is besieged by bands of insurgents under the leadership of Yankoff, Stoyanoff, Darvinghoff and Zografoff, all of whom were formerly Bulgarian officers. The insurgents number 1,500, while the garrison is believed to consist of only one battalion.

Melnik is a very important strategic point in the mountains, commanding the road between Demirhissar and Razlog. The Turks have withdrawn nearly all their forces from the districts of Danoumaia and Razlog to send them to the relief of Melnik. As a consequence unusual tranquility prevails throughout the district of Razlog, where the authorities, lacking the support of the troops, have ceased their policy of persecution, and the beys are even furnishing bands with food. The Turkish population is described as being in a state of great consternation.

A company of Turkish soldiers and Bashibazouks recently found the hiding place of a hundred families of refugees from the villages of Dupeni and Echla, near Resen. They captured the party, violated the women and committed other atrocities.

The united bands of Monassieff and Michailof have had an encounter with the troops near Demir-Kapu.

THE SULTAN SORRY.

Expresses Regret to Russian Ambassador For Excesses of His Soldiers.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 21. — In an audience with M. Zinovieff, the Russian ambassador, Friday the sultan expressed his regret at the excesses committed by the Turkish troops in the vilayets of Monastir and Adrianople. He said that orders had been sent to the authorities concerned to prevent their repetition, and he gave the Russian ambassador to understand that the guilty parties would be punished.

The German ambassador, Baron Marschall von Bieberstein, also had an audience with the sultan, who showed himself most optimistic. The latter declared that the insurrection was drawing to a close. In fact, it had already been suppressed in some districts, and the porte would therefore immediately issue proclamations announcing the resumption of the application of the reform scheme.

After the granting of these audiences an extraordinary council of ministers was held at Yildiz kiosk, and the deliberations were continued on Saturday. It is understood that the council drew up fresh instructions to the valis in the sense of his majesty's declaration.

Official dispatches from the valis of Salonika, Monastir and Adrianople report numerous encounters which resulted in favor of the Turks.

A Wild Macedonian Rumor.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—The Daily Mail's correspondent at Sofia telegraphs: "One of the revolutionary chiefs has informed me that they are massing thousands of men at various points on the frontier, and their laboratories are working incessantly to replenish their stock of bombs and explosives. They do not count much on war between Turkey and Bulgaria, but on the day they hear that the meeting between the czar and Emperor Joseph has not had the desired result for Macedonia the world will witness the beginning of massacres, burning and destruction compared with which the Turkish atrocities will seem child's play. 'The banners of revolution,' my informant says, 'will be unfurled in all the border districts. Every city and village, whether the inhabitants are friends or foes, will be destroyed, and such a state of anarchy will be caused that the Turks will step out voluntarily and leave the country to the Macedonian survivors. We have selected the frontier districts for these final operations so that Europe may hear the despairing cries of the dying nation which the Turks would stifle.'"

NO HOPE FOR TREATY

Ratification For the Present Abandoned at Bogota.

SENATE OFFICIALS FAVOR REYES.

Upon the General's Success In Coming Presidential Contest the Treaty's Supporters Base Their Ultimate Hope.

BOGOTA, Colombia, Sept. 21.—All hope of the ratification of the Panama canal treaty for the present has been abandoned. The discussion seems hopeless, and congress probably will adjourn on Oct. 20.

The senate has elected the following officers, all of whom are supporters of General Rafael Reyes in his candidacy for the presidency of the republic: President, Marcelius Arango; vice president, Enrique Navaiz; electors for the next presidential election, Guillermo Torres and Vicente Omana.

The first Sunday in December next has been decided upon for the holding of the next presidential election in Colombia. Each municipal district chooses by popular vote electors, who meet on Feb. 1, 1904, in the capitals of the provinces and departments and vote for the president and vice president. The results after being examined by a scrutinizing committee are sent to Bogota, where a central committee of electors composed of two members appointed by the senate, two appointed by the house of representatives and two by the state council declare the result of the election.

NEW GOVERNOR FOR PANAMA.

Obaldia's Accession Part of Plan to Pass Canal Treaty.

PANAMA, Sept. 21.—Senator Obaldia yesterday took over the functions of governor of Panama. The event was the occasion for great popular demonstrations by all parties. It is thought that the appointment of Governor Obaldia may perhaps exert influence against secessionist ideas, not only because he is a native of Panama, which in fact engages for him the sympathies of all, but because his appointment apparently is part of a general plan the result of which will be the election of General Reyes to the presidency and the approval of a canal treaty satisfactory to the United States.

Governor Obaldia in reply to Dr. Florentine Goenaga, president of the high court of justice, said:

"I maintain because they were well meditated the sincere opinions I expressed as a senator of the republic. I consider that the interests of the world urgently demand the construction of a canal, and they have a right to ask our co-operation. The concessions, the object of which is to serve these interests, though they may imply a sacrifice of sovereignty, are not against the national dignity. We cannot deny civilization what it requires from us—to continue its victorious march."

All the speeches delivered at this function, not only by isthmians, but by natives of the rest of the republic, demonstrated that all the inhabitants of Panama are in favor of the treaty.

Dr. Herran's Message Secret.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Interest in the Panama canal situation now centers in the communication which Dr. Herran, the Colombian charge, recently submitted to the state department from his government. Just what the nature of this is Dr. Herran and the state department officials declined to say on the ground it is of confidential character, but it is understood that it is in the nature of a proposition which will keep alive the canal negotiations with the Colombian government after the expiration of Sept. 22, at which time the existing treaty expires by limitation.

Wife Assaulter Arrested.

EAST SULLIVAN, N. H., Sept. 21.—Officers have arrested Malachi Barnes, the farmer living just outside this village whose wife was brutally assaulted Saturday night, the assault being followed by an attack upon Ashael Dunton, a boarder, who, as a result, now lies at the point of death. Barnes was removed to the jail at Keene, where he is held on suspicion. Dunton was removed to Elliott hospital at Keene, where those in charge hold out no hope for his recovery. Mrs. Barnes is still in a serious condition.

Primary Law Constitutional.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 21.—The primary elections law passed by the last session of the legislature has been held to be constitutional in an opinion just filed here by Justice Garrison of the state supreme court. The law was attacked in mandamus proceedings in the case of a councilmanic nomination made in Hoboken under the old law, the city clerk at Hoboken refusing to receive a certificate of such nomination.

A vote for the amendments means that constitutional revision is a long way off, but use your own judgment.

A dispatch from Chatham, N. J., reports the birth of a calf with two heads. It rivals some political calves having no heads.

Just a century ago yesterday, Robert Emmet, Irish patriot and politician, died a martyr to Erin's cause. He was one of the few true friends of Ireland.

Rockefeller has been enjoined by a railroad. Such an insignificant thing as a railroad is a mere bauble to the man who holds three per cent. of the wealth of the United States.

The Paterson Daily Press, a newsy sheet, celebrates its fortieth anniversary today. That it enjoys the public confidence is shown by the fact that it has the largest circulation in Passaic County.

It is a sad condition of affairs when an election is held upon a question of which the public is in profound ignorance. Good citizens, if such they may be called, frankly admit that they have not given the subject of the constitutional amendments a moment's thought.

According to a New York magistrate, these are the chapters in the life of the boy who smokes the rice covered roll: Cigarettes, liquor, craps, gambling and State prison. He says that ninety-nine out of every hundred boys brought before him charged with criminal offenses are inveterate cigarette smokers.

Does anyone, especially Governor Franklin Murphy, who was in the battle, believe that General George B. McClellan's honored name, was unintentionally forgotten by the speakers at the battle monument unveiling who eulogized the great men engaged in the conflict at Antietam? "Little Mac" is a treasured remembrance of the valiant men who fought under him, and President Roosevelt has laid himself open to attack for the slight.

New Jersey's voters will be called upon tomorrow to pass judgment on the proposed amendments to the State Constitution and it is the duty of every man holding the right of suffrage to cast a ballot signifying his approval or disapproval of the suggested changes. The election is a special one, provided for by the last Legislature, and is equally, if not more important, than the regular November election. Unfortunately little interest has been taken in the matter and the discussion of the merits of the scheme to amend the constitution has been confined mostly to the press and bar. In no sense are the amendments a party measure and the attempt to make them such in various sections of the State has largely met with failure.

Matters effecting the judicial system should be stripped of practical politics. The judiciary is a sacred department of government and the moment party politics is allowed to enter into it the State, or in other words the people, will suffer. The bench and bar are responsible for the proposed changes and as a rule sanction them. However some of the leading legal lights are divided on the question. R. A. Lindabury, of Newark, who is considered as being in the front rank of the profession, favors them, while Cortlandt Parker, of the same city, another able barrister, has taken up the cudgels for those opposed to the scheme. Mr. Parker's views are shared by Vice-chancellor Bird, and others qualified to give an opinion as to the merits and demerits of the plan. From time to time The Daily Press has published views expressed by others pro and con and this paper takes the stand that the matter is one which should be decided by the individual voter irrespective of his party allegiance.

Altogether there are six amendments and the voter is given the right to vote for or against any or all of them. If opposed to any particular amendment he must so signify by writing the word "against" on the margin of the ballot opposite that amendment and black ink or a black lead pencil must be used for this purpose. If these instructions are not followed the ballot will be thrown out in the count. The polls will be open from 6 o'clock in the morning until 7 o'clock at night. A list of the polling places in this city and in the borough will be found in another column.

Now as to the amendments themselves. As stated they are six in number. The first pertains to the board of pardons. At present this board consists of the Governor, the Chancellor and six special judges of the Court of Errors and Appeals. It is proposed to confine it to the Governor, the Chancellor and the Attorney General. By the second amendment a separate Court of Errors and Appeals to consist of five members will take the place of the present court of sixteen members. This is the real issue at stake, and is more important than all the rest. The vice chancellors are simply advisors to the chancellor at present but by the third amendment they will be vested with full power. The fourth amendment makes arrangement for the Supreme Court to sit in divisions and at various parts of the State. It should be stated that at present this court confines its sittings to the State Capitol. A right is given the Legislature to alter or abolish the Courts of Common Pleas in the various counties by the fifth amendment. These changes are proposed to be made whenever it is seen that the public good requires. The sixth and last amendment delegates to the Governor power to appoint the vice-chancellors, which is now exercised by the chancellor. It also abolishes the right of the Legislature, in joint session, to appoint Common Pleas judges.

It is up to the voter now.

Roumanian Petroleum.

The production of petroleum in Roumania has grown from 56,000 tons in 1893 to 310,000 tons in 1903. Three companies practically control the entire industry. Kerosene and gasoline go principally to Germany, Great Britain, Norway, Bulgaria and France, while the greater part of the exports of crude oil is taken by Austro-Hungarian refineries.—Trade Journal.

Missing Londoners.

No fewer than 20,000 persons are reported missing in London every year. Only about one-fifth of these missing persons are ever accounted for by suicides and in other ways. The others disappear from friends forever. Many of them are "wanted" by the police, which explains why they do not reappear. Numbers of them leave London.

Equals.

Mr Jones was a deacon in the Methodist church, his religion being reserved for the Sabbath. One day he heard a workman swearing, and he stopped to argue with him on the enormity of his sin. "Oh, well," said the man, "you play a little, and I swear a little, and we don't either of us mean anything."—Lippincott's.

John Cooper, the day foreman at the round house, met with a painful accident yesterday afternoon while at work. He was assisting some machinists who were erecting a stationery engine in the round house, when a large piece of steel pipe slipped and fell, striking him on the side of the head and knocking him down. The pipe made a wound on the side of his head. He was picked up in an unconscious condition and taken to his home in a carriage. A physician was summoned who brought him too and dressed the wound. He will be laid up for some time.

George Kuldoshes is seriously ill with appendicitis at his home on North avenue. He was considerable better this morinng and it is hoped that an operation will not be necessary.

MERRY-GO-ROUND IN EIGHTH ENDS ALIS

while Waller was caughs trying to steal third by Armbruster who threw the ball to Noyes. Armbruster opened the last half by getting his base on balls, Snow sacrificed, being thrown out at first by Waller, Richardson flied out to Carey and Noyes was thrown out at first by Smithson.

Again in the seventh there were no runs. Mallen flied out to Friedburg, Rotchford made a single, but was thrown out a second on a ball hit to Gastmeyer and thrown to Cooney. Jones flied out to Snow. For Alis Friedburg struck out, Barnes was thrown out at first by Jones and Gastmeyer was thrown out at first by Smithson.

Here is where Westfield brought terror to the hearts of the home crowd, when in the opening of the eighth, they scored ten runs. Burke got a free pass, Waller flied out to Noyes, Smithson hit to right field, Pastor got a fielder's choice and Burke scored. Soffel struck out, Mallen and Rotchford were given their base, forcing Smithson home, Carey and Jones hit to centre and left field and Pastor, Mallen and Rotchford scored, Burke was hit by a ball, Waller got a free pass, forcing Carey in, Smithson hit to centre field, scoring Jones and Burke and Pastor's hit scored Waller and Smithson and Soffel struck out. The damage was done and the snap was taken out of the game.

In the last half of the inning Alis could do nothing. MacLaughlin was thrown out at first by Waller, Cooney flied out to Burke and Armbruster struck out.

Westfield could not score in the first half of the ninth. Mallen flied out to Gastmeyer, Rotchford flied out to Snow and Carey struck out. Neither could Alis redeem tehmselves. Snow flied out to Pastor, Richardson reached first on a single. Noyes followed with an infield hit and a double play retired the side, Richardson being put out at second and Noyes at first.

USHER IN HEBREW NEW YEAR

ROSH HOSHANAH IS HERE AND SERVICES WILL BE HELD.

The Jewish Year 5,664 Begins Today—Everything Cleansed—Day of Rejoicing.

Commencing tonight the feast of Rosh Hoshanah, the Hebrew New Year, will be observed in this city, as well as throughout the world. The celebration will begin at sunset tonight and continue tomorrow and Wednesday.

It marks the commencement of the 5,664th Jewish year, the first ten days of which are days of penitence. The tenth day is the Day of Atonement. Five days later the Feast of Tabernacles (the Jewish Thanksgiving) is celebrated.

Retormed and orthodox Israelites, while differing in their forms of ceremonies, agree that the New Year marks the time for the cleansing of everything that has been used in the preceding twelve months.

This is the universal day of rejoicing when presents and congratulatory cards are exchanged, and family reunions held.

The Genuine vs. Counterfeits.

The genuine is always better than a counterfeit, but the truth of this statement is never more forcibly realized or more thoroughly appreciated than when you compare the genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve with the many counterfeits and worthless substitutes that are on the market. W. S. Ledbetter, of Shreveport, La., says: "After using numerous other remedies without benefit, one box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me." For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles no remedy is equal to DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Sold by L. W. Randolph.

As to Old Ages.

The pope has lived long, but Thomas Parr and Henry Jenkins are, respectively, credited with the ages of 152 and 169. Jeanne Serimphan was married when she was 127 and died when she was 128. Dr. Dufournel married at 116 and became the father of two children, and died at 120. Marie Prieu reached the age of 158. A woman of Metz, the mother of 24 children, died at the age of 100. Surgeon Politman celebrated his one hundred and fortieth birthday. Patrick O'Neil buried seven wives and lied at 120, and a Norwegian peasant is recorded as dying at 160 and leaving two sons, one aged 108 and the other only nine summers. Mr. Robert Taylor lived to be 134, and died of excitement on receiving the picture of Queen Victoria signed by herself. An Irishman named Brown, who was a habitual drunkard, lived to be 120. A French drunkard lived to be 112; he had a daily jag for 90 years. Durand d'Etivel, of Cahors, lived to be 128. A woman of 124 drank strong coffee in great quantities all her days, while a man of 114 lived on fruit, chiefly melons, and chewed lemon peel.—Portland Oregonian.

When Tickling Chimpanzees.

It has been observed that if the tamed dog is taken back to the wild state, he loses his voice. These "sounding voices" are produced in the animal throat in a way similar to human language, but are not "voices" proper, nor "languages" proper, and yet they are full of psychological expression, and reveal the animal's psychic states. If we tickle a chimpanzee in the armpit, the touch produces a grin on the face similar to that of a man under like circumstances. He also emits laughter-like sounds. The same is the case with the orang-outang. The gorilla knits the brow when angry, just like men. We often observe in apes a complete change in the facial muscles when something is going to happen, be it agreeable or disagreeable. It is so also with the child. In apes there is evidently the same connection between the facial muscles and vocal muscles as in man.—London Answers.

PRESIDENT PALMA'S TOUR.

Speaking Near Famous Battle Field, He Urges Cubans to Be Faithful.

SANTIAGO, Cuba, Sept. 21.—Speaking at the village of El Caney, close to the scene of the battle between the Americans and the Spaniards, President Palma urged the Cuban people to jealously guard the ideals they had obtained by means of intervention.

The presidential party were enthusiastically received on their arrival at El Caney. The alcalde having remarked that the gathering was mostly composed of veterans, President Palma assured them he wanted to pay the army as badly as anybody, because the payment was not only an act of justice, but was necessary to the reconstruction of the country. Nobody loved Cuban independence more than himself, continued the president.

The only way to sacrifice the republic would be to bring about a civil war. He believed there was not one veteran in a thousand who would not prefer to maintain the honor of Cuba even to the extent of forfeiting his soldier's pay. The Cubans, having accepted United States intervention as a means of ending their troubles, were under an obligation to follow those ideals and prove themselves a peaceable people.

Speaking of the appearance of the band of insurrectionists near Santiago, President Palma condemned the hidden instigators of the uprising. The alcalde declared that no one within two leagues of El Caney had joined the band.

Porto Rico Coffee Men Organize.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Sept. 21.—The coffee men of Porto Rico met here and organized themselves for trade purposes. The meeting, the first coffee convention in the history of the island, brought together 200 men interested in the industry, every bank being represented, who pledged themselves to aid the movement to bring about better conditions. Acting Governor Hartzell announced the receipt of a cablegram from Governor Hunt assuring an immediate discussion of the reciprocal commercial treaty with Spain which would open the Spanish market now closed by the tariff. The planters are encouraged by the plans under discussion, which are directed to reaching the retail trade in the United States.

Bust of Victoria Unveiled.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—At the parish church of Crathie, three-quarters of a mile from Balmoral castle, which was attended by Queen Victoria, King Edward, in the presence of the Prince and Princess of Wales, Prince and Princess Charles of Denmark, Premier Balfour, Lord Lansdowne, other ministers and a distinguished congregation, yesterday morning unveiled a memorial bust of the late Queen Victoria, by the sculptor Emil Fuchs, and two mural tablets in memory of the late Duke of Edinburg and Empress Frederick of Germany. The three memorials were erected at the expense of the king.

Filipinos Not Allowed to Land.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 21.—Thirty-one Filipinos who arrived here last Thursday on the transport Sherman on their way to St. Louis, where they were to be employed in the construction of the Philippine houses and other buildings at the exposition, are detained on board the transport by the immigration authorities because they are apparently liable to become public charges. Although armed with letters of identification from Manila, the thirty-one Filipinos are all in poor financial straits and appear poorly equipped to continue on their journey to St. Louis.

Herr Bebel at the Head.

DRESDEN, Saxony, Sept. 21.—Herr Bebel has re-established his authority in the Socialist party by carrying his resolution against the Revisionists by several hundred votes against eleven dissentient voices and having elected an executive committee of his own choosing. It now looks as though the agitation against Herr Bebel before the convention met was encouraged by him in order that his absolute leadership of the party should be demonstrated and the small faction opposed to him held up to the ridicule of the party.

New Yorkers Dead In Paris.

PARIS, Sept. 21.—James L. Ferriere, a well known newspaper man of New York, is dead here as the result of a paralytic stroke. His wife in a fit of distraction soon afterward took her life. Mr. Ferriere was formerly for several years an editor of the Paris edition of the New York Herald. He entered the service of the Associated Press in 1897 and at the time of his death was employed in its Paris office.

The Kaiser Leaves Francis Joseph.

VIENNA, Sept. 21.—The German emperor was present last evening at a court banquet given in his honor and afterward attended a theatrical performance at Schoenbrunn castle. At 10 o'clock his majesty left Schoenbrunn for Dantzig after a cordial farewell from Emperor Francis Joseph, who accompanied him to the station.

A New General Appraiser.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—The appointment of Eugene G. Hay of Minneapolis as a member of the board of general appraisers is announced. Mr. Hay is an Indianian by birth and has practiced law in Minnesota for thirty years. He was a personal friend of President Harrison, who appointed him United States district attorney.

Fatal Family Quarrel.

BUFFALO, Sept. 21.—James Mears, seventy years of age, shot and fatally wounded his son-in-law, Michael Crotty, thirty-three years old, and then sent a bullet through his own brain, dying instantly. A family quarrel was the cause of the crime.

Military Spirit in Canada.

Figures have just been published which the Canadian press claim as an indication of the military spirit which animates young Canada. The state of New York has a population of nearly 2,000,000 more than the entire Dominion of Canada, yet its national guard has an enrollment of only 14,468 men. Canada, on the other hand, has 35,000 men in its active militia, and thousands of others who have gone through militia training and are now on the retired list.—Chicago Chronicle.

FRILLS OF FASHION.

Birds on Early Autumn Millinery, Corselet Belts.

Birds are the most decorative form of early autumn head gear. They are used as trimmings in the most meaningless fashion, but they are a novelty and immensely smart.

There is certainly a craze for beflowered and befrilled skirts. A useful dress of brown canvas seen recently was worn with a hat of brown tulle trimmed with pinkish yellow roses.

The deep corselet belt made of flowered ribbon may be recommended for the slim waist, and a most becoming belt for a serge dress is made of dark foulard ribbon with a white spot upon it.

The cut shows a gown of biscuit colored veiling trimmed with bronze velvet and lace. JUDIC CHOLLET.

FOR OUT OF DOOR WEAR.

Norfolk Jackets—Blouses Match the Skirts In Color.

Sack coats are worn in town, but in the country, except for cycling, the short, tight fitting coat takes its place or the blouse caught in with a leather belt at the waist. Norfolk jackets also are being worn, so we may say that once again tailor made frocks are showing the figure. Even the neatly stitched bolero has a tendency to be tight fitting.

The new skirts are nearly all cut plain over the hips and all the fullness comes at the hem. Some are made with a separate kilted flounce put on invisibly under strappings of cloth or tweed. The old fashioned idea of a short skirt was a skimpy pattern most unbecoming to the average woman, giving her the appearance of being insufficiently clothed.

A blouse matching the skirt is much smarter than a difficult color. For instance, with a brown skirt what looks smarter than a brown taffeta or brown foulard waist? One can always add white muslin turnover collars and cuffs.

The picture shows an automobile suit in the new moleskin material, finished with bands of soft leather.

OLD LIBERTY BELL

Nation's Sacred Relic Claimed by Heirs of Bell Founder.

Trials Which Have Beset the Bell Since It Became Famous—How the Prince of Wales Discovered It in a Dusty Attic.

Some one had declared that "with fame, in just proportion, envy grows." And it is equally true that with fame comes a multitude of perplexities and annoyances which would have been unknown had obscurity continued to cover with her sheltering cloak. Our own famous liberty bell is no exception to this experience. Had this bell never hung in the tower of Independence hall at Philadelphia, had it never pealed forth its loud message of liberty, and then burst with the joy of that message, its present tale of woe would not have been told.

The nation, secure in the possession of this cherished relic of the revolution, has been suddenly shocked by the claim of the heirs of one John Wiltbank, the revolutionary bell founder, whom it is declared was never paid for the bell. Documents are said to be in existence which in some degree at least substantiate this contention. After over a century and a quarter, in which the bell has been allowed to remain in the undisputed possession of Philadelphia, these ambitious heirs, who hope to become sole owners and custodians of the precious relic, dig up from some dark and dusty corner. some parchments yellow with age, and disturb the peace and serenity of the old bell by proposing to take forcible possession.

Philadelphia may sleep sometimes—some people, generally the hard-pressed funny paragrapher, would insinuate that she sleeps most of the time—but she is thoroughly awake now that her claim to the liberty bell is called into question. City Solicitor Kinsey has donned his fighting clothes and declares that: "The liberty bell will not pass out of the possession of the city of Philadelphia, at least not without a fight which would do credit to even the revolutionary fathers."

But this disquieting claim against the bell is only one of its numerous troubles. The bell of late years has become quite a traveler, and has been toted from one section of the country to another, despite the opposition of a great many prominent Philadelphians. It is claimed that the dignity and sacredness of the relic should insure it a permanent abiding place in the Liberty Memorial hall at Philadelphia. A strong effort was made not long since to prevent the bell from going to Boston to lend its inspiring presence to the celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bunker Hill. But the bell went, and it has hardly had time to get comfortably settled down at home again before St. Louis is reaching out to secure it for her exposition.

If we could win our way into the inner confidences of the precious old bell, I wonder if we might not hear her sigh for the quiet and seclusion of the old attic of Independence hall, where she rested so many years, forgotten and alone. It was the prince of Wales, now king of England, who discovered the bell, and it was at his suggestion that the dust was scooped off her sides and her public career begun. It was during the visit of the prince to this country many, many years ago. During his stay at Philadelphia he requested to be taken through Independence hall and shown the relics there treasured—the original copy of the Declaration of Independence (now at Washington), portraits of the various patriots, and many belongings of George Washington. "But where is the greatest relic of this important occasion?" inquired the prince, "the old liberty bell?" The official guide was unable to answer the question. He had never seen the bell, and did not think it had escaped the junk dealer. Finally an appeal was made for information to an old caretaker of the hall, who said he believed the bell was stored away "somewheres up in the loft." But the prince wanted to see the bell, and up into the loft he went, dragging the unwilling guide with him. After climbing crooked stairways and steep, dusty ladders, he saw revealed, through a veil of cobwebs, the tarnished relic of the revolution. "I see they have cracked it getting it up here," said the official guide. "No," said the prince; "it was cracked about 100 years ago, and deserves a better resting place than in an old lumber room." And the prince's words bore fruit, and with the recovery of the bell from the obscurity of the attic and the attaining of fame and honor, has come the multitude of her troubles. The nation will watch with breathless interest the legal contest for possession of the bell.

RICH PLACER MINES

Seward Peninsula, in Alaska, Giving Up Much Yellow Gold.

Region Where Thousands of Miners Are at Work with Pick, Shovel and Pan — Better Transportation Will Open Up Great Area.

The actual placer mining operations in Alaska during 1902, or at least the greater part, were carried on in the peninsula extending into the Behring sea, north of St. Michaels, which has been named the Seward peninsula. The one serious difficulty which hinders the development of this great and promising area is the lack of transportation. But it is through this section of Alaska that the proposed link of the all-rail route to Paris would extend, and when such transportation facilities are obtained the $5,500,000 output of last year will be increased many fold.

Because this little area is yielding at present nearly all the placer gold that is coming from Alaska another map has been prepared to show in detail the parts of the peninsula where thousands of miners are at work with pick, shovel and washing pan. The map here presented shows all the important locations in the peninsula where mining is in progress, and also the large area of placer grounds where it is believed there is plenty of pay dirt, though as yet only the most accessible mining districts are being developed.

Not long ago the beach at Nome, in the southwest corner of the peninsula, alone represented the mining industry in this district; but to-day mining is in progress on many of the streams and gulches in the interior of the peninsula, and though Nome is still the greatest producer, the other districts contribute a large amount of gold dust to the total output.

The large increase in the output of Ophir creek, a northern tributary of the Niukluk, is of special interest. Its production in 1902 was over $1,000,000.

This stream was one of the first on which gold was discovered in the Seward peninsula, and for several years was spasmodically worked; but it is only since the introduction of systematic methods of mining and extraction that Ophir creek has become one of the largest producers of the region.

These facts augur well for the future of the Seward peninsula placer fields. It is believed that other streams will have a history similar to that of Ophir creek.

In nearly every case thus far the first work is done along the channels of the stream. When these are worked out the prospectors turn their attention to the benches and terraces, which often yield good returns.

In some cases, however, the miners neglect thoroughly to prospect the terraces and benches, and they have also abandoned placers which, in the opinion of members of the geological survey, may still carry gold in paying quantities.

In Anvil creek last year the most important development was in the auriferous gravels of the benches, which are found on both sides of the valley. This gave a new impetus to mining.

The high-bench gravels from 500 to 800 feet above the sea were discovered in 1900 and are still in process of development. Some of them have great depth and the extraction of the gold involves much labor.

The tundra, or coastal plain, placers back of Nome are still worked, but their development is not yet commensurate with their probable importance. It is believed that the gravels of this coastal plain carry many workable placers.

They are a few feet above and below sea level, are mined through shallow trenches, and operations have been hampered by lack of facilities for handling the surface water. When an economic method of mining these gravels in a large way has been devised handsome profits will certainly be made.

Everything points to the probability that the greatest placer mining interests of Alaska may, for years to come, be centered in the Seward peninsula; and it will not be surprising to hear at any time of most important developments in the regions shown on this map as gold producing, but in which little or no work has as yet been done.

Hardest Things Easiest.

It is often easier to do a hard thing than an easy one. An easy thing does not call for the gathering up of one's powers as a hard one does; and the easy thing is to let slip, where the hard one would be taken hold of with energy. It is the little things requiring attention day by day at one's office desk, or in one's home work, while the great demands on one's time are met manfully as they come. Many a person does best in an emergency. "He that is faithful in that which is least is faithful also in much," but it is not always true that he that is faithful in that which is much is faithful also in that which is least.—Sunday School Times.

WANT A CONSULATE?

A Chance Is Now Offered at Baranquilla, Colombia.

TACOMA, Wash., Sept. 21.—There is opportunity now offered for some one to get a consulate, as G. W. Colvig of Grant's Pass, Ore., consul from the United States to Colombia, has resigned, as he intimated to his friends by letter some time ago he would do as soon as he reached home.

Mr. Colvig has had the post at Baranquilla for two years and found them two of the longest and most unpleasant years of his life. For the sake of his own and Mrs. Colvig's health he was obliged to resign. Then there were other bad features, excessive heat being one.

The continual warfare that is on between the two civil factions keeps the country in a state of ebullition and disruption, so that the money of the country is worth but little more than the paper it is printed on. Consul Colvig says the inhabitants of the country are for the greater part a dirty, unintelligent, shiftless lot.

Mr. Colvig will resume his old business of practicing law in Grant's Pass.

Ibsen Not Ill at All.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Mary Shaw, the actress, is in receipt of a letter from Heinrich Ibsen, the Danish dramatist, in response to a cablegram which Miss Shaw recently sent to him condoling with him on his ill health. Mr. Ibsen in this letter accepts his correspondent's condolences, but adds that the reports that he is in ill health emanate from his enemies, the truth being that he is in better health than he has been for many months. Mr. Ibsen also says that he is at work on a new drama which he hopes will take even higher rank than his "The Doll's House." His advanced age, he says further, is all that prevents him from visiting America, which he would like very much to do.

American Representative Dined.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Sept. 21.—Prince Ferdinand has given a dinner party at the palace in honor of J. B. Jackson, who has presented his credentials as the first American diplomatic agent to Bulgaria. The guests included F. E. H. Elliot, the British diplomatic agent, and the Bulgarian ministers and high officials. Prince Ferdinand proposed the health of President Roosevelt, speaking in English, and the court band played a selection of American airs. Great satisfaction is expressed not only in official but also in commercial circles at America's action in establishing diplomatic relations with Bulgaria.

Italian Robbers Still at Large.

WOONSOCKET, R. I., Sept. 21.—Woonsocket and Providence officers are actively searching for the three Italians who on Saturday on the towpath between Woonsocket and Waterford held up Paymaster Edward C. Sherman of the Saranac mills of the American Woolen company and robbed him of a sack containing the weekly pay roll, amounting to $2,966. Their search has been fruitless. The last definite information in regard to the men is that they were seen leaving the woods in the branch village of North Smithfield headed toward Millville and Worcester, Mass.

Polo Accident Results Fatally.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—Nathan Swift, son of Louis F. Swift, the packer, has died from the effects of a blow on the temple with a polo ball at Onwentsia field during a game. The accident was at first thought to be trifling. When the ball hit him he did not fall from his saddle, and when his companions galloped to his side he was at first inclined to make light of the injury. He was induced to dismount and walked without aid from the field. Arriving at home, he complained of dizziness, and later he went into a delirium, which was followed by his death.

Marble Works Closed.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 21.—Seven of the principal marble works in St. Louis have been shut down and 700 employees thrown out of employment as the result of the refusal of the National Association of Marble Dealers to further recognize the labor unions. Notices were posted that the shops would be reopened on next Thursday, when six nonunion men will be employed in each shop, and the other places will be given to the few union men who apply as individuals.

To Build Mills in the South.

BOSTON, Sept. 21.—It is said that several of the cotton manufacturing companies in New England are planning to establish plants in the south for the manufacture of cotton goods. While some of the companies will transfer part of the business that is now being done in their New England factories, others will increase their business by building additional plants in the southern states.

Three Drowned Men Washed Ashore.

LEWES, Del., Sept. 21.—The bodies of three drowned men have been found at the three life saving stations near here by surfmen, one near Lewes station, one near Henlopen station and one near Rehoboth station. One was of the crew of the wrecked schooner Hattie A. Marsh, and the others are supposed to have been of the same vessel. The bodies were very much mutilated and nearly denuded.

The New German Cable.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—The German cable steamer Von Podbielski has arrived here from the Azores. She will lay the shore end of a new cable from Coney Island to a point 110 miles to sea for the North German Sea Cable company. The other part of the cable will be laid from the Azores to meet this part. It is expected that the cable will be completed within a year.

CROSSED BATS.

Because Manager MacLaughlin, of the Alls Club, would not play Driscoll, of the Hoboken team, in last Saturday's game on first base and lay Richardson off, Linderman, the crack pitcher of the Hoboken's, would not play with Alls. His Worst Habit.

George Widener, the son of Peter A. B. Widener, the noted financier, is a young man of exquisite taste. This taste he displays equally in his equipages, in the furnishing of his apartment at Liverpool hall (the Widener residence near Philadelphia), and in his clothes, which are made by American tailors. For it is now claimed by many persons wise in the matter of dress that the American tailor excels the English tailor in skill. That being the case, Mr. Widener replied truthfully, perhaps, to a question that was put to him the other day. This question arose out of a rather philosophical discussion that a number of young men were holding in a Philadelphia club. It was:

"What is your worst habit?"

He answered:

"A brown suit, undoubtedly, that I bought in London in June."—Kansas City Journal.

Two Sorts of Filipinos.

The Filipinos appear to be divided sharply into two classes, which, after all, are really one. One class professes loyalty. Some of this class are really as loyal as they can be; others are buenos hombres during the day, only to foster rebellion at night. The other class is in open defiance of all our conceptions of law and order. Of the two classes, the latter is by far less dangerous. In the past year there have been perhaps a hundred convictions of individuals to death or life imprisonment for open rebellion; a few days ago one judge passed sentences of death and various terms of duress, from life imprisonment down to a year or so, on 20 of the outlaws. But of those receiving the heavier punishments, several were of the outwardly loyal class, men who secretly fomented insurrection and ladronism.—Arthur Stanley Riggs, in Atlantic.

Pope Leo's Oddest Conversion.

One day, when papal nuncio in Brussels, Leo was literally held up by a workingman in the street who insisted that he must listen to what he had to say about the Catholics. "Very well," replied his eminence, "I listen. And when you get through, take these 100 francs, buy yourself a new suit of clothes and come to my office. There you will listen to me even as I now listen to you." The workman kept the appointment and left the nuncio's office a true son of the church. As a young man and priest, and even as bishop, Leo was very fond of hunting. After becoming pope he hunted with the net only, and always generously released the birds he caught in the Vatican gardens.—N. Y. World.

Permanent Executioner.

In Greece the death penalty is said to be often pronounced, but the difficulty of obtaining executioners was for a long time almost insuperable. It was at last surmounted by giving to a murderer the choice between his own death or acceptance of the office of permanent executioner. The man lives alone in an old tower built by Venetians on an islet outside the port of Nauplia, where necessaries are taken to him every morning by the boatman, who is careful to exchange no word with him. Twice a year a steamer calls for him and his instruments of death, and he leaves upon a tour of executions.

Nature's War with Bacteria.

Bacteria are no respecters of places or persons; they go wherever they find a thoroughfare and a waiting vehicle. One of nature's unending tasks, at which she is busy every minute in the year, is the filtering of water for human use. When she has enough of the right sort of sandy soil and time enough she makes a thorough job of it. When she hasn't the fever germs lurk in the old oaken bucket and lie in wait behind the faucet. —Hartford (Conn.) Courant.

African Slave Trade Abolished.

The great slave trade at Kano, the metropolis of Nigeria, Africa, having 100,000 inhabitants, which averaged 500 men and women sold each day, has been abolished by the British, who have extended their authority over it. Three provinces on the Niger were seized because the native chiefs refused to surrender the murderer of a British officer.—N. Y. Sun.

MISS HELEN KELLER.

The Remarkable Achievements of a Remarkable Girl.

Although Born Deaf and Blind She Has Learned to Speak and Now Is a Senior in Radcliffe College.

Unquestionably the most remarkable deaf and blind person in the world is Helen Keller. She is so interesting, indeed, that one never tires of reading about her and her wonderful achievements. She is certainly the best educated and her natural mentality exceeds that of any blind and deaf person of her day. She was entirely dumb for years, but has now acquired a surprising degree of speech and can be understood by anyone. Indeed, when the Schermerhorn addition of the New York eye and ear infirmary in New York was dedicated last spring Helen Keller was one of the speakers and her address, delivered with her own lips, was a remarkable illustration of the success achieved in teaching the deaf and dumb to speak. While her speech lacks inflections and modulations, and while it sounds strange and forced, it can be understood and it is an invaluable boon to Miss Keller, as she must now be called, since she reached her twenty-third birthday on the 27th of last June. The same month witnessed the close of her second year as a student at Radcliffe college, where her progress has been a surprise even to those most familiar with her abilities.

What this totally deaf and blind girl has accomplished as a student at college falls but little short of the miraculous. A quarter of a century ago the most hopeful of the teachers of the deaf and dumb and blind would have declared the achievements of Helen Keller to be impossible. Indeed, some of the most sanguine of her friends sought to dissuade her from entering college after she had successfully passed the preparatory examinations because they felt that the obstacles in the way were too many and too formidable for her to overcome.

WONDERFUL BLIND GIRL.
(Miss Helen Keller and a Specimen of Her Writing.)

But Miss Keller's will power is like adamant. She is not to be moved from attempting anything she has decided to do. She decided to enter college some years ago and "where there's a will there's a way," was all the argument she had to offer when her friends tried to make her feel that a college diploma was beyond her powers of achievement. It is now certain that that diploma will be hers if she does not fail in health. The Detroit Free Press states that Mark Twain said that Helen Keller and Napoleon were the two most interesting characters of the nineteenth century, and the merry Mark did not mean this as a joke. He had had more than one interview with Helen Keller and has been most profoundly impressed by her remarkable achievements. Miss Keller has written of our genial American humorist: "I love Mark Twain—who does not? The gods, too, loved him, and put into his heart all manner of wisdom; then, fearing least he should become a pessimist, they spanned his mind with a rainbow of love and faith."

Such men as Phillips Brooks, Edward Everett Hale, John G. Whittier, Oliver Wendell Holmes, Joseph Jefferson and other notables have found delight in meeting Helen Keller, and she has amazed and delighted them by the wonderful scope of her mind. This blind and deaf girl has learned to operate an ordinary typewriter with ease and perfect accuracy. She has learned to solve difficult geometrical problems with bits of wire because it is, of course, impossible for her to see the geometrical figures drawn on the blackboard for the rest of her class. Her sensitive fingers have had to take the place of eyes and ears. The limitations put upon her by the loss of sight and hearing have not daunted nor dismayed her courageous spirit, and the day on which she receives her diploma at the close of her college career will be an epoch in the history of educational achievements in our country.

Must Curl Their Hair.

Traveling beauties never take passage on an ocean steamer without a spirit lamp, to heat their curling tongs. This practice imperils the ship, through danger of fire. One of the big steamship lines has fitted every stateroom on its vessels with an electric apparatus for heating the curling tongs.

VIGILANT MOSE AT WORK

PATROLMAN POUNCES DOWN ON CRAP SHOOTERS WHO ESCAPE.

One of the Alleged Evil-Doers Was Caught in the Drag-Net—Final Chapter to be a Feature.

Patrolman Moses Quass and a colored man named Austin Hamilton ambushed four crap shooters yesterday afternoon in the rear of the Babcock building. Hamilton eagerly volunteered his assistance in apprehending the evil-doers and the two sleuths stationed themselves at either approach to the scene of action. Quass stealthily crept towards his prey with the intention of suprising them in the act, made a sudden onslaught and caught one of the culprits by the shoulder. The other two made a dash towards the other end of the alley-way where was stationed the faithful Hamilton and both butted into the negro as one man. The latter heroically clung on until several well-directed and forceful kicks were deposited on his shin-bones

The crap shooters made their escape into North Plainfield. Joseph Gjettlesen and a young man named Gammon, will report with him in the city court tomorrow morning for a review of the case.

Sol's Unique Defense.

Patrolman Quass yesterday discovered Solomon Block lying in the street helplessly drunk and took him to headquarters. Block told City Judge Runyon this morning that he had been starting in to celebrate the Jewish New Year and had bought a new pair of shoes which pinched his feet so much that he had laid himself down in the dust to rest. The Judge thought the ingenuity of his excuse sufficient to warrant a suspended sentence.

Suffered a Stroke.

George Pierre, a music teacher, of North avenue, suffered a partial stroke of paralysis this morning at his home. His paralysis will not interfere with his work.

—Eugene O'Reilly's dancing class will meet tomorrow evening in the Democratic headquarters.

Members of Elizabeth District Commence Interesting Sessions at Cranford.

PLAINFIELDERS THERE

REV. DR. W. C. SNODGRASS ACTS AS CHAIRMAN.

A Two-Days Session—Meetings in First and St. Paul's M. E. Churches—Rev. J. E. Bryan to Lead Devotional Exercises.

The ministerial convention of the Elizabeth district, Newark Conference, opened this morning in the First Methodist Church at Cranford. The convention will continue this afternoon and evening and all day tomorrow, closing with special exercises tomorrow evening. Rev. Daniel T. Halleron, the presiding elder of this district, was the chairman of the meeting this morning. Among those in attendance are Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, Rev. Dr. Edwin L. Earp, Rev. John MacMurray and Rev. J. E. Bryan, all of Plainfield.

An address was made by Rev. G. C. Wilding, of Elizabeth, on "Our Lapsed Probationers—The Remedy," followed by an informal discussion. "How to Interest Men in Church Life," was the subject of an address by Rev. Dr. T. P. Frost, of Newark. The women of the First M. E. Church, of Cranford, provided the luncheon at noon.

Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, this city, was the chairman this afternoon. "How Can My Presiding Elder Help Me?" was the theme of an interesting talk by Rev. Dr. P. C. Blascom, of Flemington, and Rev. Dr. R. R. Doughty, of Jersey City, gave an interesting address on "The Successful Epworth League." Rev. Dr. E. E. Robertson, of High Bridge, in an address on "How Best to Promote Revivals," told of the necessity of bringing new members into the church.

The session will be continued this evening with Dr. Halleron in the chair. "The Church and the Workingman" will be the subject of a talk by Rev. Dr. W. H. Morgan, of Newark.

It is probable that a large number of people from this city will attend the sessions tomorrow in St. Paul's Methodist Church. There will be an interesting talk on "My Eloquent Helpers in Church Work," by Rev. Dr. C. T. Wilson, of Newark, and another on "How to Revive the Class Meeting," by Rev. J. H. Howard, of Rahway. At the afternoon session Rev. Dr. M. D. Church will preside. Rev. Dr. J. R. Bryan, of this city, will conduct the devotional exercises and Rev. T. B. Neely, of New York, will address the people on "The Successful Sunday-school," followed by a discussion. Rev. Dr. J. A. HOPES FOR NEW HIGH SCHOOL ARE CRUSHED

Plans for $125,000 Improvement Rendered a Nullity by Court's Decision.

ACT UNCONSTITUTIONAL

THE COURT OF ERRORS AND APPEALS KNOCKS OUT M'KEE LAW.

Plainfield Board of Education Will Have to Await Enactment of Another Law—What Corporation Counsel Marsh Says.

The Court of Errors and Appeals has declared the McKee school law unconstitutional, and the decision defeats for the present the effort of the Board of Education in its plans for the erection of a new High School at a cost of $125,000. The ruling upsets the general school law of New Jersey and compels a recourse to the laws that were in effect before any attempt was made to compress the school acts of the State into one general statute.

The decision is a most unfortunate one for Plainfield. The property, corner of Ninth street and Arlington avenue, formerly the Seventh-Day Baptist cemetery, has been purchased as the site for the High School and the necessary school bonds issued and made ready for delivery. These bonds were purchased by Ladenburg, Thalman & Company, of New York, at a good figure and City Treasurer W. F. Arnold was waiting for the time of delivery.

The McKee school law sought to uniform and codify the many school laws of the State and put them under one general law, and its provisions were intended to apply to cities, boroughs and townships as before under the old laws, the difference being that in this case they harmonized, where before they conflict to some extent. It is held the act is unconstitutional in that is special legislation, certain districts having been excepted from its provisions.

Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh in speaking of the decision today, said that he could not talk intelligently on the subject until he had had an opportunity of reading the opinion of the court which will be filed within a few days by Justice Pitney, but, he said, that in all probability Plainfield would have to go all over the work again of seeking such legislation as would give it the proper authority to erect a new High School. Several schools during the past few years have been unable to borrow money on account of the doubt surrounding their authority to do so under the McKee law.

GEORGE MARSH SETTLES WITH HIS SON-IN-LAW

Clifford Schorb Accepts $200 to End a Suit for $10,000 Damages.

HIS WIFE KIDNAPPED P

CHAPTER IN A ROMANTIC ELOPMENT STORY.

Claimed Father-in-Law Unlawfully Detained His Child-Wife—Episode at a Saratoga Hotel—Girl's Parents Unrelenting.

Another chapter has been added to the romantic courtship and marriage of Clifford Schorb and Miss Ethel Marsh, whose wedding occurred on June 9, after a carriage drive to Metuchen. The wedding has been attended with many sensational features and yesterday another appeared. After bringing suit against his father-in-law for $10,000 for enticing his wife away from him and endeavoring to alienate her affections, a settlement was affected yesterday for $200.

Clifford Schorb is the son of a liveryman in North Plainfield and Miss Ethel Marsh is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Marsh, of Scotch Plains, who are quite wealthy. It is alleged that there was parental objection on the part of Mr. and Mrs. Marsh against their daughter marrying young Schorb. A few weeks before her eighteenth birthday young Schorb called at his fiancee's house with a horse and carriage and they went for a drive. Young Schorb proposed and was accepted, while dashing through the country behind a fast trotter. They stopped at the home of Rev. Dr. Fenton, rector of the Episcopal Church at Metuchen and were married. Then they returned to their respective homes and kept the marriage a secret for several days.

Finally the bride announced the wedding to her parents. They strenuously objected to the match and threatened to take steps to have the marriage annulled, charging that Mrs. Schorb was married before she was of the required age.

It was but a few weeks ere the bride would be eighteen years old and realizing this the devoted husband, not to be foiled by parental objection, contrived to bring her to his home. She eluded her parents' vigilence in trying to keep her at Scotch Plains, and went to the home of her father-in-law on Somerset street. Under a pretence of forgiving her Mr. and Mrs. Marsh induced Mrs. Schorb to return to their home. While she was there, it is said, she was forcibly detained and spirited to Saratoga.

Young Schorb was unable to locate his wife. Realizing that some trick had been played upon her he went to the home of his parents in law and demanded to know her whereabouts. They refused to divulge the secret but love, not to be outwitted, found the way.

In a small hotel at Saratoga Mrs. Schorb languished for several days. At last a friend came to her assistance. A farmer visited her and to him she told her story. The farmer's heart was touched and he promised to help her. She wrote a letter to her husband's lawyer, Isaac Runyon, of this city, telling him of her whereabouts and saying that if Clifford wanted to have her return he should come at once. It was midnight but the young husband started for his wife. On the train he read the letter delivered by his lawyer. It contained a passionate appeal for him to come to her aid. In the missive it was related that Mrs. Marsh, her mother, who had been there with her as her guardian, had that day gone to Scotch Plains

Schorb arrived at the hotel just before day break and, with the aid of the farmer, smuggled his wife from the house, down the dark and narrow back stairs to the waiting farm wagon below. A wild dash through rough uneven country roads for the railway station was made, arriving there just in time to catch the early morning train for New York. On the way down they passed Mrs. Marsh going back to Saratoga to take her daughter to Canada, it is said, where she would be out of the way of her husband.

Mrs. Schorb has since been at the home of her husband, where, like the old romantic story, she has been living happily. The suit would have been brought for trial at this term of the court at Elizabeth but through Mr. Gilhooley, of Elizabeth, the counsel for Mrs. Schorb's parents and Isaac Runyon, the counsel for Schorb, the case has been settled for $200.

THIS IS A LEGAL HOLIDAY?

SO THE CHIEF JUSTICE AND ATTORNEY GENERAL RULE.

Chancellor Magie Thinks Otherwise and Governs Himself Accordingly—Banks Closed.

Chief Justice Gummere and Attorney-General McCarter both hold that on account of the special elections on the proposed constitutional amendments today is a legal holiday in New Jersey. Chancellor Magie thinks otherwise and announced yesterday that he would sit today, as usual. The Chief Justice instructed the clerk of the Supreme Court that no executions or other papers should issue today, and the banks in this city, at least, will all be closed. The Attorney-General instructed all banks to close their doors for the day. It had been the intention of the Plainfield banks to keep open following the proposed example of the Trenton and Newark banks.

LOCAL ORATORS SPEAKERS

MARTINE AND SWACKHAMER AS ENTHUSIASM GENERATORS.

Address the Union County Democrats at Meeting Held in Elizabeth.

The meeting of the local Democratic Club was adjourned last night until next Monday, with no business transacted, to permit the members to attend a gathering of the Young Men's Democratic Club of Elizabeth at the headquarters on Broad street, Elizabeth.

Assemblyman Samuel S. Swackhamer and Walter Linbarger, of North Plainfield, and James E. Martine, Andrew J. Nolan, J. V. F. Dilkes and Charles L. Moffett, of this city, and about twenty others frome here, were present at the meeting at the county seat. Mr. Swackhamer and Mr. Martine were the principal speakers. The general trend of discussion was optimistic, the speakers asserting that public opinion was gradually being molded to the Democratic viewpoint and that even if this year did not witness a return to the sway of Democracy, the result seemed likely to be accomplished in the comparatively near future. None of the speakers discussed in any detail the affairs of the coming election. A smoker and general entertainment followed the speech-making.

ALL PUPILS ACCOMMODATED

TEMPORARY RELIEF FROM CROWDED CONDITION IN BOROUGH.

New Building Sorely Needed—Borough Growing Rapidly—If Annexation Comes.

The new entering class in the Watchung School in North Plainfield was started yesterday with a full attendance and a temporary relief from the crowded conditions in the schools across the brook has been secured. It is in charge of Miss Clara Plum.

All the pupils whose names were enrolled on the list kept by Superintendent Homer J. Wightman have secured seating room in the new class but, in spite of the fact that an addition has been made to the teaching force, the class rooms in the stores and vacant rooms in the borough are still maintained.

When the Watchung School was erected two additional classes were provided for, which, it was thought at the time, would accommodate the largest entering classes for several years to come. So rapid has the growth of the borough been that these class rooms were filled last year and now the Board of Education is confronted with a condition which was not anticipated. New accommodations must be provided and it will probably be in the shape of a new building.

In speaking of this a few days ago, Mr. Wightman said that if annexation comes it is most necessary that the new school building, which is to be erected, should be near the present high school. For that reason, the members of the Board of Education have been inquiring into property near the Somerset street school.

SMALLEST VOTE ON RECORD BEING CAST

Little Interest is Taken in the Special Election on the Constitutional Amendments.

IN CITY AND BOROUGH

ELECTION OFFICERS ARE HAVING AN IDLE TIME.

The Situation at 2 o'Clock This Afternoon—A List of Polling Places—Polls to Close at 7 o'Clock.

The special election on the proposed constitutional amendments is being held throughout the State today. Except in a few districts an exceedingly light vote is being polled. The great majority of the voters appear to be in absolute ignorance of the issue and take little or no interest in the result. In this city as well as in North Plainfield the vote polled by 2 o'clock was the smallest on record.

In the First district of the Third ward the total vote at 2 o'clock was 22. In the Second district of the Fourth ward, no votes had been cast at 9 o'clock today. At 2 o'clock, the vote in the Second district of the Second ward was 9 and in the First district of the First ward 17. In the First district of the Second ward 12 votes had been cast.

Fourteen was the total vote cast in the First district of the Fourth ward up to 2 o'clock.

These are the polling places, all of which close at 7 o'clock tonight:

FIRST WARD.

2d District—At 521 East Second Street.

SWACKHAMER SCORES STATE LEGISLATURE

Believes That the Republicans Will Rebuke Their Party Organization.

SPEECH AT CONVENTION

ADDRESSES THE MONMOUTH COUNTY DEMOCRATS AT FREEHOLD.

Democratic Party, He Claims, Gives Only Hope for Salvation From Present Political Evils in New Jersey—Great Ovation.

Assemblyman Samuel S. Swackhamer, of Somerset, made the principal address at the Monmouth County Democratic convention at the County Court House at Freehold yesterday noon. When he mounted the platform he was greeted with an ovation and cries of "Governor."

Incidentally he said: "I believe the great body of the Republican party has a settled purpose and I judge from the signs of the times that they intend to rebuke their organization and show their disapproval of the trend of recent legislation.

"The tremendous power which is being controlled in this State through the agency of legislation and favoritism, has startled the people and it is seen that a halt must be called. The Democratic party would not deny to corporations their equal rights under the laws but it would not stand for the legislation which binds the citizens of flesh and blood and makes them slaves of corporate bodies.

"The Democratic party stands between the weak and the strong—between the citizen and the corporaion and simply says 'fair play.' Its cardinal principles, its perfect and absolute equality before the law in the Legislature last winter, the Democratic party stood 'as a barrier against—a foe to tyranny and injustice.' The Democratic party is the only political organization by which the political evils of the present hour can be cured. It stands for the principles announced by Thomas Jefferson, its immortal founder; firm as the eternal rocks that bound and hedge in the sea. Today it is the hope of the patriotic citizen who believe that the State Republican administration has shown a disregard for the sacred rights of that element in the government described by Abraham Lincoln, as the 'plain people.'"

It is said that he tried to remove the wire from its dangerous position, when he received such a shock that his death resulted within a half hour afterward. Craig A. Marsh represents Mr. Walls.

Liberal Policy on Part of Common Council is Strongly Advocated.

SCHEMES AS SUGGESTED

Plan Followed by Philadelphia to Attract People—William Jeffrey Gives a Few Points on How to Help City.

With a desirable growth during the last ten years, which has hardly been equalled by any other city in this section of the State, efforts are being made by the real estate dealers in this city to make the present season one which has never before been surpassed. Schemes are on foot to interest outsiders in the city. In speaking of this movement yesterday, William Jeffery, one of the prominent real estate dealers of this city, said:

"A liberal policy in regard to permanent improvements by the Common Council will be of great advantage to the city. Not extravagance in current expenses, but ample provision in the way of street opening and paving, sewers, water, lighting, etc., for the city's growth. The money levied in taxes and spent in this way will more than be returned to property owners in the increased value of their holdings that will follow the improvements.

"Another boon would be the exemption of manufacturers from taxation; not only new factories, but those at present here, who would thus be encouraged to enlarge their plants. Such an exemption would attract manufacturers, increase population and business, and the small addition to the real estate tax through such exemption would be more than offset by the increase in real estate values.

"This has been the experience of Philadelphia, where machinery and stocks of goods are exempt, and when it was proposed to tax them, council's committee reported that 'Capital, business and industrial establishments alone give value to city real estate.' With it, the real estate can be made to produce revenue, maintain or increase in value; without it, comes depreciation in values and want of occupation for large classes of people. If, therefore, a tax imposed on the business interests of the city would have an unfavorable effect upon its growth and prosperity, the transfer of a part of the tax levy to property in business would, in effect, be an injury to the owners of real estate. This, I think, would be the result.'

"Exemption from taxation, or a reduced rate upon homes, would also be a great factor in building up the city. Building would be encouraged, and people who owned their homes would improve them much more when assured that this would not add to their tax burden, and such improvements would also increase the value of land throughout the city."

BUILDING PERMITS ISSUED.

Building Inspector Doane Grants Privileges to Property Owners.

She writes that 'Plainfield has two fresh air homes, one on the mountain for the poor sick babies of our own city and the other for mothers and children from the East Side of New York. With these needy ones at our very door there is small danger of our hoarding up superfluous clothing for the benefit of moths and mice.'"

MARVELOUS RESULTS.

A Simple Act of Justice to Suffering Humanity.

Remarkable Experience of a Member of the New Haven Police Force.

A policeman's word is as good as his bond—at least in New Haven, Connecticut.

At No. 54 South Street, in that city, lives Police Officer W. H. Kennedy, who tells the story of a remarkable experience. His troubles were of a nervous origin, and terrible headaches resulted. His nervous system was all out of order. It is not strange, therefore, that Dr. Greene's Nervura, the great nerve tonic, cured him entirely. Officer Kennedy says:

"For years I suffered with nervous headaches till it seemed as if my head would burst. Usually it would disappear about evening only to come on again in the morning with blinding force and then it would feel as if something was jumping inside of my head.

"Three different physicians failed to help me. Then I tried three of the most widely advertised remedies on the market with no visible result. Finally I decided to give Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy a chance.

"The first two doses of Dr. Greene's Nervura brought me rest and refreshing sleep—something that I had been a stranger to for many weeks. I continued to improve under its influence until at the end of two months I was completely restored to health.

"These results were truly marvelous. If I had not taken Dr. Greene's Nervura I would now be a physical wreck. I feel that I must do justice to suffering humanity and to Dr. Greene and let my cure be known."

Dr. Greene's advice is free. Write or call in person at 101 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

Grand Circuit Races.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 22.—The grand circuit meeting at the Columbus Driving park opened auspiciously. The weather was clear and warm and the track fast. The attendance was the largest ever recorded on an opening day at the local track. Bell Kuser was a 5 to 2 favorite in the 2:12 trot and won easily in straight heats, although pushed at the finish in the last by Patchen Maid. The 2:24 pace furnished the surprise of the day. Tom Keene was a 5 to 1 favorite, and he won the first heat handily. Before the chestnut gelding had reached the half in the second heat, however, he broke badly and was distanced. King Direct, almost an equal favorite with Tom Keene, won that and the remaining heats with comparative ease. The 2:21 trot, the last race on the card, brought out the record field of the year, there being seventeen starters. Cotillion won; time, 2:12¼.

Funnyside Wins at Gravesend.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Closing with a great burst of speed in the stretch, Funnyside, at 8 to 1, won the Albemarle selling stakes at Gravesend. Flammula, the favorite, was one and a half lengths back, with the second choice, Letola, third, a head away. Flammula and Letola raced away in front to the stretch, where Funnyside closed and won driving. Fine weather prevailed and a good crowd was in attendance. Only two favorites won.

Students May Play Football.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 22.—For the first time in its history the students of the Kentucky University Bible college will be allowed to play football this year. President McGarvey has always declined to permit his matriculates to play, but such pressure was brought to bear on him by the university proper that he announced in chapel that the students might play.

A Surprise at Hawthorne.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—The surprise of the day at Hawthorne was the winning of the September handicap by Luralighia, a 7 to 1 shot. The Don was second and Lady Jocelyn third. All three were long shots. Judge Himes, who carried a burden of 128 pounds, was never a contender. The handicap was worth $2,250 to the winner.

Stevens Tennis Champion.

HOBOKEN, N. J., Sept. 22.—Richard Stevens successfully defended his title as tennis champion of the state of New Jersey against Frederick G. Anderson, the challenging player, who won the all comers tournament in this meeting. The score was 6—4, 6—2, 6—3.

Jersey City Leads Eastern League.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Sept. 22.—Yesterday's victory of Jersey City over Buffalo carried with it the Eastern league championship. The home team played the visitors to a standstill both in hitting and fielding.

TURKEY SENDS NOTE

Bulgaria Asked to Assist In Peacemaking.

REPLY BACKED UP BY A THREAT

Rumors at Sofia Regarding Negotiations For Settlement of Macedonian Trouble Not Confirmed. Turkish Loss at Perin.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Sept. 22.—The unfavorable replies of Austria and Russia to Bulgaria's last note and the fact that none of the other great powers has yet replied, coupled with the allegations that one of the powers is encouraging the military party at Yildiz kiosk, tend to create a less hopeful feeling here. There is, however, no perceptible change in the situation. Various reports are in circulation regarding negotiations between Turkey and Bulgaria looking to a solution of the Macedonian difficulty.

The Dnevnik says Turkey has presented a note to Bulgaria asking for the latter's assistance in reaching a peaceable solution. Bulgaria replied that Turkey must end the massacres, withdraw her frontier forces, guarantee peace and protection to the villagers desiring to return to their homes, amnesty the political offenders and introduce such governmental reforms as will pacify Macedonia and Adrianople. The Bulgarian reply concluded, "If the present situation continues the Bulgarian government will be compelled to yield to public opinion and send an army to the frontier."

It appears doubtful that the government has sent such an answer, but the statement published represents in some degree the government's attitude.

According to information received by the revolutionary headquarters from Monastir, 120 persons perished in the flames of their burning villages near Kastoria.

Over 1,200 bodies of women and children are said to be lying unburied in the fields and on the roadsides around Kastoria.

A special dispatch from Rila gives the following details of the fighting at Perin: On Sept. 16 1,000 Turkish troops surrounded the village and attacked the bands under Stoinoff and Dervingoff, who had taken up a position there. The latter were re-enforced by the bands commanded by Yankoff and Zontcheff, and the combined insurgent forces turned on the Turks and completely annihilated them. One Turkish commander was captured. The Turks are said to have lost 500 killed.

Macedonian Leader Slain?

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 22.—Government officials profess to have confirmation of the death of Boris Saraloff, the Macedonian leader. They say he was beheaded near Monastir by soldiers whom the sultan has rewarded. The Greek patriarch has renewed his protest to the sultan against the atrocities by Bashibazouks and other troops at Elkazon and other villages in Macedonia. The sultan expressed regret at the occurrences and stated that he was appointing a commission of inquiry.

Monument to Marylanders.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 22.—A monument erected to the valor of the Marylanders who fought in the Mexican war has been unveiled here with appropriate ceremonies. Mayor Robert M. McLean accepted the monument in behalf of Baltimore city, and Edwin Warfield, Democratic nominee for the governorship of Maryland, delivered the oration. The monument is thirty-two feet high, surmounted by a bronze statue of Colonel William H. Watson, who commanded the battalion of Marylanders at Monterey and who was killed in that battle.

Canfield's Plea Changed.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Sept. 22.—Richard A. Canfield's attorneys in court here withdrew the plea of not guilty to the celebrated gambling indictment, with leave to interpose a demurrer. That demurrer was drawn last evening and filed this morning. Justice Sewell will hear arguments on it next Monday. The defendant demurs to the indictment on the ground that it is not drawn in conformity to the sections of the criminal code, that the facts stated in it do not constitute a crime and that more than one crime is charged in one count.

Quintard-Bradley Case Settled.

STAMFORD, Conn., Sept. 22.—By paying $5,000 to Mrs. Charles E. Quintard, with whose husband she eloped, Miss Alice Bradley, wealthy and eccentric, has succeeded in having the criminal charge against Quintard for non-support withdrawn. Mrs. Quintard, who sought to have her husband punished for his actions with Miss Bradley, has also brought an action for $50,000 against the young woman for alienating her husband's affections.

WILL SEE LABOR MEN

President Plans Conference In the Miller Case.

MITCHELL'S INFLUENCE AT WORK

Miners' Leader In Washington to Prevent Unwise Action That Might Complicate Matters. Unionists Much Elated.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—It is learned that immediately after President Roosevelt's return to Washington at the end of the present month a conference will be held at the White House between the chief executive and a number of the most prominent leaders of organized labor in the United States with a view to reaching an amicable settlement of the difficulties resulting from the president's action in the now famous "Miller case" and for the purpose of preventing a recurrence of such a situation in the future.

It was announced from Oyster Bay some days ago that the president would not announce his decision in the Miller case until his return to Washington. Then John Mitchell was informed of the president's desire for a conference with the representatives of organized labor. Mitchell is in Washington, and it is understood from what can be learned that he will use this powerful influence to prevent any action by the executive council of the American Federation of Labor or any hasty expression of opinion through the medium of resolutions or otherwise, which would further complicate the situation.

The prominent labor men now in Washington are much elated, although they endeavor to disguise the feeling over the apparent decision of the president not to act in the Miller case until after a formal conference with the representatives of organized labor. They appear to consider it as in the light of a first step toward victory.

The case of Assistant Foreman W. A. Miller of the government printing office came up for informal discussion at the meeting of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor. No statement could be obtained at the conclusion of the day's proceedings from either President Gompers or any members of the council in regard to the matter, and the usual official statement of the day's doings given out after the meeting completely ignored the subject.

A new feature of the case occurred when President Whitmore of the Stereotypers' union, employed at the government printing office, petitioned President Gompers in favor of Miller, urging him not to give the support of the federation to the petition to President Roosevelt asking for Miller's removal sent out as a memorial from the Central Labor union of this city and which, it is said, President Whitmore characterized as a blunder. President Whitmore is a lifelong Republican and also one of the most prominent union men of the city. It is said that some other strong union men at the government printing office will join Mr. Whitmore in his stand.

Grave Charge Against Younger.

NEVADA, Mo., Sept. 22.—A charge of embezzlement of $6,000 has been made against Cole Younger, the former bandit, by the management of a wild west show with which Frank James and Younger have been associated since shortly after Younger's pardon from the Minnesota penitentiary, where he was serving a life sentence. James and Younger had previously brought action for damages against the management because they allege the show proper failed to equip the aggregation according to contract and refused to drive away the gambling element that followed the show. Both James and Younger assert there is nothing in the embezzlement charges, which, they say, is retaliatory.

Freight Cars Telescoped.

ROCKY FORD, Colo., Sept. 22.—A Santa Fe passenger train ran into the rear end of an extra freight train a mile west of Rocky Ford, telescoping five cars of the freight train. A tank of oil exploded, setting fire to the wreck. Engineer John Maddigan, who jumped from his engine, was badly hurt. Mrs. E. L. Drake of Alva, Okla., was severely bruised and some other passengers badly shaken up.

Big Reward For Murderer's Capture.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Henry Dexter, the aged father of Orlando P. Dexter, who was shot from ambush in the Adirondacks near Malone, N. Y., has offered $5,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of his son's murderer, and under this incentive searching parties have set out in quest of the murderer and are beating the woods in the vicinity of Santa Clara and Malone.

Wreckers Derail Train.

INDEPENDENCE, Kan., Sept. 22.—Train wreckers succeeded in derailing a Missouri Pacific passenger train near here, but no one was injured. Rails on both sides of the track had been pried loose. The whole train left the track, but maintained an upright position.

Mountain Hotel Burned.

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 22.—The Mountain Top hotel, on the Blue Ridge mountains, near Afton, Nelson county, Va., has been destroyed by fire. All the guests escaped. The property was valued at about $7,000. The insurance is estimated at about as much.

Famous Tenor Arrives.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Ellison Van Hoose, the tenor, arrived here on the Minneapolis. He will appear at the Worcester (Mass.) festival, which will begin Sept. 29, after which he will join Mme. Melba for her concert tour.

BRITAIN'S CABINET.

Unconfirmed List of Appointments Given Out.

DENIAL FROM PREMIER'S OFFICE.

Mr. Balfour's Secretary Says No Choice Has Yet Been Made to Fill Vacancies Made by Resignations.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—King Edward is reported to have approved the appointment of Austen Chamberlain, the postmaster general, to be chancellor of the exchequer in succession to Charles T. Ritchie; Mr. Arnold-Forster, secretary to the admiralty, to be secretary for war in succession to Mr. Brodrick; Mr. Brodrick, the secretary for war, to be secretary for India in succession to Lord George Hamilton, and Lord Selborne, the first lord of the admiralty, to be secretary for the colonies in succession to Joseph Chamberlain.

No official confirmation of the appointments has yet been forthcoming.

It is known that Lord Milner, the British high commissioner of South Africa, was offered the colonial secretaryship.

Premier Balfour's private secretary stated later that the reported cabinet appointments had not yet been made, adding that Mr. Balfour hardly expected to be in a position to give out the list of new ministers.

Apparently Lord Milner is still considering the offer of the colonial secretaryship, and thereto is probably due the delay.

Well informed persons express the opinion that Lord Selborne will remain at the admiralty to carry out the reforms he has inaugurated.

The question of the support of the Nationalist party for the new fiscal policy of retaliation is said to be the subject of negotiations between the government and the Irish leaders. It is reported that Chief Irish Secretary Wyndham is offering a concession in the shape of a Roman Catholic college at Dublin, while the Nationalists, on the other hand, are demanding a measure of local self government as the price of their support. Whether or not these statements are well founded, it appears clear that the Nationalists intend to use the cabinet crisis as a lever.

William O'Brien, M. P., speaking at Cork, declared unequivocally that both of the English parties were broken, and the solid Irish party would meet whichever came out on top. The future aim of the Irish party, he said, was "Ireland a nation," and they intended to adopt a position of independence and hold their hands until it was discovered from whom the best terms could be obtained. The means which secured the abolition of landlordism, declared the Irish leader, could easily on the same lines achieve home rule.

Philippine Franchises.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—Governor Taft has cabled the war department details of the franchise which is to be granted for furnishing power for various enterprises in Manila and elsewhere. He says the commission has surveyed the territory embracing Botocan falls at Mahehi, province of Maguna, and Lamot and Calirayа rivers, near by, and that it has been discovered that at least 10,000 horse power may be developed from these sources. The distance from Manila to the point in question is fifty-five miles, and Governor Taft says few engineering difficulties will be encountered. The local electric lighting company of Manila, backed by strong capital, desires to develop the power of the Angat river in Bulucan, a distance of thirty-five miles.

He was a fine looking man of splendid physique. Kilpatrick returned recently from a trip around the world. He was from Beatrice, Mich.

Mr. Gibbs had been for many years a prominent figure in the politics of New York city and the state. He was born at Seneca Falls in 1845 and served through the civil war.

Among the able candidates of the Fusionists will be Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University; Captain A. T. Mahan, naval historian and expert; George Haven Putnam, publisher, and R. Fulton Cutting. If such men as these are elected, New Yorkers will not be ashamed to have their city fathers receive distinguished foreign visitors.

He was knocked unconscious by the blow but on being revived it was found that he had suffered no serious injuries.

ITALIAN RIOTERS KILLED.

Officers Obliged to Use Revolvers to Quell Outbreak.

COOPERSTOWN, N. Y., Sept. 22.—A riot by Italian laborers on the Oneonta, Cooperstown and Richfield Springs trolley road resulted in the death of one Italian and the wounding of General Manager Tilton and a deputy sheriff.

The Italians are quartered in shanties a little below the power house at Hartwick. They built an obstruction on the track. The first car which started south was halted. A telephone message to Oneonta brought Receiver Jennings, General Manager Tilton and several deputies. When they set about removing the obstruction the Italians attacked them, firing pistols and throwing stones. Mr. Tilton was hit on the right temple with a stone, and his face was badly cut. Deputy Sheriff French received a bullet wound in the head and was also gashed with a stone. Deputies and employees of the road returned the fire of the Italians, and one laborer was killed. The rest were then quieted, and traffic on the road was resumed. Seven of the rioters were arrested and held for examination.

The trouble grew out of the fact that there is due the Italians two months' wages for work done before the road went into the receiver's hands, but which he cannot pay while the road is in litigation. The laborers have been paid for all work done since the receivership began.

CHICAGO'S CENTENNIAL.

Great Celebration Begins Next Saturday—A Six Days' Programme.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—Committees in charge of Chicago's centennial celebration, which begins next Saturday and lasts until the following Thursday night, reported that the preliminary details were practically complete and issued a programme for the six days. Invitations have been sent out for the banquet of mayors, which takes place at the Auditorium on Thursday night, Oct. 1. More than 3,000 invitations have been issued for the Daughters of the American Revolution reception, at which many of the members will appear in gowns of a hundred years ago.

On Saturday night the centennial managers will give a reproduction of the burning of the city in 1871 in a unique display of red fire. One hundred tons of the inflammable material will blaze on the roofs of several scores of the tallest buildings in the down town districts, and for thirty minutes the city will seem to be struggling with a disaster similar to that which resulted in almost total destruction thirty-two years ago. The scene, judging from tests recently made on one of the high buildings, will be thrilling to the extreme, and the display will surely prove an awe inspiring spectacle.

New Jersey School Law Invalid.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 22.—The court of errors and appeals has rendered a decision holding the general school law of the state to be unconstitutional. This law is generally known as the McKee law and was passed about two years ago. It was planned to be a general revision of the school laws of the state. The decision holds that it is permissible to place cities in one class and all other municipalities in another class, but that in other respects the law is special. No opinion was filed, and it is not expected that one will be filed inside of several days.

Fast Trolley Travel.

BERLIN, Sept. 22.—A burst of speed at the rate of 114 miles an hour was reached Saturday on the Zossen electric line, but over what distance is not disclosed. The length of the line is eighteen miles. The whole line was guarded, and unprivileged observers were not permitted to approach.

A FITTING TRIBUTE.

A Citizen of Plainfield Pays a Well-Earned Tribute.

The following public statement of a respected citizen adds one more emphatic endorsement of merit to the scores that have appeared before.

Mrs. R. Wortman, living with her daughter, Mrs. S. E. Cook, of 204 Somerset street, says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills with good results for severe pains across my back and hips, which no doubt was caused by the kidneys being out of order. It was painful for me to stoop or bend forward and I could not sit ten minutes in one position but had to be continually changing about. I used many different kinds of medicine recommended for kidney trouble but I could not see that any of them benefitted me. Doan's Kidney Pills were procured for me at L. W. Randolph's drug store and it is the only remedy I ever used that gave me any relief. I always keep a supply of them on hand and would not think of being without them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name Doan's and take no other.

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

PHYSICAL CULTURE.

A Few Simple Exercises For Developing Grace of Body.

The present ideal of beauty is the tall, graceful athletic girl. We cannot all be tall, at least not in this incarnation, but every girl and woman may become strong and graceful. It is even claimed by physiculturists that a habitually maintained erect carriage and a steady "stretching up" of the body will in course of time add something to the height. Well, it may be so, but this much, at any rate, is certain—such a position, accompanied by habitual deep breathing, will surely prevent the unsightly slumping down of the body and the thickening about the waist that too often accompany the approach of middle age.

First determine that you can stand well. To know when you do this, test your position. Put your heels together and stand with your back against a wall, perfectly straight. One celebrated physical trainer says the whole back of the body, full length, from heels to head, should touch the wall when we stand correctly; that the properly carried human spine should be perfectly straight, without any of the hollowing which the fashionable corset attempts to accentuate. He declares that only by holding the spine perpendicular can the spinal cord be free from uneven pressure and thus send full stimulus to the great nerve trunks. At any rate, the more nearly you can make the back of your legs through their whole length, also your backbone through its whole length, touch that wall the better you stand.

Now for the front of the body. Stand upon one side of a room and approach with a long, free step to the opposite wall. Of course your toes will touch the opposite wall first as you come to it. But now notice concerning the rest of the body. Does your chest or your stomach touch first? If your stomach, then that is all wrong. In the properly developed person the chest stands out forward beyond the stomach and when you walk up to a wall will touch first every time.

The full, round, deep chest is one of the leading marks of beauty in a woman. If you find you have it not, then develop it by holding your chest up and by training yourself to habitual deep breathing. The shoulders themselves have not much to do with elevating the chest. Just draw your lungs upward, and the flabby, spongy muscles around and above the waist will follow.

The deep breathing habit itself will draw your chest upward. Stand erect, back and legs against the wall, clothing absolutely unhampering. From the region of the waist line, also a little below, begin and slowly draw in all the pure air you can hold. It is no good if the air is not pure. Then exhale as slowly as you inhaled. That is all. Habituate yourself to this, and it will develop your chest magnificently, if along with it you constantly stand erect and hold yourself up. The very breathing itself lifts the chest, as you will notice. It is a good plan to take physical exercises standing in front of a mirror, so you can note the effect.

The erect carriage and constantly elevated chest give a carriage so noble that the woman who habituates herself to this attitude will be noticed and admired in a crowd wherever she passes. Strangers will involuntarily conclude she is "somebody." Pity indeed that the correct carriage is so rare among our sex that a woman who possesses it is instantly singled out wherever she goes.

There are some plain exercises that greatly strengthen and limber the muscles of the back, hips and legs and prevent the body from becoming unwieldy and hippopotamus-like. Here is one: Wearing very little clothing, and that entirely loose and unhampering, lie upon the floor flat upon the back, arms at the sides; then, without using hands or arms any more than if you had none, rise from the floor, first to a sitting posture, then upon your feet, straight up. Maybe you cannot do it at first, but practice will soon give power. Think what you would have to do if you were armless and act accordingly in this exercise. Another excellent practice is while lying upon the back on the floor to raise the legs in the air, first one, then the other, at right angles, gradually bringing your feet over toward your head. By and by you will actually be able to touch the floor above your head with your toes while you lie upon the back.

The exercises indicated in the illustration are for strengthening and making nimble the legs and back. They explain themselves, and there is nothing better for the purpose for which they are intended.

MARCIA CAMPBELL.

Blanche O'Halloran
A CUBAN REMEMBRANCE

By R. M. WOOLLEY.

WHEN Captain Stanton Murray left New York for the Philippines on the transport McClellan, he had much to look forward to; not to the dangerous and tiresome hikes that would inevitably fall to his lot there, but his future was redundant with possibilities, and he saw no reason why he should not carve his name deep into the pages of history yet to be written.

Murray was handsome and well-bred; so much so that the aristocracy of New York had found him hard to resist, and he was never slighted as the invitation lists for swell functions were being compiled. To be a captain in the regular establishment at 29 is some little encouragement within itself and in lieu of this his rank seemed incredible until the broad shoulders hove sufficiently close to view to admit sight of the two little silver bars in either strap, which were symbolic of his rank.

But the war and a good record was the making of many a man, so to speak, in the revolution it brought about in the lineal rank of all arms of the service, and because Murray performed a clever little exploit at Santiago that brought him gratuitious promotion through gallantry in action, it was no fault of his, nor was it just cause for the bitter envy and invidiousness from those who were less fortunate yet mayhap more deserving from a lineal point of view. Any man, and certainly any soldier, confronted with a like opportunity to win reward in the service of his country, would have accepted the chance and made the best of it, as did the lucky one. Men who had grown grey as lieutenants were now but captains, and that a shave-tail fresh from the academy in '97 should rise like a rocket from the lowest subaltern grade seemed an injustice intolerable and to a degree unwise.

Yes, indeed, there was much in the future for Capt. Murray, and he knew it; that is he felt it. Mental telepathy told him so. He doted on his good luck and the good luck the future held in store, perhaps a bit selfishly, but nevertheless surely. He paid tribute to the goddess of fortune in an attempt to arrest the attention of the fair dame every time he raised a glass to his lips.

True to the law of nature the captain was not satisfied with what he already had but craved for more.

He managed to engage himself to pretty Dorothy Seaton just before leaving New York and he was animated and vain. That was another streak of fortune worthy a celebration and everybody at the army and navy had their habit with Capt. Murray that day, though no toasts were said to the young and popular woman, for the professor of arms was reticent and reserved on this subject out of respect for the sweetest woman in town.

He simply remained silent and offered no excuse for his liberality and high spirit, much to the chagrin of the curious element.

Murray had striven for the wealthy hand of Miss Seaton for months; yes, even prior to his trip south from David's island, and his devotion had been continual since his return from Cuba. But his gallantry in action far outshone his preseveranee in affairs of the heart and it was only due to the forced attentions of a crabbed old lieutenant colonel of engineers, who had performed no other duty than that of chair-warming in the capitol, that the dashing captain made his successful advance and won the day.

Then an important piece of news given him by a friend in congress as he was about to go aboard the transport produced a compound paroxysm of hilarity, impatience and anxiety. The congressman was using his influence to have Murray sent as military attache to Berlin and to what higher detail could a young captain aspire to than representing his country abroad? It was because of this encouraging announcement that Miss Seaton consented to hasten the wedding day about a year sooner than was anticipated in the beginning.

The human is an impatient, complaining creature at times, especially in event of good and unexpected fortune, and to Murray the day when Miss Dorothy Seaton would discard that name for his, seemed far, far away. Somehow the lieutenant colonel could not be driven from his imaginative state of mind and the mere recollection of a silver leaf made his blood run hot. Until Dorothy should become Mrs. Murray the captain thought her not quite safe from the ardor and persistency of engineer duty.

Murray was jealous and for nothing.

These perplexities of the heart surmounted all the whisky sour he could decently dispose of while en route to the east and the journey through the canal seemed a long one. So haunted did he become with mental pictures of rivals on bended knees at the feet of the queenliest girl in Gotham that there was no peace of mind, and three letters full of love and advice relative to the management of unwelcome suitors were mailed to his betrothed before leaving Malta. These were followed by another of bulky proportions and of the same tenor of text at Aden, and still another at Colombo.

The captain frequently resorted to his favorite whisky sour, but for the first time they failed in their stimulative offices and thoughts of a new and more effective glass of beverage often possessed him.

There was a long delay at Singapore owing to a disabled rudder, but Murray, contrary to his disposition, for once refused to join the jolly party of adventurers going from the ship for an excursion into the interior. The big fellow was lovesick and wished he was out of the service. The service just now was the only barrier between him and his. The future now held nothing save hikes, continual hikes into the dense insect-ridden jungles after the ellusive insurrecto—but then a stray Mauser ball might pass his way and terminate it all. Then a transport would be named in his honor and the nation for which he had died would remember him gratefully for a time and then forget just as Dorothy would forget also. Strange what a flutter woman can make in the hearts of the brave; but love beseemeth all men, weak or strong.

Murray, in his dark hours, which were many at this period, said that the congressman would never succeed in having him sent on the Berlin detail as he had hoped. If, as the congressman said, the president had promised such a favor, the executive would forget it as the captain fell into oblivion in the hills of the east. The drawing room element of mankind in New York, or the colonel, would press their demands, and Dorothy, in his absence, might forget her promises. Their engagement seemed so quick and phantom-like to him; she might think him joking and playing with her heart, as is done so often, seemingly for practice, among the sexes in society. If not that she might despair of his return and, in her despondency, give herself away, and then, ah, then—then there was more whisky sour and another cigarette.

This sort of lamentation was suffered by Murray for nearly a month, at the end of which time he had arrived in the Division of the Philippines for duty and found himself sole ruler of Bacour, a little city of nipa huts far into the interior of Cebu. "El Captain," as the over-polite and treacherous natives would say, was monarch of all his eyes and field glasses surveyed; but still the captain was far from being a happy man.

Military rule prevailed throughout the archipelago and Murray, commanding the district in which he was posted, was a sovereign, kind and just, but proud and formal, with nothing save a plain, white casa for a palace and a bamboo chair for a throne.

In view of his long and distasteful voyage two mails had arrived in the islands via San Francisco since his departure from New York, the last of which brought him a crushing letter from Dorothy. Crushing because that sensible little woman had taken righteous offense at the writer's ungrounded suppositions. He was mistaken in her nature. His love-lorn epistles, written while enroute, had insinuated that she was frivolous and fickle, incapable of making an agreement to keep in sacred trust and faithfulness until his return. She said his apprehensions were an insult to her womanliness and she desired an apology.

Girlish and Mannish America.

When it is here remarked that the male American is declaring symptoms of dawning effeminacy no occasion is offered for indignant reprobation. The average American has so much thorough masculinity that he can spare enough to dower a less vigorous people. What is meant is that the natural reaction to the paramountcy of the American girl has set in. As she shares the pursuits, the pleasures and the liberties of her brothers and imposes her commands upon them she becomes more masculine, they more feminine; her shoulders square off; theirs begin to slope. She dons the sweater and blazer and wears her skirts shorter and shorter; they take to pink shirt waists and clocked open work stockings, and their ever baggier trousers, worn so long that they have to be turned up at the bottom, seem fashioned on a seraglio pattern.—N. Y. Mail and Express.

Pumice-Stone Bricks.

The large deposits of volcanic sand and pumice which are found in Germany between Coblenz and Andernach are now being utilized for brick-making, and an extensive industry has been formed there. The pumice is broken up and screened to a suitable size, after which it is mixed with the sand and a certain proportion of lime and water. This mixture is poured into iron molds with removable wooden bottoms, upon which the bricks, when the material has set, can be dried. After exposure to the air for a short time the bricks are ready for shipment. No modern machinery is employed, the work being done by hand, a good workman turning out about 1,500 bricks per day.—Chambers' Journal.

VAN WORMERS MUST DIE.

Governor Odell Refuses to Commute Their Sentence.

NEWBURG, N. Y., Sept. 22.—Governor Odell has refused to grant the application of former Judge J. Rider Cady for commutation of the sentence of the Van Wormer boys, who have been condemned to death for the murder of their uncle, Peter A. Hallenbeck, in Columbia county. This was the final appeal for the three boys, and they will be put to death in the electric chair on Oct. 1.

In refusing the application the governor says:

"In the matter of the application of Willis Van Wormer, Burton Van Wormer and Frederick M. Van Wormer for executive clemency, The prisoners were convicted in the county of Columbia in the month of April, 1902, upon an indictment charging them and Harvey Bruce with the crime of murder in the first degree in killing Peter A. Hallenbeck by shooting him and were sentenced to be executed. They were ably defended on the trial by skillful and experienced counsel, and the whole case was afterward carefully reviewed by the court of appeals and the conviction affirmed, the court saying in an opinion in which all the judges concurred that it was difficult if not impossible to see how any conscientious jury could have found a verdict other than that rendered.

"The case is now before me in an application for a commutation of the sentence from the death penalty to imprisonment for life, various grounds being urged, the principal of which is that, although the evidence may have been legally sufficient to sustain the verdict, still 'that the design to kill, if any such design existed, was so suddenly formed as to make it extremely doubtful whether the killing was so deliberate and premeditated as to make the offense the crime of murder in the first degree.'"

RODE TWO THOUSAND MILES.

Trooper Came From Oklahoma to West Point on Horseback.

NEWBURG, N. Y., Sept. 22.—Trooper Davis of the Eighth United States cavalry has reached West Point, being the first of a detachment of twelve troopers who started from Oklahoma thirty-nine days ago on a test ride of 2,000 miles. The men were allowed to eat and sleep when they pleased, relays of horses being provided every thirty miles, the object of the ride being to cover the distance in the shortest practicable time.

Davis, being the lightest man of the party, led his comrades at the start and thus had the advantage of getting the pick of mounts at the relay stations. He rode up the east bank of the Hudson after reaching New York until near Garrison, where his horse gave out. The ferry having stopped running, he reported his arrival by signaling across the river to West Point. Then he came on to this city and then proceeded to his destination.

Davis weighed 137 pounds when he started and now weighs but 108 pounds. He was very tired, but happy to think he had broken the record for the distance, which is forty-five days. The ride is one of several taken to test the stamina of men and horses, made at the suggestion of General Young, the new chief of staff.

The Man Behind the Gun.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—A bulletin was posted at the navy department to the effect that Henry Ward Treanor was the man behind the battle ship Indiana's eight inch gun that put four successive shots through the bull's eye of the 17 by 21 foot target at the 1,400 and 1,600 yards range during the recent target practice of that vessel. Treanor enlisted as a seaman at St. Paul, Minn., in July, 1901, and has been a gun pointer since Jan. 1 last.

Pension For Faithful Conductor.

SUFFERN, N. Y., Sept. 22.—D. Cooper, a conductor on the Erie, has just finished his fifty-third year in the service of the road and has been informed that he is entitled to a pension. Mr. Cooper entered the employ of the road in 1850. After acting for several years as baggageman and station agent he became a conductor, running on the main line between Jersey City and Suffern for twenty-two years.

Frisco to Boston by Auto.

BOSTON, Sept. 22.—After a run of seventy-five days two automobilists have arrived here from San Francisco and prepared for a day of rest before continuing their journey to Portland, Me. The men had made the trip from San Francisco in a five horse power machine weighing 800 pounds, about the lightest machine that has yet made the transcontinental trip.

Ohio Attorney Dead.

MARIETTA, O., Sept. 22.—Hon. William G. Way, one of the best known attorneys in southern Ohio and a member of the Ohio legislature in 1871-72, died suddenly here last night of apoplexy, aged sixty-one years. He was president of the Dime Savings society.

Married In Haste.

UTICA, N. Y., Sept. 22.—W. Dell Balch of this city and his bookkeeper, Rose Lynch, were married on the north bound Adirondack express just after leaving Remsen, where Mr. Balch had hastily secured the attendance of a minister. The latter left a barber's chair half shaved to catch the train. The bride's family objected to the match and were sending her away.

Professor Jenks Going to China.

ITHACA, N. Y., Sept. 22.—Professor J. W. Jenks of the Cornell faculty will be granted a year's leave of absence from the university at the next meeting of the board of trustees and will sail for China within three weeks.

In the semi-final play for the President's cup, at the Westfield Golf Club, on Saturday, there was only one match, when A. D. Tuttle beat R. I. Townley, 9 up and 7 to go. The other match will be played this week and the finals next Saturday. Another event on Saturday was the monthly handicap. This was won by J. A. Worth with a net score of 72.

PUT OUTS.

In a game of baseball Saturday between the Berkley Heights team and Scotch Plains II, the latter were defeated by a score of 6 to 8.

After the game last Saturday between St. Mary and Scotch Plains, the latter team had dinner at a local hotel, after which the evening was spent in a social manner.

Alis club is scheduled to play a game of baseball with St. Mary's team on Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon. Each team has won a game and there should be considerable interest in the third contest.

Now that Scotch Plains and Alis have completed their Westfield series, the only chance for humiliating the down-the-line team is in the remaining games of the St. Mary's series. As it now stands with St. Mary's they have lost one and played a a tie. The balance of the series will be played Oct. 3, 10 and 17, the Oct. 3 game being at Westfield.

TENNIS.

With the election of the new board of governors of the Plainfield High School Athletic Association, plans for the annual school singles championship tennis tournament will soon be acted on. There are fast tennis players in the High School and much interest is being shown in the coming match. While nothing definite has been done as to securing courts for the match play, an effort will be made to secure the use of the Cedar Brook Tennis Club grounds, where last year's tournament was played off. Next week will probably see the tournament under way.

FOOTBALL.

The Orange Field Club football team will open its season in a game with the Webster Field Club. The play will be on the Arlington avenue gridiron. Fifteen minute halves are scheduled, commencing at 3 o'clock.

The first football practice of the year by the Leal's School squad was held Saturday afternoon. There are twenty candidates for the various positions and the outlook for a fast team is good. The team will use this year's football rules regarding the seven man line and the quarterback running with the ball, but will not play on the checker board gridiron provided for.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

Charles Jensen has purchased the prize hound dog, "Chief," formerly owned by George Kaeting. The animal is a prize winner in several dog shows.

—Rennie Koon, of Watchung avenue, twelve years old, is nursing a badly cut foot as the result of stepping on a piece of glass while wading in Green brook.

—The Pennsylvania Railroad is preparing to utilize waste cinders for track ballast instead of crushed stone. At the large cinder dump in Hollidaysburg, which is estimated to contain 600,000 tons of cinders, a plant to cost $50,000 is being constructed, which will be fitted with three of the largest crushers.

Cormick Muldowney, of Plainfield avenue, spent last evening with friends in Elizabeth.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. Kromimus have left Plainfield and have taken up their residence on the Park Slope, Brooklyn. Mr. Kromimus has returned to Fulton Wholesale Fish Market and has taken a position as bookkeeper for a concern there.

Tribute to Dr. Anderson.

Dr. Anderson, of Plainfield, a colored man, has received the nomination for coroner on the Republican ticket in Union County. This is the first time a colored man has been named for this office or any other on the county ticket. In the towns and cities colored men have been nominated for constable and for poundkeeper, and in Plainfield itself at least one colored man is on the police force, and a very good policeman he is. Aside from whatever party or factional tact may be involved in the selection of Dr. Anderson, his nomination is a good one. He is an educated man, a physician of good standing, enjoying a large practice, and among those who rely on his skill are several white people. The nomination of Dr. Anderson is a tribute to him as a gentleman and to his ability. In his own individuality and achievements he affords pleasing evidence of the possibilities of the colored race.—Newark Evening News.

A resolution was introduced by Mr. Newcorn and unanimously adopted moving that the Board of Great Chiefs set apart a day during the St. Louis exposition of next year for a grand demonstration of the order and to be known as Red Men's Day. The next place of meeting will be held in St. Joseph, Mo., in September of next year.

AMENDMENTS CARRIED HERE IN LIGHT VOTE

Only 289 Ballots Cast in the City and 118 in the Borough.

BUT SLIGHT INTEREST

LESS THAN TEN PER CENT. OF CITY'S VOTE CAST.

Greater Proportion in North Plainfield—Second District of Second Ward Result a Tie—In Other Districts Amendments Carried.

The vote on the proposed amendments to the Constitution was the smallest ever recorded in the city and in the borough as well, practically little interest being taken in the election. Some persons refused to go to the polls and vote, while many never gave the subject a moment's thought. It was hinted more than once that the election was arranged for the benefit of the lawyers and if they wanted the amendments adopted they could vote for them. As it was, some of the lawyers voted in the negative.

It is seldom that the election officers have had so little to do at an election. In not one of the districts of the city did the total vote exceed fifty and in the majority of cases it was far less than that. The First district of the Second ward polled the largest number of votes, 44, and in a few cases there were rejected ballots. In most of the wards the vote was for or against, but in some districts the voters selected certain amendments which they wanted or did not want adopted.

The vote by wards was this:

The entire vote in North Plainfield was 118. Of this number of ballots forty-one were cast in the First district and sixty-seven in the Second district.

In the First district twenty-four voted against the first amendment and seventeen for; twenty-four voted for the second and seventeen against it and twenty-one voted against the third amendment and twenty for. In the Second district twenty cast ballots against the first and thirt-yeight for; twenty-five voted against the second amendment and thirty-seven for it and twenty-nine voted against the third and thirty-four cast ballots for it. In this district there were fifty-four straight ballots cast, ten were scratched and three were rejected. In the First district all the ballots cast were straight.

In South Plainfield sixteen votes were cast.

There are 400 voters in Dunellen but only 50 went to the polls.

CHARLES SHEELEN MARRIES

MISS MARY E. FOGARTY BRIDE OF FANWOOD MAN.

Wedding in Holy Trinity Church, Westfield, Father Westman Officiating.

Charles Sheelen, of Fanwood, and Miss Mary H. Fogerty, of this place, were married at 10 o'clock this morning in Holy Trinity Roman Catholic Church, in Westfield. Father Westman celebrated nuptial mass, which was attended by a large number of friends and relatives of the bride and groom. The altar was decorated with flowers and the center aisle was decorated with palms and ferns. Special music was engaged for the occasion.

Miss Annie Dunn, a cousin of the bride, was maid-of-honor and Joseph Sheelen, a brother of the groom, best man. The bride wore white silk covered with point de esprit, and carried a bouquet of white roses. The maid-of-honor was similarly attired.

After the wedding breakfast and a reception was held, Mr. and Mrs. Sheelen left for a honeymoon trip to Washington and Old Point Comfort.

The groom is well-known in this city. He is a leading Republican in Fanwood township and has a host of friends. He is the township tax collector and treasurer and holds responsible school offices. Mr. and Mrs. Sheelen will reside in Fanwood.

DR. VAN DE WATER'S POSITION

CLERGYMAN BACK TO FIGHT CHARGES AGAINST HIM.

Denies Charges Against Him in the Watt Divorce Proceedings.

Among the passengers returning from Europe on the Italian Royal Mail line steamer Sardegna yesterday was the Rev. Dr George R. Van De Water, rector of St. Andrew's Church, at 127th street and Fifth avenue, New York City, who is named as co-respondent by Commodore Archibald Watt in his divorce proceedings against his wife, Adele F. Watt. Mrs. Watt lives on Rockview avenue, North Plainfield, and has repeatedly refused to be interviewed on the subject.

Dr. Van De Water reiterated yesterday his emphatic denials of the charges against him and signified his intention of fighting the case to the bitter end. He stated that he did not intend to take advantage of a new amendment to the law giving a co-respondent in a divorce suit the right to appear. He intends to take advantage of nothing, merely to fight the case to the end.

When it became known last June that Dr. Van De Water had been named by Commodore Watt in his divorce suit the greatest surprise was manifested, particularly by members of St. Andrew's Church. From the first the members of his congregation have refused to believe these charges.

Dr. Van De Water is a chaplain of Columbia University and was formerly chaplain of the Seventy-first Regiment, with which he served in the Cuban campaign.

CHINESE FESTIVAL.

For Two Weeks Celestials Will Celebrate in Royal Fashion.

According to the Chinese calendar, Monday was the beginning of a festival known as the "Bot Yeut Sup Ung," or Middle August Moon Worship. Literally translated: "Yeut" is moon, and "Sup Ung" is ten-five, or fifteen.

At various laundries incense was burned and the local celestials bowed their heads and gave thanks.

For two weeks Chinamen will feast and rejoice because the moon still shines with favor upon them. Peculiar cakes appropriately named Yeut Beung, "moon cakes," will be eaten along with many specially prepared Chinese dishes. Chinamen will bow their heads in prayer before the moon.

Strike Averted.

Concessions were promised yesterday to the trolleymen employed on the Essex County, N. J., division of the Public Service Corporation, by President Thomas N. McCarter, at a conference with representatives of the local union. It is understood a threatened general strike of motormen and conductors has been averted.

An Heir in the House.

Mr. and Mrs. William M. McCutchen, formerly of this city, but now of Chicago, are receiving congratulations over the arrival of a young son. Mr. McCutchen is connected with the Chicago office of the Ingersoll-Sergeant Drill Company.

RESULT OF SPECIAL ELECTION IN DOUBT

Returns Coming in Slowly From Many Rural Counties in the State.

LABORS' OPPOSITION TO IT

ESSEX AND MERCER COUNTIES PILE UP VOTE AGAINST.

Camden Favors Change as Does Cumberland and Lesser Counties—Official Count on Monday.

Nineteen votes on the constitutional amendments were recorded in New Market yesterday, one of which was rejected because not properly made out. Of the remaining eighteen, were in favor of the amendments and the other vote was recorded in favor of all the amendments except Section IV of Article VI.

In Elizabeth 944 votes were cast of which 584 were in favor of and 308 against the changes.

Returns from the constitutional amendment election are incomplete at the hour of going to press, the various reports of the result being exceedingly conflicting. Mercer County, where the Trenton True American and the labor unions waged a war against the amendments, piled up a majority against their being tacked on the constitution. The labor unions throughout the State appear to have taken more or less of a hand in the fight. In Essex County it is reported that a majority of approximately 900 was polled against, although it is said that Newark favored the amendments by a slight majority.

Only about 10 per cent. of the total registered vote went to the polls. The count will be held at Trenton on Monday. In Mercer County, owing to organized labor taking a dislike to the amendments, almost one-third of the registry voted. The majority against the amendments there was about 2,200. It being their New Year's Day, the Jews throughout the State refrained from voting. Gloucester County gave a majority of 400 for the amendments, and Camden gave about 2,500 in favor. Warren will give about 400 against.

In Camden the vote was not more than 25 per cent. of the total, but four-fifths of it, it is estimated, is in favor of them. In Cumberland County there is an apparent majority of 300 in favor of them, and in Gloucester about 400 the same way.

The vote in the cities of Essex County was: Newark, 2,246 majority in favor; Orange, 138 majority against, and East Orange, 74 majority in favor.

NO MASONIC FAIR.

Anchor Lodge Opposes Idea and Jerusalem Likely to Take Same Stand.

Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. and A. M., at its regular communication last night stamped its disapproval on a proposition advocated by members of the order here to hold a big fair in the near future. Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, it is expected, will take action on the scheme at its next communication which will be held Tuesday evening. As a rule the Masons here are opposed to holding a public affair of this nature, and it is more than probable that the scheme will be dropped. No action has been taken by Jerusalem Chapter, No. 24, R. A. M., or by Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T.

The committee will refer the matter back to the associations and another meeting will be held this week. Those who represented the schools were: City High, Francis K. Anderson, Harry Thompson and Robert Craig; North Plainfield High School, W. M. Messersmith, E. K. Powlison and Leslie Backer and Leals, Gordon Abbott, William Doane and John Houghey.

She was attired in a gown of white crepe d'ohine over taffeta with a cluster of orange blossoms. Miss Klinsman carried a bouquet of bridal roses. The maid-of-honor was Miss Edith Kreutzfeldt, of Newark, a cousin of the bride and the bridesmaid was Miss Anna Feibel, of Somerville. WARREN'S ENDEAVOR MEETING.

Miss Sara Cuary Falls to Appear and Rev. Mr. McKelvey Speaks.

Through a misunderstanding Miss Sara Curry, matron of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home, failed to be present at the Christian Endeavor Society meeting in Warren Chapel, last night. She and several children from the New York Day Nursery were to have taken part in the service. Miss Squires was in charge of the meeting and the opening exercises. Rev. J. O. McKelvey gave a practical talk touching mission work.

Caught a 'Possum.

Much excitement was caused in the borough a few days ago when a colored servant in the employ of E. L. Suffern, of Sycamore avenue, was seen climbing a tall tree in the back yard. When she returned to earth she exultantly held in her hand a large fat 'possum. Many had never before seen a 'possum and exhibited much curiosity over it. The colored miss entertained her friends, it is said, with a table 'd'hote dinner, the courses of which consisted of 'possum.

—Heuman Brothers fruit specials are peaches and grapes. See the great display at the corner of Watchung avenue and East Fifth street. It is worth your time and money to go and see the liberal offers.

CONTESTS FOR GOLF CUPS

WALTER PETERSON LIKELY WINNER OF HILLSIDE COMMITTEE CUP.

Winner of President's Cup at Park Still in Doubt—Morgan Townsend a Sure Victor.

Walter Peterson, who is one of the most active and interested members of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, and who is now tie with fifteen points for the Golf Committee cup, stands an excellent chance of winning this trophy. Olaf Saugstad, with whom he is tied, has given up golf playing for this season on account of a pressure of business duties, and counting him out Mr. Peterson now leads. H. Reeve Stockton comes next with fourteen points and as he is playing considerable this year it may be that he will give Mr. Peterson a lively run for first position.

At the Park Golf Club there are two competitions attracting much attention—one being the weekly competition for the President's cup and the other the Park Golf Club cup. T. U. Dudley, Jr., and Samuel Townsend are tie for the first position for the President's cup with eight points, with Charles A. Reed a close second with seven points. Before the end of the season there is likely to be some change in this standing for there are a number of contestants after first place. For the Park Golf Club cup Morgan T. Townsend seems to have a substantial lead with a total of 21 points. His nearest competitor is T. U. Morris, Jr., who has 15½ points.

WEALTHY MR MARX DEAD

FORMER PLAINFIELDER DIES IN NEW YORK HOME.

Amassed a Fortune in Restaurant Business—Funeral Tomorrow.

Felix Marx, a well-known restaurant keeper of New York City, who died Monday, was an old time resident of Plainfield. He lived here until within nine or ten years ago at the corner of East Front street and Netherwood avenue, going back and forth to New York every day. He was a resident of Plainfield for more than ten years.

In 1890, Mr. Marx lost his wife by death and this led him three years later to sell his estate and resume his residence in New York City. Shortly after he sold his property in this city, the house was burned to the ground.

Mr. Marx was a life-long friend of David Metzgar, of New York, who died within an hour after he had received the news of the death of Mr. Marx. The two came to America together fifty years ago and plodded side by side to amass a fortune. Marx opened a little lunch room in Church street in the early fifties and 25 years ago moved to Mercer street. The fame of the place known as the Felix Dining-room soon spread through the city. It was the first kosher restaurant in New York. Both Marx and Metzgar retired from business six years ago and both were millionaires.

Mr. Marx was seventy-eight years old. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Ernestine Hyams; a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Ernest Marx and a sister, Mrs. Margaret Loeb, all of New York City. His sons Jacob and Ernest are both dead, Ernest having passed away only two months ago. Ernest, as well as his father, was well-known in Plainfield and both were exceedingly popular with all who knew them.

Mr. Marx will be buried tomorrow in Cypress Hills Cemetery, by the side of his wife and his life-long friend, David Metzgar.

WOMEN'S FIGHT.

Mrs. Maiden and Mrs. Higging Have Bout to Finish and Former Appears in Court.

Because Mrs. Lucy Maiden's son struck Mrs. Catherine Higgins' grandson yesterday and, according to Mrs. Higgins, knocked him down, the women took up the fight on their own responsibility and had a bout to a finish to the disturbance of an entire neighborhood on West Third street and the damage of their own fair countenances. The disturbance became so general that Mrs. Maiden was arrested as the instigator of the fray and a formal complaint was lodged by Mrs. Higgins. Mrs. Maiden appeared before City Judge Runyon this morning but the case was adjourned until next Monday at 9 o'clock at the request of counsel. William G. DeMeza represents Mrs. Higgins and W. A. Coddington, will conduct the defendant's case.

Deserves Success.

We are glad to notice that Charles L. Moffett, of Plainfield, is again mentioned as a probable candidate for Assemblyman. He made an excellent run last year, leading his associates on the ticket by about 700 votes, and also made a fine showing in the year previous. If he receives the nomination this will be the lucky third trial, and he should achieve the success he deserves.—Rahway Democrat.

Officers Elected.

These young men have been selected to the various offices in the boy's department of the Y. M. C. The Genuine vs. Counterfeits.

The genuine is always better than a counterfeit, but the truth of this statement is never more forcibly realized or more thoroughly appreciated than when you compare the genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve with the many counterfeits and worthless substitutes that are on the market. W. S. Ledbetter, of Shreveport, La., says: "After using numerous other remedies without benefit, one box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me." For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles no remedy is equal to DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Sold by L. W. Randolph.

AMUSEMENTS.

The bills offered at Mr. Keith's Union Square Theatre are so uniformly good that it is a hard matter to say that one is better than another. Mr. Keith has set the standard for vaudeville entertainment for years and it has never been lowered. There has never been a disappointed audience at Keith's. At the close of the show all know that they have seen the best that time and money can gather from all over the world.

At Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre a revival is made of Frank A. Tannehill's "Nancy Hanks," which was originally acted by Marie Jansen at the Garden Theatre some years ago. The cast includes Miss Florence Reed and Frank R. Camp. The vaudeville includes Miss Nora Bayes, Trask and Gladeon, Wilson and Davis, the Holdsworth and others.

Our Friends, the Druggists.

It is a pleasure to testify to the generally high character of druggists. But because of a few exceptions to the rule, it is necessary to caution the public to be on guard against imitations of Perry Davis' Painkiller. See that you get the right article, the soothing, helpful Painkiller that was used in your family before you were born. Don't be taken into buying a substitute. There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'.

JETT FOUND GUILTY

Death Sentence For Notorious Kentucky Man Killer.

SAID TO HAVE SLAIN FORTY MEN

Convicted of Killing Judge Marcum and Sentenced For Life—He Now Gets Death Penalty For an Earlier Murder.

CYNTHIANA, Ky., Sept. 23.—After a trial lasting eight days the jury in the case of Curtis Jett, charged with the murder of Town Marshal James Cockrill at Jackson, Ky., July 21, 1902, last evening rendered a verdict of guilty and fixed the punishment at death.

When the jury entered the court room after agreeing on a verdict quiet reigned for a few moments. Jett's mother had gone away earlier under the impression that no verdict would be reached. The reading of the verdict did not affect Jett, but his brother was very much distressed. Elijah McKinney served as foreman of the jury, and after the delivering of the verdict to the court the jury was polled.

The death sentence was then read to Jett by Clerk T. J. Robinson, after which Jett was given over to the custody of the deputy sheriffs. Colonel Blanton, Jett's lawyer, will file a motion for a new trial, and if the motion is overruled he will appeal the case to the court of appeals at Frankfort.

This has been the second trial of Curtis Jett on the charge of murder. In the first trial for the murder of J. B. Marcum Jett and Thomas White were sentenced to life imprisonment.

Jett, who is said to have slain forty men, was accused in the present case of the assassination of his own cousin, James Cockrill, on May 4, 1903, in Jackson. The trial was pressed after Jett had escaped the gallows on his second trial for the murder of Judge J. B. Marcum.

The Cockrill murder grew out of a feud started in 1852 over the marriage of Miss Virginia Bulton and William Sewall of Jackson. During the last two years, it is said, twenty-seven persons have been murdered both by the Hargis and the Cockrill factions, which took opposite sides. Jett sided with the Hargis combination.

Thomas Cockrill, brother of James Cockrill, was the principal witness against Jett. There were forty witnesses called for the prosecution, and thirty-eight testified.

Thomas Cockrill was urged by his mother not to testify against his cousin, but Thomas had decided to testify to the fact that he saw his cousin fire the shot that killed his brother. He refused to listen to his mother and declared that his cousin also killed Judge Marcum and had been convicted of that crime.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—The annual report of Major General Adna R. Chaffee, commanding the department of the east, urges that after the adoption of a uniform it shall be adhered to without constant changes and alterations. General Chaffee states that the time seems opportune for the adoption of a pack in lieu of the blanket roll for foot troops. He describes the present condition as discreditable. The blanket roll, in his opinion, is an inconvenient thing. He also recommends that the cartridge belt be carried on braces in order that the weight may be transferred to the shoulders. Seven officers and 1,438 men were tried by general court martial during the year. Two officers and 79 men were acquitted. The number of men tried for desertion was 298. The number tried by summary court was 16,142, of which 2,548 were convicted of drunkenness.

Crack Shots In the Army.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Reports which are daily received by the war department show that as a result of the new regulations for small arm firing the men are acquiring wonderful proficiency. These regulations require the men not only to hit the bullseye, but to estimate distances up to 10 per cent of a thousand yards. In firing outside the target range at dummies the reports state that the results have been remarkable. The reports show excellent results in rapid pistol firing, it being a common thing for the men to put five shots in the bullseye at twenty-five yards in ten seconds, although they are allowed twenty seconds in which to shoot.

Bad For American Prospectors.

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Sept. 23.—Advices received here from Caracas, Venezuela, state that the Official Gazette has published a government decree suspending the operation of the mining code for an indefinite period. This decree will render new acquisitions of mines in Venezuela impossible. The action of the government, taken without previous notice, will cause detriment to the American mining parties who are now engaged in surveying several mining claims in the district of the Orinoco.

Training Ship Aground.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Sept. 23.—The United States training ship Alliance is aground at Race Rock. The ship went upon the rock late in the afternoon, and although she is apparently hard and fast, she is in no danger. The sea is smooth, and unless there is a sudden change in weather conditions the ship will be safely floated.

Payne to Return Friday.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Postmaster General Payne has wired that he will return to Washington next Friday from Virginia Hot Springs, where he has been spending a brief vacation with Mrs. Payne.

The Famous Bonnet Black Silks.

Like Cæsar's great victory, the C. J. Bonnet Silks came, saw and conquered all other black silks. These silks are as well known in Europe as here, and have held first place in the estimation of the ladies of both continents, of whom the majority will buy no other make. Every yard of the C. J. Bonnet Silks is warranted to wear long and true. They are dyed in the skein and not in the piece, as in the imitations. To investigate the C. J. Bonnet Silks is to invest in them. Their prices are about the same as those charged elsewhere for much inferior values. We suggest these four items for inspection:

Bonnet Black Taffeta, 22 inches wide, soft firm quality, bright finish, for dress wear, per yd - 85c

Gravesend Winners.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Caughnawaga, backed from 3½ to 1 to 13 to 5, won the Occidental handicap, a mile and a furlong, at Gravesend. He also ran the distance in 1:52 3-5, within three-fifths of a second of the track record. The start in the race was very bad, the favorite, Charles Elwood, and Warranted being left. The Sea Breeze selling stakes went to the favorite, Wild Thyme. Rostand led to the stretch, when Wild Thyme moved up and won by a head from Rostand. Payne was third. Four favorites won. The weather was warm and the track fast.

In addition to the weekly play for the Golf Committee cup at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, Saturday, there will be regular play for the Men's Handicap cup.

Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 23, 1903.

The Daily Press has a higher circulation rating than is accorded to any other paper in Plainfield.—Printers' Ink.

As the ad writer puts human interest into his ads he puts cash into his employer's till.—Printers' Ink.

Farmer Orator James E. Martine, who with tongue and pen fought against the measures, rushed into The Daily Press office yesterday afternoon and proudly exclaimed, "I was the thirteenth man to vote." No wonder the amendments were carried.

It is said that a farce entitled "trial for cold blooded murder" will be enacted in South Carolina next Monday. The scene is laid in a court room. Former Lieutenant Governor James H. Tillman, who shot down an unarmed editor, will pose as the hero, and twelve jurymen will no doubt take the part of supers.

A dispatch from the Windy City brings the sad news that "the best-dressed man in Chicago is dead." It is a great blow, but the Chicago people should strive to bear up under the affliction. To be the best dressed man, what a distinction! The bereaved populace should erect a tablet to his memory in Dr. Harper's unique factory of education.

The vote in the city and borough yesterday was the lightest on record and yet the issues at stake were of the most important nature, inasmuch as they affect the constitution. The result here was similar to that throughout the State. Without going into the merits of the amendments, it is only necessary to say that the election was a farce pure and simple.

Christmas is a long way off, but we would like to file this list of our needs just for Santa's perusal: Police force for the borough; new high school for the city; sewage system for the borough; system of garbage collection for the city; a single baseball team to represent both city and borough next season; free band concerts; city park; harmony among politicians; new trolley cars, and an improved trolley service.

Through the bungling work of the Legislature, Plainfield has suffered to a great extent. First of all the bill providing for the appointment of a tax collector by the Common Council instead of his election by the voters, the wisdom of which is apparent from the peculiar duties of the office, was rendered a nullity by incompetent lawmakers in the last Legislature, who tacked on a provision rendering the act of such a special nature as to make it unconstitutional. Now comes the decision of the Court of Errors and Appeals on the McKee school law which makes that statute void for the very same reason. Plainfield's Common Council had made an appropriation of $125,000 for a much needed high school building and the site had already been purchased. This cannot be built until proper legislation is enacted. New Jersey seems to be greatly in need of competent men to make its laws.

Robert VanWyck, of Sandford avenue, ran a nail in his foot on Sunday morning and it has detained him at home.

A Victory to be Proud Of is the final and absolute cure of a sore throat, in which the rawness and tenderness have been spreading dangerously near those guardians of life, the lungs. The luxury of a sound throat and robust lungs is most keenly enjoyed by people who, having suffered all the consequences of "a little cold, you know," have been rescued from misery and dangerous by Allen's Lung Balsam.

AMONG MEN IN THE SHOPS

SEEN AND HEARD IN PLAINFIELD'S INDUSTRIAL PLANTS.

Samuel Bowden has resigned his position at the Aluminum Press Company's plant.

"Gus" Dalley, of Raritan, has resumed his position at the Aluminum Press Company's plant.

Charles Lamatty, of Walter Scott & Company's works, has returned form a visit with friends in Newark.

William Donaldson, of the Campbell Press Company's plant, is setting up an auto-plate press at the New York Herald.

A lockout of the Nation Association of Marble Dealers of Pittsburg, took effect Monday. It is estimated that 6,000 men are on strike.

Edward Mosher, a civil engineer in the employ of the Central Railroad, is at his home on Madison avenue, suffering from an injury to his back received in the station yards at Jersey City last Saturday.

Leather belting can be made to transmit the maximum of power when careful attention is paid to its condition. The driving face of the belt should be kept in a clammy or mastic state by applying a good coating of a trustworthy belt dressing at intervals of about eight weeks. The dressing should be made up of fish oils and animal fat to a consistency of soft ointment, spread over both sides of the belt. A belt attended to in this way will run much slacker than a dry belt, and the pulling side will hug and suck to the pulley and lift a heavy load without slipping. There will be no loss of power from over-strained bearings; a dressing of this sort keeps the leather fresh and prevents the atmosphere from penetrating into and drying the natural sap out of the leather, at the same time preserving its life for many years. Mineral or vegetable oils should never be used. Castor oil dressing soon causes leather to perish and rot. Boiled linseed oil makes a capital dressing for cotton belting; it soon oxidizes and gives the cotton belt an elastic gummy driving face.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN.

The Dunellen A. C. will line up against Bound Brook on Saturday afternoon for the fifth and last game of the series. The locals have won the first four games but every one of them was well contested and it was only steady, snappy playing that won. The Bound Brook boys say they would like to win the last game in order to even matters up somewhat.

The contract has been awarded by the Council to William Farlor to lay the flag walks on Prospect avenue for all those who have failed to comply with the ordinance. After the work is completed, the Council will take a first claim on the properties.

The supporters of the Dunellen A. C. will regret to learn that the team will lose its crack pitcher, Ettinger, next year. He will go to St. Louis this fall and remain there a year. His loss will certainly be felt as he was a good all around man.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The constitutional amendment election held yesterday was one of the quietest elections ever held in the township, but little interest being manifested by the voters, as there was no party measure attached to the several changes proposed. No workers were out for any of the political parties and the few voters who exercised their right of suffrage were not hampered or bothered by the usual button-holing before casting their vote. Out of a total registry list of 815 only 24 votes were cast, 18 for and 6 against. Many of the residents on the outskirts of the village probably did not even know that an election was being held.

The Amity Club was entertained last night at the home of Miss Emily Guenier, of Cook avenue. The evening was spent enjoying the study of the works of some of the famous authors of the past.

SOMERSET'S COURTS OPEN

JUSTICE GARRETSON AND JUDGE SCHENCK ON BENCH.

List of Various Causes in Which Plainfielders and North Plainfielders Are Interested.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Sept. 23—The regular term of Somerset County Courts opened here this morning, with Justice Garretson presiding. Judge Schenck also occupied the bench.

In his charge to the Grand Jury, the Court alluded to the Gladstone murder case. Pelino DeBacco has been confined in the county jail here about two months on a charge of having killed Francisco Palobizio. The two men lived in a colony under the hill at Gladstone and were employed by George DeLuca, a contractor. One night they came in together and got in a scrap over some money. It is said they were intoxicated and DeBacco claims Palobizio began slashing at him with a knife. In order to defend himself, he says, he began to cut too. Both were wounded and Palobizio died in the Morristown hospital, where he was taken. The Grand Jury will determine who the aggregressor was.

The petit jurors from North Plainfield serving this term are: Albert Brokaw, Richard E. Coriell, Levi C. Kline and Andrew Love, Jr.

On the Supreme list of causes there are six cases. Of these the following are of interest to Plainfielders: Walter P. Lindsey against Ernest Fischer, in ejectment, Oliver K. Day, Reed & Coddington; Gilbert A. VanDoren against Henry Willaughby, on contract, James J. Meehan, Paul Q. Oliver; John Grogan against Alvah Gray, in tort, Chas. J. McNabb, H. C. Suydam.

There are ten cases in the Circuit list and these are the ones in which North Plainfield are interested: Nancy M. Miller against Ruth E., and Thomas L. Dennis, on contract, H. K. Gaston, James J. Bergen; Albert Mackie against Frank O. Dunning, on certiorari, Isaac P. Runyon, Reed & Coddington.

Of the Justice's appeals these may be noted: John VanMiddlesworth at the suit of Joseph M. Maher, jury, Justice Sutphen; Lemuel A. Tunison at the suit of John P. D. Kirch, jury, Justice Smalley.

It is believed that many of the cases will go off for the term and that the list will not be as long drawn out as was at first expected.

O. W. McCutchen, of Rockview avenue, has returned from his summer outing.

Mrs. Emma Ransom, formerly of this city, but now of Newark, is visiting her sisters, Mrs. H. A. Pope and Mrs. Harold, of East Fifth street.

Mrs. George Voehl, of West Front street, is again quite ill. Her husband, who has been away on a pleasure trip, was called home a few days ago by her illness.

Edward H. Feichert, teller at the Plainfield Trust Company, has returned from Cleveland, O., where he attended the annual session of the Bank Clerks' Association

Rev. Arthur Crane, an evangelist, who formerly resided in Plainfield, and who for some time past has been in the south, has taken up his residence in Brooklyn with his family.

SOME PEACE SIGNS.

Turko-Bulgarian Conference Held at Sofia.

DEMANDS OF BULGARIA OUTLINED

Proposed Reforms For Macedonia Seem to Have Been Accepted by Turkey to a Large Extent.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Sept. 23.—Within forty-eight hours the question of peace or war will probably be settled, according to authoritative opinions here. Premier Petroff has had an interview with Ali Feruh Bey, at which the whole situation in Macedonia was discussed.

The following is the position of the Turko-Bulgarian negotiations: The porte recently manifested a disposition to consider proposals for a direct understanding, and Bulgaria advanced the following conditions: First, the porte to grant a general amnesty and stop the persecution of the Bulgarians in Macedonia; second, a mixed commission to be formed, the Bulgarian members of which should be nominated by the Bulgarian exarch and never be in a minority on the commission, to elaborate administrative reforms, arrange for an extension of local administrative autonomy, insure the safety of the highways and the equality of Christians and Mussulmans before the courts, reform the taxation and gendarmery and provide for personal security.

After the accomplishment of these tasks the commission, which would probably sit at Salonika, would become the council of the inspector general and would depute one of its Bulgarian members to report to the sultan on the progress of affairs.

Bulgaria also asked that the burned villages be rebuilt with government assistance, the refugees repatriated, an especial ordinance issued providing for the organization and administration of the Bulgarian schools and churches.

These proposals seem to have been accepted in principle, although nothing definite has yet been decided. Even in the event of an agreement being arrived at proofs of good faith would be required as a guarantee of the execution of the reforms, and if not forthcoming the Macedonians would continue their agitation.

A list compiled from official sources is published giving the names of and details regarding twenty-three villages in the district of Malkoternovo, eighteen in the district of Kirk-Kilisse, four in Vasiliko and three in Vezene which have been the scene of pillage, murder and outrage by Turkish troops.

As a result of this conference a much better feeling prevails, and confident hopes are expressed that a satisfactory adjustment will be reached. This view is strengthened by a report from Constantinople to the effect that the council of ministers after some days' discussion is within measurable distance of an agreement on the chief points at issue.

The premier complained to the Turkish diplomatic agent of the situation created by the arrival at Burgas of thousands of destitute and starving refugees from the district of Losengrad. After a discussion an understanding was practically reached that Turkey should guarantee the safe protection of the refugees and take steps to reinstate them in their homes.

The general effect of these conferences in Constantinople and Sofia has induced a much more hopeful feeling here, although in Balkan affairs it is always possible that the next day's happenings may change the entire situation.

The war ministry has taken steps to strengthen the Bulgarian frontier forces, and it is reported that troops will occupy all the commanding positions, thus making it almost impossible for bands to cross the frontier. Some regiments of the Second and Third divisions have been ordered to the Adrianople frontier, where the Turks have massed strong bodies of troops.

Revolutionary bands are reported to be active in the districts of Raslog, province of Seres, where they hold all the mountain passes. The Turkish population is fleeing toward Salonika.

Saving on Postal Supplies.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—The reflection of the recent bids for the money order supplies outside of the blank money order forms recently contracted for has made a saving of $51,000 to the government for the next four years, the new bids which have just been received aggregating $181,000 as against $232,000, the total amount under the bids which First Assistant Postmaster General Wynne recently rejected as excessive. The present total also is $9,000 less than the total paid under the expiring contract for the same supplies.

Tonopah Trouble Settled.

OGDEN, Utah, Sept. 23.—Governor Sparks of Nevada has received a telegram from his private secretary announcing that the trouble at Tonopah is settled, and the authorities of Nye county are able to cope with the situation. The governor left last night for Texas. He said that the trouble so far as his information went was caused by a few hotheads in the Cooks and Waiters' union and that the miners were not implicated.

An Ideal Location
Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

THE NEW WOMAN

She Is In the Lead

I HAVE been reading a brief outline of one of the strangest lives ever lived by a woman. A remarkable and famous career it would have been even for a man. The woman was Mrs. Jane Burke, Indian scout, hunter, miner, army guide—likewise, unfortunately, gambler and whisky drinker, it is said. Had she left off the last two she would have been easily as distinguished in her career as Colonel Cody has become in his. She was not very old when she died in Terry, S. D.—only about fifty-one. Yet the true story of her life would outstrip in romance, in deeds of daring, strength and skill almost any mere fiction tale of adventure that could be written. Mrs. Burke was born in Princeton, Mo., but went when the merest slip of a girl with her father to Montana to hunt gold. The life of the miners' camp of those days appealed to her powerfully, and she fell in with it at once. Famous Indian fighter and scout she became very soon. She feared nothing dead or alive. She wore a man's buckskin suit, with knife and pistols at her belt. Once in a hard fought Indian battle she saved the life of Captain Egan of the United States army in 1872. He gave her the name of "Calamity Jane," and under that designation you have often read of her. She acted as scout for General Crook in his Indian campaigns, carrying dispatches and accomplishing desperate rides, taking risks that few men would have dared. Another of her feats was the capture of Jack McCall, the murderer of "Wild Bill," otherwise William Hickok, whom she seems to have cared for with all a strong woman's devotion. When she was dying and knew it she asked that her body be buried beside that of "Wild Bill," and this was done. But civilization overtook even this great character at last—great, though unfortunately placed. At length there were no more Indians to fight or horse thieves to lynch, no more galloping over the plains with knife and pistols at belt, no more wild mining camp life. Then "Calamity Jane" died. Her life ought to be written.

Mrs. Booker T. Washington is working bravely for women of her own color. It is a field of labor a prophet and hero might be grateful for. Negro women today are making better use of their race's newly obtained advantages than negro men are. Mrs. Washington says of her colored sisters, "There is still much foundation work for us to do, but some time, somewhere, we shall stand equal to any body of women, for we accept the theory that we are inferior only in opportunity, not in ability."

Ella Wheeler Wilcox is of opinion that woman is growing in America as nowhere else, and she adds the significant prophecy, "From her will come the great leader for whom the world waits." It is not likely there will be hereafter many great single leaders either among men or women. That age is probably past, and happily so. The whole feminine sex is gradually developing the powerful, splendid qualities that only the few, even among men, have hitherto attained to. Thousands of strong, glorious, perfected women will move forward all together, and the rest of the sex will be with them, a resistless army. This is what the world is waiting for.

In a coal mine one morning no men appeared to go to work. Investigation showed that the evening before, when work ceased for the day, the company's mules were hoisted up the shaft to the surface of the earth ahead of the company's miners. "After mules is manners for me" did not suit the miner, and he struck in consequence. Men have their little feelings, too, it seems, as well as women.

One of the best signs of the times is that so many girls take a real interest in political questions.

I certainly have never seen anything like so many handsome, well groomed old ladies as I have met in the past year or two. They are plainly not young, but they are really more beautiful than many of the girls, and they dress with exquisite care and taste.

* *

How to tell when your clothes are too tight? Breathe in all the air you can hold, lift your arms over your head and clasp your hands. If you cannot do this with perfect ease and without the feeling of being bound, then your garments are injuriously close fitting. They are tighter than skin tight, for the skin permits you to make all motions freely.

It is better to earn the money to get new dresses than to sit down and make over old ones.

It has been said often that if a horse knew his own power no human being could control or drive him. The same is exactly true of woman. What is it that makes one human being superior to another? It is the sense of one's own inward power, and that sense of power can be cultivated.

* *

Have resources within yourself. Then you will never be lonely or depend upon others for happiness. There are gardening, cycling, reading, music—a dozen entertaining and improving exercises a woman can devote herself to.

* *

All things are possible to the will and the illuminated mind.

ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER

Blanche O'Halloran
A CUBAN REMEMBRANCE

By R. M. WOOLLEY.

Murray read her indignant rebukes and denials; her censure for his foolish fancies, and then he called down the wrath of God, and damned his actions until the primitive furniture in the dingy office assumed a look of askance and the candle flickered to such an extent that the sentry outside thought it must have gone out.

At the first reading the captain's heart was full of regret as he lingered tenderly over the remembrances of the one at home. He could see her to-night in his mind's eye, laughing and gay and looking sweeter and fresher in a soft gown of light gauze and comely design than the hours struck off by an old sun dial in a summer garden.

He pondered and then the heart rebelled. He said she could have looked over his jealous fears had she but appreciated his conditions. Jealousy like his was only the scale defining the weight of his love. Dorothy's letter made him heartsore and heavy-laden, just as his letters had made her. The captain's mind was bathed in acrimony and he decided to break the engagement if that were possible and thereby show her of what stuff and grey matter he was composed. He would strive for greater honors in the service; he would not only strive but he would win them. After all the service was dear to him and in his beloved calling he would ascend and stop at nothing short of stars. He would make Miss Seaton insignificant and she would be compelled to look upon him as a man of mark. Not only this but he would make love to some one else and when Dorothy came "hat in hand" to crave pardon and the return of his love, and the continuance of their betrothal, he would calmly apprise her of his approaching marriage to the princess—no not to a princess, but to Miss—Miss—well, to Miss Somebody; who in the world would it be? The captain was perplexed and in his bewilderment knew not the name of his choice.

He recalled, or tried to at least, the name of every young lady he had ever met even to Little Celia Robb, with whom he had played with in youth, but he could decide upon none of them as a mark for his love-making or as a desirable companion. Perchance when he did settle on some girl acquaintance of rare and charming graces, and other incumbrances, there arose a question over his ability to win her; some obstacle invariably presented itself until he almost concluded to blow out the candle and go to quarters without further effort in this direction.

But his mind was in a turmoil and he knew sleep while in that state to be an impossibility. It was with a vacant unsettled decision that he drew a drawer and lifted out a box of beautifully tinted stationery. He laid the sheets carefully before him on the blue blotting paper, picked up a pen and eyed it critically, and then stopped to think. Presently the pen went over to the ink well, then returned slowly to the paper, and Murray began to write in a broad military scrawl:

"My Dear Miss O'Halloran:—The events of the war between Spain and the United States of America are now being numbered by years gone by and unless memory is exceedingly active and retentive one who participated in some of the circumstances connected with the brief but glorious conflict, is liable to forget most of the smaller details with the passing of time.

"Hence I offer the following interrogations to tax your recollection and to determine the extent of the impressions made upon your mind in the enactment of certain little adventures which I am about to conjure up again, perhaps as much for my own pleasure as for your concern.

"You will remember, Miss O'Halloran, a certain day in 1899, I believe it was in the month of March, when native couriers from San Jose preceded a column of marching troops and entering quaint and quiet little Guines proclaimed the arrival of Gen. Lee from Havana? Gen. Lee, the friend of the down-trodden, oppressed and starving Cubans, was approaching and there was joy in every home. Barefoot muchachos hurried hither and thither crying in their excitement: 'Gen. Lee aqui; el dios Lee, viva la Cuba y America!'

"The rich orderos their carriages, the reconcentrados mustered strength to walk, and tottering babes tried again to proceed on their tender feet; all in one grand assemblage to pay homage to Lee—to see, to welcome and to worship Lee, their god and their protector. He, who was likened unto the man from Nazareth, had been driven amid insult and shouts of derision from the wharf in Havana a few months before, was returning, as he had predicted he would, with an army to support him and the doctrine he upheld. The army was from the grandest country on earth and the doctrine was the same kind that made it so.

"Do you remember how the bells in the cathedral rang and drowned out the cheers of the rich and the rabble. How every Cuban patriot bared his head and sank to his knees as Lee rode through the narrow street bidding the lowly to rise to their feet as he did so. How stately and soldierly Lee looked on his invincible grey! It seemed there were not half so many people in all Cuba as lined that dusty thoroughfare that day; evidently the Spanish had not murdered you all. I remember the tears sprang to the general's eyes as a poor, starving reconcentrado staggered beside his mount and kissed his booted foot. Ah, the Cuban is a grateful people! The chanting of prayers of gratitude as we passed through the gathering is plain in my ear to-day.

"But you did not know me then: perhaps you did not notice me, but afterward, sweet thought, you did. How thirsty and hungry I was after the night's ride out from Havana when I entered a small and dingy almacen to get a meal and a glass of water.

"I flush with shame as I recall how bad my Spanish was then, but time and association with a Spanish-speaking people have improved it wonderfully. A great crowd, bent on character study of the first Americans to enter that part of the interior followed me into the little store, and stared and gazed, yes fairly gawked at me as I seated myself at table. I being an American was equal to the occasion and gawked back as I asked for water. That is, I tried to ask for water, but I think I asked for everything but water. What a volume of laughter arose as I butchered everything having a semblance of the latin language. The proprietor of the place kindly took down a ponderous dictionary and through this medium we strove slowly but successfuly to communicate our thoughts and also our wants. Just in the midst of the predicament and when our labors were hardest, a little girl, or what I supposed to be a little girl, stepped briskly yet shyly to my side and inquired in words of English and in tones sublime:

A NEW RACING QUEEN.

Fanny Dillard Goes a Mile In 2:03¾ at Columbus.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 23.—Fanny Dillard of the W. L. Snow stable became champion of pacing mares when in the 2:06 pace she went the mile in 2:03¾, half a second better than the best efforts of Lady of the Manor, Mazette and Dariel.

The race which Fanny Dillard won and in which she became the pacing queen, the 2:06 pace, was bitterly fought. Major C. was the 10 to 4 favorite and was laid up in the first heat. Joe Pointer winning in a drive from Fanny Dillard. Major C. shot to the front in the second heat and was carried to the half by Captain Sphinx in 1:01½. Here both horses gave it up, and Fanny Dillard set sail for what proved to be the record. The time by quarters is 0:30, 1:01½, 1:32½, 2:03¾. The mare had no trouble in beating Joe Pointer home in the last heat.

John Taylor won the 2:23 trot easily. He was a 12 to 3 favorite.

Victory came to Billy Buck in the 2:17 trot, and the horse acted as if the three heats were nothing more than workouts.

John M. was sold at even money with the field in the 2:15 pace. He was never in danger of losing.

Dan Patch worked the last quarter of a slow mile in 0:23¾ and will try to lower the world's pacing record today.

The track is very fast, and weather conditions promise to be favorable to the performance.

Four Favorites Won.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 22.—Four favorites won over a fast track at Highland park. The feature event was a six furlong dash, which was won by Carl Kahler after a drive which lasted for three-eighths of a mile. Lyrist just got up in time to get the place by a nose from Handmore after a grueling finish. Lady Radnor and Aratoma were the outsiders which took down purses. The latter figured in a stirring finish among six and was perfectly ridden by Romanelli.

From Football to Law.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 23.—Joe Wentworth, the Dartmouth quarter back, who is coaching the Case school eleven of Cleveland, has announced that he will coach no more football teams regularly after this season. Wentworth will practice law after the football season closes. He has passed the bar examination in Massachusetts and will doubtless practice in that state.

Poor Card at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 23.—The card at Delmar was practically featureless. Not a favorite was successful. Third choices were the winners in nearly every race. In the fifth Our Lillie was disqualified for fouling.

Weather Probabilities.

Fair; cooler; variable winds, becoming north to fresh.

CRANK IN OYSTER BAY

Suspicious Character Bound to See the President.

PROMPT ACTION OF DETECTIVES.

A Thorough Examination Revealed No Arms, but the Man Was Kept Away From Roosevelt House and Sent Back to New York.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Sept. 23.—A suspicious character giving his name as Samuel Swenyon was held up by the secret service officers at Sagamore Hill late yesterday afternoon while making an effort to see the president. He was turned back to the village, shadowed, stopped in Oyster Bay and searched and later placed on a train for New York. He was unarmed and appeared to be a harmless crank, possibly a religious fanatic.

Swenyon, who is a slightly built man about thirty-five years old, with a reddish brown beard and mustache, blue eyes and a strongly foreign cast of countenance, walked up the roadway leading to Sagamore Hill about 4:30 p. m. He was shabbily attired, his clothes being badly torn in several places. He was stopped by a secret service officer.

Swenyon told the officer he was a Swede and had come from New York to see the president and Sagamore Hill, having read about the president's summer home in the newspapers. A short time before the president, accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt, had gone from the house to the woods near by to chop wood, that being a favorite exercise of his.

The man was turned back by the officer, who told him the president was not at home. Swenyon, who said he was a gardener, looked curiously about the grounds and then started on his return to the village. He was followed by another officer in one of the president's road wagons. Swenyon asked a passing driver for a ride and rode into the village with him.

He had scarcely arrived in Oyster Bay when he was taken from the wagon by two secret service officers and examined. Swenyon had nothing in his pockets except about $4 in money and a Swedish religious newspaper. On a piece of paper he wrote his name and address in a perfectly legible hand. He said he lived at the Sayszerry hotel in New York city. His only object in coming to Oyster Bay, he said, was to see Sagamore Hill and the president, about whom he had heard and read a great deal. He arrived here on the 3:19 train in the afternoon, but did not have a return ticket to New York.

After examining him thoroughly the officers were convinced that he was entirely harmless and that he was neither an anarchist nor a socialist. He readily acceded to the suggestion of the officers that he leave the village. They accompanied him to the station, and he bought his own ticket to New York. He left on the 6:07 train, shaking hands with the officers before he entered his car.

Ten Years For Bank Thief.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 23.—Oliver T. Sherwood, defaulting cashier of the Southport National bank, has been sentenced by Judge Platt in the United States circuit court to ten years' imprisonment in the Connecticut state prison. Sherwood was brought down from Hartford, where he had been in jail. He had previously denied his guilt, but through his counsel, Arthur L. Shipman, he pleaded guilty to all three counts. Sherwood begged for mercy, but Judge Platt said that in view of the hardships that had been suffered by the persons interested in the bank and others he could not be lenient. He, however, took the three counts together in fixing the penalty.

Chaffee-Maclay Nuptials.

COOPERSTOWN, N. Y., Sept. 23.—The marriage of Miss Mary Elizabeth Chaffee, niece of Mrs. Henry Codman Potter, to Robert Maclay of New York was solemnized at noon yesterday in Christ church, where in October last Mrs. Potter was herself married to Bishop Potter, who on the present occasion was the officiating clergyman. SPORTING NEWS.

ASSISTS.

Manager John Owens, of St. Mary's team, says that his line-up for next Saturday's game with Alis will be about the same as last Saturday.

Those who saw Gastmeyer play short stop for Alis last Saturday are fully convinced that he should be kept in that position. He is one of the fastest men seen in that position this season in Plainfield.

A report is in circulation that "Warry" MacLaughlin will pitch for St. Mary's team in one of its games with Westfield. It is understood that "Warry" wants a chance to even up for last Saturday's "fluke."

In the game next Saturday between Alis and St. Mary's teams, Alis will have the services of Quinby on second base and two or three of the best players on the Crescent A. C. team, of Brooklyn. It is well worth the price of admission to see Quinby play.

Manager John Owens, when interviewed yesterday regarding the series of three games between St. Mary's and Westfield, declared that he fully expected his team to win at least two games of the series. He is confident that he can down Manager Denman's aggregation.

While it is not absolutely certain, there is a possibility that Alis may play Westfield once more this season. The arrangement was for five games, but as Westfield has won three and Alis one, it was thought that the two teams would not meet again this year. It is to be hoped that they will for it will have a tendency to satisfy those who believe Alis has just as good a team as Westfield.

Armbruster, who caught "Warry" MacLaughlin in last Saturday's game with Westfield, says that in all the catching he has done for the Plainfield boy he has never seen him so completely lose control of the ball as he did last Saturday. It seemed impossible for him to follow the signals as given by his catcher. There has been reports during the week that "Warry" sold out, but this is considered ridiculous by all friends of the clever ball player.

SETTLEMENT NOT COMPLETED

COUNSEL FOR MR. MARSH SAYS THAT SCHORB WANTS BUT $200.

Lawyer for Plainfielder Requests Denial—Informant Says Schorb Told of Settlement.

Editor, The Daily Press:—

An article appeared in the first page of your paper last evening respecting the suit of Schorb against Marsh and others, stating that a settlement had been effected for two hundred dollars by Isaac P. Runyon, attorney for the plaintiff and P. H. Gilhooly, attorney for the defendants. That part of the article is absolutely false in every particular as I have made no arrangements for settlement with Judge Gilhooly, and I am informed by my client, Mr. Schorb, that he has not settled the case. I insist that you give this statement as much prominence as you did the article concerning this case last evening.

Isaac P. Runyon.

Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 23, 1903.

P. H. Gilhooly, counsel for Mr. Marsh, stated to a Daily Press reporter today that the case had not been actually settled, but that negotiations were being made on the basis detailed by this paper though they are not completed. "You can state in your paper," continued Mr. Gilhooly, "that Mr. Schorb wants to settle for $200 and that he does not want any of the money for himself. He wants to give his lawyer the $200, but his lawyer wants more money. He has a contract with his lawyer. Mr. Schorb doesn't want to take any money from his father-in-law."

The report that the settlement had been completed amicably as detailed in yesterday's issue came indirectly from Clifford Schorb himself according to our informant, who is a person of unimpeachable veracity. A personal conversation with Schorb in which he is alleged to have said that the case was settled as stated was the ground for our informant's story.

The trial of the case was postponed until the December term in the Somerset County Court today.

A Delightful Outing.

The fall is by far the prettiest time for a week's end trip, and no place is better adapted for such an outing than Atlantic City. The clear and pleasant days which prevail together with the invigorating air and the unequalled surroundings, make it the ideal place in every sense. The famed board walk is ever thronged with a good-natured joyous crowd. The piers are labyrinths of amusement attractions, and the hotels, well there are none in the country finer or more elaborate. The New Jersey Central has arranged for an excursion to Atlantic City on Saturday, September 26th, the rate is $10.25, and includes two days' board at the Hotel Rudolf, one of the largest and best of Atlantic City's hotels. These excursion tickets are good going on any of the regular trains leaving New York on Saturday, the 26th; the hours of leaving are 9:40 a. m., 1 and 3:40 p. m., three hours, and the trains are solid vestibuled coaches and parlor cars. For information regarding this trip see posters and advertisements, or write to C. M. Burt, G. P. A., New Jersey Central, N. Y. City.

PROMINENT WORKERS ADDRESS W. C. T. U.

Good Speeches a feature of Plainfield Union's Annual Meeting.

MEMBERSHIP IS NOW 206

MRS. ELIZABETH A. PARSE CHOSEN PRESIDENT FOR SIXTH TIME.

Mrs. John H. French Consents to Fill Office of Recording Secretary for Sixteenth Term.

The annual meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, held in the rooms in Madison avenue yesterday afternoon, was attended with a number of pleasant features, including talk by prominent workers for the cause. The first part of the session was devoted to the presentation of the report of the secretary and treasurer, Mrs. John H. French, which showed that the present membership of the Union is 206, an increase over last year. The receipts for the year were $559.28 and the disbursements, $555.78, leaving a balance of $3.50.

There were also reports from superintendents of the various departments of work and each showed marked progress and cause for encouragement. After the reading of these reports, there was the annual address by the president, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Parse, which was filled with practical suggestions and helpful ideas in carrying on the work of the Union. She personally mentioned the various committees and told briefly of the good work accomplished through them.

Although Mrs. Parse declined to serve for another year, she was elected for the sixth time. Miss Jessie Pruden resigned her office as corresponding secretary, being unable to attend to the duties of that office, and Mrs. P. H. Bennett was chosen in her place. Mrs. John H. French was re-elected recording secretary for the sixteenth consecutive year and Miss Jessie Pruden was elected treasurer, she being able ot look after that work. The election of vice presidents was laid over until the next regular business meeting owing to the lateness of the hour and the desire of the members to hear a few remarks from Mrs. Davis, president of the Somerset County Union, but now a resident of Plainfield, and Mrs. Bodine, who has been president of the Dunellen Union for nineteen consecutive years. Each speaker gave a short and helpful talk along the lines of temperance.

In the selection of delegates to attend the annual State convention to be held at Morristown, next month, Mrs. Winter and Miss May E. Howlett, were chosen. Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, County president, who presided at the meeting, also gave a short address which was inspiring. She and Mrs. J. W. Yates were re-elected honorary vice presidents of the Union.

An encouraging report was received concerning the organization of a Loyal Temperance Legion at the Mt. Olive Baptist Church, with a membership of thirty members. The organization is constantly growing and there is much interest shown in the work.

Before the close of the meeting, Mrs. Tomlinson announced that next Monday evening a stereopticon lecture would be given in the rooms, the affair being in the nature of a "Harvest Home."

ROAD IMPROVEMENT WORK.

Experiments Being Made at Westfield to Show Value of Tar Asphalt.

As an experiment and also to demonstrate the value of the treatment of tar asphalt for the surface of macadam roads, a well-known company will make for Westfield, under the direction of the road, sewer and water committee, of which Arthur N. Pierson is the chairman, an application of this material to the surface of Mountain avenue, Westfield, today and tomorrow, weather permitting. The claim for this treatment is the water-proofing of the roads, the preservation of the bond at all times, especially during dry seasons. An added claim is the absence of dust.

The second night of the in the basement of the German Reformed church in North Plainfield was marked by a large attendance last evening. Phonographic selections were a feature. The fair which is being held for the purpose of raising money to renovate the interior of the church has been successful so far and it is probable that a sufficient amount will be obtained to warrant starting the improvements this Fall.

Louis Martin gave several renditions with his phonograph last evening which proved to be a large drawing card. Tonight Mrs. Henry Angelbauer will accompany Miss Strayer, on the piano. Miss Carrie Bender will render several selections on the mandolin and Miss Strayer, of the borough will sing.

Thoughtful Plainfielders.

That the Plainfield commuters are appreciative, is shown by the recent action in presenting a handsome check to the widow of Phil. Case, of Flemington. Mr. Case was an engineer on the New Jersey Central over thirty years, running the 7:55 morning train to New York. B. O. Bowers, of Franklin place, took the initiative in the matter and the commuter-element was quick to respond.

STATE'S BUILDING AT ST. LOUIS SHOW

Washington's Morristown Headquarters Reproduced on Original Lines.

STRUCTURE DESCRIBED

MEETING PLACE FOR JERSEYMEN AT THE INTER-NATIONAL FAIR.

Original Building Property of State—Contains Revolutionary Relics—Built by Col. Ford—Occupied by Washington.

Historic New Jersey will be represented at St. Louis next year in a novel manner. A reproduction of Washington's headquarters at Morristown has been erected to conform to the size of the original and during the exposition it will be known as the New Jersey Building, a place which will be sought out by each one of the thousands of New Jersey people who will visit the fair.

The only addition or change to the original design of the historical house will be the addition of a large verandah. The house as it stands, has what Colonial people termed a piazza, which is a porch, six feet square. The broad verandah is supported by Doric columns, above which is the coat of arms of New Jersey. The small window panes dormer windows, outside stone chimney, and weatherboards that do not lap, but are ploughed and groved, all contribute to give the structure a quaint yet pleasing neat appearance.

The interior is a faithful reproduction of the original. Wall papers of Colonial patterns, antique furniture that has also been selected with a view to comfort will be found in all the rooms. A feature of the main hall, the floor of which will be covered with rag carpet, is an old-fashioned fireplace, and all the rooms will contain collections of relics of historic value. Of course this will be headquarters for Jerseymen during the fair, where they may register, rest, meet friends, attend to their correspondence, etc., but the wine buffet will also be in evidence with its cut glass and other accessories, this, of course, being one of the viewplaces of the house.

The upper floors will be cut into sleeping and other apartments, as they were when occupied by Gen. and Martha Washington, and the structure, liberal in its size, and the possibilities of offering the largest hospitality to Jerseymen, will be the Mecca of every one from this State. The building is 63 by 83 feet. It will be one of the first to greet the visitor's eye when he enters the exposition grounds at Oakland avenue and Clayton road.

The headquarters at Morristown is the property of the State. It is in the hands of the Washington Association, numbering about 400 members, who have made it one of the most valuable depository of Revolutionary relics in the country. The building is open for the inspection of visitors the entire year, and thousands, not only from all over the United States, but from the uttermost parts of the earth, visit it, while, with its spacious and well kept grounds, it is a favorite camping place in summer for picnic parties from a radious of twenty miles about.

The old building is in the very best state of preservation. It was built by Col. Jacob Ford, who also manufactured both powder and cannon for the patriot army on his estate. He spared no expense in its construction, the water tables of all the windows frames, for instance, being covered with heavy sheet lead, a fact that led the late Governor, Theodore F. Randolph, who was the first president of the Washington Association, to remark that "the headquarters building has been saved by lead in more ways than one." Washington occupied the headquarters at Morristown from Jan. 7, 1777, to May of that year, and again occupied it in 1779, as the guest of Mrs. Theodosia Ford, widow of Col. Ford, who had died since Washington's first visit.

TOO MANY OUTSIDERS.

Complaints Made Regarding Indiscriminate Use of Sea Girt Range.

Many complaints are being made by National Guardsmen about the manner in which the State rifle range at Sea Girt has been conducted during the past season. It is asserted by some of the dissatisfied ones that so much money has been spent in entertaining outsiders that there is not enough of the appropriation left to enable the militia to get proper practice at the butts.

MAYOR ANNEXED TO JAIL

INCARCERATION POSSIBLY DUE TO HIS KNIFING PARTY TICKET.

Newton B. Smalley's Enforced Sojourn in the Somerset County Jail—Released on Condition.

Mayor Newton B. Smalley, of North Plainfield, was locked up in the Somerset County jail last Monday. The exact nature of the offense for which the genial borough executive was "jugged" has not yet been catalogued, but some have volunteered the suggestion that it may have been assault and battery upon the borough tax rate. At any rate, the Mayor was a prisoner, and remained such for some time. In company with former City Judge W. A. Coddington and several Somerville friends, the Mayor was inspecting the jail, and in the course of a friendly discussion with a Plainfield prisoner, was left behind by his companions. The jailer left the keys with Judge Coddington, and the latter saw to it that the Mayor was liberated only after he had made many rash promises as to the future.

CENTRAL SETTLING RAPIDLY

ONLY TEN OF MANY CASES GROWING OUT OF WESTFIELD WRECK REMAIN.

But One Court Verdict Against Company—Road's Policy Considered Liberal.

Out of the large number of claims resulting from the Westfield wreck on January 27, only ten remain for settlement. Eight of these are for injuries and two for death. There has been but one case which reached court, that of Fred Kanen, of East Fifth street, who was badly injured, but this one was appealed by the Central, a verdict claimed to be excessive, having been rendered by the jury.

There are suits pending for the October term in the Union County court, for one death and six for injury, caused by the disaster.

It is considered rather remarkable that for the large number of claims arising from the accident a settlement of so many should have been effected in the comparatively short time, and with so few law suits. This is taken to mean that the settlement offered by the Central has been liberal. Some cases which were given to lawyers to handle were later taken from their hands and the settlement was effected direct with the company.

MINISTER TALKS ON TRAVELS

REV. C. E. HERRING DESCRIBES HIS TRIP THROUGH THE WEST.

Sees Plainfielders and Notes Damage Wrought by Abolition of Army Canteen—Churches vs. Theatres.

Rev. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, gave an interesting account of his travels through the West during the past summer, at a meeting in the church last night. Mr. Herring described Los Angeles and San Francisco at particular length. He compared the influence of the churches in Los Angeles with that of the theatres, the attraction of the houses of amusement on a Sunday evening seeming the stronger with the greater number of people. He mentioned the fact that he met in San Francisco, Captain George Morrison, formerly of Plainfield avenue. He also encountered Captain Frank Pearson, U. S. A., stationed at Monterey. Capt. Pearson lived in this city at one time and married Miss Margret Vermeule, a former resident of Watchung avenue. Mr. Herring stated that he was enabled to obtain an excellent insight into army life through Capt. Pearson's courtesy, and in this connection noted the ill effects of the abolition of the army canteen in that particular locality. He concluded his interesting address by a description of San Francisco, which he said was generally a most progressive city and delightfully cool in contrast to the heat of Los Angeles.

Youthful Runaways.

Patrolman Knapp, of Westfield, telephoned to Sergeant Frederickson, of the local police, last night that two Cranford boys named Callagan, aged fourteen and sixteen, had run away from home and requested that the Plainfield police be on the look-out for them.

TRIPS BY TROLLEY FOR PLAINFIELDERS

Starting at Boston en Route for Philadelphia and Through This City.

FROM HERE TO DETROIT

DESCRIPTION OF JOURNEY FROM HUB TO QUAKER CITY.

Delights of the Jaunt—New Jersey Trolley Roads Superior to Others—The Route.

"Change here for Bound Brook, New Brunswick, Trenton and Philadelphia," said a conductor on one of the cars of the old Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey railway mail line yesterday afternoon, as he began to whirl his trolley pole about again preparatory to starting the trip back to Elizabeth, Newark, New York and Boston.

A Daily Press reporter made some inquiries among the officials of the company and learned that not only was it possible to travel from Boston to Philadelphia by trolley but with the exception of several breaks, which can be made by steam cars, the trolley trip can now be made from Boston to Detroit, Michigan. It was even prophesied that before many years it will be possible to cross the continent on the trolley cars. This country, the official said, has gone trolley mad and each year new lines are being built. Private corporations buy up private rights of ways when they cannot get permission to operate a line through a certain section and in that way air line roads are built.

Indeed it is a common thing to carry passengers, who, with a small hand satchel, a pocket full of cigars, (chewing gum for women) and a little trolley guide book, have come all the way from New Haven or Boston, to this city with the intention of going on to Philadelphia. During the summer the trip was made from Boston to Philadelphia by J. F. Kennelly, of 534 Hicks street, Brooklyn, and the officials of the local line have a letter from him describing the trip in detail.

He said the trip from Boston to Hartford, Conn., was delightful but the traveling was slow; the ride from Hartford to Bridgeport was faster but the cars were not so comfortable, the ride from Bridgeport, Conn., to New York was slower still but when he reached Jersey things were different. He boarded a comfortable car at Jersey City and in good time reached Newark, where he changed for one of the North Jersey cars to Elizabeth. Then, he states, the true pleasure of the ride was enjoyed all the way to Philadelphia.

The trip to this city was a fast one in very comfortable cars. The trolley trip between this city and Bound Brook was a quick one and the ride from Bound Brook to New Brunswick, down the Raritan river and past prosperous farms, was one of the prettiest ones on the entire trip. From New Brunswick to Trenton, is described by the Brooklynite as the fastest and most comfortable one of all his experience. Large heavy cars, with upholstered seats and excellent road bed make the ride a delight. The trip to thirty miles is made in a little over an hour. Between Trenton and Philadelphia, which is covered in about two hours and a half, is a pleasant one.

In the trip from Boston to Philadelphia the traveler passes through five states and by easy stages, stopping off at a convenient hotel over night and making good connections, a little less than seventy two hours are consumed in all. The trip from Elizabeth to Philadelphia consumes seven hours and five minutes, which costs $1.20 and the trip from Boston to New York is $3.15, which takes one 250¾ miles.

Much of the travel is because of its novelty but between Newark, Elizabeth, Bound Brook and New Brunswick the travel is so heavy that the managers of the road are planning to operate double truck cars through from New Brunswick to Newark. There is track connections all the way through and as soon as the double track between New Brunswick and Bound Brook is completed it is probable the double truck cars will be put in operation.

Babcock Building Opening.

An effort will be made to open the Babcock building about the first of October. The work on the elevator is completed and there yet remains a little work to entirely complete the rebuilding of the large structure.

MRS. CHICHESTER'S FUNERAL.

A Striking Tribute of Affection to a Beautiful Life.

In speaking of the funeral of Mrs. Frederick D. Chichester, a former resident of this city, but late of Poughkeepsie, which took place on Friday, the News-Press, of the latter city, says that it was "in its every feature a striking tribute of affection to a beautiful life. The floral tributes were especially handsome. Conspicuous in meaning and beauty was an immense form of flowers representing a daisy. It was sent by the Daisy Field Cheerful Helpers, a society to which Mrs. Chichester gave her attention in the work of bringing happiness to the lives of crippled children." There were also many other floral tributes from societies and friends.

AMENDMENTS DEFEATED BY SMALL MAJORITY

Constitutional Changes Proposed by the Legislature Not Endorsed.

INCOMPLETE RETURNS

ORGANIZED LABOR DEALS THE EFFECTIVE BLOW.

North Jersey Prevents Their Passage—South Jersey Favorable—Misleading Forms.

Judging from the incomplete returns it now appears that the amendments to the constitution voted upon on Tuesday have been defeated, but it will require the official canvass in each county to settle the matter definitely. The majority will be very slight. Not until Monday when the official count is made will the exact result be known.

The South Jersey counties voted by large majorities on the liget vote in favor of the changes, but in the most populous centres of the upper part of the State they were rejected by majorities sufficient, it is believed, to overcome the favorable vote.

Organized labor worked hard against the proposed constitutional changes. This was a surprise, as only in a few cases did it become known that this was to be the case. Had it not been kept quiet, enough interest would have been aroused to prevent the amendments being defeated.

The reason it will take the official count to determine the result is that many, if not half, the district boards counted the votes as being for or against the three articles proposed for amendment, and ignored entirely the several sections of Article VI, offered for separate amendment. The election officers appear to have been misled by the form of the official statement of the result furnished by the Secretary of State.

The form was misleading at best and has resulted in all sorts of confusion. The act under which the election was held provides "that the ballot deposited in the ballot-box shall be counted as a vote in favor of all the amendments, except that if the voter shall have written the word 'against' in the margin opposite to any amendment, the ballot shall be counted as a vote against said amendment."

The language of the act, lawyers say, distinctly and clearly denotes that each of the amendments was to be considered and voted upon without regard to any other, and that accordingly the returns to the County Clerk should show the vote cast for and against all of the six amendments.

This table shows the estimated vote in each county:

This Bug a Thief.

Leonce Texier, of Somerset street, reports the loss of a valuable pin by strange means. Texier is something of a bug-hunter in a small way and the other day he attempted to add to his collection a large insect which he discovered buzzing about an electric light bulb. He stabbed his victim with his pin and fastened it to the wall, intending to put it to entomological puporses later. Five minutes afterwards he looked for his pin and found it gone. The bug had flown away with it.

AMUSEMENTS.

"Three Little Maids" is at Daly's Theatre. The run there of this successful musical comedy from England cannot last longer than November 14, and the public, realizing this, is making the best of its opportunities. The songs "She Was a Miller's Daughter" and "Men" are the two hits of the play. The crowds are perhaps larger than at any other house on Broadway.

Charles Hawtrey in "The Man From Blankley's" at the Criterion is still drawing those who remember his success in "The Message From Mars." His role of a peer interested in Egyptian lore, who gets into a dinner party to which he was not invited, is a laughable creation, and Mr. Hawtrey's interpretation of it makes it all the more attractive. The crowd in attendance is large every evening.

Words of Truth.

The Rev. Silas C. Fox, pastor of the Wesleyan Methodist Church, at Warrensburgh, N. Y., was afflicted with serious kidney and liver troubles, and so broken in health that he feared he must retire from the ministry.

At this juncture he began to take the world's greatest blood and nerve tonic. He was entirely and permanently cured. Rev. Mr. Fox says:

"I have been afflicted with kidney and liver troubles, which were very bad. I had contemplated retiring from the ministry, feeling my usefulness was over. My kidneys were in that condition that they acted twenty times a day. My digestion was impaired and I had sour stomach, but since taking Dr. Greene's Nervura I have not had sour stomach once.

"My kidneys are entirely natural and my nerves are as steady as in youth. My mind is clear and steady. I can start and run now. I had a steady, sharp pain low in my bladder, but now all that is gone. My health is restored, and instead of abandoning my work I am going to open up a new field, feeling quite able to do so.

"Now, all this change has come to me through the use of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, which I feel was providentially sent to me, and the Nervura was an instrument under God for my restoration.

"You may think this pretty strong, but it is perfectly true, every word. I praise the Nervura as a general renovator to all parts of the body, and it apparently strikes every diseased part, bringing it back to its original healthy condition, for which I am more than grateful."

All druggists recommend and sell Dr. Greene's Nervura. Dr. Greene's advice is free. Consult him in person or by letter, 101 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

Close Finishes at Detroit.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 24.—Close finishes were the order at Highland park, and in the majority of cases favorites won. The most sensational race of the day was the mile and an eighth event. Arragowan was favorite, although Colonel Anderson was tipped generally as a good thing. The finish was in a fierce drive, Colonel Anderson showing a nose in front of the favorite. Palm Reader was favorite at evens in the two-year-old dash at five and a half furlongs and won after a drive through the stretch.

Gravesend Results.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—The Holly stakes, the feature of the card at Gravesend, was won by Pulsus, carrying 126 pounds and quoted at the good price of 16 to 5. Divination, paying 2 to 1 for the place, was second and Sweet Gretchen third. Divination jumped away first and led to well in the stretch, where O'Neil, who was lying about fourth place with Pulsus, closed with a great burst of speed and won driving by three-quarters of a length.

Dan Patch Falls Again.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 24.—Ten thousand people witnessed the grand circuit races at the Columbus driving park. The special attraction was Dan Patch's race against time to beat his record of 1:59. The track was fast and weather conditions were almost perfect, but the best the pacer could do was 1:59½. The 2:08 pace was the sensational race of the day. Nervolo, a prime favorite, selling at 50 to 12 against the field before the start, won.

Hawthorne Park Results.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—The feature event at Hawthorne, the six furlong handicap, was won by Captain S. S. Brown's 1904 Derby candidate Auditor, the 6 to 5 favorite. Auditor won as he pleased by two and a half lengths, while Corrigan's wind broken Redan beat Rockaway, the second choice, a head for the place. The handicap was one of the most heavily played races of the meeting. Track fair; weather clear and cool.

Oil Tank Cars Ablaze.

ZANESVILLE, O., Sept. 24.—In a freight wreck at Norwich, on the Baltimore and Ohio, fifteen miles east of here, two oil tank cars collided and exploded. There was a terrific report, and a sheet of flame rose 100 feet into the air and spread on all sides. Four houses at the side of the track caught fire and were consumed in a few minutes. The occupants had narrow escapes and lost everything. All trains are detoured over the Pan Handle around the wreck. Wreckers could not work on the burning cars and had to wait for the fire to burn itself out.

Horseman Dies Suddenly.

CLAY CENTER, Neb., Sept. 24.—L. S. Backus of Harvard, Neb., one of the noted horsemen of the west, fell dead on the fair grounds track here. He had a horse entered in a trotting race and was preparing to drive it when he was stricken with apoplexy and expired in a few moments. He was sixty-one years old and a veteran of the civil war.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

The Honorable artillery company of London started 200 strong for Boston.

Emperor Francis Joseph asked Count Hedervary to form a new Hungarian cabinet.

William Rockefeller hired fifty armed guards in Malone, N. Y., for his Adirondack estate.

A German steel syndicate has been renewed for five years in the form of a stock company, which will handle the total product.

Canada's presentation of the Alaska boundary case was finished before the London tribunal, and the American argument was begun.

EDWARD KING INDEED

He Takes a Hand In Forming New Cabinet.

LONG CONFERENCES AT BALMORAL.

Determination Not to Assent to Premier's Appointments Until Assured That They Will Be For Empire's Good.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—The political crisis has taken on a phase which lends to the present situation a historical and constitutional importance of almost unprecedented interest. The king has interfered, not unconstitutionally or beyond the powers vested in the crown, but in the exercise of his prerogatives, to an extent never dreamed of in the Victorian era.

Premier Balfour's continued presence at Balmoral has given rise to much surmise and comment, but it may be stated definitely that it is due to the king's determination not to assent to the formation of a new cabinet until thoroughly satisfied that its personnel and combination is such as to insure the efficient carrying on of the affairs of the empire pending the resumption of parliament.

For years previous cabinets were formed or ministerial vacancies filled with the mere formal presentation to the sovereign of the names of the new ministers. King Edward has done away with this tradition. He has spent the last few days in constant discussion with Mr. Balfour as to the advisability from the point of view of the national welfare of the latter's suggested appointments. Ministers now holding office and those nominated for office have been summoned to Balmoral to join in these conferences, and all have been subjected to a degree of interrogation such as has surprised even those who knew King Edward intimately as Prince of Wales.

To such an extent is King Edward holding his power of veto in reserve that now he is almost regarded by the inner circles as more the cabinet maker than Mr. Balfour himself. Though, with his usual tact, the king has refrained from expressing any political views or infringing the initiative belonging to the ministers, this has not prevented him from expressing his genuine desire, amounting almost to a command, that steps be taken to remedy the scandals in the army administration revealed by the report of the South African war commission and insisting that the new cabinet shall be one adapted to deal with that question.

After the long conversations he has had during the last few days at Balmoral with Lord Lansdowne, Mr. Brodrick, Lord Esher, who was president of the South African war commission; Lieutenant General Sir T. Kelly-Kenny and other military authorities the king is said to have expressed the opinion that Lord Lansdowne's record as war secretary was due more to the badness of the system then in vogue than to any defect in Lord Lansdowne's own judgment.

King Edward has not shared the keen public indignation against Lord Lansdowne aroused by the report of the South African war commission, and after a minute examination of the circumstances he is understood to have consented to his lordship continuing as foreign minister.

This decision has not prevented his majesty from frankly telling the ministers that he wanted something done to improve the military muddle and that he hoped some man would be appointed who, with the commission's report as a basis, would be capable of [illegible] which rendered [illegible] unavoidable.

The question of having some general, probably Lord Kitchener, as head of the war office was also keenly discussed at Balmoral between the king and the ministers, but it is understood that the [illegible] was that such an appointment would be interpreted as a modified form of military dictatorship which the public would never sanction.

Dealing with the surmise upon some of the foregoing points, the Morning Advertiser says: "The king has in this national emergency resolved to play the part of a ruler instead of being content with that of a figurehead." Meantime every detail of the negotiations for filling up the vacancies in the cabinet are submitted to the king, who for the time being has transformed Balmoral into the political center of the empire, from which, owing to the unusual influences at work, several surprises may emanate. Whatever the results may be, they can safely be attributed to a large extent to the king's interest in the crisis.

NEW PACING RECORD

Prince Alert Makes a Mile In Fast Time of 1:57.

DAN PATCH LOSES HIS LAURELS.

Hero of Many Races Makes a Wonderful Showing on the Empire City Track—Vast Crowd Witnesses Triumph.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Prince Alert, the pacing hero of a hundred races and the champion of a score of half mile tracks, went against the world's pacing record of 1:59, held by Dan Patch, and beat it most decisively at the Empire City track yesterday.

It was the first day of the autumn meeting of the Empire City Trotting club, and, in addition to a strong card of four races, Prince Alert was billed for what looked like the impossible feat of beating the record. But Prince Alert had recently won the half mile track championship in 2:03½, which had been won only the week before by Dan Patch in 2:04, and good judges were sanguine.

The weather and track were perfect, and the wind, which was high early in the day, kindly subsided, so that all the conditions were favorable. Mart Demarest, the trainer and driver of the Prince, on account of overweight decided to get John Curry to drive, and Demarest drove the thoroughbred speed maker in front with the wind shield sulky.

At the third time the starter gave the word, and, pacing like a perfect piece of machinery, Prince Alert shot away to the quarter pole in 29¼ seconds. As he got into the back stretch he increased his speed and was at the half in 58 seconds. Then the crowd realized that they were witnessing the fastest mile of the century, and cheers and shouts of "Come on!" came from grand stand and lawn. Without a break or a tremor he flashed by the three-quarter pole in 1:26¼ and without any urging came on with a most superb burst of speed, crossing the wire in 1:57.

There were 5,000 in the grand stand as the pacer made his record, going from start to finish without a break. "Jack" Curry, who held the lines over the pacer, was carried to the judges' stand by enthusiastic friends, where he made an acknowledgment of the honor conferred. "Mart" Demarest, the regular trainer, who drove the runner in advance, was also carried about the course.

James Hanley, the owner of the new king, also received deafening cheers.

Prince Alert's breeding is almost as much in doubt as is that of Lou Dillon, the trotting queen. He is a bay gelding, the son of Crown Prince Til. His dam's ancestry is untraced.

The racing career of the new king began in 1895, when he was a three-year-old. He has since then been campaigned regularly. On Oct. 31, 1902, he paced a mile in 2:00 at Memphis, Tenn. On that occasion he covered the first half in 57¾ seconds.

The performance is phenomenal, not only for clipping the world's record, but for the fact that the pacer did the last half of the mile in 59 seconds.

In the regular programme Dark Secret was the favorite in the 2:20 trot and won easily in straight heats. That great speedway favorite, Swift, won the 2:08 trot and reduced his record to 2:07. He was the choice at $50 to $30 for the field. In the 2:08 pace Cubanolo was the choice, but was distanced in the first heat, Nonamie winning the two heats by a nose and neck respectively.

Strike of Western Miners Certain.

PUEBLO, Colo., Sept. 24.—The called convention of district No. 15 of the United Mine Workers of America began yesterday afternoon in Trades Assembly hall, and it resolved itself into executive session, with District President William Howells in the chair. Every union in the district, which includes Colorado, Wyoming, Utah and New Mexico, was represented. Among the officers there is but one sentiment—that a strike of all the miners in this district will be declared as a result of the convention. President John Mitchell has expressed himself heartily in favor of a strike unless the operators accede to the demands of the miners.

A Brute's Terrible Deed.

NORTH VERNON, Ind., Sept. 24.—William Wilkerson, a citizen of this place, while intoxicated drove his family from home. Marshal Schwake was appealed to, and upon entering the premises was warned by Wilkerson to proceed no further. The marshal paid no attention and was shot and instantly killed by Wilkerson. Wilkerson immediately started for the country, and a posse was organized to pursue him. Later a riot alarm was turned in, and many citizens joined in the chase. Half a mile from town Wilkerson was surrounded, but killed himself with the same gun with which he had shot Marshal Schwake.

LATE ANTISEMITE RIOTS.

Kishineff Horrors Repeated on a Smaller Scale.

GOMEL, Russia, Sept. 24.—A press correspondent has made an investigation on the spot of the "pogrom," as the Russians describe the anti-Semite riots, which occurred here Sept. 11 and were renewed for several days. The riots were smaller, but perhaps more remarkable than those which took place at Kishineff, because the police and military openly sided with the plunderers and murderers, the "pogromshiks," as the Russians called them.

The troops, supported by many educated and well to do Christians, formed a movable shield behind which the "pogromshiks" ruthlessly demolished the Jewish homes and shops and cruelly clubbed such Jews as fell into their hands, leisurely proceeding from street to street and district to district as they did so.

The commerce and industry of Gomel, which is considerable, is largely in the hands of the Jewish population, numbering 26,000. Few of the residents are wealthy, but none are paupers. The Jewish artisans incline to socialism. The trouble began Sept. 11, a holiday (the day of the beheading of John the Baptist) in a wrangle in the fruit and fish markets between moujiks (peasants) and Jews. The wrangle ended in a free fight, in which many were wounded, one moujik succumbing to his injuries. The moujiks demanded vengeance and employed the following days, Saturday and Sunday, in inflaming the anti-Semite agitation, the leaders being an officer named Pensky and a rich merchant named Petrachenko.

Everybody knew that a pogrom would occur on Monday, and the Jews appealed for protection to Chief of Police Ravsky, who summoned an infantry regiment from its summer encampment. Thus there were 1,600 soldiers in the town. At luncheon hour on Monday the anti-Semitic railway workmen to the number of some hundreds began an organized attack on the Jewish houses in Zamovkaya street, sacking them and demolishing or spoiling the bulky articles by soaking them with kerosene. Police Chief Ravsky had placed police and troops on the Zamovkaya, but they acted as though they were intended to protect the pogromshiks from interference. Jews who tried to cross their lines to rescue their coreligionists were brutally clubbed with the soldiers' guns, bayoneted or arrested.

The plunderers now proceeded from street to street, the troops and police following them and cutting off access to the devastated Jewish houses. They subsequently visited the Jewish quarter called America, then Konnaya square, the upper end of Roumianzovskaya street, the principal thoroughfare of the town, and the district called Caucasus. Altogether nearly 400 houses and shops were wholly or partially wrecked, the windows smashed, the blinds and frames being splintered and every scrap of furniture and effects destroyed or stolen. The Jews who did not take refuge with compassionate Christians or conceal themselves in cellars were severely beaten and in many cases dangerously wounded. Sixty-four Jews were registered as wounded, and probably forty others left the city without being registered. The number killed was not large.

Islanders In Starving Condition.

ST. THOMAS, Danish West Indies, Sept. 24.—The Gazette of the British island of St. Christopher (St. Kitts) says: "The moment for the helping hand of the government to be extended cannot be much longer delayed, if the laboring population of the islands of St. Kitts and Nevis are to be kept from starvation. An appalling condition of poverty exists. The estates have been compelled to lessen their expenses owing to the long drought, and ablebodied men and women are hardly earning enough to supply their daily wants." The Times of the British island of St. Vincent blames the government for the misery prevailing since the volcanic eruption in that island, adding that starvation and disease are killing many persons and that a large number are half naked and homeless.

Our Minister Says Must to Dominica.

SANTO DOMINGO, Santo Domingo, Sept. 24.—The Dominican government has informed United States Minister Powell that it absolutely does not recognize the validity of the agreement regarding the claims of the improvement company and therefore cannot appoint an arbitrator in that case. Mr. Powell has informed the government that the engagements made must be kept and that he expected it to name its arbitrators. He also pointed out to the Dominican government that if they respected engagements with other powers those made with his government must also be respected, and if some of the acts of ex-President Vasquez's government were considered legal then all must be.

The sessions of the French and Belgian tribunals have closed.

Amendments Surely Lost.

TRENTON, N. Y., Sept. 24.—Revised returns make it certain that the constitutional amendments have been defeated. The majority in the state against them will change from 2,000 to 3,000. The correct official returns will not be known until after the meeting of the several county election boards on Monday next.

A FITTING TRIBUTE.

A Citizen of Plainfield Pays a Well-Earned Tribute.

The following public statement of a respected citizen adds one more emphatic endorsement of merit to the scores that have appeared before.

Mrs. R. Wortman, living with her daughter, Mrs. S. E. Cook, of 204 Somerset street, says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills with good results for severe pains across my back and hips, which no doubt was caused by the kidneys being out of order. It was painful for me to stoop or bend forward and I could not sit ten minutes in one position but had to be continually changing about. I used many different kinds of medicine recommended for kidney trouble but I could not see that any of them benefitted me. Doan's Kidney Pills were procured for me at L. W. Randolph's drug store and it is the only remedy I ever used that gave me any relief. I always keep a supply of them on hand and would not think of being without them."

ON VERGE OF WAR.

Less Hopeful Tone Prevails at Sofia.

POPULAR FEELING MORE EXCITED.

In Revolutionary Circles a Conflict Is Believed to Be Imminent Unless Turkey Desists From Massacreing the Christians.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Sept. 24.—A less hopeful feeling prevails in government circles regarding the general situation, although no actual change is reported. The events of the next two days are awaited with great anxiety, and popular feeling is becoming more excited. A largely attended meeting of Macedonian sympathizers was held at Rustchuk, Bulgaria, Sept. 2 and adopted resolutions appealing to the Bulgarian government to declare war on Turkey immediately.

In revolutionary circles war is believed to be imminent unless Turkey stops massacreing the Christians, of which there are no signs at present. Dr. Christo Tatartcheff, president of the Macedonian organization, says that the insurgent committees attach no importance to the reported negotiations between Turkey and Bulgaria because similar propositions were discussed in 1897 and later in 1899 and 1900. The porte, added Dr. Tatartcheff, only entered into the conference in order to gain time to finish the extermination of what it regards as the dangerous elements in Macedonia, have the troops now at Monastir free to move against Bulgaria and bring more soldiers from Asia.

While the sultan's government is discussing propositions for reform in Macedonia the troops continue to massacre the Christians and devastate the country. Referring to the details of the proposed arrangement, Dr. Tatartcheff said there was no guarantee even if the commission was appointed that it would ever be more than ornamental. The present village commissions in Macedonia have Bulgarian members, but they are always favorable to the Turks. The president of the Macedonian organizations concluded by declaring that the insurgents would be satisfied with nothing short of intervention by the powers.

Special significance attaches to the Macedonian meeting at Rustchuk because the resolutions adopted are the first open expression of such an emphatic character in favor of war coming from any popular meeting in Bulgaria. Rustchuk is the chief commercial town in the country. Resolutions were also passed thanking the pope, the English bishops, the trades union congress and the British and American press for their expressions of sympathy with the Macedonian cause.

Fighting is reported to have taken place near Kotchani, on the frontier, in which the Turks lost fifty men killed and the insurgents suffered a loss of ten. A panic prevails at Kotchani, and all business and work is at a standstill. A number of reports of other minor encounters and more atrocities by the Turks continue to come in.

Wisconsin Town Nearly Wiped Out.

MELLEN, Wis., Sept. 24.—Incendiaries started a fire which nearly wiped out the village of Morse, in Ashland county, and caused a loss of $300,000, partially covered by insurance. The sawmill and store of T. R. Chase were destroyed, together with 6,000,000 feet of lumber. The fire also burned several small buildings in the vicinity. One man was injured. The blaze started in the lumber yard and from all that the authorities can learn was the work of a former employee of the mill who was recently discharged. All of the inhabitants of the village turned out and fought the fire, but to no avail, and it raged until it burned itself out.

Indians Make Good Showing.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—The annual report of Hampton Normal and Agricultural institute, at Hampton, Va., to the interior department says that 126 Indians have been under instruction there during the past fiscal year. The report indicates progress along all lines. It says that in the twenty-five years since the first Indians were brought to Hampton the school has taught 938 Indian boys and girls, 673 of whom are now living. Records of the work done by these students in after life show that 474 are entirely satisfactory.

Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 24, 1903.

The Daily Press has a higher circulation rating than is accorded to any other paper in Plainfield.—Printers' Ink.

Now for a genuine election.

Men who hold up trains are not necessarily muscular.

It's about time for the usual batch of hard luck tales from Yale's training table.

We call attention to a communication by "Innominato" to be found in the Forum column.

The life of King Peter, of Servia, must be a nightmare of the continuous performance variety.

A good advertisement is like a good cook—it can create an appetite when the buyer isn't hungry.—Agricultural Advertising.

"What's what, or how did the election go," would have been interesting reading yesterday, but the advance sheets were missing.

As it was declared to be a legal holiday no corporations were chartered on Tuesday. The lawyers were surely sorely hit in their fight.

Judging from the frequent reports of arrests of "dangerous" characters at Sagamore Hill, news must be dull around Oyster Bay just at present.

When Mayor Smalley wrote the words "nonsense" across the face of his ballot, he showed his opposition to any further annexation—to the constitution.

The reports read at the annual meeting of the local W. C. T. U. yesterday showed that Plainfield's temperance workers are an active factor. Keep up the good work.

Dr. William R. Harper in defending the Sultan of Turkey says "Abdul Hamid is a remarkable man, a man of great ability." The most remarkable thing about him is his ability to escape just punishment.

Plainfield horses made a good showing at Highland Park yesterday afternoon. Glitters Lad, owned by J. H. Green, Jr., came in for first money in the 2:24 class, pace, and two others won second places in the results.

Now that the season is drawing to a close, the true friends of clean amateur sport should make preparations for placing a strictly non-professional nine on the diamond next year; one that will represent Plainfield. It is safe to say that no city in the State has better material from which such a team can be made. The professional article is all right in its way, but its standard always depends on the capital back of it. A little of the amateur game would be beneficial. Plainfield is able to support one good amateur aggregation and that is what is needed.

PERSONAL.

Miss Mayme Lamon, of West Front street, is spending a month in Trenton.

Thomas Burke, of Pen Yan, N. Y., is the guest of relatives in East Fifth street.

Thomas O'Keefe, formerly of this city, but now of New York, has been the guest of his aunt, on West Fifth street, for a week.

Fred J. Armstrong, who graduated from the North Plainfield High School last year, entered Rutgers College, this year, in New Brunswick.

Haynes Reynolds has returned to his home on Duer street, after spending the summer months in Point Pleasant. He brought home a catch of ninety-eight blue fish.

THE FORUM.

Communications from readers of The Daily Press on all subjects of local interest are invited. All such communications must be stripped of personalities, and must be signed by the writer. His name will not necessarily be published. The editor is not responsible for views expressed in this column.

Editor, The Daily Press:

It is with feelings of sorrow, but not so much sorrow as shame, that the people of Plainfield learn of the decision of the court that the M'Kee Law in regard to appropriations for new school buildings is unconstitutional. The shame is not on the city individually but as an integral part of the State.

Jersey laws and Jersey justice have become an expression throughout the whole of these United States, for all that is best in both the framing laws and the proper and just execution of them.

Now we are confronted with the fact that we apparently have not a lawyer or legislator capable of drawing a simple law which is not in conflict with the constitution.

It is sad to feel that New Jersey has failed in the one field in which she had become most conspicuous for ability and sagacity, and that she had failed not only once but for the second time.

The situation is simply as follows: Plainfield, with all her natural advantages, her representative population composed of the best classes of men engaged in the professional and mercantile pursuits, with that proper leavening of skilled mechanics and those who earn their bread by the sweat of their brow, a city government envied by most cities of the State, a Board of Education whose personel is the highest, a Superintendent of schools whose one aim is to give to each child in Plainfield an education second to none in this country, Plainfield—cannot at present give her children a full day's instruction.

It has been acknowledged time and time again by those sent by foreign governments to investigate the institutions of this country that the main reason for the pre-eminence of the United States lies in the education of the individual, of whatever class, in our public schools.

In the individuality and personal power of initiative, gained by contact of mind with mind, lies our strength. New Jersey apparently is destined to fall behind her sister states in this regard, and to lose all prestige which the early efforts of that noted educator, Dr. Charles Stillman, and his followers have secured to her.

Two things remain for us if we would, as the Chinese say, "save our face." The old law stands in force, the Council can vote the needed appropriation under its provisions, the tax rate will not be altered by such a decision, as the money had already, been voted under the discredited law, or we may hope that among the seemingly Utopian dreamers of our Legislature, a genius may arise with the legal knowledge, capacity, and will, to draft and put through a law which will allow us to give our children at least as full and proper an education as we ourselves received at the Plainfield Public Schools.

The Legislature is only a hope, but the Council can and should give us the wished for relief.

"Innominato."

ARRESTED ROBBING STATION

MURRAY HILL LADS TAKEN INTO CUSTODY AT REVOLVER'S POINT.

Station Agent Surprises Them and Covers Thieves While Telephoning for Assistance.

William Clark, eighteen years old, of Murray Hill, was caught in the act of robbing the Lackawanna station at that place Sunday night. One of Clark's associates, named Hughes, was captured at the same time. The robbery occurred directly after an attempt had been made to enter the residence of W. R. Brower, of New Providence, president of the Summit Electric Light and Water Company. Mr. and Mrs. Brower were at Oyster Bay, L. I., and the house was in charge of Mr. Brower's nephew, who, as he was about to retire, heard the breaking of glass in a downstairs window. He immediately seized a revolver, and shot three times at two men on the porch, who were successful in escaping along the road towards Summit, in spite of an encounter with a party of women returning from church.

It was directly after this that the attempt on the station at Murray Hill was made. Harry Young, the station agent, heard a window forced at about midnight and saw two men break into the inner office, while another remained on guard outside. Young pointed a couple of revolvers at the rascals just as they were in the act of helping themselves to tickets and whatever money was in the drawer. The two realized that they were cornered and made no attempt to escape. Young telephoned for the constable who took them to Elizabeth, where they will be held pending the action of the Grand Jury. Both Clark and Hughes refuse to divulge the name of their accomplice.

Clark bears a bad reputation. He is a son of Samuel Clark who killed Edward Wilcox in a political dispute at the New Providence polls on election day several years ago. The elder Clark was never captured.

The Murray Hill depot has been entered twice before, and tickets, money orders and a small amount of money taken.

BASEMENT AS SCHOOL ROOM

TEMPORARY ACCOMMODATIONS FOR PUPILS OF WATCHUNG SCHOOL.

Absolutely Proof Against Dampness—Plans of the School Board

Considerable comment has been heard about the accommodation of children in North Plainfield who have been seeking admission into the schools there by reason of the fact that a new class has been started in the basement of the Watchung School. This has caused adverse criticism on the part of some parents. One complaint has been received by Superintendent Wightman.

An investiagtion into the school room reveals the fact that while it is one foot below the surface of the surrounding property it was built with a view of making it absolutely damp proof. The manner in which the flooring was built is as follows: A layer of cement, a foot in thickness, a layer of pitch, another of cement, four inch scantlings and one inch Georgia pine flooring. The windows are all regulation size and the ventilation, while not as good as that in the upper rooms in the building, is fifty per cent. better than that in the outside rooms where classes are held in vacant stores and halls.

The fact that the pupils have had to be placed in a basement of a school building, shows how important it is that a new building should be built as soon as possible. It has been said that during the heavy rain storm of last week, when the Somerset street school cellar was flooded, not a drop of water was seen in the basement of the Watchung school. The Board considered the advisability of placing the school room in the basement of the German Reformed Church or the Watchung school and, after considering carefully the sanitary qualifications of both places, decided upon the latter as the most healthful of the two.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Sept. 27—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—An evening with Japanese missions.—Mal. iv, 2, 3.

The prominence of Japan among the nations of the world, its rapid progress in modern civilization and the successful propagation of Christianity in the empire all go to make this subject an unusually interesting one. Every missionary committee should arrange a programme of special attractiveness and thereby interest all in the meeting and, what is still more important, in the winning of the empire of Japan to Jesus Christ.

Japan is composed of a number of islands which stretch in a crescent shape along the northeastern coast of Asia from Kamchatka to Korea. Their area is about 160,000 square miles. In location and climate the islands of Japan resemble Great Britain. The climate is temperate, the soil fertile, the air healthful and food abundant. Flowers and fruits abound, and the skies are beautiful and clear.

The Japanese people are kindly impressible, quick to observe and imitate, ready to adopt whatever may seem to promote their present good, imaginative, fond of changes, yet withal loyal to their government and traditions. The people are divided into two general classes—the samurai, including the military and literary classes, and the hei-min, or agriculturists, merchants and artisans. The Japanese are intellectually of a high order, but of a low moral standard. Truth, purity, temperance, unselfish devotion, self denial, are all sadly wanting, which demonstrates their need of the gospel of Christ. Shintoism, Buddhism and Confucianism are the principal religions of Japan.

Catholic missionaries under Francis Xavier went to Japan in 1549. By making the transition to papal Christianity very easy, merely the substitution of one superstition for another, many converts were soon won. But the political intrigues of the Jesuits soon aroused opposition, the Catholics were exterminated, Christianity and foreigners forbidden an entrance into Japan and the island empire became shut off from the world until won over to a different policy by our own Commodore Perry in 1854.

The Christian church soon took advantage of the opening of the Japanese ports. Missionaries were at once sent in, and after years of faithful labor results were produced. The church of Japan was born in prayer. In January, 1872, the English speaking residents of all denominations united in observing the week of prayer. The results were tremendous. Past suspicion and prejudice passed away and for the first time the Japanese were on their knees in a Christian prayer meeting, pleading to God for His spirit. From that time on the work has been successful. In 1877 a number of missionary agencies combined their efforts. There are now seven denominations in this union, which is called "the church of Christ in Japan." They include the Reformed and Presbyterian denominations of the United States, and this union is one of the strongest bodies of Christians in the empire.

Recent events have made Christianity more powerful than ever in Japan. The empire has come closer to the great Christian nations of England and the United States. Many Japanese students are being educated in these countries. Unlike China and India, in Japan the educated and cultured classes have been favorably disposed to the gospel. A great revival has within recent years been in progress in the island and thousands have been won for Christ. Let us earnestly pray for a continuance of this revival spirit until the entire land shall have become Immanuel's land. May the Sun of Righteousness come indeed to the empire of the Rising Sun and with healing in His wings.

Colorado State Badge.

Colorado can boast one of the neatest of the many state badges. The Christian Endeavor monogram is given unusual prominence in it. State badges play an important part in every international convention, serving to introduce Endeavorers from "far sundered climes," and in many other ways proving valuable to their wearers.

Telling the Church's Future.

Rev. Dr. G. Parsons Nichols, commenting on the Christian Endeavor meeting in his own church, said, "The radiant eastern sky and the voices of singing birds do not foretell more truly the glorious sunrise than that light and those voices tell the future of this church."

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Sept. 27, "The Work of Home Missions."

"Charity begins at home," is an old saying which has acquired almost the authority of Bible truth. Indeed, it might almost be called a translation into colloquial speech of that passage of inspired Scripture, "If any provideth not for his own, and specially his own household, he hath denied the faith and is worse than an unbeliever."

The Christian church has from the first given special care to assist in all possible ways by all available means her own members and people near at hand. A least this has been her theory and commission. If neglected in any measure, that neglect can be accurately measured by her decline in spirituality and apostasy from the faith.

The first officers appointed in the early church were charged with the duty of relieving the needs of the poor, especially the dependent widows in the church at Jerusalem. In the church at Joppa, the only name that has been preserved to us, is that of a woman who was particularly active in providing clothing for the destitute and relieving their needs by her personal care. She was appropriately named "the Gazelle, Dorcas, Tabitha."

Paul gathered with great care from the gentile churches collections to relieve the necessities of the poor Christians of Jerusalem.

Methodism has ever been engaged in the cause of missions at home. The work of John Wesley and his immediate helpers was home missionary effort. The labors of Asbury, Lee and the early American Methodists were of the same character.

The recent enlargement in scope of this department of our church activity is in keeping with the needs and developments of the times.

The criticism is sometimes heard, from people whose sympathies or information is defective, that too great attention is given to foreign missions to the neglect of the home field.

The fact is, much the larger part of our benevolent collections is spent in the United States. All the work of the Freedman's Aid and Southern Education society is in the southern part of our own land. The Church Extension society helps provide church buildings, and nearly one-half of the missionary collections are used for the people of this country. Nor should the aid of the board of education in assisting our schools be overlooked.

In addition to all this must be considered the hospital service, which is increasing so rapidly the deaconess work in visitation and relief.

Besides this there is the special labor of the Woman's Home Missionary society. The departments of work are numerous and well equipped. Its rescue work for women in the great cities, hospitals, nurse training, distribution of clothing and articles of necessity and comfort to the poor of all sections of the land are all admirable in design and working. Of special importance is the industrial feature carried on in schools and model homes. Corresponding to the manual training of boys in industrial arts and trades is the teaching of sewing, cooking, housekeeping and other occupations to the girls.

This branch of our church work should be studied by our leagues for broadening of our intelligence and quickening of our sympathies and confirming our diligence in doing good.

Wrong Prayer.

Wrong prayer sets our wisdom and desire as the measure of giving. It is not always denied, even when it asks for hurtful things. Right prayer comes in humility and confidence and asks from its own point of view for what is needed, but always in submission to the loving will of God. Right prayer is always heard, but petitions which are right in spirit may be unwise in choice, and the loving kindness of God may deny them for our good.

Prayer and petition are therefore whole and part. Prayer is the approach to God seeking communion. Petition is the part of prayer which asks for gifts. No man ever drew near to God but God drew near to him. Is it wise to pray? That is a question whether we shall live our lives alone. Prayer is communion. God's children cannot live without it. Is it wise to ask for definite gifts which we desire and need? That is a question of our faith and our humility. If we ask from the level of our own judgment—as if we had all knowledge—it must needs be that many of our petitions will be mistaken. No man in sober second thought would wish God to grant ignorant and foolish requests. That he could only do in judgment, not in mercy. But no prayer and no petition urged in simple faith and humble acquiescence in God's loving will can ever be in vain.—Congregationalist.

Evil Life a Failure.

There is no happiness to an evil life. Malice, hate and envy rob their victims every day. Another's prosperity is a constant challenge to their peace. Judas was a miserable man long before he thought of suicide. His purse grew faster than his money. Things but culminated at his destruction. The black stream of his life had reached its sea. Saul was wretched from the day his eyes were set on David. His thousands were tortured by the tens of thousands that belonged to his rival.—Presbyterian Journal.

A Test of Christianity.

If you wish to know whether you are a Christian inquire of yourself whether, in and for the love of God, you seek to make happy those about you by smiles and pleasant sayings. Are you a comfortable person to live with? Are you pleasant to have about?—Gail Hamilton.

An Ideal Location

Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE

LINDEN, N. J.

Beautiful and Accessible

2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark, 14 MILES FROM NEW YORK

On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL, or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

WOMEN WORKERS.

Odd Ways In Which Some of Them Earn Their Living.

In the old days there were practically only three ways in which a woman might earn her living—by sewing, by teaching and by nursing. Anything else was considered unladylike, and indeed any other occupation was not likely to be open to women. Now all is changed, and we keep hearing of new ways by which woman can earn her daily bread.

For instance, in Berlin (just think of it, that most un-new womanly city!) women sign painters are no novelty. There is a regular school for them. They learn how to use the brush and how to mix paints. Gymnastic training is carefully practiced before they are allowed to ascend the scaffolding, so that they may not lose their nerve in standing on the ladder. They wear the gray linen frock and cap which are the house painter's badge as well as his defense against paint.

A Minneapolis woman has constituted herself a traveling librarian, organizing and cataloguing libraries wherever she finds occasion. Of course to do this work one must have a regular library training, a thorough knowledge of bookkeeping and ability to read French and German.

Entertainment catering is another branch in which several clever girls are engaged. It is a calling particularly suited to girls of good education and social standing. When the busy hostess wishes to give an entertainment she calls in one of these young women, who takes all responsibility from the shoulders of her employer. She superintends the making out of the programme, if any; the menus and the order in which any diversions shall appear. She is an expert on table decorations and can plan novel figures for a cotillon.

A very profitable occupation is that of designer of advertisements. With a certain cereal or article of commerce in mind, the clever girl writes a line or two or a verse. She accompanies this with the suggestion for a picture and takes it to the advertising manager of the firm to which the article belongs. If the idea is a good one she is well paid for it and is probably asked to submit more of her ideas. Indeed, the successful planning of advertisements is something which pays far more than the higher forms of art.

But it is the French women who have the strangest modes of earning their daily bread. Snails are raised in great quantities in the gardens around Paris and Bordeaux, as they are considered dainties on the Paris bills of fare. A woman on the outskirts of Paris, by name Mlle. Blanche, provides the zoological garden with ants' eggs. So bitten is she by her stock that her skin has assumed a leather like texture, and bites do not worry her any longer, for she lives and sleeps among her sacks of ants! BEATRICE MILLER.

AN ALCOVE BEDROOM.

Combination Bedroom and Sitting Room Which Is Popular.

In a small house or where each member of the family desires a "den" as well as a sleeping room the arrangement depicted in the illustration will be found a good idea.

FOR A SMALL HOUSE.

The bed, washstand, etc., are in a small alcove which may be curtained off during the day. The rest of the large apartment is furnished after the fashion of a sitting room and filled with the bric-a-brac, books, etc., of the owner.

The paper of the room in the picture is an empire pattern, green and white. The woodwork is white, but the furniture is mahogany inlaid with a light tracing. The washstand is fitted with green and white china. The old fashioned dressing stand is worthy of notice on account of its quaint lines.

The sitting room section is furnished with green or pale yellow coverings, including the chairs. The pictures are surrounded by narrow dark green frames, and the floor is covered with a dark green carpet. R. DE LA BAUME.

Blanche O'Halloran
A CUBAN REMEMBRANCE

By R. M. WOOLLEY.

"'May I ask what the gentleman desires? Perhaps I may be of some service to you as an interpreter?'

"Need I say who she was? My breath then seemed to leave me as in death. How surprised I was to find one who could speak my language and so perfectly; need I say how happy I was to find her a girl, and how thoughtful I was when I perceived that she was approaching womanhood. The round, full hips disclosed this secret and when I gazed into those lustrous southern eyes there was the light of womanhood and not that of childhood there. The raven black curls fell in abundant locks about the shapely shoulders and were tied fast against the oval, well-colored face by streamers from t' broad Panama she wore.

"This attractive little woman was Blanche O'Halloran as she informed me with true Yankee simplicity; the only daughter of Stephen O'Halloran, who had gone from an American medical college to practice in Cuba. The mother was a Cuban belle but I knew that dear before you told me. Then you brought your mother to camp to visit me; I thought she must be your sister so much alike did you seem. We sat late into the moonlit night, just outside Lee's tent, listening to the tales of love and war he told in his inimitable way.

"Then you remember the ball in the Tribunal with all the senoritas of Guines there? Ah, such an array of beauty I never hope to see again! I stood embarrassed in one corner because I knew not enough Spanish to ask one to dance with me. But you came to my relief, cavalier like, at the first opportunity by sending your servant to offer your partnership. How sweet of you and how happy you made me. I was the happiest man in christendom just then. We danced and I saw the lovelight in your eyes, but perhaps you have now forgotten the overgrown lieutenant who was once an aid to Lee? I hope not for I have remembered you constantly and with a hope that I trust may be realized some day.

"In closing I have but to ask that you in your gracious way will deem these incoherent ramblings worthy reply; just two or three lines will suffice in which to say you remember me, and that I have not mistaken the understanding between us at that time of war, pestilence and love-making, and I shall be happy in my days of waiting, Blanche, for you."

Long days of impatience followed the mailing of this letter, which was posted about the same time as the one to Dorothy, in which he had taken occasion to ask release from the engagement, yet, in closing he had whimsically hoped she would some day come to the Philippines to be his wife. Most men, while in love, are inconsistent, and Murray was no exception.

He waited for three months with considerable fortitude before he commenced to expect a reply and his anxiety was manifest only on arrival of the mail by pack train. The soldiers, to the man, never failed to get a letter; but there were none for Capt. Murray—that is none from New York or Cuba—and all others didn't count.

The captain finally gave up all hope of hearing from Dorothy and said with remorse that she had accepted his terms; perhaps that very thing was what she had wished and even longed for. Then the captain's thoughts turned to the little southern beauty in the far-off Antilles and he wondered what her answer would be. Surely the senorita would not fail him? Senoritas didn't receive offers of marriage every day from Americans and especially popular captains in the army.

In his dreams he could see a dainty perfumed envelope bearing the Cuban postmark, and containing an endearing letter, perhaps in Spanish, for that was the native language of the senorita despite her English education and the nativity of her sire. In this letter she would tell him how grateful she was for his recollections, his admiration and his love. But then folks say that dreams are always the opposite when produced in reality. Anyway two letters, both addressed in refined, feminine hands, arrived for Capt. Murray just four months from the day his letters were mailed.

One was from New York and the other was from Cuba.

Murray's face was lighted with the light of joy, yet his hands trembled as he studied either envelope critically before deciding which to open first. Evil forebodings haunted him. Undoubtedly the one from New York brought bad news and it might be distasteful to the extreme, while the other must be full of love and tender feeling. He decided to stimulate his courage by reading first the missile from the fair one of the south seas and he tried hard to assure himself that after all Blanche O'Halloran's letter was the one dearest to him.

The ragged end of an envelope fell fluttering to the floor and the captain commenced to read.

From the complicated net woven by the wrinkles on his clouded brow there must have been something unpleasant in the very beginning. However, this supposition proved erroneous as he read aloud somewhat slowly. The letter was written in Spanish as had been expected and the captain was translating as he proceeded:

"My Dear Captain," the letter ran. "I have the goodness to make reply to your very happy letter and to thank you for the compliments you pay me therein; I, who am so inferior to an American, being a miserable half-breed born and reared in my dear but primitive old Cuba. True I can claim some advantage in the education New York gave me but still I have the instinct of my mother's people.

"How my heart fluttered and leapt at your endearing words and it made me think of all the pretty things you whispered into my ears that night at the ball. You seemed so different, so superior to the Cuban caballeros who were my suitors from childhood, and my heart went out to you. I loved you only as a southern woman can love and even hoped you would marry me; marry me and make me a woman of the grand country from which you come. But what a foolish child I was to cherish such hope for my poor heart was doomed to suffer and despair because you soon went away; you went away and I lost my lover, my knight, my cavalier. You rode away as jauntily as you had ridden into my life.

"Dreary days came and went and no letters arrived for the little sad-hearted Cuban girl, although the valiant captain said he would write often. Oh, how I loved his big, broad shoulders, his manly face and chivalrous manners. And now, at last, the captain writes me that he loves me and I am humble and glad, I am happy. I have conquered and it is the captain's turn to long and pine for letters that will never come and for a love that will never be given into his fickle keeping, and the halcyon life that will be denied him—for the captain says for the second time that he loves the little Cuban senorita with whom he used to amuse himself, but who is no more a senorita, being now a stately Senora La Palma, the beloved wife of Senor Pardo la Palma, a scion of the foremost family in all Cuba; a family that is destined to rule the republic when we shall have made it, like America, the land of the free and the home of the brave.

"So you see that the artful, though unruly captain, must not write too often because Senor La Palma loves me and says he will be jealous."

Murray tilted his chair far back on its rear legs, closed his eyes and gasped for breath. How different; how vastly different was the letter he expected to be full of love and tender feelings. He concluded forthwith that he was no adept in the art of making love and winning hearts. He seemed a sad failure. His last resort for connubial bliss had escaped him like a prisoner escapes a sleeping sentinel. His heart was sore and his prospects for a bachelor's life good. It seemed love and love-making required more attention than military administration, tactics, international law, etc., in which he was so apt, as a consequence of faithful pur-

NO FAMINE, SAYS WILSON.

Secretary of Agriculture Reports an Abundance of Farm Products.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Secretary Wilson of the agricultural department returned to Washington last night from Ogden, Utah, where he delivered a speech before the irrigation congress. His journey both ways took him through the heart of the corn belt, and on arriving here he said:

"The corn crop, owing to the peculiarity of the season, was late and light. Heavy floods destroyed it on bottom lands to a great extent. Continued rains throughout June and July saturated the level lands and retarded the growth of corn. The frost has injured in streaks. Through central Iowa perhaps one-quarter of the crop has been touched by the freeze, but what has not been affected by frost is ripening rapidly with this fine weather. Iowa, for instance, will not have as many bushels as last year, but will produce more No. 2 corn than last year. There will be plenty of corn in the country, because feeding was very extensive last year, as the corn was of such a character that it had to be fed. Feeding last year was unprofitable. Very many feeders lost money; therefore they will feed less this year.

"A very heavy hay crop was secured this season, and pastures have been and still are in excellent condition.

"As to wheat, thrashing has been delayed by rainy weather. If the present good weather continues it will progress rapidly. In considering the wheat crop we must take ... all the wheat growing countries. We are getting into telegraph relationship with most of the European countries, so as to be able to estimate the world's crop more closely than has heretofore been done. Taking our farm products as a whole, there is an abundance in the land."

Blaze In Mountain Tunnel Increasing.

BRISTOL, Tenn., Sept. 24.—From an authoritative source it is learned that the Norfolk and Western railroad is contemplating laying a track around the mountain through which the Cralgen tunnel extends and which is now burning. It was discovered this week that two veins of coal which were struck when the tunnel was being made had caught fire, and every effort of the railroad to extinguish the blaze has been in vain. Over 900 men are now employed at the tunnel, which is about 1,000 feet long. Both of its ends have been stopped up securely and an air shaft run into the top of the mountain in an effort to smother the blaze. Water is being pumped into the cavity, and it was thought that in this manner the blaze would finally be reached and quenched. But the fire still rages, and each day apparently adds to its volume. To lay the track around the mountain, it is said, will involve an expenditure of $500,000.

Filipino Troops For St. Louis.

Before coming to the United States these companies will be mobilized at Calocan, province of Rizal, for the purpose of drill and instruction.

Ten Thousand Dollars For Missions.

NAUGATUCK, Conn., Sept. 24.—By the will of the late Bronson B. Tuttle, which disposes of an estate of about $3,000,000, the sum of $10,000 is bequeathed to the American Missionary association of New York. Several other charitable bequests are made, the remainder of the estate going to relatives.

MORE EDITORIAL OPINIONS ON BOLT

Threats of Plainfield Republicans Lighter Than a Thought Says One.

PARTY IS IN DANGER

PAINFUL SLUMPS IN MAJORITY IN LEGISLATURE POSSIBLE.

Summit Record Tells a Story in Replying to Newark Evening News—What the New York Press Says.

Value of Threats.

"The editor of the Summit Record doesn't take much stock in the tales that are being told how the Plainfield Republicans are going to sacrifice their ticket this fall in order to show their hatred of Mr. Kean. And the editor is a Democrat who has had many years of experience with politics in Union."—Newark Evening News.

In Invention.

There is a rumor going the rounds that Senator Kean's influence with the President had something to do with the failure so far to call an extra session of Congress. The Jerseyman is reported to have told his relative that he didn't have time to attend, but this statement is believed to be an invention of the Fowlerites, who want to make it appear that they are keeping the Senator more than busy.—Newark Evening News.—(Ind. Rep.)

Party in Danger.

Unless the peacemaker and the fool-killer wrestle with some of the discordant factions in the Republican party there is going to be a painful slump in its majority in the Legislature of 1904, and its possible overthrow in that of 1905. The forces for and against Senator Kean, sweating over defeat in several sections, are threatening vengeance. For instance, the Fowler contingent in Plainfield is preparing to defeat Assemblyman Coyne, a Kean adherent, because Buckle, a Fowler man, was denied a nomination for Assembly after he carried the Plainfield primaries. There never was a time of greater peril for the Republicans of this State. Instead of a general purpose to re-elect a Republican legislature for the public good and party supremacy, continuing to build to it in another year when all worthy party leaders may aspire to the United States Senate, the bitterness of today threatens to make it impossible to return a Republican as the colleague of Senator Dryden. Certainly Kean is contemplating the array of independent Republican candidates for the Legislature, is not in a humor to brook opposition, and this may have led his champions to begin a warfare which, unless checked, will end not only in the loss of the Legislature this year, the Governor next year and the defeat of Kean himself, but make certain the return of ex-Senator James Smith to Washington.—New York Press.—(Rep.)

Not very many years but a sufficient number to enable him to estimate at something like its true value the threat of a disgruntled Republican to injure one of his party candidates for a State or county office, or the promise of a hidebound partisan of that party to aid a Democrat. To use an expression coined recently in New York politics such threats or promises are lighter than a thought. As an illustration we recall a campaign of many years ago in which a Democratic candidate for Assembly who could by no stretch of the imagination be regarded as a rainbow chaser did allow himself to be attracted by the illusion of possible Republican voters promised voluntarily by the voters in a township he had aided. This candidate had served two years in the Assembly and in his second year had conducted a vigorous fight against a legislative scheme that the voters of Springfield declared would ruin their property if successful.

Because Springfield was a part of his district the Assemblyman brought all the resources at his command and labored night and day to defeat the scheme. It was a long bitter struggle and while it was pending at least twenty-five men known to be stalwart Republicans from Springfield spent hour after hour at his office telling in glowing terms of their intentions should he ever again be a candidate for office. They would vote for him certainly and the voters of the township were so grateful for his splendid work that they were certain he would receive at least fifty Republican votes if he should run again in the fall.

Well this Assemblyman was renominated in the fall and the extent of Springfield's gratitude and the value of a Republican promise shown by the result. When the votes in Springfield were counted this particular Assemblyman's name appeared on just one Republican ballot and the Republicans carried the township by a majority of 34 in a total vote of 210.—Summit Record, (Dem.)

THIS LAWN A BEAUTY SPOT

GROUNDS SURROUNDING PERCY STEWART'S HOME FINELY ARRANGED.

Rare Trees and Hedges Make a Pretty Landscape Effect—Work of an Englishman.

Another show place has been added to the many in this city and persons driving near West Eighth street, Plainfield and Stelle avenues, have had their attention attracted to the artistic new gardens recently laid out on the property of Percy Stewart, whose house is located in the center of the plot of ground surrounded by these streets.

The grounds surrounding the house have been rearranged by C. W. M. Harrison, skilled English landscape architect, who has recently come to this country and has opened an office at 514 Watchung avenue. The work is a credit to him.

Among the many novel innovations at the new gardens is the only Japanese holly hedge in this State. The hedge is known as the specise Ilex-Crenato, which is exceedingly rare in this country. The hedge surrounds the property in place of a fence. A number of specimen trees have been planted and walks have been placed around the gardens. It is now one of the prettiest places in this city.

Strauss, Jr., daughter-in-law of Baldwin F. Strauss, the bigamous Brooklyn lawyer. The house, in which Mrs. Strauss, Jr., lives with her mother-in-law, on East Fifth street, near Watchung avenue, will be vacated by October 1.

EXTRA SESSION MAY SOLVE DILEMMA HERE

Legislature May Convene in Month to Bring Relief to Plainfield and Other Cities.

TO FRAME ANOTHER ACT

SCHOOL MONEYS TIED UP AND THIS CITY CAN GET NOTHING.

State Board of Education to Meet Tonight to Petition Governor to Act at Once—Situation in a Nutshell.

Relief is in sight for the Plainfield Board of Education whose move to erect a $135,000 high school building has been suddenly blocked. Though plans have been submitted by fifteen architects the selection must wait until such time as the local school authorities find that a contract can be made.

The New Jersey Legislature will probably be called in special session within the next four weeks to pass a law supplanting the McKee school act, declared unconstitutional by the Court of Errors and Appeals. The court's decision has thrown the public school system into such complete chaos that immediate remedial legislation is regarded as imperative by the school authorities as well as by other State officials who have given the subject attention.

Treasurer Briggs and State Controller Morgan conferred today and decided that the setting aside of the McKee act leaves them without power to disburse some $960,000, appropriated by the last Legislature to defray 35 per cent. of the amount to be raised for taxation for the support of the public schools. Consequently Plainfield can get nothing from this fund.

The McKee act supplanted the Stokes act of 1900, and, like its predecessor, embodied in one measure many theretofore separate laws, providing for the entire machinery of the public school system. Previously school moneys were apportioned on the basis of a school census, while under the McKee act the actual day's attendance governs the allotment. The tying up of the school funds is, however, only one of the problems arising from the setting aside of the act. Officers are without legal authority, and the validity of bond issues for the erection of school buildings, particularly here in Plainfield, and the power to incur debts by school authorities are questioned.

The law committee of the State Bord of Education will meet tonight, and it is the intention to prepare a memorial to the Governor urging the necessity for an extra session.

PLAN TO ORGANIZE ELECTRICIANS' UNION

Need of Having Business and the People Protected by Prescribed Regulations.

ELECTRICIANS WANTED

ORGANIZER HAS VISITED CITY TO LOOK OVER FIELD.

An Expert to Make House to House Inspection — Trade Active—Advantages of Such a Union Here.

Active steps are now being taken towards organizing an union among the electricians here. Although the number engaged in the trade is limited, it is considered wise to have the business protected by certain regulations. If such an organization should be effected it would mean that a fixed schedule would be established as to hours and the charge to be made.

An electrician, in speaking of the matter yesterday, said that if such a union should be formed in this city the charge for an electrician and a helper would be about ninety cents an hour. That there would be some opposition to this is not denied. Even with such a limited number of electricians to draw from, it is said, that there would be difficulty in forming an organization. According to one it would mean that only union men could be employed and this would prove a disadvantage to many bosses as the number of electricians in this vicinity is small. One man who has several assistants at present has use for another man, but for some time has been unable to find one, and it is believed that this same difficulty would exist after the union is formed. During the past few weeks an organizer has been in this vicinity looking over the field.

Under the rules of the union an appentice has to serve two years at the end of which time he undergoes an examination. If he passes this he is then entitled to ask $9 a week wages.

The business is especially active at present. It is expected that within a short time an expert will visit Plainfield and make a house to house inspection of all electric wiring. This was done recently in Paterson and in a large number of houses all of the wiring had to be changed, it being condemned. This work is done under the direction of the Board of Underwriters and is generally quite searching. It will be the first time in the history of Plainfield that a house to house inspection has been made and while the work of city electricians has been done under a general inspection and as a rule has been found all right. During recent years Plainfield has been particularly fortunate in having electricians who thoroughly understand the work.

CHURCH FAIR CONTINUES.

Prizes Awarded in Several Contests in German Reformed's Fair.

The German Reformed Church fair, which has been held for three nights, was featured last evening by a contest among the members of the church. Miss Anna Bach won a handsome chiffonier for collecting the most money, which was $15.55; Miss Ella Hoerster won the second prize of a tabourette, for collecting $15.40 and Miss Eva Higgins received the third prize of a perpetual calendar, for collecting $6.90. Special music was rendered by Mrs. Henry Angelbauer and Miss Carrie Bender, accompanied on the piano by Miss Strayer.

Central's Poor Year.

Compared with the Lehigh Valley and Erie reports, the annual statement for the fiscal year ended June 30 was a disappointment. With a deficit of $58,468, compared with a surplus of $674,476 in 1902, it was evident that at least one of the coal roads has failed to reimburse itself during the eight months following the anthracite strike for the loss incurred during the four months' period of disaster included in the fiscal year. The Central Railroad of New Jersey is controlled by the Reading company.

Out on Bail.

Owen Gavin, of North Plainfield, a motorman, who was operating a car in Newark, last week and ran over and killed a drunken man, has been released from the custody of the police on $1,000 bonds on a charge of manslaughter. He is visiting in this city. William G. DeMeza represents him.

WOMEN BUNCOED BY ENDLESS-CHAIN

Alleged Scheme of American Anti-Cigarette League in Philadelphia Exposed.

LOCAL PEOPLE VICTIMS

SLICK TRICK TO RAISE MONEY IN QUAKER CITY.

Woman's Christian Temperance Union Sounds a Warning—Man Inventing Endless-Chain Idea a Sing-Sing Prisoner.

The "endless chain" scheme, said to have been invented by a convict who wished to help his wife make a livelihood while he was in Sing Sing, has become a nuisance in this city as well as in this State. There are endless chain schemes for securing watches and oil stoves, diamonds and barrels of flour, household furniture and cheese, trolley tickets and tobacco, and almost every other article which could be named. Some have been started to aid the suffering, to erect homes for the poor, or the infirm while others have been started to advertise a brand of cigars, tooth paste or shoe polish or to combat the cigarette smoking evil among boys. Many people took an interest in the scheme when it was first started but of late it has been very much overdone.

The latest scheme to reach this city is that of combating the cigarette smoking evil among young men and many members of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of this city and State have been victimized. It is alleged to have been started by the "American Anti-Cigarette League," with headquarters in Philadelphia. Letters have been sent to members of the organization in this city and many of them have sent money and spent much time in circulating the letters among their friends, believing that they were doing a good work.

Their labor has been in vain. In a letter from the headquarters of the W. C. T. U. in Philadelphia, one of the officers state that the movement has not the sanction of the Union and is believed to be a fake. All women are warned against helping along the work.

C. W. M'CUTCHEN'S PURCHASE

DISTINGUISHED BOROUGH CITIZEN NOW HAS FINEST ESTATE IN THE VICINITY.

His Property Now Bounded by Four Avenues—Mr. Reynolds to Build.

Charles W. McCutchen's estate now covers an entire block in the most valuable section of Washington Park, he having acquired the property of H. P. Reynolds on Washington avenue. Some years ago this popular boroughite conveyed a tract to Mr. Reynolds and recently he has been anxious to again acquire possession of it. Lately he has made many improvements on his estate, including the erection of green houses, which are said to be the finest in New Jersey. The McCutchen mansion is probably the most beautiful in the twin communities of handsome residences. It is surrounded by Rockview, Sycamore, Linden and Washington avenues. Mr. Reynolds has purchased a large lot on Myrtle avenue, near Washington avenue, and it is his intention to erect a handsome dwelling.

CITY'S NEWSBOYS HAVE A BIG TIME

Little Merchants as Guests of the Rescue Mission Enjoy An Entertainment.

MANY LITTLE FELLOWS

PARTICULARLY AMUSED BY SLEIGHT-OF-HAND PERFORMANCE.

Speeches Caught Their Fancy, But a Feast Was the Captivating Feature—The Committee in Charge.

Good, solid fun in large quantities was dealt out to Plainfield's newsboys last night for several hours by the Rescue Mission in its chapel on Grove street. About thirty of the little men were there and they enjoyed hugely every minute of the entertainment provided them.

The paper peddlers listened with delight to the words of W. J. Wright, superintendent of missions, Washington, D. C., who delivered the welcoming address; to the sober and kindly advice extended them by John Goodwin, president of the mission; to the sage words and merry jests of Rev. Mr. Carpenter, of Washington, N. J.; and to a jovial speech by Joseph Oakley, superintendent of the Elizabeth mission. They clapped and cheered with high enthusiasm at the tenor solos of William Jeffery and joined in the chorus whenever they knew the words, and rejoiced also at the solos of Robert Brackheimer, of New York, accompanied by Mrs. John Manley. At the sleight-of-hand tricks of A. A. Lake, of Dunellen, they expressed unstinted admiration, though doing their utmost to expose his methods, and the recitations of Miss Oakley, of the Elizabeth mission, they appreciated equally well.

When a little chap from Elizabeth, Walter Ford, a newsboy like themselves and his little sister, who had been in America only six months, went on the stage and gave several clever recitations, they rose in their seats and fairly shouted their approval. But the grand climax came when the ice cream and cake were passed around. This was what they had been waiting for and to it they did ample justice. And when they had finished they filed out completely happy and started for home with a whoop and a "jolly" for everybody.

"Hully chee," said one of the little merchants, "but home ain't nothin' like dis."

"Youse betcher," said his companion, "dose missionary guys is all ter the good."

With which encomium, the leaders in the undertaking, John Goodwin, Henry DeMott, Mrs. John Manley and Mrs. J. N. Honeyman, may well rest content.

CITY NOT EFFECTED BY TROLLEY STRIKE

Public Service Corporation's Employes Here Do Not Follow Newark Men's Action.

A CONFERENCE HELD

OFFICERS AND EMPLOYES INTERVIEWED ON THE PRESENT SITUATION.

C. S. P. Has Raised Wages—Union to be Formed Here—The Conditions in Newark—The General Sentiment.

No trouble is anticipated in this city on account of the trolley men's strike in Newark and other cities where the Public Service Corporation controls the lines. It was stated this morning by an official of the road, in conversation with a reporter for The Daily Press, that the men here are satisfied with the wages and that they were disolined to going out on a strike. The trolley men, judging from the sentiment of several employes interviewed are not in favor of a strike.

A meeting was held in Burn's Hotel in North Plainfield last evening between representatives of the Amalgamated Association of Trolley Employes from New York and local employes and the situation in Newark was discussed. It is understood that nothing of importance was done. There are at present not more than thirty union trolley men in the employ of the local division and, it is said, that the meeting was called for the purpose of arranging to take steps towards the formation of an union.

The reasons given by an official for the men not going out on a strike are these. Before the Public Service Corporation took charge of the lines the local trolley men as individuals petitioned the old management for an increase in salary. No action was taken at the time on account of the change but when the new corporation took charge the demands were not only granted but a ten hour day was established. The men now receive from 19 to 22 cents an hour. The men who have been employed under two years receive 19 cents an hour; between 2 and 5 years, 20 cents; between 5 and 10, 21 cents and over 10 years 22 cents. The runs are termed "early runs," "swings" and "late straights." The demand of the strikers is for 22 cents an hour and no "swings."

At a conference between General Manager W. W. Wheatley and all the inspectors and superintendents, in Jersey City, Tuesday evening, Mr. Wheatley said that he believed a man who had been employed by the company for five years was far more valuable to the company than the one who had been employed for two days. He said a man working for 22 cents an hour was far more valuable to the company than the man who works for 19 cents.

One man who is a motorman on the main line, when asked if he would go out on a strike, said: "If I was not satisfied with the wages and hours of this company, I would not have applied for a job." This is believed to be the sentiment of the general trolley men.

In speaking of the reported settlement of the strike a union trolley man said this morning that it was his opinion that there had been some crooked work with some of the higher officers of the union.

COAL MINING STOPPED.

Operations in Anthracite Field Controlled by L. V. R. R. to Cease.

After a year's steady work at the coal mines, since the end of the big strike of 1902, the supply of coal is again equal to the demand at tidewater, and work at the Lehigh Valley mines, which includes the anthracite coal controlled by the Lehigh Valley Railroad, will be closed down Saturday, for a few days. The reason given for stopping work is the scarcity of cars. There are none available at the mines, all are at tidewater or at Western points waiting to be unloaded, and it will be toward the latter part of next week before this can be done. The coal company says there is no disposition to curtail the production, but the output can not be handled until the cars come back.

NO RACE SUICIDE IN NORTH PLAINFIELD

President Roosevelt's Theory Knocked Into a Cocked Hat in the Borough.

STORK HAS BEEN BUSY

SOME FACTS AND FIGURES OF TIMELY INTEREST.

Board of Health's Figures Show That Stork Has Been Busier Than Cupid or the Grim Reaper—North Plainfield Growing in Population.

Figures given out by Assessor Elston M. French show that North Plainfield is rapidly growing and increasing in property values proportionately, but far more interesting figures showing an increase in population come from the Board of Health. Secretary William E. Honeyman, in making his annual report to the State Board, has discovered a condition in the borough which has a bearing on the race suicide theory.

In fact, there have been more happy papas, with the smile on their faces that won't-come-off, during the past year than during any year in the history of North Plainfield. The stork has been busier by far during the year 1903 than Cupid or the Grim Reaper.

Never before has the North Plainfield Board of Health been able to report 100 births in twelve months. This year is the first that the one hundredth mark has been reached and now the stork sits calmly on a high branch and flaps its wings in keen delight. The 1903 stork holds the record.

Usually the births average from ten to twelve more than the number of deaths and marriages but this year there are over thirty more. The marriages this year in North Plainfield were forty and the deaths were forty-one. Each year the average of deaths in the borough are between seventy and eighty and the marriages between thirty and forty.

IN SOMERSET COUNTY COURT

TWENTY-SEVEN TRUE BILLS FOUND BY GRAND JURY.

John H. Graceley Was Granted a License—Bills Against North Plainfielders.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Sept. 25—In the Somerset County Courts yesterday, the jury in the case of Judson Westlecraft against Frederick V. Jacobus rendered a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $100 damages. The case of John Grogan against Alvah Gray was not taken up. Suit was to establish a right of way and the trial occupied the court until this morning. Charles J. McNabb, Esq., of Plainfield, is counsel for the plaintiff.

Frank Linke, of Smalleytown and John H. Graceley, of North Plainfield, were granted hotel licenses.

The Supreme and Circuit lists are very short, owing to the number of cases settled and others off.

Late yesterday afternoon the grand jury finished its labors, having found twenty-seven true bills out of fifty-seven cases. Three of the true bills are those in which North Plainfield are concerned. It is understood that Pelino DeBacco was indicted for the murder of Liberatio Palobisio at Gladstone last July.

OUR FRUIT IN DEMAND

Ruined Crops In Europe Favor America.

UNPRECEDENTED SALES IN ENGLAND

Almost the Entire Failure of Fruit Abroad Causes Record Prices to Be Paid For American Products.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—America is now reaping great benefit from the storms which made the past summer one of the worst on record in Great Britain and the continent. Thanks to the ruined home crops, California fruit is being imported in larger quantities than ever before. The sales last week in London marked a record with 27,000 boxes of American fruit, representing about 675,000 pounds weight. The fruit was sold at a two days' auction in Covent Garden market, the prices averaging 30 per cent above what has heretofore been obtained here. The sales were chiefly of California pears and plums, with a fair consignment of New York state Bartlett pears.

There is practically no English fruit obtainable, while France, which usually exports large quantities of pears to England, is sending none. The American section of Covent Garden market is now almost the sole source of supply, and there are no signs of the demand decreasing. American apples, which hitherto could not be profitably shipped hither till later in the year, now have a brisk trade. Forty-two thousand barrels of Canadian apples are expected in London at the end of this week, and record prices are assured.

A member of the most prominent English firm dealing in foreign fruit said:

"There has never been anything like it. Europe's ill wind has certainly brought good to America. We are spending five and six hours a day in the auction box disposing of double as much California fruit as we ever did before at prices ranging from 25 to 30 per cent higher. We have no difficulty in securing all we want from America, but we can scarcely order quickly enough. Heretofore California fruit has been more an adjunct to England's supply than a serious factor in the market. Now, owing to the failure of French fruit and the complete loss of the home crop, the American branch of the market is watched more eagerly than any other.

"How disastrous the present season has been to English growers may be judged from a letter in which a fruit farmer in one of the best counties of England says that on eleven acres, all devoted to green gages, the fruit on only three ripened. There is no wonder that shipments of American fruit are well received."

The following are the current quotations per box: California pears, $1.94 to $2.30; California plums, $2.43 to $2.91; Bartlett pears, $1.82 to $2.30; peaches, $2.43 to $2.67.

Assaulted the German Consul.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—At the navy department the fact is learned that the "aged civilian" whom Assistant Paymaster Rishworth Nicholson recently attacked at a public ball at Chefu, China, was the German consul at that place. Nicholson, who was said to be drunk at the time, was convicted by court martial and sentenced to a reduction of five numbers in grade. Rear Admiral Evans, commanding the Asiatic station, in his review of the findings severely arraigned the court for the inadequate sentence imposed. It appears that the German consul did not formally report the matter to his government, supposing Nicholson would be properly punished by the American court.

Mrs. Jefferson Davis Ill.

BUFFALO, Sept. 25.—Mrs. Jefferson Davis, wife of the president of the Southern Confederacy, is seriously ill at Castle Inn, in this city. Dr. Charles G. Stockton was summoned when Mrs. Davis' condition alarmed those in attendance upon her. He remained at Castle Inn throughout the afternoon. Late in the afternoon another physician was called in for a consultation. Mrs. Davis came to Castle Inn on Monday from Port Colborne, Ont., where she has been spending the summer. Quite a party of friends accompanied her.

Pension Disbursements Increase.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—The disbursements of the United States pension agency in this city for the last quarter show an increase of $30,000 over the corresponding period in 1902. This is attributed to the act of March 3, 1903, increasing at the rate of $10 a month the allowance of about 550 pensioners who lost a leg or arm and large first payments involved in a number of original cases allowed. The loss by death was 4½ per cent of the agency enrollment.

Soufriere Not Dead Yet.

KINGSTOWN, St. Vincent, B. W. I., Sept. 25.—The volcano Soufriere has remained moderately active during the past two months, steam rising continuously from the crater, but this week puffs of dark smoke have been emitted, the heaviest of which, accompanied by a fall of exceedingly hot ashes, occurred on Wednesday.

An Antiboycott Bill.

A BIG TROLLEY TIEUP

All Systems In Northern New Jersey Threatened.

STRIKE BEGINS ON NEWARK LINES

Both Sides In Determined Mood and Compromise Is Not Thought Probable—There Has Been Serious Friction For Some Time.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 25.—What threatens to be a general tieup of the trolley systems of all of northern New Jersey commenced in Newark last evening, when, just before 6 o'clock, the crews of the Newark division of the Public Service corporation, which controls all the lines, deserted their cars.

As each car reached the barns on the 6 o'clock run the men guided their cars into the shed and then walked away. As a result much inconvenience was caused to the public, thousands of whom, leaving the factories and stores, were left without means of conveyance to reach their homes.

The lines affected at the present time are the Clifton avenue crosstown and the Bloomfield avenue lines, both of Newark, employing about 200 men.

Conferences to consider the situation are planned, but a settlement is hardly expected, as both sides are in a determined mood and show no disposition to compromise.

The employees demand a recognition of their union, the abolition of time trips, 22 cents an hour and a reduction of the hours of work. They say that under the present system they are required to be on duty fourteen hours in order to finish their working day of ten hours.

The Public Service corporation is the successor of the North Jersey Railroad company and controls extensive privileges throughout the state outside of the traction franchises, which embrace the lines in Newark, Elizabeth, Hoboken and Paterson. In all about 2,000 men are employed.

It is reported that the men on the Paterson and Fort Lee division are opposed to the strike and have hitherto turned a deaf ear to the importunities of the delegates who are said to have been endeavoring to win them over for some time past.

There has been more or less friction between the employees and the officials of the company for some time, and the desertion of the Newark men is the culmination of a series of differences which have not been adjusted.

Dominica Will Settle.

SANTO DOMINGO, Santo Domingo, Sept. 25.—The Dominican foreign office has informed Mr. Powell that it will pay the claim of J. Sala & Co. within a few days, accepting the American minister's proposition for the adjustment of this claim. The Sala claim has been in dispute for some years. Sala was a Frenchman who loaned money and supplied munitions of war to the late President Heureaux of the Dominican republic amounting in the aggregate to about $215,000. The Dominican government at first recognized the claim, but afterward contested it. Sala died, leaving his claim to his wife, who is an American. Minister Powell was instructed to endeavor to effect a settlement.

Treasure Ship Found.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 25.—Rumors of the finding of a treasure ship off Miami are confirmed. Captain Jennings and three of the crew of the wrecking schooner Osceo have filed a libel against the cargo of a sunken ship in the United States court here. Captain Jennings has been searching for this vessel from time to time for many years. It is supposed to have gone ashore in 1835, loaded with ore from the Mexican mines. It was found in five feet of water near Miami. Its cargo, which has been only partly examined, has been found to consist of silver ore.

President Palma's Tour.

SAN LUIS, Cuba, Sept. 25.—President Palma arrived here last evening from Santiago. Before leaving the latter town fifty members of the Republican club called on him and apologized for any appearance of unfriendliness during the president's stay. The presidential party started in the rain, the majority driving in wagons, and arrived at Palma Soriano in the afternoon, from which point they rode here on horseback. Although no precautions were considered necessary, General Rodriguez sent thirty rural guards ahead, and ten others escorted the party.

His Accounts Not Wrong.

CHELSEA, Mass., Sept. 25.—E. F. Ricker, late local cashier of the Boston and Maine Railroad company and who left home three days ago in a fit of dejection because his accounts were somewhat tangled, has returned to explain what was at first supposed to be a shortage of $1,600. After he went away experts from the American Guarantee company, his bondsmen, discovered that the trouble was chiefly a matter of bookkeeping and that really the shortage, if any exists, is very small and that there is no indication of any discrepancy.

Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 25, 1903.

The Daily Press has a higher circulation rating than is accorded to any other paper in Plainfield.—Printers' Ink.

A California newspaper croaks over the fact that a woman out there derives a big income from raising frogs. Better be doing that than raising cain.

Prince Albert went a mile in 1.57 on the Empire track the other day. We have trolley cars which can go the same distance in 9.60 on a clear track.

Unitarian divine remarks that "a minister must be first of all a man, not an angel." This is getting down to sound talk. To do good work among his fellow creatures, a minister should be broad in his views and should make the rest of human kind feel that he does not hold himself superior. Man is a fallible being and has to be reckoned with as such.

Here's a spasm from the Hunterdon County Democrat:

"The Suburbanite, the magazine published by the N. J. C. R. R. to boom the residential towns along its line, seems to find very little that is attractive this side of Plainfield."

All of which proves that the editor of The Suburbanite is a wide-awake man. Will our Hunterdon County brother leave his editorial work in charge of the printer's devil, hitch up the gray mare and come and see the sights? We've the finest city in the land. No mistake about it.

We are unable to see any reason for opposition to the plank in the Republican platform of Union County which advocates the establishment of the office of register of deeds. The matter of recording titles to property, it would seem, should constitute a department separate from that of the county clerk. It has been found elsewhere that the current expenses of such an office are defrayed by the fees received during the course of business. Would it not be well for the Democrats to join hands with the Republicans in advocating such a department?

Plans for the repairing of the Fillmore Baptist Church were perfected at a recent meeting of the pastor, Rev. E. J. Crudup, and congregation. Work will begin at an early date. The church will have a grand rally next Sunday, at which Rev. D. Hall, of Keyport, will preach in the morning; Rev. Mr. Taylor, of Shiloh, in the afternoon and Rev. A. Smallwood, of Long Branch, in the evening.

An Ideal Location
Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

FOR INFORMATION concerning lots in these beautiful Park Cemeteries, and FREE transportation to prospective lot buyers, apply at once to any LEADING UNDERTAKER or offices of the Associations:

THEY DISAGREED

Note the Reason Why

SOPHRONISBA and Athanasia were devoted friends. Sophronisba was a buyer for a department store and got $30 a week. Athanasia was a stenographer and managing clerk in an office and received $25 a week. They ought to have been happy, but they were not—not quite, that is. Nobody ever is.

The young women had heard and read of the æsthetic homes business women often made together and lived in, as it were, in paradise. They determined to take a flat. They took it. They furnished it artistically. It had china bric-a-brac from the ten cent store, a chafing dish of a kind they had read about in a woman's page edited by a man and little gilt chairs that nobody but a young woman could sit in. There was indeed one chair large enough for a man, and in that it was intended Athanasia's sweetheart should deposit his noble form—if he came.

Sophronisba and Athanasia looked upon their possessions and were happy—over Sunday. Monday evening they reached home, each after her day's work, weary and longing for sympathy and pity, Sophronisba from Athanisia, Athanasia from Sophronisba. It was Sophronisba who opened the ball.

"Oh-ah-ah-ah!" she groaned. "I wish I was dead, I do! There's that insulting old Yardstick up and told me today the last lot of neckties I got for the store were off color and I must look out what I was about. He'll be the death of me yet, that man will. He's crasy, and he sets me wild. I've had a headache all day, and I'm not strong anyhow, and I'm all tired out and stiff from working so hard fixing up the flat. There's that snippy Nellie Blay, the notion salesgirl, nobody but a cash-girl three years ago, and now she's as impudent as a lord and sets herself up over me just because old Yardstick said she was pretty. I won't stand it!"

Athanasia had a sorrow that she did not mention. The possible sweetheart had not called the evening before, and she had looked for him. It tinged all her day with sadness, and she was feeling a little down in her mind on general principles because something had gone wrong with the business. She opened up so soon as Sophronisba paused for breath:

"It's enough to kill anybody to be a business woman, and I'm nearly dead. I've got a pain at the base of my brain. I always have it when I'm overworked, and the doctor told me I ought to be so careful and never go among people who would hurt my feelings, for it would fly to the base of my brain. Doctor says I'm too sensitive anyhow to work for my living and never ought to do it. I've got such a cold I can hardly see, and every breath I draw gives me such a pain in my lungs. Oh, dear!"

And Athanasia collapsed. Sophronisba suddenly straightened up and looked miffed. This was not what she wanted. The two kept house a month. Every night the story told by each was the same, with slight variations. Each came home slumpy and whining to the other. Each had some new grievance, a pain in another place. Each wanted the other to condole with her, tell her she was an angel and a martyr and a victim of deserved love and appreciation and diamonds. Instead of that, each spilled her own sorrows over on the other, and that was all the sympathy either got. At last Sophronisba exclaimed:

THEY DO NOT NOD AS THEY PASS BY.

"Athanasia Stimmerson, you are enough to kill a horse with your whining and complaining and never a word of sympathy for anybody's troubles but your own. You've not got half as much to bear as I have. You're enough to make a man get a divorce from his wife."

"And I'd like to know what you are, with your eternal groaning and down in the mouth business! I come home at night here tired to death and disheartened, expecting to find somebody to tell my troubles to, and you don't do anything but turn around and slop all over me with your own selfish woes. They're all imaginary anyhow. You're enough to drive a saint to strong drink."

The idyllic flat was dismantled. The two friends now do not even nod as they pass by. But neither has yet found a friend who will let her pour out all her troubles without in return mentioning some of her own.

KATE SHARP.

Blanche O'Halloran
A CUBAN REMEMBRANCE

By R. M. WOOLLEY.

It was with a pronounced feeling of fear and great anticipation that he opened the remaining letter, the New York letter—Dorothy's letter.

It was not bulky and the dejected officer concluded without much reflection that it was a curt acknowledgment of his desire to discontinue their relations as prospective man and wife.

The captain's anger arose and he gritted his white teeth fitfully as he tore open the second envelope. The page was unfolded slowly lest it be torn. After all it was from Dorothy and was precious—anything from Dorothy, good or bad, was precious to him.

"My Dear Stan," it started and the reader was a trifle cheerful, and said that wasn't half bad. "I have no time to tell you how foolish you have been all along even had I the inclination to do so.

"I have been busy shopping all week; gowns, hats, boots, gloves and other lingerie, until my mind knows nothing else save shops and the dull, giggling clerks to be found there.

"I presume you don't know that Miss Dorothy Seaton is to be married soon so I will tell you all about it as briefly as possible. Rather sudden did I hear you say? Well, yes. A girl, though, ought to have all the available time possible, to tell about such a thing as her wedding, but I just can't go into detail. The McClellan sails at once and I must hasten to get this in the mail.

"Yes, Dorothy's 'done gone done it,' as the gallery boys say, and she's going to be married real soon so you see how utterly true your jealous suspicions and misgivings were? The great big boy she is going to marry is such a baby that he has tantalized her to death of late until there is no pleasure in balls or dinners, receptions or theater parties any more, and Dodo's decided to give up the ghost, settle down to business and make her persecutor happy. I feel if she doesn't he'll lose his mind.

"Yes, mamma and I talked it over when we heard, while sojourning in Washington, that you were to get the Berlin detail after your tour over there. The congressman told us you would likely go direct to your new post from Manila. It was then that I decided pretty quick to come on the first transport following the McClellan. Won't that be brave and really romantic, Stan? A little girlie traveling away over there and only to marry a captain in the army! But then we will have established a precedent for others who may be in the same boat, eh?

"Good bye, dearie, it's almost one now. Don't let a googoo man get you before I come; cheer up, dear boy, cherries are ripe and I'm yours.

"DOROTHY."

"P. S.—Moral: Mamma says where there's so much petty jealousy there must be real love. I think so too. Mizpah. "DODE."

Murray's eyes dilated with a new triumph, his lips opened in a broad smile of satisfaction, then he slapped his knee and whistled in surprise.

How changeful was fate.

The very letter in which he expected good news brought disappointment, while the one which was to terminate forever his intercourse with the one person he truly loved brought tidings of a life of unbroken bliss and contentment.

The captain arose from his chair and folded the letter from Cuba, placed it carefully away in his desk, although he felt assured that there was no liklihood of a breach of promise suit resulting therefrom. He had resolved, on the contrary, to show this letter to Dorothy when she arrived with an explanation as to how it happened to be written. How Dorothy would chide him in her fascinating way. She might even want to send notices of their marriage to his former sweetheart just as a measure of retribution for the saucy, though entirely just, rebukes the senorita had written in response to the captain's overtures.

Capt. Murray walked briskly and with light step to his quarters on the hill near by. It was growing dusk and the glaring tropical sun sinking in the west brought the tall, gaunt looking palms into prominent relief against the horizon. The carabao in a neighboring paddie fed lazily as the big black crows strutted up and down the backs of the animals cawing sonorously in their greed for the food obtainable there. Natives were hurrying by on their fleet-footed ponies laden with wealthy catches of fish to be dispensed in the town market, and a quartette of soldiers in the barracks hard by were singing a love ditty in rhapsodic melody.

All nature never seemed so grand; everything appeared in harmony with the captain's feelings. Even the tiny chameleons scampered about seemingly more lively than usual in honor of the commandante's fortune. There was nothing in truth to mar the enchantment of the occasion save the alternate chanting of a padre and his congregation as they went through mass in the church That sounded weird and unwelcome and the captain hurried on.

The little bamboo cottage on the hill, surrounded with graceful palms and sweet-scented shrubbery, never seemed more cosy and cheerful as it did that evening when the lone tenant entered. There was already a hint of feminine presence, yet Dorothy had scarcely sailed from New York.

The captain sat down and scribbled a hurried note to the chaplain at regimental headquarters, some 50 miles down the coast, saying his services would be needed at Bacour in the near future; he sent word to the First sargeant that there would be no formations the next day and that the men should rest—then he seated himself in a comfortable wicker and picked merry tunes from his hitherto neglected banjo. He sat late into the night, now and then breaking out in joyful song, and thinking how fortunate he had been all his life long. The captain was really grateful for all these blessings. Experience had taught him that it is the best policy to be grateful for what one may get.

Now and then the striker brings in a fresh whisky sour and as the jubilant officer rolls a last cigarette before retiring, a sentry far off in a remote corner of the garrison is crying in tones barely audible in the cottage on the hill:

"Twelve — o'clock — and—all — is —well."

"Yes, 12 o'clock and all is well, my faithful man," repeated the captain, opening the face of his diamond-studded Waltham. "Yes, Dorothy is coming and I am to go to Berlin when the time comes," he added soberly.

THE END.

Major Delmar's Effort Fails.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The big event at the Empire City track was the effort of Major Delmar to beat his own record of 2:00¼. Prior to his trial it was announced that he had been bought for $40,000 by E. E. Smathers, the owner of Lord Derby, McChesney and other fast horses. In his effort he went to the quarter pole in 0:30¾, to the half in 0:59¾ and to the three-quarters in 1:29¾. There he broke and came home in 2:05. The regular programme was a strong one. In the 2:15 trot Direct View sold for $25 and the field at the same price. Annie Little won both heats easily. For the 2:15 pace Daphne Direct was the choice, and again the talent was wrong, as Little Fred beat the favorite out in straight heats. In the 2:30 trot Leonta was the choice, but in a close race was defeated by Leonora after the first heat.

Grand Circuit Races.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 25.—The contest between The Questor and Lorrie in the 2:15 trot was the feature at the grand circuit meeting. The time was not startling, but the contenders showed that they were able to keep going at about the same speed all day. The Questor was the opening favorite at $80 to $100. He won the first heat from Midnight in a stretch drive, but lost the second and third. Desperate whipping finishes marked the fourth and fifth heats, both of which went to The Questor by half a length. The unfinished 2:08 pace was won by Nervolo, a 2 to 1 choice. Star Hal was a prohibitive favorite for the 2:13 pace and distanced three of the field in the first heat.

Surprises at Detroit.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 25.—The form went awry at Highland park, long shots having an impressive inning. The worst loss of the day for the talent was when Fairbury, at 15 to 1, took the feature event, a mile and a sixteenth handicap for two-year-olds and upward. Firing Line, the favorite, was not in the money. Ben Howard, well backed at 3 to 1, made the running from the start to the top of the home stretch, where Fairbury overhauled him and won out by a nose. The selling race war continues. After Dolly Hayman, which was entered to be sold for $300, won the first race, she was run up to $1,200 by J. J. McCafferty and bid in by her owner, Wade McLemore.

Racing at Gravesend.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Rostand, at 8 to 1 in the betting, won the Oceanview handicap at Gravesend. River Pirate, paying 8 to 1 for the place, was second, a neck away. The Picket, carrying 126 pounds and favorite in the betting, stumbled at the start and had no chance. Although the American Derby winner was at one time fifteen lengths out of it, he closed with a great burst of speed in the stretch, finishing well up. Two favorites won.

Wilson Rode Four Winners.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—The riding of Jockey L. Wilson was the feature of very ordinary racing at Hawthorne. Wilson rode four winners and in the fourth race finished second on Bard of Avon. The feature race, a mile and a furlong, handicap, was won by By Ways in a neck finish with Hargis. Dutch Carter was third. Weather clear and cool.

Soldiers Buried at Arlington.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Thirty-one of the Philippine soldiers whose bodies were brought to the United States on the transport Kilpatrick have been buried at the National cemetery at Arlington with full military honors. The cavalry band of Fort Myer and a platoon of the Second cavalry assisted in the obsequies.

SPORTING NEWS.

POP FLIES.

Tierney, who has been with the Equitable Life team this season, attended the Alis-Westfield game, last Saturday.

Already rumors are afloat for tomorrow's game between Alis and St. Mary. It is now said that a Philadelphia league battery will occupy the points for the Saints.

Manager Johnston, of the Scotch Plains team, has arranged to play a game with the Aeolian team, tomorrow. This should be a fine contest as the teams are evenly matched.

The Aeolian A. A. will cross bats with the fast Scotch Plains team on Aeolian Oval tomorrow afternoon. Battery—Scotch Plains, Davis and Brogan; Aeolian A. A., Maurer and Kenny. Game called at 3:30 sharp.

Alis will line-up against St. Mary's, tomorrow, the same as in the Westfield game, with two exceptions. Gastmeyer will cover third base and Brown, of Cornell, will play short. Quinby will cover second as usual. Bligh will umpire the game, which will be called promptly at 3:30.

FOOTBALL.

The I. C. T. Club will not be represented by a football team this fall. This was decided at a recent meeting. The old players of the club and several new ones will organize to form the Carlton A. C. and will play their first game with the Somerville A. C., at Somerville, Saturday, Oct. 3. The management has secured the services of a well-known Seton Hall College player, Harold Cox, who will play end for the Carlton A. C. Saturdays and for Seton Hall the rest of the week. The team will be coached by "Dick" Gendal, of Cranford, an old college player. The first practice was held last night.

TENNIS.

The championship round in the club championship tournament of the Hillside Golf and Tennis Club will be played Saturday, Oct. 3, instead of tomorrow as originally scheduled. H. D. Bulkley and Albert D. Beers are left to contend for the final honors.

The semi-final and final matches in the High School tennis tournament will be played this afternoon on the Albert street court. Four men are still undefeated as a result of yesterday's matches: J. Douglass beat S. Freeman, 6-3, 6-0; H. Craig beat F. Anderson, 6-1, 6-0; M. Long beat H. Thompson, 8-6, 6-3; C. Briggs beat W. Douglass, 6-2, 6-1. Craig will meet Long and Douglass will play Briggs.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

The members of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A., in charge of Kenneth Robbie, will go for a tramp over the mountain, tomorrow afternoon, and will hold an apple-roast afterwards.

The Genuine vs. Counterfeits.

The genuine is always better than a counterfeit, but the truth of this statement is never more forcibly realized or more thoroughly appreciated than when you compare the genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve with the many counterfeits and worthless substitutes that are on the market. W. S. Ledbetter, of Shreveport, La., says: "After using numerous other remedies without benefit, one box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me." For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles no remedy is equal to DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Sold by L. W. Randolph.

William Ross, of the Pond Machine Tool Company's plant, is nursing a crushed thumb. Ross was straightening a long bar, the hammer glanced off and hit his thumb a hard blow.

Charles Beresford severely crushed two of his fingers yesterday in the foundry of the Pond Machine Tool Company's plant. The digets were caught between two iron flasks which he was locking together.

Earnest Doerflinger owes his life to his fellow workingmen in the foundry of the Pond Machine Tool Company's works. Doerflinger, with three other moulders, was working under the elevator which is used for hoisting pig iron up to the stack. The elevator was about fifteen feet from the floor laden with iron, when something gave away and the iron crashed down. Had not a fellow workman shouted a cry of warning, Doerflinger would have probably been seriously injured. The young man escaped with several bruises about the neck.

E. H. WARING WEDS WESTFIELD MAIDEN

Miss Laura Peckham the Bride of Former Resident of North Plainfield.

PRETTY NUPTIAL EVENT

MARRIAGE TAKES PLACE IN CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH, WESTFIELD.

Orville T. Waring, Best Man—James F. Middledith An Usher—The Couple to Reside in East Orange.

Miss Laura Peckham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Peckham, of Hillside avenue, Westfield, and Edward Hileman Waring, son of Edward J. Waring, formerly of Willow avenue, North Plainfield, were married this afternoon at 12:30 in the Congregational Church, Westfield. Rev. Dr. J. R. Danforth, pastor of the church, officiated in the presence of a large and fashionable throng of guests from this vicinity and distant points.

The bride wore a gown of white silk, trimmed with lace and ribbons and she carried white roses. She also wore a veil. Attending the bride, as maid-of-honor, was her sister, Miss Ruth Peckham, who was gowned in green Liberty silk. She wore a black hat and carried carnations. The bridesmaids were Miss Antoinette Pell, of Brooklyn; Miss Amy Steiner, of Baltimore, and Miss Dora Waring, of Perth Amboy, sister of the groom. Their gowns were of white silk mull, trimmed with chantilly lace. They also wore black hats and carried carnations.

The best man was Orville T. Waring, brother of the groom, while the ushers were Dr. Charles Webster, Christopher M. Lowther, of New York; John Ralph VanDuyne, of Newark and James F. Middledith, of Plainfield.

A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, where a large number of guests gathered to extend their best wishes to the newly-wedded couple. After an extended bridal tour, Mr. and Mrs. Waring will take up their residence in East Orange. Mr. Waring is connected with the Crocker-Wheeler Electric Company, of Newark, and both he and his wife have been prominent in society.

AUTO RUNS DOWN A GIRL

QUEENIE FORCE, WHILE RIDING A WHEEL, INJURED IN A COLLISION.

Physicians Summoned — Injuries Not Serious—Mr. Ball Owner of Auto.

Queenie Force, fifteen years old, daughter of Thomas Force, of 309 Arlington avenue, was struck by a big auto car, while riding her bicycle, on the corner of Madison avenue and West Second street last night and was thrown violently, suffering severe contusions and abrasions of the head and face and bad bruises about the chest and limbs. Her injuries are painful, but not necessarily serious. Dr. Buchanan, who attended her, said last night that he thought she would be entirely recovered within two weeks.

The accident happened at about 6:30 o'clock last night. The auto car, driven by its owner, F. O. Ball, of 44 Washington avenue, approached the West Second street corner of Madison avenue at a moderate speed, the driver intending to continue up the avenue to Front street without turning the corner. Miss Force going, in the opposite direction, attempted to dodge a wagon and rode directly into the path of the oncoming automobile. In the resulting collision she was thrown to one side out of reach of the wheels, and by this lucky chance probably escaped death. Drs. Buchanan and Pittis were summoned, and the girl was taken to her home.

AMENDMENT FOR NEW COURT WAS PASSED

So It Is Believed, Although Other Amendments Were Defeated at Election.

BOARDS SOON TO MEET

ATTORNEY-GENERAL M'CARTER CORRECTS HIMSELF.

Eight Instead of Nine Amendments He Says—New Jersey State Bar Association's Session—Recanvas of Ballots.

Attorney-General McCarter today advised the Secretary of State's office that there were eight constitutional amendments submitted to the people last Tuesday instead of nine, as announced in his verbal opinion yesterday. As a result of this the Secretary of State's office is sending out revised instructions to the county boards of election respecting the manner of making returns. The county boards will meet on Tuesday.

A committee of the New Jersey State Bar Association held an informal conference in the office of Edward M. Colie, in Newark, Thursday, to consider the complications. The conferees thought it might be necessary to have the ballots cast at Tuesday's election again canvassed and the result stated, not according to the number of articles, but acording to the number of amendments.

It is declared by many people at Newark that if the court is rightly made the Court of Appeals will be created. This was the first amendment to Article VI. Most of those ballots counted as against all of Article VI had the word "against" written opposite the amendment relative to the vice-chancellors. There was strong opposition to this clause, while comparatively few opposed the erection of a new Court of Errors and Appeals.

RED MEN'S ANNIVERSARY

CELEBRATION TO BE HELD BY WETUMPKAH TRIBE, NO. 229.

Big Performance in Reform Hall in October—Those to Take Part in Affair.

The anniversary celebration of Wetumpkah Tribe, No. 229, I. O. R. M., next month will be on a large scale. The entertainment will take the form of a two-and-a-half hours' performance on the stage at Reform Hall, and it is guaranteed to equal any "show" ever put on the boards at Keith's. There will be several vaudeville specialties, one or two comic sketches and a comedy. The services of three professional performers will be engaged and the rest of the talent will be local — members of Wetumpkah Tribe and their wives.

At the head of the entertainment committee is A. E. Willard, formerly a show manager, and well qualified to carry the undertaking through to success. His wife, at one time a well-known danseuse, has consented to take a leading part in the performance.

It is promised that the scenic part of the entertainment will be most elaborate, as Mr. Willard has in his possession a large and varied amount of scenic paraphernalia which can be called into service.

The exact date of the celebration is not yet fixed, but it will be either the 28th or 29th of October, on whichever day the use of Reform Hall can be obtained. Admission to the entertainment will be by invitation only. It is planned to make provisions for more than one thousand guests.

In conversation with a Daily Press representative yesterday, Mr. Willard said that if the entertainment of Wetumpkah Tribe proved successful he would probably arrange for other vaudeville performances during the winter on an even larger scale. It is possible that Iona Council, Degree of Pocohontas, will be the first to follow their red brethren by giving an entertainment of this description.

NEW METHOD IN ROAD WORK ILLUSTRATED

A Successful Demonstration Made With Tar Preparation on Macadam Roads.

IMPROVEMENT CLAIMED

ROAD BUILDERS PRESENT WHEN EXPERIMENT IS MADE.

No Dust and No Mud Features of Tar Prepared Highway—Tried on Westfield Street—To be Tested Here—What Experts Say.

As an experiment and to demonstrate the value of the treatment of macadam roads with a preparation of tar, an application of this material was made on one thousand feet of roadway in Westfield yesterday afternoon, which was witnessed by well-known experts in road building in New York and New Jersey. It is claimed by the company which tried the experiment, and by the engineers who saw it, that the ideal macadam roadway has been secured. It is said that a road, treated with tar will be free from dust in dry weather, mud in wet weather and frost in winter. The tests made yesterday demonstrate that the scheme theoretically is perfect and the question as to whether it will bear the test of time remains to be answered. The town of Westfield intends to make a thorough test of the road so treated, and if it proves to be what the company claims the streets and roads leading into that place will probably be treated in that manner.

The ideal country road is one which, in dry weather, is free from dust and in wet weather free from mud. The nearest approach to such a road has so far been the macadamized road, carefully sprinkled. Now they treat the roads with a preparation of tar. It is an improvement over the method used in California, that of pouring crude petroleum on the surface of the roads, to secure dustless highways, because the composition acts as a binder as well as a means of keeping the dust down. It is also an improvement over the schemes used in France and Germany where pitch is mixed with sand and gravel to make a dustless and even roadbed. In California the operation has to be repeated several times a year and in France and Germany the pitch becomes brittle and loses, to some extent, its adhesive properties. As prepared by the Barret Company, the tar acts as a binder, keeping out the water and moisture from the macadam, keeping the fine earth in perfect bond and makes a smooth surface with just the required resiliency to it to prevent injury to horse's hoofs.

This road on which the experiment was made had been laid but two months. The top dressing was carefully brushed away, leaving exposed the bond or body. On this the preparation of tar was sprinkled and allowed to sink in for about half an inch. The top dressing was then put back on the layer of tar and on top of the gravel the finer sweepings, including the dust, was sprinkled. This was rolled down with a heavy roller and allowed to "set." One thousand feet were thus treated. When the operation was completed there was no evidence of the presence of the tar from the top of the road, although the top dressing could not be scraped by the foot as loose dirt.

Each particle of gravel was held fast in position thus preventing the water from beating through to the telford beneath and tearing ruts and crevices in the roadway. When a steel tired wagon passes over the stones each little particle of dust is instantly caught up by the tar although none of the tar clings to the wheels or to the horse's hoofs. It will not injure rubber tires as the tires rest upon the top dressing and not upon the layer of tar beneath.

To test the claim that no dust is raised on the road thus treated a large automobile, driven at full speed along the finished stretch, failed to raise any dust whatever, although when it arrived at a point where the roadway was in its natural state, a blinding cloud of dust arose and shut the automobile from view. This was considered a thorough test for the new process, inasmuch as the preparation had not been firmly rolled.

It is claimed by the company that the cost of treating a road which has already been laid is about $450 a mile. When once it is laid it will keep the dust down, prevent mud on he road on the wettest day and will keep the frost out of the ground in winter [for seven year, depending on how the road is treated. The road will remain water proof for that length of time after one application.

Prominent road engineers were present as well as members of the Union County Board of Freeholders. Some of those present were Herman W. Merkel, superintendent of the New York Zoological Park in the Bronx, and George M. Beerbower, the engineer of the Park; J. F. Hubbard, director of the Union County Board of Freeholders, and other members of that board, Benjamin King, chairman of the roads committee; S. R. Ryno, clerk; John Farrell, E. K. Adams, Henry Krouse, C. A. Smith, W. W. Connolly, Arthur N. Pearson, chairman of the road, sewer and water committee of the Westfield Common Council, engineer of the township, Harry C. VanEmburgh, of this city and Street Commissioner Andrew J. Gavett, of this city. All seemed well impressed with the theory of the new scheme but desired to see the roadway after it has undergone a test of time before voicing an opinion.

Mr. Merkel, however, declared: "I believe the system to be a good one and can see no reason why it should not do what the company claims. I think it should be thoroughly rolled into the roadbed after the layer of fine gravel has been put on, and then allowed to thoroughly soak into the ground. It would make the road water proof and where you have a water proof road you have a road free from dust and mud. He said that he would have expermients made on some of the driveways in the Bronx Park and, if it proves to do what is claimed for it, we will have all the roads in the Park treated in that manner."

Mr. Beerbower, the engineer, said: "I doubt very much if it will do as well on a road which has already been built. If it is put on the gravel while being laid in place in a new roadbed it would not only make the road dust and waterproof but it would make it almost permanent. The plan is a good one and it is an improvement over the California petroleum and the European pitch systems."

Street Commissioner Andrew J. Gavett said, when asked his opinion of the new scheme: "The plan is a good one and I believe it will do what is claimed for it. An experiment will be made on Watchung avenue, in Plainfield, in fact we have been thinking of making these experiments for some time. We have the tar and a test will be made shortly in Plainfield so that it can be watched and the effects of time upon it carefully noted."

"Should it prove satisfactory, would you advise having the streets of Plainfield treated in this manner?" he was asked.

"If it will do what it is claimed—that is keep away the dust, the adoption of the treatment will be urged in the Common Council."

Mr. Pearson, of the Westfield Council, said that he had been making a special study of good roads and when M. H. Phillips, a resident of Westfield, came to him and told him of the new process which had been tried successfully in a short street in Brooklyn, he decided to have the company make a test of it. It will be left in position for a year, and then if the result is what is anticipated, it will be adopted in the town.

MISS BERRY ENGAGED.

Announcement of Her Coming Marriage to W. R. Faber Made at Luncheon.

Miss Ruth A. Berry, of Grove street, North Plainfield, entertained the Luncheon Club and a few other friends at luncheon today, during the course of which announcement of the engagement of Miss Berry to W. R. Faber, of Rockview avenue, was made.

The table decorations were in pink and white, the designs being in hearts and cupids. These were present: Misses Valiant, Marianne McCutchen, Sophie Barlow, Nell Valiant, Elsie Brokaw, Belle Milne, Helen Phillips, Sadie Howell and Daisy Eisberg.

Sale Not Negotiated.

A sale of H. P. Reynolds' property in Washington avenue to Charles W. McCutchen has not been negotiated. Mr. Reynolds says: "A neighborly understanding has long existed that in case a sale should be contemplated Mr. McCutchen should have the call and having bought the property on Myrtle avenue the deal rather prematurely announced may be negotiated soon or possibly may be pending at this time."

—Fruits and vegetables should be fresh to be good. Neuman Brothers, Watchung avenue and East Fifth street, receive a fresh shipment each morning, thus insuring to their customers the best fruits and vegetables at the lowest prices.

Local Postoffice to Examine Candidates for Carriers Next Tuesday.

PLAINFIELD TO RAHWAY

SUCCESSFUL CANDIDATE FOR POSITION TO FURNISH HORSE AND WAGON.

Salary of $600 Attached—Oak Tree, Dog Corners and Adjoining Territory Included in Service—In Operation Within a Month.

The first steps towards a rural free delivery mail service in this vicinity will be taken next Tuesday, when an examination will be held at the local postoffice for the purpose of securing a man who will take the route to be decided upon within a short time. This route will include a certain territory in Plainfield and a point about half way between this city and Rahway, and will cover Oak Tree, Dog Corners and adjoining territory. A carrier attached to the Rahway office will cover the other half of the territory, so that there will be rural service between Plainfield across country to Rahway.

The successful candidate for the position will have to furnish a horse and wagon. The salary attached is about $600. It will make a good opening for the right kind of a man and Postmaster Bird is anxious that there shall be a number of applicants. The special agent will be in Plainfield on Tuesday and in the afternoon at 3 o'clock the examination will be held. It is quite likely that the successful applicant will receive the appointment within a month's time, as the postal department has decided to establish this route.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Sept. 26—Sheriff Coriell, of Union County, said today that he had not heard anything from the government relative to the removal from the Crescent shipyard here of the cruiser Chattanooga and the torpedo boats O'Brien and Nicholson to the Brooklyn Navy Yard. The Sheriff has his deputies still on the three war vessels, guarding them, and says the boats will not be allowed to leave the shipyard until the claims against them, amounting to more than $30,000, are paid, or the government gives him an indemnity bond to protect him against the creditors of the United States Shipbuilding Company.

MAYOR A FIRE FIGHTER

MR. SMALLEY CLIMBS ROOF AND EXTINGUISHES BLAZE.

Fire at George F. White's in Willow Avenue—Loss Trifling—False Rumors.

Mayor Newton B. Smalley, of North Plainfield, proved himself to an efficient fire fighter at a fire at the home of George F. White at 41 Willow avenue, yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

A spark falling from a chimney set fire to the wooden shingles on the house and in an instant the structure was ablaze. A pedestrian saw the smoke curling up from the roof and on examining closer saw flames. He rushed to Mayor Smalley's house near by and told him of the fire. A telephone message was sent in to the Warren Engine Company but before the firemen arrived, Mayor Smalley had climbed to the roof with an extinguisher, put out the fire before $35 worth of damage had been done. Considerable excitement was caused in this city on account of the report which spread about that George White's house had been burned to the ground and the house adjoining was afire.

CENTRAL'S HEAVIEST TRAIN.

Trial Run to Ascertain Advisability of Using "Hog Back" Engines.

The longest train which has ever passed through this city was one of sixty-six forty ton cars on the Central Railroad of New Jersey yesterday afternoon. It was a test train and weighed 4,000 tons.

The Jersey Central Railroad ran the train as an experiment to test the feasibility of running heavy trains with a regular large "hog back" engine in front and a huge passenger locomotive in the rear as a pusher. The train made good time to Jersey City and it is believed the test was a successful one.

AMUSEMENTS.

Andrew Mack is in his third week in "Arrah-na-Pogue" at the Fourteenth Street Theatre. As Shaun the Post he has made a sensation, and it is no exaggeration to say that it has been hard to get standing room in the Fourteenth Street Theatre unless one applied hours before the curtain rose. The run will last six more weeks, instead of two more, as was at first intended.

No success in the city now is greater than that of Charles Warner, who, in "Drink," is filling the Academy of Music every night. Though some distance from the glitter of Broadway and the high-priced theatres, the large Academy now has what is admitted to be about as good a production in its way as anything in New York. Mr. Warner, of course, is the big attraction about the melodrama, since it has been here many times before without him and has not made neighboring barrooms close for lack of business.

Letters from Women

Cured by the use of Kodol are received daily. Their troubles nearly all begin with indigestion or other stomach disorder.

If the food you eat fails to give strength to your body, it is because the juices secreted by the stomach and digestive organs are inadequate to transform the nutrient properties of the food into blood. That is indigestion. The system is deprived of the amount of nourishment required to keep up the strength, and the result is that one or more of the delicate organs gradually grows weak, and then weaker, until finally it is diseased. Here a great mistake is made. That of treating the diseased organ. The best doctors in the land make this very mistake. Why should they? It is so easy to see that the trouble is not there.

Kodol Cures

This famous remedy puts the stomach and digestive organs in a healthy condition so that rich, red blood is sent coursing through the veins and arteries of every muscle, tissue and fiber throughout every organ of the entire body, and by Nature's law of health, full strength and vigor is soon restored to each.

Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders.

I have taken Kodol for nearly two months after each meal and it is the only remedy that gave relief from the terrible pains I endured. After a time I would take it but once a day, and now, while I keep a bottle handy, I seldom need it, as it has cured me. MRS. J. W. COOLBAUGH, Milo Center, N. Y.

Grand Circuit Races.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 26.—Favorites swept the card at the get away day of the grand circuit meeting, but Tom Keene was the only horse to win without a desperate struggle. The second race, won by Dan T., developed into the fastest trotting event of the year. Dan T. was a 7 to 5 favorite and went easily in the first heat, which was won by Rythmic in 2:06¾, record breaking time for the horse and the year. Johnny Wiseman, the even money choice for the 2:10 pace, found Foxy Curd the contender. Both horses took it easy in the first heat. In the next mile both were pushed hard, and the Wiseman horse cut his record all to pieces to win. He had to step the last two heats even faster. Walnut Hall was a 5 to 4 favorite in the 2:09 trot. He did not get down to smooth going until the third heat, and then the others were too tired to withstand his rushes at the finish.

Hermis Made a Fine Race.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—The feature of the racing at Gravesend was the brilliant performance of Hermis. The son of Hermence picked up 134 pounds and, giving away weight to the other starters, won with ease by three lengths. He was an odds on favorite and ran the mile and a sixteenth in 1:46 1-5. Dick Turpin won the Algeria stakes, with Flammula second.

Favorites Won Four Races.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 26.—Close finishes characterized the racing at Highland park, and favorites won four of the six races. Flora Bright won the feature event at a mile and a sixteenth by a head from Lady of the West. U. Z. McArman bid up Sir Walter after the latter won the last race to $1,105 and took him to his barn. Weather fine, track fast.

Hawthorne Results.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Don Domo, favorite in the betting at 3 to 5, won the feature race at Hawthorne by a neck from Orfeo. Gallant was third, three lengths away. The distance was six furlongs. Don Domo set such a fast pace to the stretch that Orfeo, tired out with chasing him, could not quite get up. Weather clear, track good.

High Jumper Broke Record.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 26.—At the Bryn Mawr horse show Heatherbloom, the champion high jumper, broke the world's record of 7 feet 8 inches, which he held, by topping the bar at 7 feet 9¼ inches.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Sept. 26.—The Bankers' Association of Maryland and the District of Columbia, which is holding its annual convention aboard a steamer on the Potomac and Chesapeake bay, visited the shipyard and other points of interest here and later went to Norfolk. Among the special guests on the steamer were Secretary of the Treasury Shaw and daughter, Comptroller of the Currency William H. Ridgely and Ellis H. Roberts, treasurer of the United States. On the way down from Washington Secretary Shaw made a speech in which he took a decidedly optimistic view of the business prospects of the country.

Illinois Mayor Indicted.

MATTOON, Ill., Sept. 26.—Mayor Francis M. Menke of Mattoon has been indicted by the grand jury upon twenty-nine counts charging him with malfeasance and misfeasance in office. He was placed under arrest at noon, and bond was fixed at $5,000. This was later reduced to $2,500, and Menke secured bondsmen. His trial was set for next week. Mayor Menke is accused of entering into contracts with gaming houses, immoral places and Sunday saloons.

Milner Doesn't Want It.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—It is definitely stated that Lord Milner, the British high commissioner in South Africa, who is now at Carlsbad, has been offered and has declined the colonial secretaryship. DETROIT'S SCANDAL

Former Municipal Officials Indicted by Grand Jury.

FRAUD AND CONVERSION CHARGED.

Wrongdoing Occurred In Department of Public Works and City Was Defrauded Out of Large Amounts In Various Ways.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 26.—Six indictments have been returned by the grand jury which has been investigating municipal affairs, and particularly the department of public works, for the last two months. Five of them were made public in court late yesterday afternoon, and they name the following persons:

D. W. H. Moreland, former commissioner of public works, recently removed from office by the council; Herman Wartell and T. J. White, former employees of the public works department under Moreland; John Hock, a former department of works employee and contractor; Henry Merdian, a contractor, and his associate, Robert Conway.

Moreland is named in each of the five indictments read in court. Two of the indictments charge him with conspiracy to defraud and the other three with misappropriating and converting property of the city to the use of others.

In the first of the indictments alleging conspiracy it is charged that Moreland, Merdian, Conway, Wartell and White conspired in March, 1902, to defraud the city of $1,000 through the payrolls of the department of works for street sweeping and teaming and in the second that Moreland, with Wartell, White and Hock, conspired in the same month to defraud the city out of $1,000 through street sweeping and teaming bills.

The other three indictments charge Moreland, under a special statute, with converting 1,735 feet of Medina curbstone, valued at $800, to Thomas J. Kennedy; with converting 1,052 cubic yards of sand, worth $500, to Henry Merdian & Co., and with converting 400 yards of crushed stone, worth $400, to John Archer and John Hock. The sixth indictment was not read in court, and Prosecutor Hunt declined to state whether or not it named any persons mentioned in the other five.

Mr. Moreland came into court and when asked to plead stood mute on advice of his attorney. The judge accordingly entered a plea of not guilty and fixed Mr. Moreland's bail on all five indictments at $6,600. It was given. John Hock was also in court and gave bail in the sum of $1,800. Warrants for the arrest of the other indicted men were issued and placed in the hands of the sheriff. Henry Merdian is ill at his home and will be unable to be arraigned in court. A certificate to this effect was presented signed by his physician.

Danced and Sang Facing Death.

LANDER, Wyo., Sept. 26.—James Keffer, the murderer of William Warren, who was hanged in the jailyard here, spent a large part of his last night on earth in singing, dancing and telling stories to the death watch. The execution attracted a great deal of attention, as it was the first legal hanging in the state since 1893. The crime for which Keffer was hanged was the murder of William Warren, an old man who was stock tender for the Lander-Rawlins Stage company, on the Carmody ranch, near Bruce, about two and a half years ago. Warren was shot while asleep and his personal effects stolen.

Superior Company Reorganized.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 26.—The directors of the Consolidated Lake Superior company met here and adopted a resolution favoring a plan of reorganization devised by the stockholders. The details of the plan will be announced within a few days. Attorneys representing every interest of the stockholders of the company also met. The meeting was a harmonious one, and steps were taken to protect every interest of all the stockholders.

Wife Murderer Hanged.

WISE, Va., Sept. 26.—Clifton Branham paid the penalty of wife murder here. Before going to the gallows he made a speech of some length, claiming that he was justified in the killing by the circumstances. He appealed to those present for indorsement of his deed, and about 300 of the crowd, it is said, agreed with him. At 1:37 p. m. the drop fell, and in twenty-eight minutes he was pronounced dead, his neck being broken by the fall.

Ames Case Appealed.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 26.—Dr. A. A. Ames, ex-mayor of Minneapolis, has taken his case on appeal to the supreme court. His contentions are based chiefly on the claim that a serious error was made in that the indictment charged the ex-mayor with the crime of bribery, but that under this general indictment a number of specific instances were cited in the trial which were not specifically covered by the indictment.

Four Flour Mills Running.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Sept. 26.—One more flour mill is running, the Washburn A., making four out of the seventeen that are making a show of operating. The mills by weeks of steady grinding have piled up enough flour in storage to fill all orders for some time to come. The mills are endeavoring to secure a night shift from among the university students.

Doomsday For Jett.

CYNTHIANA, Ky., Sept. 26.—Curtis Jett has been sentenced by Judge Osborne to be hanged "between sunrise and sunset Dec. 18 for killing James Cockrill at Jackson, Ky., July 21, 1902."

MADE RECORD TIME

Major Delmar Equals Pace Set by Lou Dillon.

HIS OWN BEST PERFORMANCE BEATEN

Champion Trotting Gelding Made Half Mile In 59 Seconds, but Could Not Duplicate It—Made a Mile In 2 Minutes.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—The big event at the Empire City track was the effort of the champion gelding Major Delmar to beat his own record of 2:00¼ and to beat the world's record of 2:00 held by Lou Dillon. He trotted a most wonderful mile and in a game but tiring finish shot under the wire in the record time.

After a preliminary warming up the gelding champion came out for his great trial at 4:30. He went round the first turn, broke and came back. At the second attempt he went away as steady as a clock and, though a slow beginner, got to the quarter in 0:30½. Up the back stretch he shot with such lightning rapidity that he flashed by the half mile pole in 0:59. Then the grand stand rose and cheered as the gallant son of Delmar flew round the top turn to the three-quarter pole in 1:29 and came home to the wire in 2:00, thus equaling the time of Lou Dillon.

It was a splendid performance by the animal, which only this week changed owners at the highest price, $40,000, ever paid for a gelding. Major Delmar is a New York animal, bred and foaled, trained and owned, in the Empire State.

Two running horses hitched to sulkies were provided for pacemakers. The sulky equipped with the wind shield was driven by George R. Spear, regular trainer for E. E. Smathers, Major Delmar's owner.

Chinese Reformer In Frisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 26.—The Chinese population of this city is greatly excited over the arrival of Leung Kai Chau, vice president of the Chinese Empire Reform association. He favors the cause of the young emperor, and the empress dowager is said to have offered a sum equivalent to $100,000 for his arrest. Fully 10,000 of the Chinese in California belong to the Reform party, and, though Leung is closely watched by a bodyguard, he has no fear of being deprived of his liberty. He was escorted from the ferry landing to Chinatown by a procession headed by a brass band. In line were fifty hacks filled with Chinese merchants and men of prominence in the colony.

Congress Approves Burrell Payment.

LA LIBERTAD, San Salvador, Sept. 26.—Congress has approved the agreement made by Senor Lopez, the Salvadorian minister to the United States, to pay Alfred H. Burrell $50,000 in gold monthly during eight years as compensation for the Salvadorian government's treatment of the Triunfo company. Some unimportant popular demonstration occurred in connection with the action of the assembly, but there was no disturbance of order. Congress, which held an extraordinary session to deal with the Burrell claim, adjourned today.

A Lynching at Lynchburg, Tenn.

LYNCHBURG, Tenn., Sept. 26.—Sheriff George R. Davidson in attempting to save the life of a negro fired into a mob which was assaulting the jail, wounding a man whose name is unknown. The sheriff summoned assistance, but he and his aids were overpowered, the jail was entered and the much wanted negro, Allen Small, shot to death in the corridor. The mob was composed of about twenty-five people.

DOUBT TURK'S SINCERITY.

Reform Made by Sultan Mistrusted in Bulgaria.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Sept. 26. — Simultaneously with the issue of the irade appointing the mixed Macedonian commission the report comes from Constantinople that the porte has ordered the mobilization of two additional divisions of Asiatic troops. The irade has created little impression here.

The belief prevails that the sultan is acting solely in view of the approaching meeting between the Russian and Austrian emperors and with the hope of convincing them that he is anxious to maintain peace.

A dispatch from Rila says that the insurgents, encouraged by their recent successes, are abandoning a strictly defensive attitude and are preparing to take the offensive. The insurgents are reported to have ample stocks of provisions in their camp in the Perin mountains. A large Turkish force surrounded an insurgent camp near Prespa, and the insurgents had forty men and eighty women and children killed. The Turkish loss was heavy.

Another fight in the same district resulted in the defeat of an insurgent band, ten of whom were killed, and the remainder fled to the mountains. In an engagement near Kesela, Monastir vilayet, the Turks lost 100 killed or wounded, while the insurgents had fifteen killed and twenty-nine wounded.

A telegram from Varna announces that 600 old men, women and children, starving and nearly naked, have arrived there from Burgas, where they were unable to find shelter.

Reform Commission Announced.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 26.—The composition of the mixed commission to carry out the programme of reforms in Macedonia is officially announced. Hilmi Pasha is president of the commission, and the other members are Khulussi Bey, president of the municipal council of Salonika; Rikola Roheff, Bulgarian, and Noumi Nikursuh, Greek, both members of the court of justice at Monastir; Niko, Servian, member of the court of justice at Uskub, and Kutso Yani, Roumanian. The commission will sit temporarily at Monastir. An irade has been issued ordering the civil and military authorities to obey the commission's regulations.

ERWIN TELLS HIS STORY.

Indicted Postal Inspector Denies Any Attempt to Defraud.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 26.—The indicted postal inspector, James R. Erwin, was heard by United States Commissioner Heacock yesterday. Erwin desired to show why he could not be held for trial in Washington and made a complete statement of his connection with the alleged post office frauds. He denied the charges specifically and then told of his knowledge and connection with the affair, which covers a period of four years, but which has but recently come to public notice through the Washington investigation.

Erwin had notebooks and memorandums to verify what he said. He did not deny a knowledge of the sale of the device and a compliance with the schemes of the local office whereby they developed the device and sold it to the government.

Erwin said that he never had anything officially to do with the acceptance and installment of the device. The attachments are now being used in several cities. Erwin said that as assistant general superintendent of free delivery he induced the use of the devices.

The number in use under his direction, he said, was 1,000 or 1,100. He asserted positively, however, that he never knowingly defrauded the government and that the sum total of his earnings from the postal device and improvement company was $96.

Erwin specifically denied that at any time had he conspired with Machen, Beavers or any one else for the sale of the device.

The case was continued.

In the first count in the indictment it is charged by the United States that on July 15, 1901, in Washington Erwin conspired to defraud the government. In answer to the charge Erwin stated that on this day he was attending to his official duties in this city and that he spent the evening in Vallejo. The second count places the date of conspiracy on Aug. 1, 1901, on which day Erwin claims to have sailed for Honolulu. Other dates of conspiracy were said to have been on Dec. 1, 1901, and Jan. 1, 1902, all of which Erwin denied.

A FIENDISH MURDER

Railway Paymaster Blown to Pieces With Dynamite.

HIS SECRETARY FATALLY INJURED

The Two Men Were Driving Along the Highway With $3,600 In Cash When Explosion Occurred. Suspects Are Arrested.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Sept. 26.—One of the most fiendish and bloodthirsty murders and robberies in the history of Washington county occurred on the Middletown road, about fifteen miles from here. Samuel T. Ferguson of the Ferguson Construction company of Pittsburg was instantly killed and his secretary, Charles L. Martin of Cincinnati, was fatally injured.

The two men were driving along the road in a buggy, carrying $3,600 in cash with which to pay off some of their men employed on construction work along the line of the Wabash railroad, when suddenly an explosion of dynamite in the roadway literally tore the rig to pieces, killed Ferguson outright and threw Martin 200 feet and tearing his left arm almost from the socket.

It has been learned that two men supposed to be Poles placed the dynamite in the road for the purpose of killing Paymaster Ferguson and had arranged to explode it by means of an electric battery. The satchel containing the money is missing.

Two suspects are under arrest in the camp of the construction company, near the village, but the farmers of the section who are scouring the country for traces of the murderers believe they have one of them at bay in an abandoned mine.

PARKS CAUSES SPLIT.

Stormy Scenes In Kansas City Labor Convention.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 26.—Samuel Parks, walking delegate from New York city, caused a split in the annual convention of the International Association of Bridge-and Structural Iron Workers here yesterday in a fight to unseat Daniel Brophy, a delegate from union No. 2 of that city, but who held a proxy from Scranton, Pa. The charge was made by the Parks delegation that Brophy's credentials had been forged, and to prevent a free for all fight that seemed imminent President Buchanan adjourned the convention without hour and without waiting to put the question.

Later, when President Buchanan, remaining away from the hall, refused to reconvene the convention, the Parks crowd organized a session, placing Second Vice President Warden of New Haven in the chair and unseated Brophy.

Labor Council Adjourns.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—The executive council of the Federation of Labor has adjourned, subject to call, without taking any further action in the case of William A. Miller, the assistant foreman in the government printing office. The matter has been left in the hands of a subcommittee of the executive council, whose names are not disclosed, with directions to make a full report. Mr. Gompers remarked laughingly that nothing revolutionary about the Miller case might be anticipated. Mr. Gompers said that, owing to the necessity of some of the members of the council returning to their business, the council had adjourned without transacting all the business before it. These unfinished matters were referred to the same subcommittee as the Miller case.

Big Coal Lands Deal.

BRISTOL, Tenn., Sept. 26.—An important transaction in the development of southwest Virginia and east Tennessee and particularly of the Virginia coal fields occurred here when the Crane's Nest company, composed largely of New York and Baltimore capitalists, was organized with a capital of $3,500,000 for the purpose of taking over coal properties in Wise and adjoining Virginia counties aggregating considerably over 100,000 acres. George L. Carter is the president of the new corporation, and the organization was effected at his office.

Masters and Pilots to Agree.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 26.—The negotiations looking toward a settlement of the differences between the American Association of Masters and Pilots have come to a successful conclusion. The Pittsburg Steamboat company receded from its position relative to Captain Frank Rae of the steamer Clemson and his mates, who are not members of the association. The remaining grievances of the men were waived for the present time and arrangements made for the holding of a meeting after the close of the present season of navigation.

Dominica Gets Plain Orders.

SANTO DOMINGO CITY, Sept. 26.—It is reported in government circles that United States Minister Powell has informed the Dominican minister of foreign affairs that the agreement made by the late Dominican government respecting the claims of the Santo Domingo Improvement company of New York must be respected and its provisions carried out without further delay.

A French Moroccan Protectorate.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—The Paris correspondent of the Daily Mail asserts on unimpeachable authority that Great Britain and Spain have agreed to the establishment of a French protectorate over Morocco. A strip of land along the coast will be declared neutral in order to avoid international complications over fortified ports.

Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 26, 1903.

The Daily Press has a higher circulation rating than is accorded to any other paper in Plainfield.—Printers' Ink.

The only notable fact about the strike in Newark was its brevity.

Now that he is down and out, it looks as if Jerome will have to be a political party all by himself.

Wonder how many local political leaders will be either on the sick list or out of town on election day?

Many of the anthracite mines will be closed down today. Yet, we don't expect to hear of prices being shoved down.

The price of silver has gone up ten cents an ounce. Now, Mr. Martine, please don't. We'll take your word for it.

It would be less startling to hear that a suffering public rather than the employes had struck against the Public Service Corporation.

New Jersey's white ribboners are making a fight for the expulsion of Reed Smott, of Idaho, because he is a polygamist. Women are so jealous.

An Evanston, Ill., man has deserted his wife because she fed him mostly on a musical diet. He declares that the principal dish on his bill of fare was "Hiawatha."

"It's one thing to secure an appointment for your friend. It's another to get a favor from him when he is once seated in power.—Paterson Evening News.

What do you seek, brother?

There's nothing strange in the fact that one Michael Casey, who has rubbed up against the world for twenty-two years, did not drown when he fell overboard in New York the other day. The Irish are always on top.

A Philadelphia member of the Pennsylvania Legislature gave a pass to one of his constituents in 1882. The favored mortal returned it unused the other day with a request that it be renewed. Still, Rip VanWinkle holds the record.

According to Attorney-General McCarter it was necessary for the voter to write the word "against" on the ballot nine times in order to register a negative vote on the constitutional amendment proposition. We don't know what his opinion is worth, but it strikes us that he is to be censured for waiting until the election is over before making such an important announcement.

Columns usually devoted to news were necessarily given over to advertisements yesterday because of the demand of local merchants. As Printers' Ink and other like standard mediums testify, "The Daily Press has the highest circulation in Plainfield." Local merchants realize its merits as a means of general publicity, as a glance through the advertising columns will show.

Mayor Leeds, of Stamford, Conn., has set an example which might be profitably followed by other officials throughout the land. He has matriculated at Yale for the purpose of pursuing a course in political science. One would possibly think that Mr. Leeds has started at a late day to seek some general education, but such is not the case for he is a graduate of Princeton and a man of much ability. But what he wants is more knowledge in political science. Would that the Governor and the State Legislature of New Jersey had pursued such a course prior to the last session of the New Jersey lawmakers.

The baseball season will soon be a thing of the past, but the record of the local team will remain a pleasant memory during the winter months. Some of the fatest games of ball ever played through this part of the State have taken place on the local diamond during the season and the home team has more than held its own, winning 75 per cent. of the games played. Besides this the team closes the season with a neat balance in the treasury—a thing but few teams can say, as baseball players "come high," but Scotch Plains has done it and are proud of their efforts to promote clean sports.

Ten Thousand Churches in the United States have used the Longman & Martinez Pure Paints.

Every Church will be given a liberal quantity whenever they paint.

Don't pay $1.50 a gallon for Linseed oil (worth 60 cents) which you do when you buy thin paint in a can with a paint label on it.

8 & 6 make 14, therefore when you want fourteen gallons of paint, buy only eight gallons of L. & M., and mix six gallons of pure linseed oil with it.

You need only four gallons of L. & M. Paint, and three gallons of Oil mixed therewith to paint a good sized house.

Houses painted with these paints never grow shabby, even after 18 years.

These celebrated paints are sold by WOOLSTON & BUCKLE, Plainfield. H. C. MEYER, Scotch Plains.

Bauersachs was made chairman of a committee to select suitable rooms. It is possible that the lodge will make its headquarters in the remodeled Babcock building.

Not a Sea Serpant.

Wm. Debele, of North Plainfield, who has recently returned from a visit at Atlantic City, brought with him a curious souvenir. While he was in bathing he saw a peculiar creature making its way towards him. He swam out and captured it and, instead of having a terrific struggle with it, gave a sudden pull and disengaged it from the bottom of the sea. It proved to be a vegetable growth of most peculiar shape. It is now on exhibition in his store on Somerset street.

Selling Out Undertaker.

The goods and chattels belonging to E. J. Jordan & Co., undertakers in Madison avenue, will be sold on Tuesday to satisfy a claim for rent on the part of Mrs. Mary B. Gillies, landlord. John Powers, Esq., of Elizabeth, represents the plaintiff. Constable John Gjettlesen served the papers today.

Convenience to Travelers.

The Pennsylvania and Lehigh Valley Railroad Companies have issued orders allowing stop-over privileges to all ticket holders. The Lehigh will also honor all excursion tickets issued beyond the time limit.

Our Friends, the Druggists.

It is a pleasure to testify to the generally high character of druggists. But because of a few exceptions to the rule, it is necessary to caution the public to be on guard against imitations of Perry Davis' Painkiller. See that you get the right article, the soothing, helpful Painkiller that was used in your family before you were born. Don't be taken into buying a substitute. There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'.

Russia and Japan

EVENTUALLY THEY WILL HAVE TO FIGHT FOR POSSESSION OF KOREA

THAT the interests of Russia and Japan in eastern Asia almost inevitably conflict must be apparent to the most superficial observation, but there is no evidence that the danger is at present sufficiently acute to suggest the possibility of war.

The population of Japan numbers some 45,000,000, and is increasing at the rate of about half a million a year. The agricultural area of the island empire is so little adequate to sustain this population that foodstuffs form a large item of its imports. The menace of congested population has been made less formidable by the development of manufactures in Japan, but for any greatly increased volume of production a foreign market must be found, and the nearest and most promising openings for Japanese trade are in Korea and northern China. Hence the vital importance to Japan of keeping Manchuria and Korea out of the grasp of a power likely to close the door on its commerce by the imposition of a differential tariff.

MANCHURIA AND KOREA.
(The Country in Dispute Between Russia and Japan.)

But even in the most favorable circumstances it may be doubted whether any possible expansion of her manufactures will, in itself, supply a satisfactory solution of Japan's population question when it becomes really pressing. Some oversea territories must be found to receive the overflow, and it is only in the peninsula across the straits of Tsushima that room is immediately available for immigration on a large scale. It is not exactly known how many inhabitants there are in the 80,000 square miles in Korea, the estimates varying from 6,000,000 to 15,000,000. Assuming that the truth is somewhere between these extremes, the peninsula is certainly equal to the support of another eight or ten million people. Large tracts of its soil are well suited for sericulture, the mineral wealth of the country has only partly been exploited, and it has an agricultural area larger than that available in the whole of Japan.

But, says the Chicago Post, if Japan is vitally concerned about getting seated in the peninsula, Russia is equally concerned about keeping the islanders out of political control of a country which it regards as essential to the control of the communications between its northern and southern arsenals on the Pacific. The Japanese already hold one side of the Korean straits by their forts on the island of Tsushima, and if they were to establish a strong naval base on the southern coast of the peninsula they would have full command of the sea communications between Port Arthur and Vladivostock.

Obviously, with the whole of Korea in Japanese hands, the overland connections between the two Russian bases would never be safe. The latest reported convention between Russia and Japan in regard to Korea was signed in April, 1898, and is known as the Nissi-Rosen protocol. It consists of three short articles, whose essential clause is that the two governments definitely recognize the sovereignty and independence of Korea, and mutually engage to refrain from all direct interference in the internal affairs of that country.

In view, however, of the large development of Japanese commercial and industrial enterprise in Korea, as well as of the considerable number of Japanese subjects resident in that country the Russian government bound itself not to impede the development of the commercial and industrial relations between Japan and Korea. This document has been called Japan's charter for the peaceful, economic and industrial conquest of Korea, and it is certain that indisposed as the present Japanese cabinet is to seek any cause for quarrel with Russia, it will not tamely submit to any infraction of the terms of the Nissi-Rosen protocol.

An expert observer noted some three years ago the energy with which Japan was pushing the development of her industrial and commercial interests in Korea, and contrasted it with the apathy with which she has regarded most of the commercial advantages in China acquired by the treaty of Shimonoseki. It is certain that the Japanese interest in Korea has not diminished since 1900, and it is equally certain that the instinct of national preservation, if nothing else, must impel Japan to resist at any cost an attempt on the part of Russia to impair the independence of the hermit kingdom.

sights in Somerville. The corner stone has just been laid, and the dedication of the building will take place in October. Inclosed in the corner stone are a number of very interesting papers and other objects associated with Somerville and the observatory. Among these documents and objects are the Somerville annual reports of 1902, the municipal manual of 1901, the municipal register of 1903, inaugural address of mayors containing matter pertaining to Prospect Hill, the register of the Massachusetts society, Sons of the American Revolution, for 1901; "Historic Leaves," published by the Somerville Historic society; Charles D. Elliot's "Somerville History," and considerable matter pertaining to the doings of the city council. Inclosing these documents is a large silk flag of the United States, and among the photographs placed in the corner stone box are those of President Roosevelt and Gov. Bates.

NEEDS RICH HUSBAND.

Famous London Beauty Says She Will Starve Unless She Can Land Matrimonial Prize.

Countess Fabbricotti, a famous London beauty, says she means to spend the little money she has left to enjoy this year and afterward starve if no desirable husband comes along. She makes no secret of her poverty, but talks freely to her friends of the depleted state of her exchequer. As she is young and beautiful she has everybody's sympathy.

The countess spent several weeks in the United States last winter, when rumor had her betrothed at different times to August Belmont and William C. Whitney. She was made much of in exclusive society in New York city and was a member of Mr. Whitney's large house party in Aiken, S. C., in March.

The London correspondent of the New York World says she is a woman of 35 years, with great personal charm, the effect of which is heightened by her superb gowns and jewels.

Her maiden name was Anna Kingsley. Her father was Irish, her mother

French; she was educated in Germany and married an Italian nobleman, from whom she got a foreign divorce. Divorce is not recognized in Italy, but Count Fabbricotti crossed the border into Switzerland.

The countess unquestionably was "the" beauty of the whole assemblage at Princess Hatzfeldt's recent royal party, where she met the cream of London's "smart set."

An Ideal Location
Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

FALL COSTUMES.

Three Quarter Length Coats Are Becoming to Most Women.

Three-quarter length coats will be "the thing" next winter, and they will be elaborately stitched and trimmed.

The same rule of coat length applies to suits. The short coat, blouse or Eton will not be seen nearly as much, even on short women, for it is a mistake to think a three-quarter length coat shortens a woman who is not tall. It does nothing of the kind if properly proportioned.

How much more sensible is this fashion of ample coats than the foolish abbreviated outer wraps with which we have sought to keep warm during freezing weather.

Lace is appliqued on many of the more expensive costumes, but it must be very handsome, heavy lace enriched with embroidery and figures made of velvet a shade darker than the material.

The hat to be smart in the winter must match the costume, and even furs should harmonize. The well dressed woman will be she who is in one tone from head to foot.

The picture shows a blouse of stitched fawn colored flannel, with tiny braid and velvet figures.

FASHIONABLE COLORS.

Soft Shades of Green, Leather and Tan—Blue Still Popular.

Some very soft, subdued shades in green are shown, but these are not likely to be generally worn. Leather tints are conspicuously shown, and the tan shades are certain to be seen in combination with empire green and imperial red and purple. An exquisite Paris model for autumn wear shows a soft colored brown vigogne, the skirt with a vandyked band of brown velvet partially overlaid with an applique design in passementerie. The bodice is almost tight fitting with the exception of the pouched front, and there is no belt, thus giving a longer waisted effect than we have for some time enjoyed. Over this are worn a pelerine and long stole ends of brown velvet trimmed with mink fur and many tails in front, and at the neck there is also much saffron tinted lace.

Blue is always a favorite color for autumn wear, but the blue gowns this year are extremely pretty and wondrously bright and smart, for there are so many little additions of lace embroidery and tasseled passementerie, which, with linings of light silk or satin, complete the effect.

Graceful shoulder straps in soft china or tussore silk have been made in large numbers for early autumn. These are particularly effective when embroidered in pastel tinted silks and fringed with soft strands of silk, colored thread or chenille. The shape of some much resembles the early Victorian scarf, while others are fashioned to slope over the shoulders and fall into a hood pointed behind and decorated with tassels and cords, all more or less of an old world character.

The cut shows a tan dress trimmed with heavy lace and deeper tan panne velvet. JUDIC CHOLLET.

COSMOPOLITAN CITY

All Nationalities Are Found Within Chicago's Population.

WHERE THE FOREIGNERS LIVE

While Thoroughly American It Affords the Spectator Interesting and Picturesque Glimpses of People from Many Lands.

Chicago.—One walks the streets of Chicago and quickly votes it thoroughly American. One takes a second glance, and discovers a crowded Ghetto; again, quarters given over to Russian and Bohemian; goes farther, and glimpses of Hollander and French, Greek and Italian, Swiss and Welsh, Scandinavian and German, Oriental and islander. And perhaps these motley folk but make the huge city still more American, for is not America built up in strength and progressiveness from this very admixture of diverse elements?

A Jew Type.

Let us look at some of these foreigners.

Persecutions, and a desire to give their children a better chance than they themselves have had, have caused the Jews to herd in the close quarters of the Chicago Ghetto. Though Chicago is fortunate in her wide territory, giving easy foothold to many thousands of her millions, yet even here there exists a crowded Ghetto. Over 60,000 persons dwell in this quarter, near to the very heart of the city; and doubtless, owing to present active persecutions in Russia, these numbers will presently be greatly augmented. In this quarter the looker-on comes upon Jews of well-known types; old, bent, thin men, with long gray beards straggling over long black silk dust-coats; old women, with great bundles on thier heads and gay shawls about their shoulders; push-cart men, old, young and middle-aged; sharp-nosed, sharp-eyed youths; dark-eyed maidens, displaying amid their poverty the Jewish love of finery; old-clothes folk galore; myriads of children. Though everywhere are visible and penetrable the filth and squalor attending overcrowding and extreme poverty, too, everywhere is noticeable good-nature, kindliness and helpfulness. And here, while one finds eager ambition for a rise to better conditions, one finds also a true democratic spirit; willingness to lend a hand, and a belief in the gospel of equality. A newcomer is a Jew, well, then, he must be given a welcome and a lift; be he Austrian or Hungarian, Pole or Russian, Bohemian or Roumanian. The Ghetto, it is needless to say, is by no means a locality where sanitary laws are rigidly enforced, but in spite of its dirt and disease one cannot but note the many evidences that the Jews of Chicago find life worth the living.

From France and Wales.

Thrifty and peaceable and beauty-loving, the French residents of Chicago make an impress unmistakable and desirable. About 30,000 they count, and it were well for the city if their numbers were largely increased. The streets where they live are clean and pleasant, the homes adorned with flowers, the inhabitants merry and courteous. The influence of the French in Chicago is being shown in an increase of interest in things artistic, and in a considerable spread of the study of the French language.

A Welsh Character.

Chicago has many Jones, and every Jones a Welshman. The Welsh are thrifty, independent, industrious, and their colony, 12,000 strong, ministers considerably to the prosperity of the city. They are great church folk, the church being with them the chief social center. As musicians, they are far-famed, both at home and in church, taking great delight in the rendering of musical composition. In appearance and speech, they seem unmistakably American, though most of them cling tenaciously to keeping up the ability to use the peculiar Welsh language. They love the old Welsh tongue and institutions, but none the less make excellent American citizens.

From Russia and Italy.

In the steel mills and iron foundries of Chicago work the Russian immigrants; come from their fields of snow and ice to our furnaces heated 70 times over. But they are men of splendid strength and great longing to give their children a taste of better things; and so they toil away at the hardest and most poorly paid work the great city has to offer. Very few of the 75,000 Russians try for anything above common manual labor, most of them being from the peasant class; but the children of these day-laborers are reaching towards those conditions coveted for them by their parents. The children learn our language quickly, and they, and the different spirit of the new land, are all working towards the uplifting of the many varying folk from the czar's broad domains.

From Sunny Italy.

Quite unlike the Russian are the Italian dwellers of Chicago, though both are poorest of the poor. Living in dirty, tumble-down, over-crowded houses, they manage to make merry, to carry about with them some of the sunshine of their native land. Most of the Italians now crowded in a downtown portion of Chicago (30,000 in a small area), in Italy were engaged in agricultural pursuits. Here they work as peddlers, at grade work on the railroads, and some rise to the height of storekeepers. There are swarms of children, who are put to work as early as possible. The dire poverty of the family requiring their small aid. The girls and women manage somehow to bedeck themselves with gay colors and cheap jewelry, and the streets where the Italians abound are picturesque as well as dirty. And one sees among these people many a beautiful girl and handsome youth, both endeavoring to learn the ways and ideals of the land of their adoption.

Hollander and Swiss.

The Chicago Hollander is quite a different proposition to the Italian. The former lives in a neat cottage surrounded by flowers and vegetables. Everything, within and without, is speckless, though "the woman" may take part in the field work. And the frau is neat and trim, from the crown of her cap to the blunt end of her wooden shoes.

From Holland.

The Hollanders are engaged in dairy and market gardening. They are thrifty, temperate, religious, and the 30,000 of them living in Chicago are welcome additions, good citizens.

The Swiss, too, are desirable immigrants. There are about 10,000 in Chicago; most of them live on the North and Northwest sides of the city, but they are not so closely grouped as are the other foreigners. Like the Hollanders, they own their own little homes. With their large families of healthy, rosy children, their thrift and industry, they are indeed residents worthy of respect. And they seem so comfortable and happy in their new environment; these sturdy mountaineers transplanted from their land of heights and valleys to the flat lands along Lake Michigan.

Greek and Bohemian.

How would Chicago get along without the Greek and his fruit stand? One sees him on every corner down town. With the Greek male the Chicagoan is familiar, but the Greek woman is little known. And for a good reason—among the 10,000 Greeks in Chicago there are 100 women. The Greek has to seek his wife among the Italians, and occasionally one leads an American girl to the altar.

A Greek Girl.

There are many Bohemians in this cosmopolitan city, something near 140,000. The Bohemians are hard-working, provident, though fond of music and dancing. The women with their rich embroideries and earrings suggest the Bohemian love of beauty, while their busy lives speak of the Bohemian habit of industry. Most of the Bohemians own their homes.

THE STARS AS GUIDES.

Ingenious Device for Use on Vessels When the Heavens Are Obscured by Clouds.

The stars have always been the guide posts of the sea, but only recently has a device been invented by which they are accurately identified, says World's Work. In an overcast sky they will appear for a moment and then lose themselves behind a cloud. The mariner must by guess or by some diagram of his own work out his location from them. The new invention consists of a star map over which swings a transparent scale, and it revolves from the point located on the map as the north pole. On this scale are engraved the circles of altitude and the lines of bearing. From this map, by a slight calculation, and by revolving the transparent scale until it is opposite certain figures indicated on the map, the ship's location can be instantly taken. The name of this particular star is obtained easily by reference to the nautical almanac by a guide on the chart.

This seemingly simple device is already in use on the American line and the Red Star line of steamers, and every new test reports success. It is the result of many years' study and hard labor on the part of Dr. Geissinger, whose idea it is. Even after the working model had been made and found satisfactory a difficulty arose. It seemed impossible to duplicate by any mechanical means the transparent indicator. No engraver could be found who was willing to undertake the work of reproducing exactly the fine lines and figures on this scale, the use of which depended entirely on accuracy. The inventor immediately went at the task of planning a machine that would make the desired lines, and after infinite labor he constructed a mechanical device which engraves on the scale exactly the lines of his ingenious original model. This new invention is likely to be an added preventive of accidents and delays in ocean travel.

TRADE CONDITIONS.

Heavy Distribution of Merchandise. Farm Staples Lower.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

The volume of trade continues large and the distribution of merchandise taxes shipping facilities. Announcement of a concerted effort to restrict production of pig iron indicates that supplies have begun to accumulate. The security market has been dull, with a general decline and new low records for several issues.

Railway earnings continue to show gains, for September thus far exceeding last year's by 8.7 per cent and those of 1901 by 17.2 per cent. Traffic blockades occur to some extent, although the movement of farm products is still unseasonably small.

New labor controversies have begun, but a number of serious troubles have been averted, and on the whole the number of men idle voluntarily has diminished.

Enforced idleness in the iron and steel industry is more than offset by resumption of spindles at cotton mills, and there is great activity at foot wear factories, although the margin of profit is narrow.

Lower prices for the leading agricultural staples indicate a general belief in improved crop prospects. Jobbing trade is still making good comparisons with previous years, and, while the zenith has been passed in fall dry goods, it is still a satisfactory season.

Liabilities of commercial failures for the week amounted to $6,079,668, of which $2,916,534 were in manufacturing, $2,566,704 in trading and $596,430 in other commercial lines. Failures this week numbered 232 in the United States against 207 last year and 19 in Canada compared with 32 a year ago.

HAWAII'S CODE DEFECTIVE.

Old Criminal Laws Not Changed to Conform With Our Constitution.

HONOLULU, Sept. 26.—Judge G. D. Gear of the First circuit court of the territory in a decision rendered by him in the case of a Chinese accused of selling opium illicitly holds that the territorial criminal laws are defective in that the most trivial offenses, including drunkenness, are legally classified with infamous crimes which require an indictment by a grand jury in territories under the federal constitution. Judge Robinson concurs with Judge Gear in his decision.

The decision places the police in a serious dilemma, inasmuch as they cannot enforce the most important police regulations without the aid of the grand jury. The imperfections of the criminal laws of the territory are said to be due to the failure of territorial legislatures to make the statutes of the monarchy and republic of Hawaii conform to the United States constitution. The advisability of holding an extra session for the purpose of correcting defects in the laws is being discussed.

The home rulers have held their first county convention. Robert T. Wilcox, ex-delegate to congress, was nominated for sheriff, and ex-Superintendent of Public Works Boyd was nominated for supervisor of the county. It was unanimously decided not to fuse with the Democrats on any office.

Murderer Makes Confession.

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 26.—Paul Missik, the alleged murderer of Charles O'Brien at the Trap Rock quarries in Newington, Sept. 22, has been captured in Wethersfield. After being brought to the police station here he confessed to the killing, saying that he and O'Brien had quarreled over 36 cents which he believed O'Brien had kept from him and that in a fit of anger the morning after this quarrel he shot O'Brien.

SPORTING NEWS.

INSHOOTS.

It is likely that the Alis Club will close the baseball season on Saturday, October 3, when the final game of the season with Scotch Plains at the latter place. This will be the "rubber" between these teams as each have thus far won the same number of contests.

Already there is talk in the Alis Club about next season's baseball team. It has been said that in all probability Quinby, now playing second base, will be asked to captain the team, and an effort will be made to secure college players for positions on the nine. Quinby not only knows the game, but he is probably the best all-round player seen on a Plainfield diamond this season. He has a cool head no matter how exciting the game and he never misses a chance. There is also talk of enclosing Crescent Oval next year and increasing the seating capacity.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

Although the North Plainfield High School pupils as a body will not join the new department at the Y. M. C. A. together with the Plainfield High School and Leal's School pupils, those who are eligible will join as individuals. The number of those who can join this department is limited.

Delightful Outing.

The fall is by far the prettiest time for a week's end trip, and no place is better adapted for such an outing than Atlantic City. The clear and pleasant days which prevail together with the invigorating air and the unequalled surroundings, make it the ideal place in every sense. The famed board walk is ever thronged with a good-natured joyous crowd. The piers are labyrinths of amusement attractions, and the hotels, well there are none in the country finer or more elaborate. The New Jersey Central has arranged for an excursion to Atlantic City on Saturday, September 26, the rate is $10.-35, and includes two days' board at the Hotel Rudolf, one of the largest and best of Atlantic City's hotels. These excursion tickets are good going on any of the regular trains leaving New York on Saturday, the 26th; the hours of leaving are 9:40 a. m., 1 and 3:40 p. m., and the running time to the City by the Sea is three hours, and the trains are solid vestibuled coaches and parlor cars. For information regarding this trip see posters and advertisements, or write to C. M. Burt, G. P. A., New Jersey Central, N. Y. City.

EVILS OF DRINK.

The Flowing Bowl Causes Downfalls Recorded in the City Court.

Harry Messimer was trying to carry a good-sized load of eau-de-vie on the corner of West Front street and Park avenue just before 6 o'clock last night when his feet suddenly passed out of his control and took a turn on their own responsibility towards the clouds. The ground came up and dealt Harry a terrible blow on his cerebellum, putting him down and out. Messimer was unconscious for a few minutes and was taken to police headquarters by Patrolman Higgins. "Dr." McCarthy, the well-known specialist on fits, attended him. This morning Messimer was repentant in the city court, promised to forego the doubtful pleasures of the bottle in the future, and was sent on his way rejoicing.

Other malefactors before the judgment seat were Harry Gardner, arrested by Patrolman Higgins, who had a rush of business on last night, and Mrs. Julia Snyder, apprehended by Patrolman Quass. Both were fighting drunk and made themselves obstreperous to their neighbors on Madison avenue. Their case was postponed to Monday morning. Patrick Purcell, escorted by the omnipresent "Hig," made his debut in the local court. City Judge Runyon suspended sentence.

The weekly play for the Golf Committee cup and the regular play for the Men's Handicap cup were the events at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, on Saturday afternoon. The one set of scores counted for both cups, but E. P. Goodwin, who made the lowest score for the day, a 78 net, failed to post his name for the Men's Handicap cup competition and failed to score a win for that trophy. He won first honors, however, for the other cup. Julius E. Erickson scored the win for the Handicap cup and on Election Day will meet C. B Morgan in a play off.

Second and third honors for the Golf Committee cup were won by Julius E. Erickson and H. D. Hibbard. Walter Peterson, with a net score of 79, failed to improve his standing for the cup, although he holds a leading position.

ROAD BUILDING SCHEME.

Municipal Authorities Decide That Tar Will be Used Where Streets Are Washed by Storm.

It is thought by the city officials that the process of sprinkling streets with tar would not be satisfactory on any streets where there was much travel, as the tar does not go much below the fine top dressing, and would soon wear off with the latter.

The work to be done in Plainfield will consist of about twenty-five feet square only, where the street has been badly washed during heavy rains, and will differ from the Westfield experiment in that the tar will be incorporated with the one and a half inch stone for a depth of several inches.

PLAINFIELD'S NEW BASEBALL CHAMPIONS

St. Mary's Won the Title Saturday by Taking a Hard-Fought Game From Alis.

THE SCORE WAS 4 TO 3

DECISIONS OF UMPIRE BROUGHT KICKS FROM ALIS' CROWD.

Teams Aided by Out-of-Town Players—Scotch Plains Played Poorly and Lost to Garwood — Westfield and Rahway Didn't Score.

Plainfield's two crack nines bravely battled for supremacy in the deciding contest on Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon, and when it was all over the score board showed a victory for St. Mary's over the Alis by a score of 4 to 3, and the cohorts of the former team shouted themselves hoarse with joy because they had won the championship of Plainfield.

Much comment was caused by a decision of the umpire in the last half of the sixth inning with Alis at bat. Snow, the big fielder who hails from Michigan, met Linderman's delivery for a clean hit. Richardson bunted a slow ball toward first. It rolled outside of the foul line as it approached the base. "Foul" bawled the umpire. Snow, who was scattering for second, halted. So did Richardon and both men started to retrace their steps. Then the ball began to roll toward the line again and jumped over the bag. The umpire said "fair" and there was no trouble in putting out both Alis players. Umpire Bligh came in for the blame from both sides. He insisted that as the ball had rolled fair the men were out. When Hopper, known to fame as the twirler for the Equitables, placed the ball in the outfield, out of everybody's reach, the Alis supporters groaned at the thought of what might have been.

The familiar figure of "Tuck" Turner, famous in the days of the old Crescents, loomed up as St. Mary's first batsman. He gave Brown at short something to do and Brown threw too high. A sacrifice by Jones sent "Tuck" to second. Alis steadied and Zimmerman's and Tierney's grounders were gobbled up in no time.

Quimby, for Alis, hit the first ball pitched and nobody was there. He advanced to second on McCormick's sacrifice bunt. Snow disappointed the rooters by missing three good balls. Richardson placed a lively one in front of St. Mary's shortstop, who wasn't quite equal to the occasion. Quimby, who had stolen third, went home. Hopper closed the inning with an easy grounder.

Quimby missed Kernan's drive in the second inning and the St. Mary boy reached second with the aid of Driscoll's sacrifice. He tried to get third on Lemar's effort but was caught before he reached it. Coheland made the third out on strikes.

Ambruster was given his base but Stahling and Brown fell victims to the man from Hoboken and McLaughlin was taken care of by Coheland.

Linderman started a vicious one that nobody wanted and "Tuck" Turner joined the procession when McLaughlin fumbled. McCormick nipped a short fly from Jones and by a throw caught Turner at first. Zimmerman made the longest hit of the game into the weeds giving Linderman a chance to score St. Mary's run. Zimmerman was too ambitious, however, and was caught at third. Alis' half of the inning was quickly ended, Quimby and McCormick striking out while Snow sent a fly to deep centre.

After Tierney opened the fourth inning for St. Mary's with a fly to right, Kernan and Driscoll were each presented with first base. Armbruster nailed Kernan at second in beautiful fashion, while Coheland ended the inning with an easy ball to McLaughlin. An easy catch, three strikes and a well fielder grounder smothered Alis' chances in the same inning.

In the fifth Richardson handled Lemar's grounder and Linderman and "Tuck" Turner were retired on strikes. After Stahling's high foul fly had been nabbed and Brown struck out, McLaughlin warmed things up on the Alis side by a clean hit through the infield. Quimby was given his base and McCormick lost his chances of distinguishing himself by missing three of Linderman's puzzles.

Jones' grounder in the sixth went through Richardson at first and the St. Mary runner went down to second on Zimmerman's sacrifice. He scored on a wild throw intended to nip his career at third. Tierney made three wild attempts to hit the ball and was retired. Kernan was given his base again and then Stahling dropped Driscoll's easy fly in right. With men on second and third, Coheland disappointed the St. Mary cohorts by putting a ball in Quimby's hands. It was in Alis' half of this inning that the umpire's decision defeated Alis' chance of scoring.

The Alis contingent came dangerously near going up in the air in the seventh. Lemar made a two-bagger to score on a passed ball. Linderman struck out. Turner lifted the leather over second for a base. He started to steal second. Although the batter tipped the ball, Armbruster had it down to second in time. There was nobody waiting to receive it and while it rolled out to centre field "Tuck" trotted to third. He completed the circuit almost immediately on Zimmerman's hit. The latter tried Turner's trick at second but Alis' infielder stopped it.

Stahling sent a fly that looked as if it was never coming down but when it did Coheland at left was under it. Brown was given his case to be caught at second on McLaughlin's infield ball. In throwing to catch the Alis pitcher, Kernan put it over Driscoll's head and "Warry" went to second. Quimby caught a curve on his arm and trotted to first. Then McCormick, who has been playing with Holyoke in the New England League, gave Driscoll a brisk one that the man from Hoboken didn't keep hold of. McLaughlin lost no time in scoring. Tierney threw the sphere to third but his aim was poor and Quimby crossed the plate as well. Snow stopped any further scoring with a grounder that was cared for at first.

In the eighth, Kernan went to first on four balls and achieved second on a sacrifice but Tierney, Driscoll and Coheland all were disposed of at first. Armbruster received the gift of first but Richardson supplied the infield with exercise, Hopper didn't touch the ball and Stahling sent the ball heavenward to drop into the hands of the waiting centre fielder.

Lemar's long drive in the ninth was captured. Brown fielded Linderman's effort and Turner, after getting first on a fumble, by McCormick, found that Armbruster and Brown were too strong a combination to make base-stealing effective. A strike out for Brown opened for Alis. McLaughlin hit safely but it didn' count for anything as Quimby's foul fly was gobbled up and McCormick's best was gathered in by the St. Mary infield.

On the lines Tierney proved a source of unending joy. Alis had Brown, of last year's Cornell team, McCormick, Hopper and Stahling, while St. Mary's strength was drawn largely from Hoboken's team. Both pitchers were in fine form and kept the ball in excellent control.

When it was all over, the crowd broke loose and cheered itself hoarse over the champions of Plainfield. Later in the evening, a huge banner bearing the word "Champions" headed a procession of jubilant follows of St. Mary's with the Independent Fife and Drum Corps to furnish the music.

WESTFIELD, 0; RAHWAY, 0.

Westfield and Rahway played nine innings of snappy, errorless baseball, on the Westfield grounds Saturday, the result being a shut-out for both nines. The game was called in the ninth on account of darkness. Rahway had a trifle the better of the game, filling the bases twice. Not one Westfield man passed second bag. "Red" Waller was in fine form allowing but four hits. Pardee did the twirling for Rahway, and his delivery was a "Chinese puzzle."

NEW ROADS TO BE OPENED IN THE BOROUGH

Western Part of North Plainfield to be Converted Into Streets and Building Lots.

A REAL ESTATE BOOM

CHAPLE, WILLOW AND MYRTLE AVENUES TO BE EXTENDED.

West End Avenue Included in Proposed Improvement—New Boulevard May be Opened Up to Dunellen—Contracts Closed.

An important improvement is being planned for the western end of North Plainfield and property which now lies idle, will, according to the scheme, be converted into public streets, the land fronting thereon to be made into building lots. The work is being planned by Charles McCutchen, W. J. Buttfield and the trustees of the Percy Brown estate. Contracts are about to be closed with William Emmons to begin work on the property which extends from West End avenue to the county line at Dunellen avenue, from there to Greenbrook road and from Greenbrook road back to West Front street.

West End avenue, after it passes Myrtle avenue, is a country road, and this will be transformed into a modern macadamized street with sidewalks. Chaple, Willow and Myrtle avenues will be opened up to Clinton avenue and all the property adjoining will be made into building lots.

Much has been said lately about a scarcity of small houses in the city and borough and it is said that the real object in opening up this territory is to make room for real estate investors of this class.

As soon as this city acts in the matter of opening up Dunellen avenue to the bridge across Green brook, the borough will take steps to have the avenue connect with Myrtle avenue, thus making a continuous driveway from Watchung avenue and Craig place to Dunellen, away from the trolley tracks. This promises to be the principal boulevard between this city and Bound Brook, connecting with the Bound Brook telford paved roadway at Dunellen.

SEVERAL CHURCHES OBSERVE RALLY DAY

Rev. J. S. Zelie and George A. Strong Address the Crescent Ave. Sunday-School.

LARGE ENROLLMENTS

REV. L. E. LIVERMORE SPEAKS AT PARK AVENUE CHURCH EXERCISES.

Attractive Programme at First M. E. Church — Warren Chapel's Exercises—The Special Music Marked Various Services.

"Rally Day" was observed in many of the local churches yesterday afternoon. The observance marked the reopening of the Sunday-school work for the year and in some cases a change in the hour of meeting from morning to afternoon. The attendance was large at all the schools.

The work at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian Church was resumed with much enthusiasm. The total enrollment was 280, which was large, especially considering the weather conditions. Rev. J. S. Zelie made an address to the pupils of both grades. The children of the primary department, under the superintendency of William D. Murray, rendered special children's hymns in honor of the day. George A. Strong, superintendent of the senior classes, welcomed the pupils. The singing was led by Charles L. Lewis.

Rev. Mr. Zelie made a short address to the pupils of the Warren Chapel Sunday-school at their rally day exercises. An address of welcome was made by Superintendent F. H. Andrews and the pastor, Rev. J. O. McKelvey, also spoke.

The exercises at the Park Avenue Baptist Church were attended by fully 200 children. Special music was rendered by the children in the primary department and roll call was conducted by the superintendent, George E. Hall.

A feature of the afternoon was the cornet solos by DeWitt France and solos by Miss Elsie Giles. Quartette and double quartette singing were rendered by Miss Elsie Giles, Miss Florence Hawkins, Wheaton S. Lowry, Charles Drayton, Miss Cora Brokaw, Miss Adelia Runyon, Mrs. Charles Steiner, Nelson Runyon, Theodore I. Runyon, David M. Runyon, Harry Cumming, accompanied by Miss Elmira Runyon. Rev. E. E. Livermore, of Dunellen, made a short address on the subject of "Rally Day." Four pupils were promoted from the primary department to the main school.

Rally day services were held yesterday afternoon in Vincent Chapel under the auspices of the Sunday-school. There was special music and Scripture reading conducted by Walter McGee, superintendent of the Monroe Avenue Church Sunday-shool, class promotion and the class roll. An attractive part of the service was the pinning of small gold and silver pieces of paper on a map of the world. When completed there appeared large gold and silver stars. A chart was exhibited, showing the attendance for every Sunday during the year and this proved interesting. The attendance yesterday was 300. Rev. Dr. J. R. Bryan, formerly pastor of the First M. E. Church, took part in the services by offering prayer.

THE COUNTRY BOY.

His Characteristics Discussed by Dr. Snodgrass in Sermon at First M. E. Church.

The second of a series of talks to toilers was preached last evening at the First M. E. Church by Rev. W. O. Snodgrass.

The minister said that it was generally believed that the country boy is the one who makes his mark in the world, but this is not always so. He cited such men as President Roosevelt, J. Pierpont Morgan and Howard Crosby, the great preacher, as types of prominent and successful men who have reached the topmost round of the ladder of success. He said that the country boy usually has four necessary qualifications: He is not afraid of work; he depends upon his own resources instead of looking for influence; he has overcome one environment and has had courage enough to face another; and he does not depend on the city's institutions but on his individuality. The pastor said that at no time has there been such a demand for men with character as now.

AMUSEMENTS.

Houses crowded to the doors greeted Charles Warner, the famous English actor at the Academy of Music the past week, to see this really talented actor in his marvellous play of "Drink." The newspapers were unanimous in their endorsement of Mr. Warner's work and their really ecstatic remarks are heard about the city nightly, at the clubs and dining resorts. He is indeed a most talented man and is looked upon as the best male actor who has yet appeared in this country from any land. His work is very remarkable going from a young man in the first scene until at his death he resembles an old man. The ravages of drink are shown not alone in the case of "Coupeau" but others—and their degree is easily read—and the few temperate character are well to the front and are well liked by the audiences, as is easily shown by them. His company is conceded to be really meritorious.

—Mrs. Mary Talmadge, of Fairview avenue, celebrated her eighty-sixth birthday Wednesday evening by an informal reception. Many of her relatives from New York State were present to congratulate her.

The Genuine vs. Counterfeits.

The genuine is always better than a counterfeit, but the truth of this statement is never more forcibly realized or more thoroughly appreciated than when you compare the genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve with the many counterfeits and worthless substitutes that are on the market. W. S. Ledbetter, of Shreveport, La., says: "After using numerous other remedies without benefit, one box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me." For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles no remedy is equal to DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Sold by L. W. Randolph.

FAST MAIL WRECKED

Nine Killed and Seven Injured Near Danville, Va.

TRAIN PLUNGED FROM HIGH TRESTLE

New Engineer Struck Curve at High Speed and Cars Left the Track, Falling Seventy-five Feet to the Rocks Below.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 28.—While running at a high rate of speed train No. 97 on the Southern railway, the south bound fast mail train, jumped from a trestle seventy-five feet high half a mile north of Danville, Va., late yesterday and was almost demolished. Of the crew of sixteen men, including mail clerks, on the train nine were killed and seven injured.

The dead are: Engineer J. A. Brodie of Placerville, Va.; Fireman Clarence White, Conductor Tom Blair of Central, N. C.; Mail Clerks J. L. Thompson of Washington, W. T. Chambers of Midland, Va., D. T. Florry of Nokesville, Va., and P. N. Ardanwright of Mount Clinton, Va., and a flagman and a brakeman, whose names are not known.

All of the injured men are seriously hurt and have been taken to the hospital in Danville. The recovery of one mail clerk is hardly possible, and other clerks are thought to have received mortal injuries.

The trestle where the accident occurred is 500 feet long and is located on a sharp curve. Engineer Brodie was a new man on that division of the Southern, and it is said he came to the curve at a very high rate of speed.

The engine had gone only about fifty feet on the trestle when it sprang from the track, carrying with it four mail cars and an express car. The trestle, a wooden structure, also gave way for a space of fifty feet.

At the foot of the trestle is a shallow stream with a rocky bottom. Striking this, the engine and the cars were reduced to a mass of twisted iron and steel and pieces of splintered wood. As the cars went down they touched the side of the Riverside cotton mill, which is very close to the trestle.

All the dead men were killed instantly, it is thought, and all were greatly mutilated. The skin and hair on the engineer and fireman were torn off by the impact of the steam engine.

Several thousand people were soon at the scene of the wreck. No one on any of the cars had made an effort to jump, and the bodies of all those killed were found in the wreckage of the different cars to which they belonged. Ladies who drove out to the wreck from Danville fainted at the sight of the bodies, some of which were crushed to a ghastly degree. It seemed miraculous that any one should have escaped, for each car falling with the engine bounded from it and completely collapsed after striking the rocks at the foot of the trestle. All the express matter in the express car was practically destroyed except six crates full of canary birds. None of the birds was hurt, though the crates were in the thickest of the debris. All unofficial opinions that have been ascertained agree in giving only one cause for the wreck, the high speed of the train on the sharp curve. Train No. 97 was running about an hour behind time. It is thought that the engineer, being unfamiliar with the road, did not take into consideration the danger of coming on the curve with such great velocity.

The mail bags in all the mail cars were torn open, and the letters and packages were scattered, but it is believed none is lost. Fire which appeared in the wreckage shortly after it occurred was quickly extinguished by the Danville fire department.

In loss of life this is one of the most serious wrecks that have occurred on the Southern, and it is the third time that the fast mail has been almost entirely demolished. On account of the wreck all traffic on the central and northern divisions of the Southern will be affected. It will take several days to repair the damage to the trestle.

A Tennessee Man Hunt.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 28.—Posses are scouring Loudon county, Tenn., for Mack Rose, who in resisting arrest at Cloyd's Creek shot and killed Deputy Sheriff Ed Griffiths of Loudon county and fatally wounded John Poole, a citizen deputized by the officer. Rose was wanted for a small offense and was located in a barn. Rose opened fire on Griffiths, shooting him through the heart and killing him instantly. Poole was shot in the left side. A reward of $200 is offered for Rose's arrest.

Cotton Crop Badly Damaged.

HOUSTON, Tex., Sept. 28.—The Post today publishes a report showing that great damage has been done to cotton over the state by the boll weevil, the boll worm, the sharpshooter and dry weather. The estimate of the probable crop, based on the reports from country correspondents, is placed at 2,500,000 bales, provided that there is a late frost. The popular estimate six weeks ago was 6,000,000 bales.

Double Plague In Chinese Town.

TIENTSIN, China, Sept. 28.—Both the plague and cholera are raging at Peitang, a seaport fifty miles east of Tientsin, where 2,000 deaths have occurred during the past two months. The towns of Neuher, Taku and Tientsin are not yet affected.

Candy Company Burned Out.

A CABINET MEETING TOMORROW.

Meeting Arranged With John Mitchell Said to Have No Connection With the Miller Controversy. That Is Considered Settled.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Sept. 28.—President Roosevelt passed the last day of his summer vacation quietly at Sagamore Hill. He and Mrs. Roosevelt, accompanied by two of their children, attended the morning services at Christ Episcopal church. The president and Mrs. Roosevelt and their children now at home—Ethel, Archie and Quentin—Secretary and Mrs. Loeb and the members of the executive staff left this morning at 8:30 o'clock for Washington, expecting to arrive there at 4:10 p. m.

A meeting of the cabinet will be held tomorrow at 11 o'clock, but nothing of special importance is likely to be developed at the meeting. Indeed some members of the cabinet will not be in attendance. In the afternoon the president will have as a guest at luncheon John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers of America. Several months ago the president invited Mr. Mitchell to take luncheon or dine with him when he next came to Washington. The mine workers' president is in Washington now and will be there until Tuesday evening.

It is announced that the arrangement for the luncheon was made prior to the latest developments in the case of W. H. Miller, the foreman bookbinder in the government printing office, and that no special significance is to be attached to the fact that the president and Mr. Mitchell meet at this time. It is quite probable that the Miller case, among other matters, will be discussed, but the meeting at luncheon will not take the form of a conference on that subject.

In view of statements recently published that the president on his return to Washington would hold a conference on the Miller case with prominent officials representing organized labor it is announced that the president has no intention of conferring with anybody regarding that case. His position, it is pointed out, was defined clearly in his published letters to Secretary Cortelyou. The principle enunciated in those letters was framed in accordance with the statutes of the United States, and on it the president expects to stand.

If a hearing on the merits of the Miller case is desired by those who are endeavoring to have the man dismissed from the government service the president may grant it precisely as he might a hearing to any other body of citizens on a question of public interest or importance, but it is not the president's purpose to enter upon a discussion of the principle already laid down.

Found Dead In Bath Tub.

KINEO, Me., Sept. 28.—Charles E. Wilmot, a member of the firm of Goldsmith, Wolf & Co., 72 Broadway, New York, has been found dead in the tub of the bath room connected with his apartments at the Kineo House. Death was due to heart failure. Mr. Wilmot reached the hotel the night previous, having come up the lake from Greenville in his yacht after a two weeks' fishing trip on the St. John's river. He was at the time apparently in the best of health. The arrival at the hotel of several friends who came to call upon Mr. Wilmot in the morning resulted in the finding of the body in the tub, where he had expired while bathing.

Acquitted on Third Trial.

CAMPTON, Ky., Sept. 28. — The Wolfe county grand jury has returned a verdict of not guilty in the case of Claude Day, charged with killing Felix Bullock in Breathitt county two years ago. Two trials of the case in Jackson, Ky., resulted in hung juries. The case was then transferred to Wolfe county. Bullock's widow lives in Wolfe county. Judge D. B. Redwine presided over the three trials, and Day was prosecuted by Floyd Byrd, who gained a reputation in the prosecution of the Jett-White cases.

Millions to Found a College.

DES MOINES, Ia., Sept. 28.—F. M. Hubbell, one of the wealthiest citizens of the state of Iowa, his wife, Frances E. Hubbell, joining, has conveyed property to the value of about $5,000,000 to himself and his sons, Frederick C. Hubbell and Grover C. Hubbell of Des Moines, "trustees of the said Frederick M. Hubbell estate," and to their successors in trust for the trustees and their lineal descendants, to be used in founding a college of learning in the city of Des Moines.

Dropped Dead In Bath Room.

HUNTINGDON, Pa., Sept. 28. — Judge John M. Bailey, presiding judge of the Twentieth judicial district, dropped dead in his bath room here. Judge Bailey was elected in 1895. His term would have expired in 1906. Judge Bailey was born at Dillsburg, York county. He was a member of the constitutional conventions of 1870 and 1873 and served on the committees of revenue, taxation and finance.

The Meaning of This Store.

A store must mean something in particular or it will not attract buyers. It should prove at the counter what it promised in the newspapers.

We have one of the biggest and most complete mercantile plants in the United States; a fact that in itself makes the store an object of interest and worthy of inspection by every reader of this paper.

OUR 100 DEPARTMENTS

display twelve acres of as great a variety of Household Furnishings, Ladies', Misses' and Children's Clothing, Men's Wear, etc., as any store in New York or elsewhere.

The building fronts on three streets, with 250 feet on Broad Street, 275 feet on New Street and 200 feet on Halsey Street. First floor main aisles are 400 feet deep, the centre aisle being 25 feet wide. It is the safest store in the State to shop in, because it is the only one that is ABSOLUTELY FIREPROOF.

This store means superior advantage in selecting goods, and a substantial saving in prices over those "across the Hudson."

One visit to our store will bring you many times. Come and let us act the part of host; we'll treat you right royally.

Ten Thousand Churches in the United States have used the Longman & Martinez Pure Paints.

Every Church will be given a liberal quantity whenever they paint.

Don't pay $1.50 a gallon for Linseed oil (worth 60 cents) which you do when you buy thin paint in a can with a paint label on it.

8 & 6 make 14, therefore when you want fourteen gallons of paint, buy only eight gallons of L. & M., and mix six gallons of pure linseed oil with it.

You need only four gallons of L. & M. Paint, and three gallons of Oil mixed therewith to paint a good sized house.

Houses painted with these paints never grow shabby, even after 18 years.

These celebrated paints are sold by WOOLSTON & BUCKLE, Plainfield. H. C. MEYER, Scotch Plains.

THE PRESS WARNED

Reports Regarding Sault Ste. Marie Declared False.

AN INSULT TO CITIZENS OF THE SOO

Consolidated Lake Superior Official Says All Is Orderly and Newspapers Will Be Held Responsible For Damages.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—The following dispatch for publication has just been received from William Coyne, assistant to the president of the Consolidated Lake Superior company, and W. H. Plummer, mayor of Sault Ste. Marie:

"Insurance companies are threatening to cancel, in some cases all, in others half of, their policies on the works of the Consolidated Lake Superior company and the business houses and private dwellings of the citizens because of reports in newspapers of disorder, violence, etc., occurring in Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

"This is to inform all the newspapers that there is not, nor has there been, a more orderly town in Canada or the United States than the Soo for the past thirty days. There has been no disorder, no trouble or lawlessness of any description, nor is there likely to be. Statements to the contrary are unjust to the authorities and citizens of the Soo and an insult to the quiet, law-abiding Canadian citizens and small percentage of foreigners who go to make up the complement of men employed by the company in its woods, mines and works. There are no cases of destitution. The company and the town are feeding the ex-employees who cannot be paid for the day or two at most that elapses after they arrive at the Soo before they leave for other parts to take employment with other interests.

"The town is full of employment agents offering free transportation and good wages to all the men, and they are moving away in large numbers promptly after their arrival, entirely satisfied to leave the matter of their back pay to their friends or attorneys. The company is giving them all good and sufficient evidence of its indebtedness to them, and they are either leaving their claims with friends for collection or taking them with them, trusting the near future to see them paid in full.

"The attorney general of Canada has been asked to take cognizance of the situation and to prepare to take action against any newspaper that has, or does, publish untruthful information regarding the situation at the Soo, and if insurance policies are canceled by reason of exaggerated reports and fire losses occur an attempt will be made to collect the amount of loss from the newspaper at fault."

Milk Producers Firm.

BOSTON, Sept. 28.—The milk situation of Boston is awaiting settlement by the farmers as individuals, to whom word has been sent by the directors of the Milk Producers' union asking for instruction as to whether or not they shall remain firm in the original demand of 40 cents per can in Boston. The farmers have been advised to sign no contracts until the matter of price is settled and to withhold milk unless an agreement is reached by Wednesday night, when present contracts expire. The producers' union claims to control every drop of milk which comes into Boston by rail and through their directors assert that 40 cents is the lowest possible price which can be accepted. The contractors are equally firm in their assertion that 37½ cents per can is the best offer that they can make. This offer is identical with that of last winter.

A Bridgeton (N. J.) Blaze.

BRIDGETON, N. J., Sept. 28.—The plant of the Ferracute Machine company of this city has been destroyed by fire, entailing a loss estimated at $100,000, which is partially covered by insurance. The fire is supposed to have been started by an explosion in the boiler room of the establishment. The company manufactured, among other things, fine dies for coins and medals, etc. Two hundred persons are thrown out of work. This is the third large industrial concern in this city to be destroyed by fire within the last few weeks, and the disaster will prove a serious loss to the city.

Wing Shot Record Broken.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Sept. 28.—Adolph Toepherwein of this city, champion wing shot of the world, broke his former record of 986 targets thrown into the air by breaking 989 targets, using an automatic rifle of 22 caliber. He used only one gun during the shoot, loading it himself and not cleaning it, while when he made his former record he used several guns, which were loaded and handed to him by an assistant.

Catholic Centennial In Boston.

BOSTON, Sept. 28.—The centennial celebration of the church opened by Fathers Matignon and Cheverus in Franklin street Sept. 29, 1803, with the first edifice built for the Roman Catholics in this city, has begun in the Cathedral of the Holy Cross, which was constructed from the old Church of the Holy Cross, erected 100 years ago. Clergymen from all parts of New England are present.

Turkey Augments Armed Force.

SALONIKA, European Turkey, Sept. 28.—The immediate mobilization of the Adana, Angora, Kastamuni and Kaisaries divisions of the army, totaling sixty-four battalions, has been ordered. Half of these battalions are expected to arrive here within a week, and the rest will go to Adrianople.

The Daily Press has a higher circulation rating than is accorded to any other paper in Plainfield.—Printers' Ink.

The average citizen who voted on the amendments is still wondering what it was all about.

It can be authoritatively stated that the result of the recent vote on the amendments is still in doubt.

A would-be bride of 86 has been declared insane. The adjective might better be applied to the man of 26 who wanted to marry her, presumably for her money.

John Philip Sousa, the bandmaster "march king," says that "ragtime is an established feature of American music and will never die any more than Faust and the great operas will die." And this in spite of the fact that it is being "murdered" every day.

Newton B. Smilley, political "light" and borough chief executive, promoter of band concerts and horse races, circus ringmaster, etc, etc, has now added to his varied experiences by getting himself accidentally locked up in the Somerset County jail and doing distinguished work as a fire fighter. The genial Mayor keeps us wondering as to what he will do next.

Rural free delivery, a proved success wherever tried, is to be put into effect between Plainfield and Rahway within a short time. Although this will cut many of the farmers out of their excuse for a daily trip to "the city," they ought to be glad of the accommodation. The position of carrier should prove attractive enough to bring out a large number of candidates at tomorrow's examination.

That is an important experiment in road building that is going on at Westfield. If the test successfully proves that a road treated once in seven years with a preparation of tar will be free from dust in dry weather, mud in wet weather and frost in winter, the method should recommend itself at sight to all municipal governments. The expense in treatment would be slight and the saving in the care and repairing of roads would be great.

DUNELLEN.

The Dunellen A. C. defeated the Bound Brook team Saturday afternoon for the fifth time, winning the series. Montross started to pitch for Bound Brook but was batted out of the box in the first two innings, the Dunellen boys rolling up ten runs. Harry Moynihan then went in and held the locals down to three runs for the next six innings when the game was called because of darkness. The Bound Brook boys took a hand at the stick in the seventh inning and batted in eight runs. The score by innings:

Dunellen..... 5 5 0 1 0 0 1 1—13
Bound Brook..... 0 1 2 0 0 0 8 0—11

One of the most popular men on the Central Railroad is Engineer William Dunham, of this place, who left Jersey City Saturday night, on train 137, ten minutes late and arrived at Somerville on time. This train has less time for a local than any other train run between Jersey City and Somerville. All other engineers have had trouble in reaching Somerville on time.

The Dunellen Baseball Club and about thirty of their supporters and friends enjoyed a chicken supper at the Truss farm on the Greenbrook road Saturday evening. The event marked the end of a successful season, the team having won fifteen out of eighteen games. Manager Smith was in charge of the affair and a very enjoyable time was spent.

Walter Meyers, night ticket agent at the station, has been transferred to Westfield. Charles Dunham, of the borough, who was formerly operator at West Eighth Street, has been assigned to fill the vacancy.

Miss Ethel Taylor has returned to her home at Elizabeth after spending a few days visiting her cousin, Mrs. R. S. Fisher, of Washington avenue.

The Holy Name Cadets, of St. John's Church, held their regular monthly meeting yesterday afternoon. Some new members were admitted.

The Banjo Club will meet for their first rehearsal this evening. Some new members have been admitted and the year promises to be successful.

Fred Giddes has returned to work in Philadelphia, after spending a few days visiting his parents on North avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Giddes, of Philadelphia, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Giddes over Sunday.

Engineer Moynihan has reported for work after being laid up for a few days with a severe cold.

Mrs. Beidenhook and daughter, of Staten Island, are the guests of Paul Kratzel for a few days.

Clarence Harrison is confined to his home by an attack of the mumps.

Miss Francis Hunt visited friends in Somerville yesterday.

NEW MARKET.

The single men repaid the benedicts Saturday afternoon for their defeat of a week ago, by defeating them by a score of 17 to 8. Nelson pitched a good game for the bachelors but Chas. Kelley, of the benedicts, was hammered unmercifully. Nearly every man on the younger team touched him for two baggers. The two teams have decided to play another game on Saturday to decide the championship.

Miss Kohler, of Bound Brook, returned home after spending a few days with the Misses Dent.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Scotch Plains had a genuine mad dog scare Saturday morning. The dog, whose owner's name could not be ascertained, began operations in the borough by snapping at passers-by. In the village, he bit a horse in the hind leg and put two chickens belonging to Conrad Palts out of business. He then ran into the grounds of Jesse Ryno and engaged the Ryno dog in combat. Ferdinand Cruger attempted to stop the fight and the dog started for him. Cruger picked up a large stone, struck the animal on the head and finished him.

Batch, Manager Johnston's new find for left field territory, put up a star game Saturday afternoon, making a three base and two base hit besides putting up an errorless game in the outfield. Manager Johnston will be unable to hold him for next season as he has signed with the Brooklyns, of the National League.

"Home Mission Work," was an interesting topic of the Epworth League at their weekly meeting held last night in the Methodist Church. Miss Edna Nicholl and Miss Nancy Wade had charge of the services.

The local ball team and Alis, of Plainfield, play the deciding game of their series on the home diamond Saturday afternoon. The game will be called promptly at 3:30.

The Berkely Heights and Murray Hill team crossed bats yesterday on the Berkely diamond. Several from the village played with the Murray Hill team.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Archibold and family, of Westfield, spent Sunday with Mr. Archibold's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Archibold, of Washington Valley.

A number of the lovers of baseball from the village attended the game Sunday afternoon at Bayonne, between the Baysides and All-Professionals.

Arthur Gable, who has been visiting his uncle, Rev. G. M. Shott, at the manse, has returned to his home in Cincinnatti, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. John P. Stevens, of the borough, who have been summering among the Berkshire Hills, have returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hollingsworth, of Cranford, spent Sunday with Mr. Hollingsworth's father, Lotus Hollingsworth.

John Haskard, of Grant avenue, was the guest Sunday, of his mother, Mrs. John Haskard, of Grand street.

William Alexandra, formerly of the village, now of Plainfield, has been visiting friends in town.

The showers Sunday afternoon stalled a nnumber of auto and bicycle riders in town.

The weekly meeting of the P. Y. P. U., of the Baptist Church, was held last night.

Henry Keuhn, of Plainfield, was the guest Saturday, of friends in the village.

Alexander Frazer, of Evona, spent Sunday with friends in town.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

There has been a long delay in the placing of the electric light poles and wires on account of the opposition of certain property holders who refuse to allow the poles to be placed near them.

Mrs. Kate Brantingham, after an extended visit among friends in Monmouth County and elsewhere, has returned home.

Repairs on the Baptist Church will be begun tomorrow morning.

Mrs. Ida Harris is entertaining friends from out-of-town.

—Somebody passing the barber shop of George Richter, Somerset street, at 9:15 o'clock Saturday night, noticed the odor of gas issuing therefrom and promptly telephoned the fire department that there was a fire. There was no blaze and no cause for alarm. The gas pipes in the store had been out of order and had given rise to the odor that caused the alarm. The building is owned by the P. M. French estate.

Distress After Eating Cured.

Judge W. T. Holland, of Greensburg, La., who is well and favorably known, says: "Two years ago I suffered greatly from indigestion After eating, great distress would invariably result, lasting for an hour or so and my nights were restless. PLAINFIELD'S NEW BASEBALL CHAMPIONS has put up this season, especially in the first and sixth innings. In the sixth, a regular merry-go-round was in operation for a few minutes. A three-base hit together with the errors netted four runs for the Aeolians and clinched the game. Davis, for the 'Plains, was in poor form at times, although one or twice he settled down and pitched his usual steady game. Maurer was touched up for a three-base hit and two two-baggers, but he kept the hits scattered. Scotch Plains made the only earned run of the game, Batch, in the first inning's lining out a two-base hit to infield, scoring on Cruzius clean hit to center.

CHILD LABOR LAW.

Act in Effect September 1 Found to Have Brought Good Results.

The new child labor law which went into effect in New Jersey on Sept. 1, was the subject of an all-day conference at the State House on Wednesday.

At the close of the conference it was announced that the factory inspectors were well pleased with the progress which is being made in the enforcement of the law, especially in the glass manufacturing regions in South Jersey.

Nearly 300 children below the age of 14 years have been discharged since the first of the month at the demand of the inspectors and it is said that fully as many more have been dismissed voluntarily by the employers.

A peculiar condition is found to exist in that the law makes no provision for orphan children whom it deprives of employment. The Governor has announced his determination to see to the enforcement of the child labor law and the State factory department will bend all its energies to carry out the Governor's wishes in the matter.

PARKS SAYS "HARMONY."

Convention of Iron Workers Will Have No Further Trouble.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 28.—Samuel Parks, delegate to the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers from local union No. 2, New York, says that harmony will prevail during the remainder of the sessions of the convention here. The refusal of the convention to grant a charter to the new union known as the New York Housesmiths' union, which sent four delegates to the convention, Delegate Parks says, is a closed incident. These four delegates in a statement issued to the convention say:

"In refusing a charter to the New York Housesmiths' union you have virtually indorsed all that is bad and rotten in trades unionism. By your action you have lost to your body the greatest city in the United States. All present refuse to recognize a union which will in the end be the dominant power in the iron trades in New York."

The statement attacks Samuel Parks and, continuing, says:

"Keep that man in, and within three months there will be nothing left of No. 2, and the International union will be put down and out as far as New York is concerned. Now we will say that any organization that relies on brute force to maintain its supremacy will finally end in disorder and disruption."

Delegate Parks said:

"I am quoted in New York as saying that I am going to raise all kinds of trouble on my return there. Present conditions do not exactly call for strikes. I do not intend to call any strike among the structural iron workers engaged on buildings in New York. But if there is not a change in the conditions at the East river bridge I shall start something there in about two weeks."

President Buchanan said:

"I know of no reason why there should be any further trouble in the convention. There will be no split."

PHILIPPINE COMMERCE.

A Rapid Growth of Foreign Trade Shown by Report.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—The returns of Philippine commerce for May, 1903, about to be published by the bureau of insular affairs of the war department, show the foreign trade of the islands aggregated for the month $6,872,982 exclusive of government supplies and gold and silver, being even greater than that reported for April of the present year, the value of which exceeded that for any single month since American occupation.

Importations amounted to $3,331,655, being considerably in excess of the monthly average as a result of heavy purchases of food stuffs, rice imports alone approximating nearly $1,750,000 worth. The outgoing trade for the month of May included shipments of Philippine products to the value of $3,481,327. For eleven months ended May 31, 1903, the total trade amounted to $460,576,245, while for the corresponding period of 1902 the value was $50,824,000.

The gain indicated by the foregoing figures is due to the extraordinary increase in exports, especially of hemp, which shows a trade of $19,506,211, all in the eleven months ended May 31, 1903, as against $14,513,875 in the same period of 1902. Copra shipments also are on the increase, and the exportation of this product now ranks second in importance, followed by sugar and tobacco. A material decrease is shown in the cigar trade as compared with record figures for the previous year.

Customs revenues to the value of $8,500,000 were collected during eleven months of 1903, an increase amounting to over $1,000,000 as compared with the previous year.

Boy Slayer In Pitiable Condition.

BOSTON, Sept. 28.—Fred A. Wilson, aged sixteen, of Worcester, who fled from that city Saturday night after having unintentionally, he says, shot and killed his companion, Carl Fingal, has been discovered in a freight car in the yard of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad here. Wilson was found by Inspector Roach of Worcester, who had traced him to this city. The condition of the boy was pitiable, grief and fright having evidently seriously affected his mind. He was arrested on a warrant charging manslaughter and taken to Worcester.

The Next Step For Ireland.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—Addressing a demonstration at Newcastle, County Down, John Redmond, the Irish leader, said that, the Irish land bill having been secured, the next session must be devoted to the laborers' question. The political situation today was a strange one, he continued, and if Premier Balfour desired to retain office the Irish party would hold the power of life or death in its hands and would use that power without compunction to forward the interests of the Irish cause.

Duke of Richmond Dead.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—The Duke of Richmond, Lennox and Gordon is dead at Gordon castle, Fochabers, Banffshire, as the result of a chill contracted on Thursday last. The duke had been giving a large house party, and the castle was full of guests when the gravity of his seizure was announced. The deceased was the sixth Duke of Richmond. He was born Feb. 27, 1818, and succeeded his father in 1860. He held various important government positions.

An Ideal Location

Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE

LINDEN, N. J.

Beautiful and Accessible

2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,

14 MILES FROM NEW YORK

On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE, NOW, OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL, or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

DAME FASHION'S MOODS.

The Modes of the Season Are Based on Common Sense.

So far this season fashion has appeared to take a common sense view of things in general and to choose out of what we have been wearing all that is useful, pretty and becoming and after making a few changes and alterations giving them back to us for fall and winter wear. The shirt waists that so many were sure would be relegated to the bourn whence old styles never return are with us still. They are now of fine flannels, either Scotch or French, and of silks of quite heavy qualities, some of them overlaid with lace. Veilings are also used largely for these waists, and they take so kindly to heavy applications of lace that it seems to belong on them by right. Liberty in white or very light color is often employed for the dressiest of these, and many of them show a small cape line entirely of lace or nearly if not quite covered with the material. Quite a number of these small capes and pel erines are bordered with fringe, and some have an elaborate pattern worked in spangles.

NEW WAISTS AND CAPELINES.

The volle gowns will soon be thought too transparent for the season, but the waists of that pleasing fabric will be seen often. Crepe de chine, leopard pannes in very rich colors, embossed velvets, the Persian designs in the same and the shining gun metal velutinas all are designed for separate waists.

The general plan of making them is not very different from that of the last season, but one may say that they are not so loose and look much trimmer at the waist line. The point in front is a matter of personal taste, for some of them are quite round. Others are deeply pointed, and almost all, of whatever kind or quality, have tucks as a part of the body of the waist or trimming.

For everyday wear the vestings give a fine variety of stuffs and colors, all mercerized. The vestings, being so thick, require less trimming, but they make stylish and striking waists. Madras is another cotton which is developed into almost a new fabric, so heavy and so carefully designed is it. Most of the flannels are intended to be washed, and so the coloring is not so rich and vivid as silk, but it is handsome, particularly a velvety mulberry shade. This in soft woolen goods is simply beautiful.

I notice on many of the waists much shirring. This is put on the shoulders and at the wrists and waist. Shirring was always pretty. Black brilliantine is used in many pretty and useful garments of this kind. But in the veiling there are many colors and shades, including lilac, champagne, pale blue, rose and shell pink, mode, ecru, castor and several shades of delicate green and the helios. Some have deep lace covered yokes, and in fact one can have what she thinks she would look pretty in.

Buttons are to be a factor in the season's styles, and some of them are almost as fine as jewels, while others are severely plain. Some are large and others very small; some are of pearl and others of silk to match the dress. Buttons covered with linen are seen on many waists, and the amount of fancy passementerie with small crocheted pendants is limitless. Belts are made of fancy silk braid and have tasseled ends, while some are military in form and execution. The Cossack and Hungarian braids are offered with confidence, for they are too handsome to overlook.

Some of the fancy collars and belts look as if they had been taken from some museum where a special cult had been made of Indian relics. The same way of weaving must have been employed, and the same figures have been wrought. There is a glistening bead belt all in white, with a twisted fringe of the same, which is really beautiful from every point of view. All these bead belts are long enough to cross at the waist line and hang down several inches, say six, with the fringe still below.

Among the silks we find the new soft finished black taffeta, which is to be a leading fabric for nice suits. There are also many colored taffeta dress silks and velours chiffon, which is a marvel of beauty.

Next to silks for fineness and desirability comes the imported broadcloth. This may be satin finished or dull finished, as one prefers. When made of such superb material deserves it is one of the most elegant of woolen goods.

HENRIETTE ROUSSEAU.

SPORTS AND ATHLETICS

Tennis experts have been playing a more or less prominent part in the public prints of the east, and the preliminary practice for the international matches have caused considerable interest. American players have, as a rule, been playing an unsteady game and their real form not shown. H. L. Doherty, the British champion, who with his brother, R. F. Doherty, and H. F. Mahoney, recently arrived to take part in the matches, has perhaps displayed the best tennis shown yet in the east, and that only when forced out of his easy-going stride to prevent the loss of a set. Doherty goes at the game much like a man playing for the pure animal enjoyment of it, leisurely making his strokes and at peace with himself and the world. Once aroused, though, his speed and steadiness are something remarkable and are some indication of the style of game the Americans are up against. His cross-court drives and smashes, beautifully and fiercely placed, are decidedly depressing to his opponents. If in the international matches he has the ability to so vary his style from the easy strength-saving game to the fierce, fast play there is no doubt he could win the series, strength conditions being equal.

H. T. Doherty.

In the tournaments so far played on the Metropolitan tennis courts this season little attention has been given the new service rule, more familiarly known as the foot-fault rule which was made by the United States National Lawn Tennis association. Where the average American player is at variance with those who advocated the change is in that part of the rule which says: "It is not a fault if one only of the server's feet does not touch the ground at the moment at which the service is delivered. He shall place both feet on the ground immediately before serving, and not take a running or walking start." This will make it a difficult matter for those players who were so fast at getting to the net behind their service to attain that position of vantage. It has been the force of these aggressive tactics that has beaten the Englishmen from the old days of Goodbody down to the time of the great competitions of last year, which witnessed the overthrow of the Doherty brothers.

Speed and ability to break world's records do not always win middle-distance bicycle races, as was shown recently at Boston, when Bobby Walthour defeated George Leander, of Chicago, and Basil de Guichard, the Frenchman. The distance was 15 miles from a standing start and Walthour won in 18:11. De Guichard is the chap who recently reeled off a mile at Pittsburg in 1:08, creating a new mark, while Leander came into prominence recently by breaking all world's records from one to 15 miles.

George Leander.

Middle distance pace-following nowadays is a much more dangerous proposition than it used to be in the days of the triples and quads propelled by leg-power. Since the introduction of mechanical pace there have been several fatalities and now every precaution is taken to guard against such accidents as resulted in the deaths of Johnny Nelson, Harry Elkes and others. The pacemaker, too, comes in for a great deal of consideration and the man over the motor now presents a strange sight to eyes accustomed to the scanty attire of the old days. In the first place the pacemaker is provided with a solid leather cap, such as is used by football players. This fits snugly on his head and also protects his ears, so in case of a fall he has a chance to escape fracture of the skull. He is dressed as warmly as if going on an arctic expedition—a leather suit and rubber overshoes being designed to protect him. The clothes are all heavily padded and this saves him some when an accident results in a fall. The pace-follower has to take more chances. He cannot handicap himself with heavy clothing and a headgear and has to take his chance in a mix-up. About the only safeguard he has is an iron attachment on the rear of the pacing machine which prevents him from touching wheels with the motor. This in itself, however, saves many falls, although in the old days Jimmy Michael used to nonchalantly rub wheels while going at top speed without coming the cropper that usually results.

The grand old game of yachting has been revived on the Oconomowoc lakes in Wisconsin. The twenty-fifth annual regatta of the Oconomowoc Yacht club was sailed on La Belle lake recently. Boats from half a dozen lakes were entered. The event was the most interesting regatta that has taken place on the lake in years and as a social affair it surpassed all expectations.

Hughey Duffy, manager of the Milwaukee Western League club, has announced that there was no truth in the report that the Milwaukee club was to be transferred to Peoria and the latter club shifted here for the balance of the season.

PANAMA'S CABLE WAR.

Lines to Be Closed Because of Refusal of Increased Concessions.

PANAMA, Sept. 28.—It is announced that the cable service to Buena Ventura will be closed at the end of September. The inspector of telegraphs has received orders from Bogota to close the Central and South American company's office in this town on the suspension of the service to Buena Ventura. If the government carries out its threat the company will lose heavily.

The government in the meantime is making efforts to establish the Marconi system of wireless telegraphy between Panama, Chiriqui, Buena Ventura, Colon, Bocas del Toro and Cartagena. It is also reported that the West India and Panama Telegraph company will offer to construct a cable to Buena Ventura.

A dispatch from Bogota says:

"The minister of state has made public the demands of the cable company, which asks for a new concession lasting twenty years and the privilege of raising the tariff. Among the reasons given for the government's refusal of these propositions is that an Italian company has applied to establish a system of wireless telegraphy."

No agreement has yet been arrived at regarding the candidates for the presidency and vice presidency of the republic. The men who were spoken of as candidates, such as Senores Velez and Gonzalez and Generals Ospina and Perdomo, are now out of the running. President Marroquin and his son have declined to be nominated.

The country wishes the election of men who will pursue a policy of conciliation and fraternity toward all parties. The two men who now are most in public view are General Reyes and Senor Rico, the actual foreign minister. They are both practical men of moderate views who do not represent any extreme party and will be accepted not only by the Conservative Nationalist party, but by the Liberals. It is thought that their election would be a guarantee of Colombian peace and progress.

CLEARS MURDER MYSTERY.

Woman's Deathbed Confession Explains Indiana Tragedy of 1885.

JASPER, Ind., Sept. 28.—Mrs. Nellie Andrews, formerly Miss Nellie Conrad, made a confession just before her death which clears up the mystery connected with a tragedy that in 1885 caused much excitement in southern Indiana.

Stanford Freeman, a young farmer of this county, was called to his gate by two men and two women the night before he was to be married and after a scuffle was found by his intended bride with several wounds from a knife and with his skull fractured in several places. He died without revealing the identity of his slayers, who had ridden swiftly away.

Mrs. Andrews said that she was one of the party which visited Freeman, that one of the men who was present is dead and the other in the Tennessee state prison. The woman who accompanied them, she said, and who disappeared several years ago was murdered because of fear lest she betray the murderers.

Mrs. Andrews said that she was in love with Freeman, and one of the men was in love with Freeman's intended wife, and when they went to the gate that night a demand was made that Freeman marry her at once. When he refused he was fatally stabbed, and the four had kept the secret so well that no suspicion was aroused.

Expectorators Denounced In Church.

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 28. — Rev. John J. Doherty, pastor of St. Mary's church, the largest Catholic church in Norfolk, created consternation at mass when he denounced male members of the parish for spitting on the floor of the church. Father Doherty declared such men desecrated the house of God by their action and were not wanted in the church. "I have a pretty fair idea of these men's identity," he said, "but to be doubly sure I will employ a detective to attend services and report expectorators to me. These reports I will read to the congregation, and I will cause the arrest of the guilty parties as violators of the city ordinance prohibiting spitting in public buildings."

A September Hailstorm.

WEST CHESTER, Pa., Sept. 28.—Damage to the extent of at least $25,000 was done here yesterday afternoon by a hailstorm, the stones in some instances being two inches in diameter. All the school buildings, churches, court house, depots and the cars on both steam and trolley lines were damaged to considerable extent. Several people were badly bruised and cut by the hailstones. One nursery had 14,000 panes of glass destroyed, while the Pennsylvania Railroad company had the windows of forty cars broken.

A Texas Car Strike.

WACO, Tex., Sept. 28.—A strike on the local street car system has gone into effect, and not a car has moved for twenty-four hours. The men demand recognition of the union and an increase in wages, both of which were refused by the management.

Accidentally Electrocuted.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Sept. 28.—Loran T. Wilmer has been electrocuted at his home in this city. While searching in the cellar for the cause of trouble with the electric light wires of his house he received a shock of 2,000 volts. He was instantly killed.

Mrs. Davis Is Better.

BUFFALO, Sept. 28.—It is stated at Castle Inn that Mrs. Jefferson Davis has rallied and that her condition shows a decided improvement.

YELLOW FEVER IN MEXICO.

Pestilence Spreads at Laredo, and Thousands Have Fled the City.

LAREDO, Tex., Sept. 28.—Two deaths and twelve new cases of yellow fever were reported at the close of yesterday. This city now presents a dead appearance, all those who could get away having departed for points north of Texas and for points south. It is estimated by the authorities that nearly 4,000 people have fled from here since the beginning of the yellow fever scare and the later development of the disease.

The city is now quarantined against in all directions of the state, and no person can get beyond the limits of Webb county, other Texas counties having established a shotgun quarantine and turning back all those who are endeavoring to get away in coaches, buggies and carts.

The situation in Nuevo Laredo is unchanged, no deaths or new cases having occurred so far as can be learned.

The Mexican custom house authorities have been moved temporarily to Lampasas, where all incoming baggage and freight over the National Railroad of Mexico is examined, thus permitting trains to run through to Laredo, Tex., without stopping at Nuevo Laredo.

One Death at Monterey.

MONTERREY, Mexico, Sept. 28.—Dr. Alvin G. Alderman, a well known American, founder of the Christian institute, is dead at his home near the school from what is said to be yellow fever. The authorities are taking every precaution to prevent the spread of the disease, and no new case has been reported. The schools have been suspended.

Refugees at the Capital.

CITY OF MEXICO, Sept. 28.—Refugees from Valles, Victoria, Santiago, Linores and Tampico, fleeing through fear of the yellow fever, are making their appearance here. Their stories of the progress and ravages of the scourge are varied.

Fresh Outbreak at Tampico.

TAMPICO, Mexico, Sept. 28.—Five new cases of yellow fever have appeared here, though they are of a mild form apparently. The authorities are uniting in their efforts to kill the plague.

EXPRESSED A MAN.

Prisoner Waybilled From Nebraska to Boston.

BOSTON, Sept. 28.—Without doubt the first prisoner ever sent by express is Floyd T. Ferris, who arrived here by American Express from Columbus, Neb., en route to Lynn, where he is wanted for the larceny of $250 from the company which transported him. Ferris was willing to return, so word was sent east that it would not be necessary to send an officer after him.

He was accordingly entered upon the regular waybill as "one man" consigned to "police, Lynn," at "owner's risk" and with "liability limited to actual value." He was placed in the express car, with the messenger as guard.

He was not handcuffed and was fed regularly, as a pet animal would be under similar conditions. Ferris says he enjoyed the trip, and he hopes to get his troubles straightened out and begin life anew.

Lou Dillon Will Not Enter Contest.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 28.—Mr. C. K. G. Billings, owner of Lou Dillon, the trotting mare, has announced that positively she will not be allowed to go into a contest with another horse in a trial for supremacy. Mr. Billings states as his reason for this decision that Lou Dillon is but five years old and comparatively inexperienced and untrained. The mare will be shipped with the other members of the Billings string to Lexington, Ky., Wednesday, where she has two engagements. After the Lexington meeting Lou Dillon will be shipped to Memphis, Tenn., where she is scheduled to go against the world's trotting record, a trial against time, which will probably be her last for this season.

Circus Sleepers Destroyed.

LANCASTER, Pa., Sept. 28.—Fire destroyed two sleeping cars of the Welsh Bros.' circus at Gordonville, this county, where the show is in winter quarters. Colonel M. H. Welsh, his general manager, Clinton Newton, and several attaches were asleep in the cars when the flames broke out. All escaped, but lost their personal effects. Colonel Welsh was overcome by smoke and had to be carried from the car, making a narrow escape from burning. The cars were totally consumed and with them a hundred sets of harness, trappings, costumes and other paraphernalia.

Condemned Man Confesses.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 28.—Peter Lenousky, who is doomed to die on the gallows tomorrow morning in this city for the murder of Anthony Sennek, who was beaten to death with a hatchet in the Exeter mine on April 12, 1902, has made a confession, admitting that he struck the blow which killed Sennek. Robbery was the motive. Sennek was supposed to carry a large amount of money on his person, but his murderers obtained only a few cents.

SPORTING NEWS.

INFIELD HITS.

Matty McIntyre, an old Westfield ball player, has expressed a wish to return to his old team. He will probably wear a Westfield uniform hereafter.

Says the Westfield Standard in its last issue: "The Predicter, who predicted the defeat of the Westfield baseball team a week ago Saturday, was a monumental failure."

In a game yesterday between the Perrvalls and Ridgewood teams at Ridgewood, "Warry" MacLaughlin pitched for the Ridgewood nine. He struck out ten men, his team winning by a score of 7 to 1.

The tennis committee of the Westfield Club has arranged for a mixed double tennis tournament to be held on the club's courts, Saturday, Oct. 3. An informal dance will be held in the evening. With this event the tennis season will close.

ALL MAY NOMINATE.

Socialists, Prohibitionists and Other Minor Parties May Place Tickets in the Field.

The Socialists, Prohibitionists and labor men will be able to nominate tickets as usual this fall, even though they did not come under the operation of the new primary law.

At first sight it looked as if the new primary law barred them out. The new act affects only those parties that polled 5 per cent. of the total vote or more. Only the Republican and the Democratic parties come under the head.

Under section 41 of the general election act the Socialists, labor men and Prohibitionists may as heretofore, nominate their tickets, and the county clerk must provide them with ballots as usual.

SNAP SHOTS.

SIDE LIGHTS ON TIMELY TOPICS NOTED IN PASSING.

Plainfield's sidewalks by their unevenness have often caused annoying accidents, one of the most peculiar of which was one that happened to a little girl in front of a store on West Front street the other afternoon. There is an opening between the flags in the sidewalk of about two and a half inches at this point, just wide enough to permit a small girl's shoe to enter. Into this the youngster had worked her shoe, and try as she would to get it out she could not succeed. An accommodating salesman took hold but he too, was unsuccessful. Finally the only way possible to extricate the girl was taken and the shoe removed from the foot.

A man with the air of a martyr expiring at the stake, with lines of long-suffering furrowed deep on his face, limped pitifully up to the judgment seat in the city court the other morning and in tones of anguish begged for mercy and his freedom. His tale of woe he told in a whisper, nearly fainting from an excess of pain and twice sinking distressfully into a chair. His contorted features were enough to move the stoniest-hearted to sympathy, and a look at him made the rough words of the court officers seem brutal.

His name was John Rogers, and he is one of the cleverest fakirs that ever did business in Plainfield. He can tell strange and impossible tales with the face of an honest man outraged and unjustly stricken to earth. The stage lost an eminent tragedian when Rogers took to faking. As the martyred hero undone by his enemies, or the heavy villain in a melodrama, he would be a "find." His case would puzzle a six-eyed sleuth.

His story to the court was that he had been suffering from rheumatism for months and he gave some realistic illustrations of the effects of its twinges. He bore a card in his pocket containing some verses: "I was once happy the same as you, but now I'm a cripple," etc. These verses he sells for "as much as you care to give" and spends the proceeds for drink, his arrest the other day being for helpless intoxication. The peculiarity of his disease being that he suffers only when exposed to public view. City Judge Runyon thought he could best recuperate by taking thirty days off in the County jail, and sentence was passed accordingly.

LITERARY.

John Burroughs is to contribute to The Century for 1904 a number of articles on "Current Misconceptions in Natural History," giving his views as to what he believes to be errors of observation, record, or deduction on the part of contemporary writers on nature subjects. The echoes of Mr. Burrough's article on a similar topic which appeared in The Atlantic last spring are still reverberating, and in this series Mr. Burroughs will take up the subject more fully, publishing his matured opinions as to instinct, the alleged teaching of young animals by their parents, the play of animals, and the kindred themes.

Serious Offense.

A woman in Plainfield caused a notice to be published in the newspapers reciting her marriage to a married man living in Westfield. He was charged with bigamy and she explained that her act was a joke. There is a law now in this State covering such acts. It is a misdemeanor to furnish false information to a newspaper, the publication of which does injury to any person. It would appear proper for the victimized newspaper to do something in the matter.—Jersey City Evening Journal.

PROCEEDINGS BY RECEIVER.

Voorhees Applies for Relief for Loan Association Investors.

Former Governor Foster M. Voorhees has made new applications in the Court of Chancery as the receiver for the Republic Savings and Loan Association for the relief of several investors who are about to lose their homes through the foreclosure of mortgages. There are a number of Plainfielders interested in this concern.

Mr. Voorhees, it will be remembered, succeeded recently in having the court approve the settlement of one of these claims in a case where a poor man had paid more money into the association through dues, fines and interest, than the amount of the original mortgage. Nevertheless the association could have sold the property under foreclosure proceedings.

It was suggested by the former Governor that the best way out of the difficulty was to accept a small payment covering the cost of the sale and the court approved of this.

Narrow Escape.

John P. VanHorn, of Summit avenue, had a narrow escape from serious injury, Saturday night at about 6 o'clock, while riding his wheel along Somerset street, near Fairview avenue. Near the corner of the two streets he encountered Mrs. E. S. F. Randolph, who was coming toward town in an automobile. The young man's injures consisted of several scratches on the leg and a general shaking up.

AUTHORITIES AFTER A TRANSIENT DEALER

City's Officers Swoop Down On Concern Attempting to Do Ten Days' Business.

MUST PAY FULL TAXES

LIABILITIES OF COMPANY TEMPORARILY IN BUSINESS HERE.

Stock to be Levied on if Assessment is Not Paid—First Test of Law—Collector Protects Local Merchants.

An effective blow was delivered yesterday to the transient merchants by the City Board of Assessors. F. T. Smith, representing the Bradbury Piano Company, stated in for business with a half dozen pianos at the store at 188 North avenue and announced that he was going to hold a ten days' piano sale.

Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh was consulted by the City Collector and upon looking up the matter found that there is a law which empowers the Board of Assessors to assess the stock of transient merchants for the full value just as other merchants in the city have their good assessed.

Armed with evidence the members of the Board of Assessors, Mr. Marsh, and Tax Collector Frank H. Smith walked into the store yesterday afternoon and assessed the goods. The agent objected but when the law was shown him he could do nothing. The goods will be levied on if the tax is not paid.

It is believed that this is the first time the law has been put in force in this city and it is possible that the Bradbury Piano Company will make a test case of it in the courts.

One of the members of the Board, in speaking of the case yesterday, said that it was probably the first time the law has been enforced in New Jersey. He declared that it was unfair to the other dealers in a city for the town to allow an outsider to come in and attempt to sell goods at a lower figure than the merchants in the city who pay taxes and are entitled to protection.

TEMPERANCE LESSON.

Ten Nights in a Bar Room in Stereopticon at the W. C. T. U. Meeting.

"Ten Nights in a Bar Room" was effectively reproduced by stereopticon by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union last night in its rooms in the Babcock building. Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson read the story with its ever forceful lessons. Songs by Mrs. John Manley and Miss Helen Woolley were interspersed in the intervals between chapters. Miss Woolley also recited twice and Miss Florence Bennett sang two soprano solos. The programme closed with the singing by all of "Home Sweet Home" and "Some Glad Day." The proceeds of the entertainment went for the benefit of the Union.

Approaching Marriage.

Announcement is made of the approaching marriage of Miss Sara Wilbur Gordon, an aunt of Mrs. Walter C. Dobbins, of this city, daughter of William H. Gordon, Sr., of East Millstone, and Joseph F. McMahon, of New York, which will take place on Wednesday, October 14. Owing to the illness of Miss Gordon's father and mother, the wedding will be celebrated quietly in New York and after a short trip the couple will take up their residence at 639 Jersey avenue, Jersey City.

Lock the Doors.

In spite of continual warnings by the police, local shopkeepers are still careless about leaving their store doors open nights. The committee in charge of the affair was the Consistory, which includes John Schorb, Sr., Phillip Bach, Joseph Angerbauer, Christian Debele and Fred Endress, assisted by Mrs. Angerbauer, Mrs. Bach, Mrs. Schorb and Mrs. Jacob Blimm.

DIOCESAN SEMI-CENTENNIAL

ST. MARY'S AND ST. JOSEPH'S R. C. CHURCHES TO CELEBRATE.

Solemn Triduum in Which Cardinal, Apostolic Delegate, Bishops and Priests Will Participate.

The parishioners of St. Mary's and St. Joseph's Churches and all others throughout the Newark diocese are interested in the plans of an elabroate character, which have been arranged for the proper celebraation of the semi-centennial jubilee of the diocese. Practically the occasion will be honored by services extending over a week, beginning Thursday, October 29 and continuing until the following Wednesday.

A solemn triduum, or three days of services, will be commenced by way of preparation for the general celebration, which will be held Sunday, November 1, the anniversary of the date in 1853 that the then bishop, subsequent archbishop of Baltimore, and primate of the Roman Catholic Church in the United States, the Rt. Rev. James Roosevelt Bailey, came to Newark to assume charge of the see.

In the local churches and throughout the diocese in every church Sunday, November 1, there will be a special mass of thanksgiving in honor of the occasion, and in every church in the diocese a sermon will be preached on work, growth and progress of Catholicity in the diocese.

There will be no services the next day, Monday, but on Tuesday, November 3, the culminating religious service will take place. This will be in the form of a solemn high mass, to be celebrated at St. Patrick's Church, Newark, by Rt. Rev. Bishop O'Connor. The sermon of the occasion will be delivered by Rt. Rev. Bernard J. McQuaid, Bishop of Rochester, and former president of Seton Hall College.

At this service the Most Rev. Diomede Falconio, delegate apostolic to this country from the Vatican, will be present with several of the attaches from the delegation at Washington. Clergymen from all parts of the diocese and from other dioceses will be present. It is not unlikely that Cardinal Gibbons will be present as well as Arch-bishop Farley, of New York, and the other bishops in the province of New York, of which the diocese of Newark is a part.

TRINITY REFORMED CHURCH SOCIETY'S INTERESTING MEETING.

Mrs. F. E. Woodruff in Charge—Pictures Shown—Five New Members Proposed.

A meeting of unusual interest was held in Trinity Reformed Church last night, under the auspices of the missionary committee of the Christian Endeavor Society. Mrs. F. E. Woodruff was in charge, and the subject was "Japan." During the evening a number of pictures and printed items depicting every-day life and mission work in Japan were passed among those present, intending to increase their interest in this work. These pictures and clippings were obtained by the missionary committee, the former showing mission stations, natives in costume, while the clippings told of the work being done.

During the service there was special music by the Endeavor Society choir. As an evidence of the society's prosperity and steady growth, five new candidates were proposed for active membership.

In fact the evening's programme was unique.

SCHOOL BOARD'S DOINGS

AUTHORITIES IN NORTH PLAINFIELD HOLD SHORT SESSION.

Discussion of Plans for the New School—Borrow Money—Order Bills Paid.

Sites were discussed last evening for the proposed new school building in North Plainfield at the regular meeting of the Board of Education. It was the consensus of opinion of the members of the Board that a new school should be built and that the new structure should not be limited to four rooms. It is probable that the new school building will be rushed through to completion as soon as possible.

After the regular business had been concluded the Board went into executive session. The matter of selecting a site was discussed and estimates received on the various locations. Nothing definite was done in the matter and another meeting will be held Monday evening when further action will be taken.

The President and Clerk were authorized to draw warrants for the payment of bills amounting to $3,204.85, divided as follows: General fund, $2,883.37; manual training, $240.20, and library, $80.88. It was carried that the amount of $3,000 be borrowed on demand. While the clerk was reading the minutes A. V. D. Honeyman suggested that the wording of a minute be changed. The minute referred to was that of a resolution offered at a previous meeting that a new building of four rooms be erected. The word "four room" was ordered stricken from the record.

DISFIGURED FOR LIFE.

Peter Kane Accidently Struck in the Face With Blade of Shovel and Badly Cut.

Peter Kane, twenty-four years old, who lives on West Third street, was severely cut in the face yesterday afternoon while at work at the Pond Machine Tool Company's Works. In company with a fellow workman, he was shoveling some earth when, in some manner he got in the way of his companion's shovel with the result that the blade of the implement struck him in the face, cutting a deep gash from the mouth almost to the ear. He was taken to the hospital where eight stitches were taken in the wound. He will be disfigured for life.

TROLLEY MEN THREAT.

Restless Condition Among Employes in Newark.

Although the men here are adverse to any strike dissatisfaction is growing among the Newark trolley employes. Several meetings of the unions were held there yesterday, but nothing decisive resulted. The men declared that their leaders must soon give them some positive assurance of betterment of conditions or they would bolt and organize a strike on their own responsibility.

Albert H. Stanley, of Detroit, was made superintendent of the trolley lines of the entire Public Service system. It was rumored that he was to supersede Walter W. Wheatley as general manager, but he is to be an assistant.

Criterion Club to Reorganize.

Clarence T. Brokaw announces that the Criterion Club will probably reorganize early next month. A dance will be held in the Casino in the near future. An invitation has been received by the members to join with the Norwood Club but it is hardly likely that this combination will be effected.

BLAZE IN MILL.

Fire Supposedly of Spontaneous Origin Was Quickly Extinguished.

Matches in the pockets of a greasy pair of overalls caused a fire of spontaneous origin in R. H. McCullough's mill in Steiner place, North Plainfield, at 6:25 last evening. The fire was discovered, by a man named Allen, in a pile of shavings. An alarm was turned in and the fire department arrived in remarkably quick time. The flames had been extinguished before the department got on the scene. The damage will not exceed $50. John McCullough, a son of the owner of the mill, while rushing through the mill, ran against a buzz saw and was severely cut in the side under the arm.

ORIENT MEN TO ORGANIZE

THE DEGREE MEMBERS OF JUNIORS TO BAND TOGETHER.

State Organization to Be Formed—First Session to be Held in Trenton.

The two or three hundred local members of the Jr. O. U. A. M. are greatly interested in the announcement that the Oriental degree men are about to form a State organization. The councils of the order in Union County at a recent convention appointed a committee to formulate plans. W. N. Chapin, of Elizabeth, is chairman of the committee, and the secretary is W. N. Gray, of Cranford.

The committee has already held several sessions and has decided to make the recommendation for the State organization. A meeting of the members of the Oriental degree of the State will be held for the purpose at Trenton on the night before the convening of the State Council the third week of October. Mr. Chapin, chairman of the committee, has made a tour of the State during the past six weeks and has visited a number of the order. He has found a unanimity of approval of the scheme among leaders of the Oriental degree.

It is probable that after the forming of the State organization of the Oriental degree a team will be designated to confer the degree on any delegates to the State Council who have not yet received it. The Jr. O. U. A. M. is the largest beneficiary order in the State.

DURABLE TIMBER.

White Oak in Hazen Barn on Watchung Avenue One Hundred and Fifty-Five Years Old.

As an evidence of the durability of wood used for building purposes, a remarkable case has just been reported in the demolition of the old barn at the Hazen residence on Watchung avenue. A white oak timber that has been in that barn forty years was found as one of the supporting beams on the foundations. It is known for a fact that that timber is 155 years old for it was in Lewis Webster's house on Watchung avenue, opposite Isaac Brown's residence for 115 years. It is in a fine state of preservation and from appearances it will stand many years of wear.

Bicyclists Collide.

Miss Wilhelmina Vroom, of 334 East Sixth street, was thrown violently from her wheel on Park avenue at 9 o'clock last night as the result of a collision with a colored man, John W. Reed, of 604 East Fourth street, also riding a bicycle. Miss Vroom was taken to her home in a carriage.

On Her Birthday.

Voting Machines Here.

The voting machines, which will be used in the city and borough as a test this year at the general election, have arrived. They are about five feet high and resemble an incubator or a vapor bath. One will be in use in the Fourth ward, this city.

INTER-STATE FAIR OPEN.

Thursday Will be Politicians' Day and the Governor Will be There.

The Interstate Fair at Trenton opened yesterday, Director Richard Stockton raising the official pennant. There was a big attendance, and prospects for the rest of the week are fine. The exhibition includes all of the old-time attractions, and a number of new "turns" have been added to the vaudeville programme. The racing will be especially strong this year. There is a good display of farm products. Twenty-five thousand school children are expected to attend today. Tomorrow will be farmers' day, and on Thursday there will be the annual gathering of the politicians, Governor Murphy and other big leaders being expected.

Value of Daily Press Advertising.

Frank Schropfer, of 21 Somerset street, secured the chicken offered by William Jeffery, Saturday, by locating the office of "the most up-to-date and enterprising real estate dealer," mentioned exclusively in an advertising column of this paper. Schropfer called at 1:55, three minutes after The Daily Press was on the street.

Manley Recovered.

John H. Manley, of Park avenue, is now at his home, having been discharged from the hospital, where he was under treatment for injuries received in a recent accident.

THE FORUM.

Communications from readers of The Daily Press on all subjects of local interest are invited. All such communications must be stripped of personalities, and must be signed by the writer. His name will not necessarily be published. The editor is not responsible for views expressed in this column.

Editor, The Daily Press:

The street department has been busy the past week macadamizing and repairing Watchung avenue. The work between the Crescent Avenue Church and East Ninth street is completed. The property owners of the fine residences on the north side of this avenue are disgusted with the way the work is done, owing to the fact that years ago when the street was originally macadamized the property owners not paying assessments for the same, the city has left ten feet of the street uncovered while on the other part of the street it is macadamized up to the curb stone. It is interesting to observe how many persons stop and try to fathom the mystery.

It is rumored that a conference of the house holders has been held, or is to be held to decide whether to pay the city the usual assessment and have the street completed from curb to curb, or to bring before the Common Council the desirability of finishing the street at the city's expense, it being argued that it is rather late in the day to ask the present house holders to pay assessments, and that the street being one of the principal thoroughfares, the city should see that it is fully completed and not remain an eye sore as it looks today.

"Taxpayer."

In answer to this communication Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett said to a reporter of this paper: "The proposition that the city should do the macadamizing to the curb for some property owners without expense, on a street where the other owners have paid for having such work done, it so manifestly an injustice that it needs only to be started to be realized.

"The gutter referred to has been brought up to grade with good gravel, and if any of the abutting owners desire it, a coating of trap rock will be put on at the actual cost of the stone."

AMUSEMENTS.

Miss Mabel McKinley, niece of the martyred President, is the attraction at the Circle, Broadway and Sixtieth street, this week. She has a rich soprano voice. Other favorites on the bill are Louis A. Simon, Grace Gardner & Co., Lewis and Ryan and Avery and Hart.

In "Running for Office," George M. Cohan's latest musical comedy, Mr. Cohan handles that most amusing topic—political aspiration and its side-lights. A temperance crank, who figures in the play, gives an opportunity for humorous situations. The Four Cohans, individually and collectively, make immense hits in the play and they give one of the most stupendous musical comedy productions at the Grand Opera House this week.

Nobody living outside of the city thinks of going to New York now without taking in Ned Harrigan in "Under Cover," at the Murray Hill Theatre, while in the city proper, his clientele reaches from High Bridge to the Battery. People like Annie Yeamens and Jennie Yeamens and Dan Edward Harrigan in "Under Cover" at the Murray Hill.

Collyer, Joe Sparks, Harry Fischer, Will Bray, Maude Knowlton, Adelaide Manola, and others, make a long and strong salary list, and it is a very serious question whether the pay roll at the Murray Hill, just now, won't show more figures than any theatre pay-roll in New York. That's one of the strong elements that help to make the Harrigan show really and truly great. Harrigan is drawing the same houses as when he played "Reilly and the Four Hundred."

There is one rational way to treat nasal catarrh: the medicine is applied direct to the affected membrane. The remedy is Ely's Cream Balm. It restores the inflamed tissues to a healthy state without drying all the life out of them and it gives back the lost senses of taste and smell. The sufferer who is tired of vain experiments should use Cream Balm. Druggists sell it for 50 cents. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren street, New York, will mail it.

Mr. Richard Day, of 134 East Front street, says: "I had a miserable pain across my back and a sort of lame feeling over my kidneys. Standing any length of time, or walking any distance aggravated it greatly. I was never sick much in my life and consequently never took much medicine, so when I first began having these attacks I paid little attention to them. They, however, grew worse instead of better, so I had to look about for a remedy. I read quite frequently in our papers about cures brought about by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills so I got a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store and after taking them I felt greatly relieved. I have recommended them to my friends and those who have used them speak very highly in their praise."

CANADIAN SOO RIOT

Employees of Consolidated Company Storm Offices.

TROOPS AWE THE FRENZIED MEN.

Mob Is Composed of Italians, Finns and Other Foreigners, Who Are Hard to Handle—More Trouble Is Hourly Expected.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Sept. 29.—The situation in the Canadian Soo, which has been the scene of serious rioting by the discharged employees of the Consolidated Lake Superior company all day, is very grave. No re-enforcements of militia have arrived from outside, and the only defense against the mob, which grows hourly, is a more or less demoralized police department and a small company of militiamen. An assault upon the office building by the mob before the arrival on the ground of the troops was successful, and a mass of frenzied rioters secured possession of the ground floor of the building, destroying everything movable that came in their path. A crowd of the office staff with drawn revolvers prevented their gaining access to the upper floors of the building. Every window and door in the building is smashed in. The arrival of the troops on the grounds armed with ball cartridges served to restore some semblance of order. The rioters then contented themselves with throwing stones at the building and hurling invectives at the soldiers, who established a "dead line" and prevented any approach toward the building by any of the rioters.

The mob is mainly composed of ignorant Italians, Finns, Norwegians and Frenchmen, the latter perhaps the hardest of all to handle. All have been drinking more or less, although the bars have finally obeyed the order to close up. The mob is one that cannot be reasoned with, and the man they seem most anxious to get at is Mr. Coyne, the assistant manager, who in the absence of Mr. Shields is in charge of the works. Mr. Coyne has discreetly kept out of sight.

The leaders of the mob held a conference and demanded that the company house the men in their hotel and boarding house and feed them until the money for their wages is forthcoming. In order to appease the crowd this demand was granted, and the men have taken possession of the White House, a large boarding house operated by the company. Provisions are being sent there to feed them, and the men propose to hold a monster mass meeting at this place. As their leaders are making the most inflammable sort of speeches grave fears are entertained for the outcome after this meeting adjourns. An attempt is being made to put the street car system in the Canadian Soo, which suspended operations after an attack had been made upon it, into operation again. Two cars were sent out heavily guarded. Inasmuch as most of the rioters were not on the streets at the time this trial was made, no disorder occurred, but it is feared that when the meeting breaks up the attack upon the cars will be renewed. It is estimated that there are 2,000 men in the Soo, and these are re-enforced by all the idle rabble in town. A train crrying 400 more woodsmen is due to arrive shortly on the Algomar Central, and the local police force is being strengthened by the addition of all the deputies who can be found, each man being given a badge and a revolver and ordered to use the latter whenever necessary. Considerable feeling has been aroused over the shooting of two Frenchmen by the police during the trouble. The rioters claim that the officers used their revolvers when it was unnecessary.

The mob threatens an attack upon police headquarters with a view of effecting the release of all the men who have been arreated. Both that building and that occupied by the fire department are guarded against attack.

The problem that the developments have created is beyond the solution of any of the company officials on the ground. Apparently their only hope is that the anger of the mob will spend itself and that the men will get out of town by degrees.

The rioters are attacking the militia at the works. The soldiers, who are being bombarded with rocks and all sorts of missiles, have so far refrained from firing on the mob.

East Lake Murder a Mystery.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 29.—The body of the woman found in East lake has been identified as that of Ella Dodd. There is still no clew to the murder. Charles L. Kelley, claiming to be a painter of Macon, Ga., and Jacksonville, Fla., who was arrested, is still held pending an investigation. He was pointed out by a keeper of the refreshment stand at East lake as resembling the man who was said to have been with the woman the last time she was seen alive. He denies all knowledge of the crime.

Oldfield Was Exonerated.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 29.—A coroner's jury rendered a verdict that the death of J. Francis Shearar, who was killed on Sept. 8 by Barney Oldfield's racing automobile at the Grosse Pointe track when the front tire exploded and the machine went through a fence, was accidental. The verdict exonerated Oldfield from any blame.

Train Wreck Near Glen Mary.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 29.—A Cincinnati Southern passenger train was derailed near Glen Mary. Engine, baggage, express and mail cars ran off the track and the engineer and several members of the crew were killed.

GONZALES' MURDER.

James H. Tillman, Ex-Lieutenant Governor, on Trial.

HE CALMLY PLEADED NOT GUILTY.

Witness G. E. Boland Testified That Accused to His Question, "Did You Shoot Gonzales?" Answered That He Did.

LEXINGTON, S. C., Sept. 29.—James H. Tillman, former lieutenant governor of South Carolina, was placed on trial here in the circuit court for Lexington county under an indictment charging him with the murder of N. G. Gonzales, editor of the Columbia State.

Judge Frank B. Gary presided. Probably never in the history of this judicial circuit has there been so great an array of counsel engaged in the trial of a case in the circuit or perhaps in the entire state. The solicitor is assisted by five attorneys, while the defendant has eleven lawyers, W. G. W. Croft, a representative in congress from Aiken, as chief counsel, conducting the defense.

Mrs. J. H. Tillman and also the mother of the defendant were present.

A vigorously contested legal battle is in prospect.

The defense having announced its readiness to go to trial, the defendant, who was in an anteroom, where he had been in consultation with his attorneys prior to the calling of his case, was brought into the court and directed to stand in the dock, when he was arraigned in accordance with the law and custom of this court. He was calm and when asked to plead replied in a clear and firm voice, "Not guilty."

The indictment charges the carrying of concealed weapons as well as the more serious violation of law. Mr. Tillman took a seat close to his attorneys, where he listened intently to the proceedings.

G. E. Boland, a member of the Columbia police force, was the first witness. He said he took Tillman to the police station in Columbia from the scene of the shooting on Jan. 15, describing where Tillman was standing in the street with reference to Gonzales. He testified that Tillman said to him:

"I received Gonzales' message." The witness said he asked Tillman, "Did you shoot Gonzales?"

To which he said Tillman replied that he did. He said the defendant carried a pistol in his hand and that another was found in his pocket when the station was reached. Tillman, he said, wanted to keep the pistol until the station was reached for his protection, but witness insisted on taking it. He said Tillman was walking diagonally across the street when he first saw him and was looking toward Gonzales. The two pistols were exhibited to the witness for the purpose of identification. One was an automatic pistol, and it was this one, the witness said, which Tillman held in his hand.

J. F. Walker, clerk of Richland county, was asked to demonstrate to the jury the working of the automatic pistol. An overcoat and a suit of clothes were exhibited and were identified by J. A. Hoyt, Jr., and T. G. Wood, Jr., as garments worn by Mr. Gonzales. The attention of the jury was drawn to the bullet holes in the coat and overcoat.

It is estimated that there are about 200 witnesses to be heard.

Exiled From Haiti.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Among the passengers who arrived on the steamer Prinz Willem I. from Ponce, P. R., was Pierre Seneque, a Haitian, who was ordered to leave Haiti by the government. Seneque is in transit. He comes here to take a steamer for St. Thomas, Danish West Indies. Passengers on board the steamer say that Seneque is one of the most popular men in Haiti. He has always stood for clean politics. He could have been president, but he declined to take the position by insurrection or revolution. He wanted to be chosen by popular vote.

Caught Up by a Mint Spy.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29.—Robert J. Kilpatrick was convicted in the United States district court of robbing the vaults of the United States mint in this city of 858 silver dollars. Kilpatrick was employed at the mint as a laborer, and it was charged he cut open the bags containing the money while at work in the vaults. A knife which Kilpatrick accidentally dropped and had forgotten led to his arrest and subsequent conviction. Sentence will be imposed later.

Vignal to Remain In Paris.

PARIS, Sept. 29.—Major Vignal, the French military attache at Washington, who is now here, has been assigned to duty at the war office. He will not return to Washington. Lieutenant Commander de Faramond de Lafajole, the naval attache of France at Washington, who is also here, has been reassigned to duty at Washington.

Crook Free After Seven Years.

SAN QUENTIN, Cal., Sept. 29.—Charles Becker, considered the cleverest forger in America, is once more at liberty. Becker left San Quentin after having served seven years for raising a twelve dollar draft to $22,000 on the Crocker-Woolworth bank of San Francisco.

Found Guilty of Chief's Murder.

GUTHRIE, Okla., Sept. 29.—Mitchell Boubedoux, charged with the murder of David Tohee, formerly chief of the Iowa tribe of Indians in Oklahoma, has been found guilty of murder and sentenced to life imprisonment.

CIRCUMSTANCES have all tended during the last few months toward the increased cost of carpets. Raw materials have steadily advanced, and labor has made incessant demands until manufacturers were finally compelled to force prices up to a point not reached before for a number of years. Foreseeing what we believed inevitable, we went into the markets earlier than usual—at a time when mills were not busy, and placed heavy orders at old rates for September delivery. The result is that when it comes to assortments and prices real competition is almost out of the question. Small dealers and some of the larger ones would be glad enough to buy up quantities at the following named quotations, and as a measure of protection against such a contingency, it is stipulated that all carpets purchased at a reduction during the week must be made and laid by us at a nominal charge of 10c per yard.

BOTH ARE ARMING.

Turkey and Bulgaria Make Active Preparations For War.

LONDON, Sept. 29.—Dispatches received here say both Turkey and Bulgaria are actively preparing for the possibility of war.

The skillful disposition of the Turkish troops for delivering a quick blow against either Servia or Bulgaria is evident at Monastir. There are 10,000 soldiers in the vilayet of Kossovo, 70,000 men with 300 guns in Adrianople vilayet, 50,000 in Monastir vilayet and a huge reserve of 170,000 in Salonika.

Sixty-four battalions (about 64,000 men) of the Adana, Angora, Kastamuni and Kaisaries divisions have been ordered ready for the field immediately.

The sappers and miners are rapidly preparing for war. Work on the bridges across the Maritza river and the roads and forts in the vicinity is in active progress.

A report from Beirut says 500 troops from the American war ships are ready to land at a moment's notice, with knapsacks and guns stacked on deck. It is thought the admiral wants to get an American killed first. On Sunday there was a Musaithe row, and the Christians have not dared to bury their dead yet.

Bakhzar Pasha, who was responsible for the massacres at Krushevo and Smilevo, has been decorated with the Order of the Medjidie of the First Class. He has been sent to the district of Kastoria, where six villages have already been burned and many insurgents killed.

ARBITRATORS HERE.

Venezuelan Claims Will Shortly Be Fully Adjusted.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Dr. Filz, former president of the high court of the Dutch West Indies and representative of Belgium as an arbitrator of the claims against Venezuela, and Count Peretti de la Rocca, French representative in the Venezuelan arbitration court, have arrived on the steamer Philadelphia from Curacao.

They would say nothing about the Venezuelan situation, but another member of the party said that the Belgian and French arbitrators had completed their labors, the English arbitrator expected to finish by the end of November and the German within a few days, the Dutch arbitrator a month later and the American by Dec. 1.

He added that everything was proceeding smoothly and the Venezuelan government was paying into the bank 30 per cent of all customs duties received at Puerto Bello and La Guayra to meet demands. Dr. Filz and Count Peretti are en route to Europe.

VETERANS CONVENE

Yale University Scene of the Gathering.

SPANISH WAR UNITED THE COUNTRY

All Sectional Differences Were Buried In a Common Bond of Brotherhood When the Union Was Threatened.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 29.—The Spanish war veterans' convention has been opened here in Woolsey hall, the new auditorium of Yale university. Fully 2,000 persons attended, including about 400 Spanish war veterans delegates to the convention, several hundred Grand Army veterans and the remainder citizens of New Haven. The speechmaking was preceded by an organ recital on the Newberry memorial organ by Professor H. B. Jepson of Yale.

On the platform with the national officers of the Spanish war veterans' organization sat Governor Abram Chamberlain of this state, Mayor John P. Studley of New Haven, President Arthur T. Hadley of Yale, the members of the governor's staff and a number of distinguished soldiers of the recent war.

Major J. Q. Tilson of the local committee introduced General Phelps Montgomery of New Haven as chairman. General Montgomery called upon Mayor Studley for an address of welcome. The mayor before tendering the freedom of the city to the delegates in a brief and apropos speech reviewed the history of the wars in which the United States has been engaged and felicitated the Spanish war veterans upon having fought in a war that united north and south and cemented national interests and sympathies.

Governor Chamberlain added the welcome of the commonwealth of Connecticut and President Hadley that of Yale. Dr. Hadley was applauded with enthusiasm, his speech being particularly fitting to the occasion. The response on the part of the delegates was by Captain Champe S. Andrews of New York, junior vice commander. He spoke not only as a national officer and as representative of Commander In Chief Urell, who is sick in a Washington hospital, but as a southerner expressing the gratification of the sons of the south that sectional differences have been obliterated by the common bond of the war with Spain in which sons of Federals and sons of Confederates fought side by side.

TYPEFOUNDERS STRIKE.

Reported That It Will Be General Throughout the Country.

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 29.—The employees in the Cincinnati branch of the American Type Foundry company went out on a strike on orders from the headquarters in Chicago.

The men say it is to be a general strike at all the type foundries in the country.

Typefounders Strike.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 29.—Members of the Type Founders' union, numbering seventy-five, went on strike here. The trouble between the bosses and the union is said to be principally a matter of jurisdiction. Wages come into it incidentally. The strike is said to be in accordance with a general order calling out every member of the Typefounders' union in the country. So far as the bosses are concerned the strike will be handled from the New York office of the American Type Foundry company, which controls foundries in St. Louis, New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Chicago, Cincinnati and San Francisco.

Russia's Trade With China.

LONDON, Sept. 29.—An Odessa dispatch to the Standard reports that a conference of Siberian merchants and traders was recently held at Tomsk, Siberia, with the object of developing Russian commerce with China. The meeting arrived at unsatisfactory conclusions, the bulk of the evidence adduced proving that in the existing circumstances it is practically impossible for Russian products and manufactures to compete successfully in China against those of western Europe and the United States. The administration of the Siberian railroad has declared it impossible without a ruinous loss of revenue to greatly reduce the freight rates.

Stocks Are Demoralized.

LONDON, Sept. 29.—The renewed heavy realizations, chiefly in the best investment securities, caused a demoralisation on the stock markets almost amounting to a panic. Consols once touched 87⅛, being a full point beneath the lowest reached during the Franco-German war. The heavy liquidation is said to be due to the needs of American financiers and speculators. Great apprehensions are felt regarding the position on Wall street, and anxiety is entertained concerning the Stock Exchange settlement here tomorrow.

Hunting For Eskimo Boys.

TACOMA, Wash., Sept. 29.—The police of Tacoma and Seattle are ransacking the cities for two Eskimo boys who arrived by a late Alaska steamer on their way to the Indian school at Carlisle, Pa., The Northern Pacific agent was advised that the boys would get their railroad tickets in Tacoma, but they have not appeared and cannot thus far be found in either city.

Austrian Bark Wrecked.

CAPE HAITIEN, Haiti, Sept. 29.—The Austrian bark Biancina F., Captain Romanich, from Barbados and other ports for Fiume, has been wrecked at the entrance of the roadstead here. The crew was saved.

"You can't judge a man by the clothes he wears; they may not be his." But you can judge a store's prosperity by the way it is advertised.

Professor Chittendon, of Yale, declares that people eat too much. That last frankfurter down at Coney Island convinces us that there is some truth in his statement.

Admitting that it was an unfortunate incident of the game, too much stress should not be put on a single questionable decision of the umpire in the St. Mary's-Alis game. In every contest there are lots of "ifs" and "ands." Forget them. St. Mary's won and should be given credit for the victory.

Comptroller Gout will play the leading role in a sort of a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde in the campaign in New York. Notwithstanding that he has been honored with a Fusion nomination, which comes from the anti-Tammany and Republican forces, he is to be paraded as a Tiger candidate as well. It would be as hard to reconcile the platforms of the two parties as to square the circle.

Originality seems to be an important faculty with President Roosevelt. He starred "race suicide" until it was done to death. Now he is to place "divorce" on the boards. Few presidents have taken the opportunity afforded to them in writing their messages to Congress to embraces among the subjects such important sociological topics. The strenuous civil service reformer is to be commended in this respect.

We learn from the editorial column of the Elizabeth Journal that this paper is Democratic in politics. Pardon us, misguided brother, but we are independent in politics, as we believe all newspapers should be. This does not mean that we have no opinions to express on the topics of the day. Subjects of interest to the people should be treated from the standpoint of public good and not with a partisan spirit. That's our platform.

"If I but knew," groans Attorney-General McCarter, as he looks back at the mistake he made in not furnishing instructions to the State department before the special election was held. Irrespective of its attitude on the amendments themselves, the State press is firing hot shot into New Jersey's official counselor for coming out at this late day with an explanation of the proper way to mark that unique ballot used in the special election. Many intelligent voters in this city and in the borough now find that their ballots count for nought.

IN THE CHRISTIAN FIELD

WORK IN THE CHURCHES OF THE CITY AND BOROUGH.

The library at the Epworth House of the Monroe Avenue church will be opened Friday evening for the distribution of books.

There will be Rally day services at the Monroe Avenue and First Baptist churches next Sunday afternoon, under the auspices of the Sunday-schools.

The German Lutheran Church congregation will hold a sociable tomorrow evening in the church parlor, corner Grove street and Mercer avenue.

The Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Reformed Church will hold its first fall meeting, Friday afternoon at the usual hour in the parlors of the church.

Rev. Dr. Chambliss, of East Orange, who is supplying the pulpit of the First Baptist Church, was entertained Sunday at the home of Rev. Dr. Yerkes, of West Seventh street.

The regular Covenant meeting will be held at the First Baptist church tomorrow evening and next Sunday the Lord's Supper will be observed. Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes will be in charge.

The Ladies' Missionary Society of Hope chapel will meet at the home of Mrs. Robert Hangliter, of West Third street, Thursday afternoon at 2:30 to sew for a Christmas box to be given to some missionary school

There is a division of opinion among the members of the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist Church as to weather it is best to hold the weekly meeting on Sunday evening or some evening during the week. A meeting is to be held soon, when the question will be settled.

The regular quarterly meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Society will be held at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church on Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Miss Anna Lee, of Marshall, N. C., is expected to address the meeting. As this is the first fall meeting a full attendance is desired.

The annual convention of the Union County Sunday-school Association will be held at Cranford in the Presbyterian Church on Thursday, October 8. There will be sessions in the morning, afternoon and evening. Among the speakers will be Rev. Cornelius Woelfkin, pastor of a Baptist Church in Brooklyn.

Within a short time a Normal Class will be organized at the First Baptist Church Sunday-school with the idea of preparing men and women for teaching. For some time past there has been a lack of teachers in the school and it is believed that with such a class this difficulty will be overcome. James D. Macnab will probably be asked to take charge of the class as teacher.

Following the example of the Church of England, the Episcopal Church in the United States is taking steps toward the organization of provinces, to be composed of groups of dioceses. A committee of the General Convention of 1901 has just reported an arrangement of dioceses by which a province is formed from the seven dioceses in the States of New York and New Jersey.

The pulpit supply committee of the First Baptist church has arranged with Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, of Orange, to supply the pulpit at that church until a new minister is secured. Dr. Chambliss will preach on the third Sunday in October and then commencing Nov. 1 he will continue to preach until a choice for the pulpit is made. Owing to other duties he will not be able to preach on Sunday, October 11. It is likely that he will also take charge of the mid-week prayer meetings.

A series of four receptions will be held in Newark this winter by the Presbyterian Union, under whose auspices, in seasons past, clergymen and laymen of national reputation have addressed large audiences in that city. For this year invitations to speak have been accepted by Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis, of Brooklyn; Rev. Dr. George R. Stuart, of Atlanta, Ga., and Rev. Dr. George F. Pentecost, of Yonkers, N. Y. President Woodrow Wilson, of Princeton College, will also address one of the gatherings, although his formal acceptance has not been recieved.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bowman, of West Second street, have returned from a pleasure trip to Canada.

Fred Dunavan and Hiram Humes, of East Second street, have returned from a two weeks' vacation trip in Portland and other places in Maine.

DUNELLEN.

The fact that the new factory being erected at Dewey Park, by the Aluminum Press Co. is to be twice the size originally planned and is to employ 600 mechanics, means that the demand for dwellings will increase. Even now there are not houses enough to accommodate the people, and a number of houses will have to be erected soon.

There is no question but that there is plenty of good football material in the borough but on one seems to be interested enough to start things going. Levering & Garrigues' factory has some very good players, and if they would unite with the borough players, a strong team would result.

The lady patrons of the trolley are unable to understand why they are compelled to go through the smoking compartment of a car when getting on and off. The front doors on the closed cars are invariably kept locked and women are compelled to pick their way through clouds of smoke and sometimes worse in the way of language. The company should remedy this evil.

Saturday's game with the Allis team, of Plainfield, should be one of the best games of the season. The two teams have met six times this season, and each team has won three games. As this is the deciding game of the series both teams will put up their best possible game. Game will be called promptly at 3:30, so as to enable the game to be finished before dark.

Samuel Parks and his followers are now practically in control of the convention of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers. World's Baseball Championship Now

PITTSBURG, Sept. 29.—The Pittsburg baseball team, champions of the National league, will on Thursday at Boston begin a series of nine games for the championship of the world with the Boston team, pennant winners of the American league. The Pittsburg club will arrive at Boston tomorrow. President Dreyfuss, with a large party of enthusiasts, will leave here tonight to encourage the home players. Games will be played at Boston Oct. 1, 2 and 3 and at Pittsburg Oct. 5, 6, 7 and 8. The club winning five games will be given the championship. Should it be found necessary to play more than the seven games scheduled the others will be played at Boston or some other city mutually agreed upon.

Minute Man Won at Morris Park.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—J. E. Madden's The Minute Man easily won the $10,000 Fifth Matron stakes for colts and geldings at Morris park. He and his coupled stable companion, Panique, an added starter, were favorites in the betting. W. C. Whitney's Hippocrates, second choice, was second and D. Higgins' Collector Jessup third. The Minute Man at once went out to make the pace. As the field came in sight at the head of the Eclipse course the favorite was leading by a length and, gradually increasing his lead to the finish, won easily by four lengths from Hippocrates, who in turn was a neck in front of Collector Jessup.

English Beat Quaker City Team.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29.—The Kent cricket team of England defeated the all Philadelphia team at Wissahickon Heights in the third day of the test match. The visitors batted from noon until 4:30 p. m., at which time they had scored the requisite number of runs for the loss of three wickets and therefore won the match by seven wickets. The batting of Burnup, the visiting captain, was of the highest class, and during his not out innings of ninety-four he gave but one chance.

Dick Welles Won In a Canter.

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—Dick Welles, the favorite, won the Speed stakes at Harlem in a common canter a length in front of Delagoa. Emma A. M. was third. The presence of the fast colt scared all the others out of the race but Delagoa. Then Emma A. M. was added for third money. Dick Welles never left the result in doubt. He broke in front, took a lead of three lengths in the first eighth, which he held until near the finish.

Dan McKenna Won at Delmar.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 29.—Dan McKenna won at Delmar in a fierce drive from the head of the stretch with Monsieur Beaucaire, beating the latter by a head.

Governor Mickey Fears Kidnapers.

LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 29.—The guard around the governor's mansion has been increased, as it is feared another attempt will be made to steal one of Governor Mickey's children. The four smaller children are not permitted to leave the house unless they are accompanied by an older member of the family. The penitentiary is being searched for traces of the plot that is supposed to have been formed for the purpose of getting revenge upon the governor. The police have a description of the ex-convict who made the attempt and are searching for him.

Poisoned Candy Case Suspect.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Sept. 29.—A second person is now suspected in the Davis poisoned candy case, and important developments are expected in a day or so. Chief of Police Buckley secured the package of candy, and an analysis will be made at once. He also examined a package of anonymous letters which Mrs. Davis had received, which were insulting in character and evidently written in a disguised hand.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo., Sept. 29.—District Judge Seeds issued writs of habeas corpus in the cases of President C. G. Kennison, W. D. Davis, Patrick Mullaney and Thomas Foster, union miners, who are prisoners in the military guardhouse. The order directs that the men be produced in court Friday morning.

An Ideal Location

Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE

LINDEN, N. J.

Beautiful and Accessible

2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,

14 MILES FROM NEW YORK

On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

FOR DRESSY OCCASIONS.

The 1830 Capes Are Becoming Brown a Present Fad.

For evening use there are old brocade bags of Louis XV. design traced in brilliants, while plainer ones show beautifully wrought clasps.

The 1830 capes will be prevalent in the early autumn, and some of the mixtures of fur and lace are really lovely. Velvet and panne, too, form the foundation of many of these new pelerines.

Ermine is a good deal used, especially for evening wear. Squirrel is revived somewhat in a new form, but chinchilla and marten will be prime favorites.

Fur stoles have given place to broad cape collars or fichus of fur. Some reach below the knees and are very magnificent.

Brown is a very popular color, and some beautiful gowns have been made in this color mixed with mushroom shades. For instance, a tight fitting tailor bodice, ending just below the waist, and a smart skirt were of fine dark brown cloth. This costume had revers and trimmings of pale mushroom cloth with little black spots. It was worn with a chenille toque trimmed with some queer pink wings.

All the motor wraps, dust cloaks and traveling coats seem to be composed of taffeta or a new make of tussore silk. The former is also used in a variety of ways as a trimming on frocks, even sometimes appearing on linen dresses.

The cut shows a costume of gray cloth with stitched bands. The hat is of white felt trimmed with a white satin ribbon. JUDIC CHOLLET.

NEW FALL HATS.

French Sailors Ever Popular. Crowns Becoming Higher.

The French sailor of rough white felt is the favorite head gear with the tailor made suit. This has a sharply curved brim and is most simply trimmed with a couple of wings or even a band of ribbon twisted into a bow in front. The veil of chiffon, with a hem an inch and a half wide, is the chief ornament of such a hat, and it varies in color to match the costume with which it is worn.

The crowns of all hats are becoming much higher, and the brims are even more sharply curved than they have been this summer.

The Spanish turban is being revived in a modified form with a fitted in back and a drooping plume touching the hair. This is especially smart when carried out in white with a white plume made of cock's feathers.

Purple hats are still the rage. They are made of braided chenille trimmed with shaded flowers or feathers.

Brown hats unrelieved by any color will be worn with tan costumes and brown furs.

The cut shows a green felt French sailor trimmed with quills and rosette with bands of green glace ribbon.

NEW YORK LETTER

Glimpses of the Varied Side of Life in a Great City.

HOME SWEET HOME IN DUMPS

Cafes Where South American Plotters Meet and Hatch Revolutions—The "Grafter" in the Labor World—Newport and Saratoga.

New York.—There is this difference between a New York slum and one in the old world—in London, particularly. In New York poor people have oftentimes to live in detestable holes not to be matched in Europe north of Naples, but they generally have enough to eat.

A New York Home

Fat and rosy and contented in the main are the dwellers in New York's most incredible "homes," now to be vacated by order of the board of health—the "dumps."

The rubbish dumps at the waterside have been famous for years. Big canal boats lie there beneath a high platform whereon wagons with street sweepings are backed up and dumped over into their holds. Here the stuff has to be "trimmed"—a process something like loading hay upon a rack, so that it will "ride." This trimming costs the city nothing; on the contrary it brings in many thousands a year. Contractors bid eagerly for the privilege of sorting over the rubbish and take out of it a perfect gold mine of valuable refuse. And under the platforms, breathing daily and nightly the air of the refuse, have lived the laborers who do the trimming.

There is no home so bad that someone does not love it; the people who are to be evicted from the dumps protest against the order. They have always lived so. They only ask to be let alone.

The Cafes of Revolution.

There is room in a great city for all sorts of queer people. Certain Spanish cafes of the lower West side make fine prowling places for novelists in search of material for stories of Latin-American life; for they are always well provided with scowling, whispering, mysterious plotters against the peace of the Southern Central American republics. They are the "outs."

A Cafe of the Conspirators

Some very rich ex-dictators and ex-presidents—they are much the same thing—go to Paris to spend in luxury, among the "kings in exile," of whom Daudet wrote, the millions filched from their countrymen and with difficulty saved. More come to New York. Here the two great South American trading houses, the Flints and the Graces, are popularly credited with supplying the funds of revolution and counter-revolution. Their alleged activities in this line, for the sake of "concessions" from successive parties in power, have been woven into fiction by Kipling and by Richard Harding Davis and Harold Frederic.

The sober fact is that quite aside from these alluring possibilities, here is the mart for the smuggling of arms; here and in Washington center the management of business enterprises that live in troublous states by pleasure of the executive, and that appeal for gunboats to the secretary of state when anything goes wrong.

Here, too, are arranged those little wars "on the side" between rival traders, as when a brave hero of Santiago, Capt. Rafferty, was hired by one asphalt trust to fight the soldiers of another in Venezuela.

Plotters and counter-plotters are polite above all. And in New York they seem to recognize neutral ground, where all quarrels must cease until they can be renewed beneath hotter skies.

The Spanish Americans in Port.

There are other Spanish-Americans less troubled by politics who lightheartedly add to New York's attractiveness. They are the birds of passage who stay in harbor a day or two while waiting for their ships to proceed to Spain. Mostly about the old Battery, or at piers in farthest Brooklyn, warp in the tall tramps with the Latin names—the "Concepcions," and the "Carmencitas," and over their rails lean Cuban, Guatemalan, Costa Rican, Brazilian beauties in garb that brightens up the dull streets of warehouses.

A Dance on Deck

They come ashore in little groups to enjoy a breath of fresh air and wander up and down the streets, arm in arm. There are gentlemen in serapes and in spotless white ducks and in sombreros. And at night when they return to their floating homes there is the tinkle of the mandolin and the strumming of guitars, and upon the decks there is dancing quite impromptu, but alive with Castilian grace. Few are these visitors of a day who cannot dance. A queer idea of New York they must carry away. Perhaps one in five ever ventures uptown to the streets where it is always light.

It is worth while occasionally to wander into the sleepy regions of the South street commission merchants. It is a quarter of a mile from the stock exchange, but the streets doze. There is the odor of spice in the air. Roustabouts sleep in the sun. On the deck of the ship Sikh, when after long absence she comes in, are Lascan sailors eating by the rules of their caste, squatting about their food dishes flat upon the deck. There are the Chinese cooks, the Japanese stewards, the Portuguese fore-mast hands, Kanakas even, who have drifted around the Horn.

The Ways of the "Grafter."

New York stands appalled at the revelations of "graft" in the labor world. Concede that the majority of the labor leaders are men not only of honesty and sincerity, but of unusual ability. I have met many of them in this country and in England, and can bear testimony to their high average character.

One Result of the Strike

That makes it the easier for the occasional black sheep to "do business." Of their methods the trial of Larry Murphy, treasurer of a stone cutters' union, was eloquent. Murphy was put on trial for getting away with the funds of the union. His counsel, Mr. McIntyre, formerly an assistant district attorney and a keen one, offered the original defense that the money didn't belong to the union. How, he innocently asked, could the union ask Murphy to account for money it never owned? Of course, there was a hidden motive behind such a "defense." That motive was revenge. It was brought out in testimony that Murphy had been bled by other leaders of the union; that six members had practically divided a fund of $10,000 which Andrew D. Baird had paid on behalf of master stone-cutters to end a "strike."

I know Baird well. He is a grim old Scottish warrior, a brave veteran of the civil war, a man of wealth and position, once a candidate for mayor of Brooklyn. What terrorism must have existed to make this man—not for his own sake, I believe, but to keep the men at work, and save weaker contractors from bankruptcy—pay blackmail!

The chances for "graft" are enormous. Imagine a contractor under penalties to finish within a certain time a building costing $1,000,000. Promptly finished the work nets him a profit. Delayed so as to bring creditors down upon him or to cause demurrage penalties, it will ruin him. Then comes a walking delegate with a trumped-up charge of having in some way offended against some one of the hundred conflicting rules of often quarreling unions. He demands cash—in a word, a bribe. What is the contractor to do?

Who gets the money? Ostensibly it is a fine. In the Baird case, the money was deposited in bank to the order of six men, about $1,666 to each. They could not trust each other.

Newport and Saratoga.

Saratoga is having the most brilliant year in its history—and last year set a record not easy to beat. Newport is melancholy.

The Little Horses

Wall street is at the bottom of it. Newport is the capital of those who have "arrived" in business and society. Saratoga is more democratic. Newport has been made sad by the depression in stocks; Saratoga welcomes the lucky bears with the "bulls" who wish to forget their sorrows in trying the "little horses," in the slang of the day.

Newport, as I have written, suffers by the growth of the fashion of the real country home, amid broad acres such as in Newport are impossible. Saratoga is frankly a hotel resort, where comparatively few attempt cottage life. There is at Saratoga no such splendid array of homes of wealth as in Newport, just as in the latter one looks in vain for mile-long hotel piazzas where fat mammas sit all day blazing with diamonds while they toil at fancy work.

Racing makes Saratoga. Without gambling, the place would be dull. On the race track gambling is legitimized by the law of the state. Thousands of dollars are risked there by men who do not look as if they could raise a thousand cents. Pittsburg Phil pulled off nearly $70,000 there recently in one race. Where else could he have bet so much without pulling down the odds?

In Saratoga, too, the state politician loves to gather in August to make slates and break them. It is alive, humming with activity. It is American.

A MEXICAN HEROINE.

Senorita Gomez Stays the Yellow Fever at Linares.

LINARES, Mexico, Sept. 29.—Senorita Manuela Gomez is the heroine of this little town, which has been reduced by yellow fever from a population of 15,000 to 3,000 within a few weeks. Her father was Colonel Mariano Gomez, mayor of Linares.

Loved ones dear to Miss Manuela took the fever and died. She witnessed the fatal blow strike the city treasurer and so on, until every city official had been stricken. She was left alone to conduct the affairs of the desolated city.

She could obtain the aid of only one person in those days of panic and grief. This person was a young man belonging to a good family, who has been performing the services of clerk. He has been of assistance to her in keeping the municipal records in shape.

Miss Manuela is eighteen years old and took a position several months ago as secretary to her father. Yellow fever reached Linares from Tampico about six weeks ago, and Mayor Gomez was among the first to fall a victim to the terrible disease. There were multitudinous duties to perform in combating the epidemic, and Miss Manuela took the official reins of the city government in her own hands and has handled the affairs of the place with a skill and bravery that have won for her the highest praise of high government officials of Mexico.

The city health authorities did heroic work, but they acted under the direction of Miss Manuela. She has established mosquito proof rooms, to which yellow fever victims are now removed as fast as the cases occur. By this method of isolation the disease is being rapidly wiped out.

It is stated that President Diaz has written her a personal letter of commendation and that the Mexican congress will vote her a medal of honor.

VAN WORMERS TO DIE.

Governor Odell Declines to Interfere With Sentence.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 29.—Mrs. Van Wormer, stepmother of the three brothers who are to be executed at Clinton on Thursday, called at the executive chamber to make a final appeal in behalf of her stepsons.

Governor Odell declined to see her on the ground that he had fully considered the case and that an interview would be only a source of useless pain to both. Mrs. Van Wormer accepted his decision as final and will return to Kinderhook.

In his message to Mrs. Van Wormer the governor said that his sympathies had been aroused to the utmost. So anxious had he been to give the brothers every possible chance that he had twice reprieved them. Now his decision not to interfere with the execution of the death sentence was irrevocable.

Mrs. Van Wormer evidently had little hope that her visit would be effective, and she accepted the message of the governor without protest and left the capitol. She will go to Dannemora for a last interview with her stepsons, whom she has not seen since they were taken from the Hudson jail to the state prison.

Palma's Tour of Cuba.

BAYAMO, Cuba, Sept. 29.—President Palma was enthusiastically received on his arrival at Bayamo, which is his old home. He is now visiting adjacent pueblos and is not much fatigued by his horseback journeys.

Landseer of America Is Dead.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—John H. Dolp, who has sometimes been called the Landseer of America because of his work as an animal painter, died suddenly here from heart disease.

BUNTS.

Plans are being arranged for a game of baseball between the members of the local fire headquarters and the fire headquarters of Elizabeth. The game is to be played October 14 in this city. Daniel Force is to be the pitcher; Frank McCabe, catcher; "Jim" Daly, first base; William Townley, second base; Edward Townley, third base; and George Feiring, right field.

Quinby, the popular second baseman of the Alis team, sustained his reputation in last Saturday's game against St. Mary's team. He had two hits, made two runs, put out two opposing players, had two assists and made but one error. Quite a record for one game. Also worthy of comparison is that Alis had sixteen assists against two for St. Mary, and Richardson had a record of thirteen put outs against six for Driscoll, on the initial bag.

The game Saturday afternoon between the Dunellen A. C. and the Bound Brooks on the latter's home field, was a strenuous one and resulted in a quarrel. James Montross pitched for the Bound Brooks and Smith pitched for the Dunellens. The score was 13 to 11 in favor of Dunellen. Although "the shades of night were falling fast," the Bound Brook manager would not call the game and it continued to the finish in the darkness. A fight was almost precipitated on the grounds through the Bound Brook manager's stubbornous.

Today Travell and Tweedy play Smith and Cline and the winners of this match will play Long and J. Douglass.

POLITICAL TALK.

In Newark yesterday a protest against the acceptance and canvassing of the vote on the constitutional amendments was made to the County Board of Elections by Samuel F. Bigelow.

A Trenton dispatch in today's New York Tribune says: "The time never has been in New Jersey when the opposition to any State or party measure was more pronounced and decisive than is the prevailing opposition of public sentiment to any effort or attempt to make it appear that the proposed constitutional amendments, or any one of them, received approval at the recent special election. Anathemas against this act are constant and severe. The authorship of the act has been attributed to judges of the courts, to Governor Murphy, to Thomas N. McCarter, Attorney-General at the time of its introduction in the Legislature, and to a certain Senator and a certain member of the Assembly, with generally condemnatory observations and remarks."

Whatever the effect may be from the bolt of the fifteen Plainfield delegates at the county Republican convention, it is very certain that no deal will be made by them with the Democrats to carry out the threat which was ascribed to their action to defeat the county ticket. At least this is according to a statement made by a prominent Democrat in discussing the matter today.

When asked who the prospective candidates are for the Assembly, a prominent Democrat said:

"We shall name Charles Moffett, of Plainfield; Joseph Gunn, of Springfield, and we want to get Charles H. Moore, of Elizabeth, to represent that part of the county. Mr. Moore does not feel very anxious about undertaking the campaign, on the contrary he seems rather opposed to being a candidate, but if he will take it we can count on his making a good run. He did so last year as nominee for sheriff, and he ought to make a good run this time."—Elizabeth Journal.

At a meeting of the colored Republican County Committee held at Cranford Sunday afternoon, the Republican ticket was unanimously endorsed, as named at the recent convention. Every city, borough and township in the county was represented. Chairman William A. Kline, of this city, presided.

Among the matters of business transacted was the change of name of the organization to "Colored Auxiliary Republican County Commitee." This was done to bring the organization in close touch, not only in fact, but in name as well, with the regular county committee, and eliminate any confusion which might arise from the former name.

The committee decided to hold mass meetings of colored voters throughout the county at different intervals, at which Dr. J. C. Anderson, of this city, the nominee for coroner, will be the principal speaker. For these meetings a committee of arrangements was appointed consisting of C. R. H. Hawkins, chairman, of Elizabeth; J. H. Smith, of Summit; F. J. Hyman, of Rahway; H. C. Hewlett, of Cranford; A. S. Venable, of this city.

The next meeting of the committee will be held in Rahway at 135 Main street, next Sunday afternoon.

FRED DIXON MARRIES MISS C. E. WEISS

Pretty Wedding of Young Couple Attended by Two Hundred Guests.

DR. YERKES OFFICIATES

MISS NETTIE WEISS, BRIDE'S SISTER, AS MAID-OF-HONOR.

Groom a Nephew of James T. MacMurray—Mr. and Mrs. Dixon Popular Here—Former a Member of Perseverance Lodge.

One of the charming home weddings held in North Plainfield this fall was that of Miss Caroline Elizabeth Weiss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Weiss, of Regent street, to Frederick Jones Dixon, of this city, which took place at 5:30 yesterday afternoon. Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, pastor-emeritus of the First Baptist Church, was the officiating minister. The ceremony was performed in the front parlors of the home of Mrs. Kate Leland, an aunt of the bride, on Somerset street. The couple stood beneath a floral arch of smilax, banked on either side with palms and rare ferns. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Carpenter's orchestra played the wedding march of Mendelssohn as the bridal party entered. Miss Weiss wore a gown of white peau de sine trimmed with Persian lace medallions. A tulle veil was fastened at the head by a large diamond brooch, the gift of Mrs. Leland. Miss Nettie Weiss, a sister of the bride, was maid-of-honor. She wore a gown of dotted Swiss trimmed with Vallenciennes lace and ribbons, and carried pink roses. The roses carried by the bride were white. Thomas M. Muir was the best man. The ushers were George Egel, Jr., cousin of the bride, and Charles Dixon, brother of the groom.

A reception was held after the wedding, over two hundred being present, including guests from New York, Brooklyn, Jersey City, Perth Amboy, South Amboy, Tarrytown, Bound Brook and Highland Falls. A supper was served. After a short honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Dixon will reside at the home of Mrs. Leland for the present. They were well remembered by their friends. The groom gave the bride a ring studded with diamonds and to his best man he gave a diamond and pearl stick pin. His ushers each received pearl stick pins. The bride's gift to her bridesmaid was a ring set with diamonds and pearls. She received a beautiful brooch from her aunt.

The groom is a cousin of City Clerk John McMurray and has been employed at the Pond Machine Tool Works for several years. He is a member of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, Knights of Pythias, and of the Trinity Reformed Church. Mrs. Dixon is a member of the First Baptist Church and is well known in the city and borough.

COMMITTEE STILL WORKING

COUNCIL INVESTIGATING SUBJECT OF TELEPHONE SYSTEMS.

No Report Until November Session —Much to be Done Before Report is Framed.

The special committee from the Common Council which was appointed to inquire into and investigate the several telephone systems in use in this country, with a view to settling the question as to whether Plainfield should have competitive systems, is making steady progress. Mr. Tolles, who is chairman of the committee, was in hopes that a report would be ready for the October meeting of the Council, but it has been determined that inasmuch as there is so much work to be done in connection with the investigation, this will be impossible and the report will probably not be presented before the November meeting.

The committee has been looking into every known telephone system of any standing and the investigation has been conducted along impartial lines, that is, not a member has been or is prejudiced in the matter. A meeting of an informal character was held last night, when the work thus far accomplished was gone over. No one was present but the special committee and the talk was strictly of an informal nature.

LOCAL TOUCH TO STORY.

A Cousin Here of Character Portrayed in Miss Gertrude Atherton's "Conqueror."

Few people who have read Gertrude Atherton's new book, "The Conqueror," know that Angelica Church, one of the characters in the book, was a cousin of Miss Angelica Church, of this city. The latter's father, Benjamin Church, was the engineer in charge of the building of the Croton aqueduct in New York and also engineer of Jerome Park reservoir as well as being consulting engineer on other large works. The pistols used in the duel between Aaron Burr and Alexander Hamilton have been in the possession of the Church family for many years and are now in the possession of Benjamin Church, the grandson of Benjamin Church, who is a resident of this city.

All Records Broken.

Farmer Orator Martine's days of popularity must be waning, else why did the Elizabeth City Democratic Club limit him to three minutes' talking at its banquet last week, and then insist on his being choked off when he had orated for five minutes? This was the most unkindest cut of all that could have been inflicted upon the heroic leader who has six times submitted to defeat in the political arena to make a Democratic holiday.—Newark Evening News.

To Retire From Business.

Calvin H. Rugg, of West Fifth street, who a few weeks ago sustained injuries through a fall on the street, is planning to retire from business for the present at least. If he disposes of his stock of coal in the near future he will probably go South for his health.

PREPARATIONS MADE HERE FOR A STRIKE

Work Being Rushed on a Building Intended for Use of Trolley Employes.

MYSTERIOUS ACTIONS

P. S. C. ARRANGING FOR SLEEPING QUARTERS HERE FOR MEN.

Structure to be Finished by Tonight — Similar Building Already Completed in Elizabeth— No Trouble Anticipated Here.

Evidence tending to show that the quietness among the conductors and motormen employed by the Public Service Corporation in Newark, Elizabeth, Jersey City and the Oranges is only a calm which comes before a storm, is apparent from the attitude taken by the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railway Company during the last few days. The company seems to be preparing for a big strike and while the employes in this city affirm that there is absolutely no danger of an outbreak in Plainfield, it appears that the company intends making this city the headquarters for re-inforcements for other cities.

A permit was granted the company yesterday afternoon to erect a building on West Fourth street, adjoiinng the car barns. This structure which will be eighteen by eighteen by forty-five feet and sixteen feet high. In this building will be installed forty-two berths for the accommodation of trolley men. It will accommodate over 200 men. Michael Burns, of Elizabeth, is the contractor and the agreement stipulates that it shall be ready for occupancy before Thursday evening, October 1. It is probable the building will be completed by tonight.

J. Manning & Son are the sub-contractors. The permit was granted at 2 o'clock and as soon as the papers were signed a telephone message was sent to the barns and immediately a large corps of men started to work and before night the foundations were laid.

None of the employes of the road could throw any light on the action of the company in rushing through to completion a building of that character. Phillip Maguire, the division superintendent said that the first he knew of the erection of the building was when the contractor came to this city yesterday noon and applied for the permit. He declared that he did not know why the building was to be erected. None of the trolley men knew of the object for which the building was erected.

This is the second building of the kind erected by the company within the last few days. One was erected in Elizabeth and was hurried through to completion. The one in the County-seat has a high fence about it and will accommodate more men than the one being erected here. It is stated that another building will be erected in Newark and in the Oranges.

One man said to a representative of The Daily Press yesterday that the company is erecting the buildings for the purpose of accommodating strike breakers. This has not been confirmed because none of the officials of the company will discuss the matter.

In discussing the matter with a number of trolley men, it was learned that the men in this city have no grievances and will not go out on a strike. The majority of them are pleased with the manner in which they have been treated by the company and are satisfied with their hours and wages. They do not want to strike and they will no doubt remain loyal to the company.

The fact that a strike-breaker's camp is likely to be opened in this city may mean in the event of trouble, a taste of the strike in Newark and Elizabeth and here.

Mr. Eckhardt's Funeral.

The funeral services over the remains of the late Peter Eckhardt, whose death occurred at Watchung Sunday, were held yesterday afternoon from the residence of his son-in-law, Augustus Mobus, in Regent street. Rev. Dr. Kolf, of Elizabeth, officiated. Misses Jennie and Alice DeMott sang "Good Night." The display of flowers was handsome. The interment was in Evergreen Cemetery.

Primer for Drunks.

John Kelley, was drunk. He was arrested. Chief Campbell put him in jug. Recorder Doud had a talk with him. The talk took place in the borough court. Kelley was defiant. "Three dollars," said the judge. Kelley paid.

OBSTACLES TO NEW SCHOOL VANISHING

Governor Calls Legislature in Extra Session for October 15.

A NEW LAW PROMISED

MR. M'CUTCHEN'S PART IN BRINGING ABOUT RELIEF.

Committee of State Board of Education Confer With the Governor Urging Prompt Action Which is Approved by Him.

The plans for the proposed $125,000 high school in this city will be held up but temporarily for Governor Murphy yesterday decided to call a special session of the Legislature, to be held on Thursday, October 15, to enact a law to remedy defects in the McKee school law, recently declared unconstitutional by the Court of Errors and Appeals.

The law committee of the State Board of Education held a meeting in the rooms of the Bar Association in New York City last Friday afternoon, and resolved to recommend to the State Board that it memorialise the Governor to call a special session. Samuel St. John McCutchen, of this city, president of the State Board of Education, took an active part at the meeting.

In the memorial which the committee decided to recommend that the board present to the Governor the demoralized condition to which the decision of the court had left the educational department of the State and the urgent necessity for immediate relief, was set forth.

The committee took up the McKee law and went over it exhaustively. The members considered at length each objection which the court raised to the measure, and, after discussing it, agreed upon changes which, in their opinion, will enable the law to successfully meet the objection of the court. These changes will be embodied in the new measure which will be submitted.

If the new bill meets with the approval of the State board it will be ready for introduction as soon as the Legislature is ready to receive it.

The Governor's decision yesterday came after a lengthy conference with the members of the law committee of the State Board of Education and several State officers. Among the members of the law committee of the board, who were in Trenton yesterday was Mr. McCutchen. Others present at the conference included Senator Joseph Cross, of Union County.

PLEASANT SOCIABLE.

Martha Washington Council, No. 23, Daughters of America, Hold Affair.

A dime sociable under the auspices of Martha Washington Council, No. 23, Daughters of America, was held last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Thompson, of West Fifth street and Lee place. A large number of friends of the council joined with the members. The evening was spent in playing games and in the enjoyment of vocal and instrumental music and recitations. G. Thorn, with several recitations and Miss Moorehouse, piano soloist, were among those who took an active part in the programme.

Judgment Against Brown.

James B. Guttridge, a grocer and provision dealer of Netherwood, was awarded judgment for full amount and costs on two counts in Justice Hand's court this afternoon in a suit on contract brought against Thomas L. COUNTY BASEBALL LEAGUE DISCUSSED

Scheme to Organize With Four or Five Clubs for Next Season.

PLAINFIELD A MEMBER

GOOD MATERIAL HERE FOR A FIRST-CLASS TEAM.

Elizabeth, Rahway, Westfield and Scotch Plains Considered as Members of a League—The Advantages to be Derived.

Although the present baseball season has not closed, next season's prospects are already being discussed in baseball circles and it seems to be the opinion of a majority of the lovers of the game in this city, at least, that one first-class team should represent the town in the National game. During the past few days there has been considerable talk about the advisability of forming a four or five-club league to include Plainfield, Scotch Plains, Westfield, Rahway and Elizabeth. It is believed that such a league would not only be a good thing financially, but would tend to increase the interest in the game considerably.

All of the places named are on the line of the trolley and easy of access and they are so near each other that a good healthy rivalry would exist between the towns represented in the league. As for Plainfield there is no doubt but what a first-class team could be supported. Crescent Oval could be used and the grounds inclosed. By increasing the seating capacity it would make an ideal place for the game. Westfield is well provided for in the way of grounds and seating capacity and it is understood that Elizabeth is similarly fixed as is also Rahway. Scotch Plains would have to improve its seating capacity somewhat.

The material for teams would not be lacking. In each of the places named there is a good strong nine and possibly with a little change there would be no trouble in getting together the requisite number of teams of about equal strength. This sort of a plan has the sanction of a host of sporting people, who would gladly lend their support toward making it a complete success.

It has been said that occasional Wednesday games would also pay in Plainfield with a strong outside club for an attraction. If properly managed there seems to be no reasonable doubt as to either Wednesday or Saturday games. The plan of selling season tickets has been successful in other places, notably Westfield, and there it is believed there is no reason why it should not be in this city. This year the question of large expenditures of money for players has entered largely into the game in this city. If possible, it is argued, this should be eliminated and the expense put on a moderate basis.

In speaking of the subject a well-known "fan" said to a reporter of The Daily Press: "If the practice of paying more money to secure better players were continued it would not be long before an organization would go under for lack of funds. But on a business-like basis this could be avoided and yet good players would be brought into the game. Plainfield has plenty of material if properly handled and with possibly a little outside talent a strong team could be placed in the field."

It is said that as soon as the present season closes the St. Mary's and Alis clubs will call meetings and take steps toward next season's work. It has been suggested that the leaders in baseball in the city get together and formulate plans on a co-operative basis, instead of being called upon to support two or more teams.

Realty Conveyance.

The deed was passed this morning through the real estate agency of George F. Brown, conveying the property at the corner of Somerset street and Manning avenue, owned by the Peter See estate, to George Kirch. It is understood that Mr. Kirch has purchased the property with an idea of making some improvements.

For Naturalization.

Those who wish to take out naturalization papers will have their last opportunity before Election Day tomorrow, when the county committee on citizenship will meet at Elizabeth.

Informal Luncheon.

Mrs. J. B. Probasco, of East Front street, gave an informal luncheon at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, today. Covers were laid for nine.

MISS BAGLIN THE BRIDE

MARRIED TO CORNELIUS GUINEE IN ST. JOSEPH'S CHURCH.

Father Miller Officiated at Ceremony—Honeymoon at Washington, D. C.

Miss Helen T. Baglin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Baglin, of Somerset street, and Cornelius Guinee, of West Third street, were married at 6 o'clock last evening in St. Joseph's R. C. Church, North Plainfield. The wedding was witnessed by many friends and relatives of the bride and groom. Rev. Father William Miller officiated.

The bride wore white Liberty satin with trimmings of duchess lace. She carried white bridal roses. Miss Margaret, Baglin, sister of the bride, was the bridesmaid. She wore pink landsdowne trimmed with satin and lace. Patrick Guinee, brother of the groom, was the best man. The church was decorated attractively with flowers and palms.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. At the reception were relatives from Brooklyn, New York, and this city to the number of an hundred. An elaborate supper was a feature. At a late hour Mr. and Mrs. Guinee left for Washington, D. C., where they will spend a short honeymoon. Upon their return they will reside at the bride's home temporarily.

Mr. and Mrs. Guinee received a large number of presents. The groom is well known in this city. He is employed at the Pond Machine Tool Works. Mrs. Guinee was formerly employed at Woodruhl & Martin's store. She was remembered by the clerks who presented a handsome couch as a wedding gift.

There were sixty-five members at dinner and the service and menu under the direction of Mrs. Hellstrom, was very satisfactory. After the dinner there was a dance and this feature was continued until midnight.

NOW ASSURED OF A RURAL DELIVERY

The Inspector Goes Over the Route With Postmaster Elias H. Bird.

THE SEVERAL DISTRICTS

CARRIER INVESTED WITH POWERS OF A POSTMASTER.

Going Over More Territory Today—Districts to be Included—The Pay of the Carrier—Other Details.

There now seems to be no reasonable doubt regarding the adoption of the proposed rural free delivery mail service, as detailed in The Daily Press a few days ago. Postmaster E. H. Bird has for some time past been interested in this matter and as a result of his efforts, Special Agent Edwin W. Shriver, of Westminster, Md., who is the "father" of this rural system, having been the first one to introduce it, was sent to Plainfield to investigate the matter, conduct an examination for a carrier and make such recommendations as would come under his observation in such an investigation.

Mr. Shriver came to Plainfield on Monday and yesterday morning he and Mr. Bird, together with Walter Darby, of Alton, which is in the section of territory proposed to be covered, made a trip over the route. It was learned that there are 177 families in the territory which covers twenty-three miles in all.

The route includes Park avenue to Pumptown, back to Oak Tree, through Woodland avenue by Maroonnier Chapel, to the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club grounds, to Mellick's corner, to Mt. Pleasant, to Dog Corners, to Lambert's cider mill, back to King street, to Terrill road and to the home office. At Mt. Pleasant there will be established a Government mail box and at this point there will be an exchange of mail between the carrier attached to the Plainfield office and the one attached to the Rahway office, for it is expected that a carrier from the latter office will cover about the same amount of territory extending from Rahway to a point half way to Plainfield.

If this service is adopted the territory will be known as Route No. 1, and persons sending mail to anyone living in that territory must add to the address on their letters or parcels "Route No. 1, R. F. D., Plainfield, N. J." It seems probable that the service will be adopted the last of November or the first of December at the latest. The service for Plainfield has received the endorsement of Congressman Charles N. Fowler.

The powers invested in the carrier on this route are extensive, almost reaching in scope those of a postmaster. He has the right to accept registered mail, cancelling the same, selling postal cards, stamps, stamped envelopes, and in fact he can do almost anything that a regularly appointed postmaster can do. For instance. If a person on his route has a letter for another person on the same route, the carrier can stamp the letter, deliver it and it will never reach a postoffice. The same is true of packages and other mail matter. This would hold true of mail picked up on the Plainfield route addressed to person son the Rahway route which would be delivered by the Rahway carrier without going to the postoffice at the latter place.

In another respect the carrier's rights are extensive. He can deliver packages or parcels of any kind for persons in Plainfield or on his route and charge whatever fee he thinks the service is worth. This would be extra money for the carrier. He can also sell newspapers, or in fact anything in general. The Government fixes his salary at $600 and he must supply a horse and wagon, but he would be able to increase his revenue considerably through the work that the Government allows him to do in connection with the duties of the position.

Mr. Shriver estimates that the carriers can cover the twenty-three miles in about five hours, that is in leaving the Plainfield office at 7:30 in the morning he should be through about 1 o'clock.

At the examination held yesterday at the postoffice and which was conducted by Mr. Shriver, there were three applications—Floyd D. Fuller, Isaac Leslie Tingley and James Leslie Lambert. The result of this examination will not be known for at least President Patrick Gilday, of District No. 2, Union Mine Workers, is authority for the statement that a strike of 15,000 miners employed by the Pennsylvania Coal and Coke Company, the newly formed soft coal combination in the central Pennsylvania field, is threatened. He has given the officials until October 8 to agree to carry out the provision of the Altoon scale. Failing to do this, he will order a strike. The Pennsylvania company operates more than forty mines in the central Pennsylvania coal field. Men formerly prominent in the anthracite region control it.

TILLMAN ON TRIAL.

Important Testimony In Regard to Gonzales' Death.

THE WEAPON AN AUTOMATIC PISTOL

Lieutenant Bamberg Stated That the Accused Had Said, "If He Hit Where He Aimed He (Gonzales) Was a Dead Man."

LEXINGTON, S. C., Sept. 30.—Good speed was made in the trial here of former Lieutenant Governor James H. Tillman, who is charged with the murder of N. G. Gonzales, editor of the State.

Mrs. J. H. Tillman and the defendant's mother occupied seats within the railing throughout the day. One line of examination pursued by the state was with a view to laying the foundation for the introduction of dying declarations. Four of the physicians who participated in the operation on Mr. Gonzales after he was shot were on the stand—Drs. Guerry, Pope, Taylor and Griffith, all of Columbia.

Ambrose E. Gonzales, publisher of the State and a brother of N. G. Gonzales, was called to the stand when the solicitor offered in evidence the files of the State for the year 1902, the purpose being, as announced by counsel, to introduce the editorials in the State newspaper, of which N. G. Gonzales was editor, from July 1, 1902, to Dec. 31, 1902. The editorials in question are in relation to James H. Tillman. The reading of the editorials was postponed so that counsel for the defense might read them first.

On cross examination Mr. Gonzales was asked by counsel for the defense:

"The relations between your brother and Mr. Tillman have not been pleasant for some years, have they?"

He replied, "They have not been pleasant."

Mr. Gonzales was asked on further cross examination by the defense if he had not heard his brother express himself in denunciatory language in regard to Mr. Tillman, to which the witness replied:

"I cannot say I ever heard him use such language in the office. I think everything he said, not everything he knew or believed, but everything he said to his relatives or friends, he said in the State newspaper so that the people all could know."

In reply to further questions Mr. Gonzales said he could not say that he knew his brother to have entertained bitter feeling toward J. H. Tillman, nor could he say that he knew his brother's feelings toward the defendant to have been hostile. His brother had been, he said, in control of the editorials, and his brother wrote them without consultation.

It developed during the examination of Dr. Pope that the state was laying the foundation for the introduction of dying statements made by Mr. Gonzales. Under objection the statement by Dr. Pope that he heard Mr. Gonzales say, "I am killed," was admitted, but the court said later, when ruling on other questions, it would let it stand or instruct the jury to disregard it.

The defense objected to all the testimony relating to the carrying of a pistol by the defendant prior to the shooting unless it could be shown that there was a connection between the carrying at that time and the shooting. The court admitted the testimony, with the provision that if it was not developed that it was competent the jury would be instructed to disregard it.

W. F. Steiglitz, a gunsmith in Columbia, when shown the automatic pistol which has been exhibited during the trial said that a call had been made upon him the day before the shooting for a magazine for a pistol like the one shown to him on the stand; but that, not having any in stock, he repaired the old one, which was called for on the morning of the day of the shooting.

Dr. S. T. B. Lancaster, a member of the legislature from Spartanburg, testified that he saw a pistol in Mr. Tillman's pocket on the day previous to the shooting. Two boys, C. V. Zimmerman and Francis Smith, swore that they saw a pistol in Tillman's hip pocket on Jan. 13, two days before the shooting.

H. S. Dowling of Bamberg, who was a second lieutenant in the Second South Carolina regiment, commanded by J. H. Tillman, and a member of the legislature and whose room adjoined Tillman's in a hotel at Columbia, was in the defendant's room on the morning of the day of the shooting, he testified, and they had breakfast together in the room. The witness swore that he saw two pistols over the mantel over the fireplace, one of which was an automatic magazine pistol, which attracted his attention. He was shown the two pistols which have been exhibited to different witnesses as the ones carried by the defendant. These he believed to be the same he saw in the room.

Others came into the room that morning before he left, he said, naming them. One of these arrivals, he said, loaded the magazine of the automatic pistol and handed it to Mr. Tillman just as witness was leaving the room. The witness then said he next saw Tillman at the jail after the shooting, when he expressed his regrets that he (Tillman) was in trouble. Tillman asked, he said, if he (witness) knew where he had hit Mr. Gonzales. The witness left the jail and, upon ascertaining where the bullet had struck, went back to the jail and informed Tillman, who, witness said, replied that "if he hit where he aimed he sure was a dead man."

SWELL SUITS FOR MEN.

Tailor-made Clothing at ready-to-wear prices is a condition-precedent in our clothing store. Decidedly different from the ordinary "store clothes" are these suits, and gentlemen will realize the difference at first glance. They are the equal of the high grade merchant tailor kind.

These suits have that broad shoulder effect that is so much in popular favor just now, and we give it without a break. The collar fits gracefully to the neck. The range of patterns is large and includes several exclusives in pure wool textures. The workmanship is the best in the land. Confidentially—Gentlemen who are classed among the "best dressed" should look these suits over before investing 35.00 at their "regular" tailors for a suit not one whit better than these we sell for 18.95

Boys' Clothing.

Boys who wear our clothing are pleased with it, and so are the mothers who buy it and the fathers who pay for it. It will be of interest to parents to learn that our prices are not chafing to advance as in other places. That we are selling under the market is due to our foresight in contracting for great quantities of clothing before the rise came.

VAN WORMERS TO DIE

Intend to Meet Their Fate Without Showing Fear.

DO NOT WISH TO SEE STEPMOTHER

Mrs. Van Wormer Is Prostrated by Refusal of Governor Odell to Intervene and Request of the Boys Not to See Them Again.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Sept. 30.—Mrs. Estella Van Wormer, stepmother of the three brothers who are to die tomorrow morning in the electric chair at Dannemora, was told upon her arrival at Dannemora that her stepsons had requested that she should not be allowed to visit them or even so much as see them in their cells in the death house. It was not because they did not wish to see the woman who has been the only mother they have ever known and who has stood by them through thick and thin, for it required all the courage the young men could muster to take the stand they took after a long talk with Warden Deyo and Rev. Father Belanger, their spiritual adviser, but solely because they were afraid that the ordeal of the farewell would completely unnerve them.

The thought uppermost in the minds of Willis, Burton and Frederick Van Wormer is that they must not weaken or even appear to weaken. Realizing fully that they must die within thirty-six hours, they intend to meet their fate with fortitude. They appear to regard any evidence of fear as even more disgraceful than death in the electric chair.

Mrs. Van Wormer was on the verge of nervous prostration when she reached Plattsburg after her attempt to plead with Governor Odell at Albany.

During the hour's ride from Plattsburg to Dannemora Mrs. Van Wormer said: "I think Governor Odell's action in refusing to see me was heartless. I am poor and unable to pay the cost of removing the bodies of my sons from Dannemora to Kinderhook, but if I could only get their bodies back to Kinderhook I know I could arrange for their interment there. I hope and pray that some way can be found to bury my boys somewhere near my home in Columbia county, so that I can visit their graves. I expect to see them soon after I reach Dannemora, and I will stay all night and visit them again."

Mrs. Van Wormer was so overcome with emotion that she broke down and cried like a child. At Dannemora station she was met by Father Belanger, the venerable pastor of St. Joseph's church, who conducted her to the parish house, where she was met by Warden Deyo.

Mrs. Van Wormer was then told by Father Belanger of the request of her sons that she should not visit them and of the reasons why it seemed best to them that she remain away. At first she was overwhelmed at the thought that she could never see her boys again, and it seemed as though she would utterly collapse, but after a time she partially regained control of her emotions and was soon convinced by Warden Deyo and Father Belanger that it was for the best. She remained at the parish house until train time and then returned to this city. She took the train for Kinderhook and will endeavor to arrange to have the bodies of her sons sent to her at that place. If she cannot arrange it the bodies of the young men will at once be buried, as provided by law, in quicklime in the prison burying ground.

Father Belanger and Warden Deyo visited the boys and found them calm and prepared to die. The question of which shall go first to the chair is still an open one and will in all probability remain so until the very last minute. It is intended that if any one of the trio shows signs of weakening he shall be taken first. If all three are apparently equal to the ordeal Fred's, the youngest brother's, plan my be adopted. Fred has told both Warden Deyo and Father Belanger that he is ready to go first and that he believes Willis should go second and Burton last. Burton wrote a letter to Pearl Connor, bidding her goodby. The three brothers are declared by Prison Physician Ransom to be in excellent physical condition, and they eat and sleep fairly well. State Electrician Davis will arrive at Dannemora and will make an unusually thorough examination of the entire electrical apparatus.

Since Governor Odell's refusal to interfere in their behalf the three young men have received scores of letters from people in all parts of the country, mostly from ministers, assuring them of the divine forgiveness and urging them to be brave and to trust in God's mercy.

BERLIN HEIGHTS, O., Sept. 30.—The private electric car carrying Senator Hanna, Myron T. The new voting machines are said to resemble incubators. Possibly there'll be some political tricks hatched out in them.

Congressman Fowler may have certain ideas regarding the currency but from present indications it looks as if the purchasable voter won't be at all particular on election day.

Wonder what the decision will be if the result of the constitutional amendment election is finally left to the courts? Just imagine ambitious judges defeating their own chances.

Advertising is like a race horse, says an exchange—the man who drops out is soon lost sight of. It's a good deal like winking at a pretty girl in the dark—you may know you are doing, but no one else does. Advertising is the lifeblood of business.

The office boy calls our attention to the fact that Squire Burnett, of Nanticoke, Pa., offers trading stamps to the amount of the fee received for performing wedding ceremonies. He wants to know whether the railroads are running excursions that way.

Just before going to press, James E. According to a Sun dispatch, President Palma is reported to say that it is Cuba's duty to keep Protestantism out of the Island. If he is correctly reported Palma is a narrow minded bigot. The United States made Cuba a land of the free. A Cuban as well as anybody else should be allowed to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience.

United States Senator Matt Quay reaches the three score and ten goal today and continues to keep them all guessing. Probably no other politician in this generation has been hammered at more by the public press, especially in his own State. Certain it is that none other has remained master of a State for so long a period under such conditions as he has faced.

St. John's Church (Episcopal) at Elizabeth, will celebrate the two hundredth anniversary of its existence during the week commencing November 1, and the occasion will be made a signal one in the history of the church. The charter of St. John's Church as a parish is held direct from the King of England. King George III, authorized its organization with the royal patent as being incorporate with the See of Great Britain and Ireland. Of course as soon as civil dissolution from England was effected, St. John's Church was no longer considered under obligation to the Church of England, although as a matter of fact it still is, and will continue so until the English See demands the yearly tribute of ten barley corns, provided for in the charter. Only in case of defalcation and failure to comply with the demand will St. John's be legally separated from English sovereignty. So far as is known, this is the only case of the kind in the United States.

NOW ASSURED OF A RURAL DELIVERY

thirty days, as the postal officials take that length of time to consider the examinations, as well as the report of the special agent.

Today Mr. Shriver and Mr. Bird will go over another route extending toward Dunellen and New Market, but just what will be done in this direction is not known. Later on another trip will be made over the mountains toward Mt. Bethel, Warrenville and the surrounding country. It seems quite likely that the time is not far distant when Plainfield will be connected with several rural delivery routes, possibly including Scotch Plains, as well as Dunellen, New Market, South Plainfield and the places over the mountains. If this should come to pass, there is no doubt but what some postoffices now doing a small and limited business will be abolished.

Mr. Shriver first introduced the service in Maryland and was a carrier. By the adoption of this service a great many postoffices were abolished and a far better mail service put into effect. Persons who before could not get mail under one and two days, afterwards received it the same day and within a few hours after letters were mailed.

PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Force and family, of Somerset place, have returned from Chicago, where they have been spending two weeks with relatives.

Captain Peter E. Stuart and his son, Kenneth Stuart, of West Front street, are at present in Florida after an all-summer cruise. They are expected home the latter part of October.

The family of Harold Serrell, of Myrtle avenue, has entirely recovered from a recent illness, due to ptomaine poisoning. The investigation made by the Borough Board of Health did not serve to show what caused the poisoning.

The Genuine vs. Counterfeits.

The genuine is always better than a counterfeit, but the truth of this statement is never more forcibly realised or more thoroughly appreciated than when you compare the genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve with the many counterfeits and worthless substitutes that are on the market. W. S. Ledbetter, of Shreveport, La., says: "After using numerous other remedies without benefit, one box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me." For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles no remedy is equal to DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Sold by L. W. Randolph.

Ceremonies of splendor will mark the reception of the charter of Salaam Temple, No. 1, at Newark, Friday evening, and all good nobles in this section of the country who can attend the gathering will be present to wish Salaam Temple a prosperous career. The notice is an elaborate affair. The salutation is: "Illustrious noble attend! Nahar el Jumaah, Tenth Day, Seventh Month, Hejra, 1321." This means Friday, October 2, 1903. The ceremonies will begin at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon. The features are enumerated in the official notice as follows: "Solemn celebration; leylet el miarag; Mohammed's visit to the heavens; illuminated mosques; brilliant minarets; the thirty sessions; devotional ceremonies; numerous zikers; narrative of the night's journey and the traditional banquet. Big delegations from Mecca Temple, of Newark, Lu Lu Temple, of Philadelphia and Kismet Temple, of Brooklyn, will be present with their Arab patrols in full oriental costumes, and many nobles from other temples will assemble at Newark to do honor to Salaam. The handsome new robes for the officers and the Arab patrol of Salaam will be worn for the first time. It will be a red-letter night in the annals of the Mystic Shine. All members of Salaam and visiting nobles are earnestly requested to participate in the parade. The start will be made at 7:30 o'clock at night. Real live camels will be a feature of the demonstration and will set a "swinging race" for the sons of the desert.

A Blow in the Back.

An overcoat is a necessary nuisance and the tendency to take it off on warmish days in late autumn and winter is as strong as it is unwise. A treacherous wind hits you in the back and the next morning you have lumbago. Rub well and often with Perry Davis' Painkiller and you will be astonished to find how quickly all soreness is banished. There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'.

THE SOO RIOTERS.

Militia and Police Protect Consolidated Plant.

MUNICIPALITY IS AIDING THE NEEDY

A Minor Riot Took Place at the Company's Camps Near Wilde Station, Where Woodsmen Stormed Engine Crew With Rocks.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Sept. 30.—The arrest of nine men charged with being implicated in the riot at the Canadian Soo Monday of a mob of discharged employees of the Consolidated Lake Superior company and an attempt of a number of the men forcibly to resist detention by the concern at Wilde Station, on the Algoma Central, were among the developments in the situation at the Soo.

Numerous requests by employment agencies for the services of many of the large number of employees thrown out of work by the closing of the concern and its various affiliated companies, to which they are responding, and the absence of destitution have given the men hope, and, with the exception of the incident mentioned, everything was again quiet.

Mayor Plummer has with the sanction of the municipality readily aided the needy, who are declared to be few, but he announced in a statement that with the arrival of a detachment of the militia all unemployed men of the company who have refused to accept the offers of work elsewhere will be forced to leave.

Since the attack by the mob on the company's offices the local militia, reenforced by the police, has guarded the plants and industries of the company, but order has been observed, and communication between the two Soos, which was ordered stopped, was resumed. It is planned also to start the street cars on the Canada side immediately. There are 500 woodsmen in the camps of the company, but as a measure of protection the company, according to William Coyne, assistant to President Shields, will not allow them to come in until all of the 310 troops en route will have arrived. Although they are said by Mr. Coyne to be well provided with food and to have been given good sleeping quarters, the men, he says, are dissatisfied, which has caused them to protest against being left at Wilde Station, which ended in a demonstration similar to that which occurred here, but not so serious.

The men, Mr. Coyne said, became angry when told they would be held at the station overnight and began to throw rocks at the engine crew. The fusillade of missiles became so heavy that to escape with their lives the crew under pretense of switching the train, after an engine and two coaches had been uncoupled, started down the main track on the Algoma Central road, leaving the foreigners behind. Some of them, unwilling to stay there, have walked to the Soo.

In a statement by Major Plummer, denying that there had been destitution, he said: "At my suggestion municipal funds were used to help men who had been thrown out of employment and were in need. They were given checks for meals, and men with families were supplied with the necessities of life. All who requested aid were given it, and, although the sudden loss of employment meant hardships for men with families, there never has been any destitution. The company by which the men had been employed also aided them when aid was needed."

Receiver For Clergue Property.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Sept. 30.—Upon application of the Central Trust company of New York, holding a mortgage on the property of the Michigan Lake Superior Power company of Sault Ste. Marie, one of the Clergue properties, for $2,400,000, Judge Wanty in the United States district court appointed a receiver for the corporation in the person of Benjamin Franklin Frankenthal, Jr., of Easton, Pa.

To Disobey Means Death at Kabul.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—Advices from Kabul, Afghanistan, say the cholera epidemic is abating. Several prominent persons were victims of the disease. Rigorous measures were adopted to check its spread. The troops at Kabul were all moved into camps outside the walls, and the population was forbidden to eat fruit or vegetables. Any infringement of the regulations was punishable by death.

Do Not Want the Czar.

VIENNA, Sept. 30.—A meeting of 2,000 socialists was held here to protest against the visit of the czar of Russia. Addresses of the most violent character were made. One speaker remarked, "The czar, whose only instruments of cultivation are the gallows, the prison and Siberia, comes like a thief, affected by the stigma of his crimes, between a cordon of troops."

Father and Son Killed by Blast.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Sept. 30.—John and William Schieffert of this city, father and son, each the head of a family, were instantly killed here by a blast which had failed to explode. The blast discharged as the men were tamping the load. Both were hurled fifty feet and horribly mangled.

Two Killed by Falling Derrick.

EASTON, Pa., Sept. 30.—Levi Hendershot and an Italian were killed in a slate quarry at Peh Atgyl. They were at work in the quarry when a falling derrick struck them.

An Ideal Location
Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

MODES OF THE MOMENT.

Revival of High Collars—The New Evening Dresses.

Collars are again worn high and are even boned at the back and sides. It is pleasing to see this neatness at the neck after the floppiness with which we have put up so long.

The new evening dresses are very gorgeous. Some old Louis brocades are beautiful, and jetted and pailletted robes will again be much worn. Gold and silver tissue, too, will form the foundation of many a beautiful empire frock, while accordion plaiting will be a feature of young girls' frocks. It is also effectively used in many tea gowns.

Some of the new little coats show the most fascinating small basques. There is no doubt that the basque is revived again, and very charming specimens of soft crinkled suede belts are seen. These are particularly effective in brown.

Many smart frocks for afternoon and evening wear are trimmed with small ruchings laid in large scroll designs. These are a little hard unless softened by lace entredeux.

As a covering for evening or against high winds when driving the pelisse or long loose sack coat will be popular, together with collars of lace, outlined with raveled colored taffeta ruchings, which will figure as wraps for dining at favorite open air restaurants or the casino.

The cut shows a costume of black lustrous veiling over black taffeta. It has a plaited hanging jacket and plaited sleeves. JUDIC CHOLLET.

USEFUL REMNANTS.

Short Lengths of Velvet, Silk and Serge Make Pretty Costumes.

Remnants of white serge or pale fawn and biscuit cloth are useful for little wraps reaching to the hips, and if the quantity is not too ample fallstole fronts or wide revers and simulated undersleeves will supply the de-ciency in a picturesque fashion. An example of this is a dainty sack coat made from two yards of double width biscuit cloth and one and a half yards of duchess satin. Four yards of taffeta in deep ivory tint formed the lining.

Tucked lisse chiffon and silk can be used in many ways and cut in three parts will cover a silk or sateen bodice lining without ripping the seams. This is especially true of an evening bodice with transparent sleeves.

Short lengths of velvet in emerald green, rose, tangerine, orchid pink and other bright and fashionable colorings are useful for belts, stocks, choux and tabs.

Remnants of chiffon are most useful for hair and collar rosettes.

White louisine silk makes a dainty, dressy grown for a young girl, and it can be cleaned over and over again.

The cut shows a dinner toilet of white mousseline de soie trimmed with tiny embroidered frills over lace. JUDIC CHOLLET.

Proceedings of the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders.

[OFFICIAL.]

Regular meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, N. J., held on Thursday, September 3, 1903, at 2:30 p. m.

Roll call showed all members present except Freeholder King—1.

Owing to the absence of the clerk, Mr. E. M. Wood was designated and appointed to act as clerk pro tem.

The reading of the minutes of the previous meeting was on motion dispensed with.

PETITIONS. COMMUNICATIONS, ETC.

From John H. Thompson, John L. Derby, Charles Schwarz and forty others, residents of Cranford Township, requesting this Board to have a bridge built across the brook crossing Pittsfield and Eastman streets in said township.

The petition recited that many improvements had recently been made in the aforesaid part of the township of Cranford, and that the following streets, viz., Pittsfield, Eastman and Norman place, which adjoins Pittsfield street and connects it with the property of the Orchard Land Company, had been recently dedicated to the township of Cranford by the owners thereof; the said streets, if said brook was bridged, would furnish a much shorter roadway from the town to the part of the township of Cranford above mentioned, and was therefore a public necessity at the present time, etc. Attached to the foregoing petition was a certification by Edward B. Horton, chairman of the Township Committee, attested by G. S. Everett, Township Clerk, that the Cranford Township Committee, by resolution duly presented, had concurred in said request for a bridge.

On motion of Freeholder Farrell, received and placed on file.

Mr. John K. English, on permission being granted, addressed the Board in relation to a sewer which the city of Summit proposed to run along the county road through the township of Springfield. He requested that the latter be referred to the County Road Committee, in order that the permission of the township should first be procured before further work was done.

On motion, the matter was referred to the County Road Committee and County Attorney, with power.

THE BRITISH CABINET.

Balfour Awaits Lord Milner's Decision.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—A prolongation of the ministerial crisis seems likely, judging from newspaper comment, to still further discredit the government. It had been taken for granted that Premier Balfour would complete the reconstruction of the cabinet before going to Sheffield to deliver his long expected speech explaining his fiscal policy, which is due on Oct. 1.

It is now seen that that is impossible, and the apparent waiting for Lord Milner's decision is commented on in Conservative as well as Liberal papers as emphasizing the dearth of first class statesmen in the Conservative ranks. A large section of the Unionist party is restive under the report that Mr. Balfour is supporting Mr. Brodrick in the latter's determination to remain at the war office.

Lord Milner's reluctance to accept office is attributed among other reasons to hesitancy to commit himself as a party man. He began his career as a Liberal contributor to the Pall Mall Gazette under W. T. Stead and John Morley. It is said that he desires to hold himself aloof from party politics.

TRADE IN THE FAR EAST.

Lonsdale Tells of Russia's Game on Yalu River.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 30.—The Earl of Lonsdale has arrived on the steamer Ventura on his way home from a tour of the world. For some months he has been traveling through the orient and Australia studying social, political and industrial conditions.

His observations in the orient led him to believe that Russia is playing an interesting game there. She may withdraw a battalion of troops, but as she does so she sends in a railroad battalion to take its place, and these battalions are there for work more serious than to take care of railroads.

Russia is prepared to take all the trade now enjoyed by America. She will oust all Americans from the Yalu river for one thing, cutting into the lumber trade now being shipped from this coast by opening up the rich timber belt owned by Russian firms in the Yalu district.

The earl and countess will spend about two weeks in the United States before sailing from New York for England.

A Corporation With a Soul.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Sept. 30.—The International Time Recording company has sent a letter to each of its employees in part as follows: "Commencing Oct. 3, this factory will operate but nine hours per day. Your wages will accordingly be increased enough per hour that you will receive the same pay for nine hours as you have heretofore received for ten hours, with the understanding that should you be requested to work overtime you will receive the same rate per hour as for regular work." The company employs 250 men in its Binghamton plant.

Train Wreck at Cotton Hill.

MONTGOMERY, W. Va., Sept. 30.—The Chesapeake and Ohio railroad express train from New York to Cincinnati was wrecked at Cotton Hill, two miles east of Montgomery. Several persons were reported injured, but none seriously. The engine and five cars left the rails.

ROOSEVELT'S BUSY DAY.

Conferences With Garfield, Mitchell, Moody, Payne and Wilson.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—President Roosevelt's first day in Washington after his vacation was a busy one. He had a long conference with Acting Secretary Garfield of the department of commerce and labor, in which the latest developments in the Miller case were discussed. John Mitchell, president of the miners' union, lunched with the president. Secretary Moody, Postmaster General Payne and Secretary Wilson were the only cabinet callers. Mr. Moody discussed naval affairs, while Mr. Wilson introduced some Iowa friends. Mr. Payne had some post office matters to present. A large number of other callers also were received.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor; Mr. Mitchell, the head of the United Mine Workers' organization, and four or five other members of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor were in conference with the president for a long time with reference to the case of Foreman Miller of the bookbindery of the government printing office, whose discharge is sought by the labor leaders.

The president informed the labor leaders his decision not to dismiss Foreman Miller because he was a non-union man was final and that the question of his personal fitness must be settled in the regular routine of administration.

Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow was with the president last night for an hour and acquainted him with the progress made and the situation in the post office investigation. The president is anxious that the investigation may be closed as early as consistent with a thorough probing of the administration of postal affairs, and Mr. Bristow expects to complete his report some time in October.

WAR VETERAN KILLED.

Mayor Samuel W. Hay Fell Six Stories at Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 30.—Major Samuel W. Hay met instant death by falling from the fourth floor of the Arrott building through the elevator shaft to the basement, making a drop of six stories.

Major Hay, who is a member of one of Pittsburg's oldest families, was in the building on business, and as he stepped from the elevator at the fourth floor it is said the cage was started before he was entirely out. His foot slipped through the opening between the car and the floor, and as the elevator ascended his body dropped to the bottom.

Major Hay was a veteran of the civil and the Spanish-American wars. During the latter war he was commissary on the staffs of Major Generals Young, Davis and Wheeler.

Three Charged With Fraud.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 30.—Addison S. Pratt of New York filed a complaint in the United States district court against Charles Medias, Emil Mantel and Harry R. Wallace, deputy county recorder, charging them with conspiring through the Western Undergarment company with Louis Levin of New York, lately of Indianapolis and now missing, to rob wholesale and supply companies of $50,000 worth of goods used in making women's undergarments.

Fished Up a Corpse.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., Sept. 30.—P. W. Hinkle of Cincinnati, while fishing in Chautauqua lake, felt a tug on his line and upon pulling the hook to the surface was horrified to find the body of a man. The body was later identified as Aaron Spencer, a resident of Boomertown. The discovery of the body points to another probable tragedy, as Spencer left Lakewood Sunday in company with Fred Metcalfe of Boomertown. Metcalfe has not since been seen.

Return of Labrador Expedition.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Sept. 30.—The steamer Virginia Lake, which has returned here from Labrador, brings the members of the Labrador exploring expedition organized by Colonel Willard Glazier of New York, whose stay in Labrador was much briefer than was expected. The expedition was previously reported by Dr. Grenfell, superintendent of the Deep Sea mission, as having partly failed in its endeavor to reach the farthest point north in Labrador.

Demand For Nine Hour Day.

MERIDEN, Conn., Sept. 30.—A demand for a nine hour day with ten hours' pay has been presented at all the factories of the International Silver company in this city and elsewhere, and it is understood that a similar demand has been made or will be made on every silver shop in the United States and Canada. In addition to the nine hour demand an allowance of "time and a half" for overtime work is asked for.

Portsmouth Acquires Dickens Home.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—The birthplace of Charles Dickens, 387 Commercial road, Landport, near the Portsmouth dockyard, where his father was a clerk, in which the author spent the earlier part of his life, has been sold at auction at Portsmouth and bought in for $5,625 by the mayor, representing the city of Portsmouth. It is announced that a Dickens museum will probably be established in the house.

Six Thousand Gallons Seized.

GREENSBORO, N. C., Sept. 30.—Internal revenue agents at Milton, Caswell county, made the largest seizure of liquor known in the history of the department in North Carolina. Six thousand gallons, valued at $9,000, were seized by Deputy Collector Starbuck just as the barrels were being loaded on the train for shipment.

SPORTING NEWS.

STRUCK OUT.

This is the line-up in tomorrow's game between the lawyers and so-called newspaper men, the losing team to pay for a dinner to the victors: Newspaper men—Firstbrook, c; Feiring, p; Hacquer, 1b; Shea, 2b; Muir, 3b; Higgins, ss; Laing, lf; Hall, cf; Cutting, rf; subs., Cose and Blimm. Lawyers—Runyon, c; Hetfield, p; Nash, Dolliver, Blatz, DeMeza, Huff, Newcorn and Owens. The game will be called on Hope Common at 2:30 by Umpire Thomas Timbo.

It has been generally supposed that Alis and St. Mary's have played five games this season and that last Saturday's contest was the fifth and "rubber." The record on the contrary shows that Alis has won two games from St. Mary's and the latter has won two from Alis. This is the record for the season between the two teams: May 2—Alis 13, St. Mary 3; August 8—St. Mary 5, Alis 3; August 22—Alis 5, St. Mary 2; September 26—St. Mary 4, Alis 3. Last Saturday's game was supposed to be played in place of the one commenced Saturday, Sept. 6, and which had to postponed on account of rain.

TENNIS.

The finals at tennis for the Mellick cup for women, at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, will be played Saturday, Oct. 10.

An impromptu doubles tennis tournament at the Park Club yesterday afternoon resulted in a victory in the final round for Miss Valiant and Miss Hegeman over Miss Fleming and Miss Weedon in two sets out of three. An informal tea followed the matches.

Entries for the girls' tennis tournament at the High School are Marion Pierson, Marguerite Ostrom, Carrie Brower, Christine Thompson, Florence Smalley, May F. Cogan, Florence Martin and Clara Buckle. The tournament is under direction of the Girls' Athletic Association.

The semi-finals and finals in the Plainfield High School doubles tournament resulted in a victory for Briggs and Craig. The scores: Travell and Tweedy beat Smith and Cline, 2-6, 6-2, 6-3; J. Douglass and Long beat Travell and Tweedy, 6-2, 6-4; Briggs and Craig beat Douglass and Long, 6-1, 7-5, 6-3.

FOOTBALL.

The Orange Field Club management has arranged a game with the Westfield team for next Saturday, October 3. The game will be played on the Orange Oval, Randolph road and Park avenue.

Manager Smith, of the Orange Field Club football team, announces that the team will play its opening game Saturday afternoon at 3:30 on the Arlington avenue grounds with the Westfield A. C. Westfield is strong with many veterans in her line-up and a close game is anticipated. The Orange F. C. team is somewhat crippled at present by injuries to the men. It will be deprived of the services of its quarter-back for several weeks, as George McVoy, who held that position, was thrown out of a wagon by a runway horse Monday night, and severely strained his leg, besides suffering minor injuries. The exact line-up of the eleven cannot be announced yet. The men are slowly getting into trim with practise Wednesdays and Fridays. Manager Smith has announced the complete schedule for the season as follows: Westfield, Oct. 3; Carlton A. C., Oct. 10; Norwood Club, Oct. 17; Rahway H. S., Oct. 24; Westfield, Oct. 31; Paterson Boat Club, Election Day, a. m., Nov. 3; Port Richmond Y. M. C. A., p. m., Nov. 3; Wumipieg A. C., of New York, Nov. 7; Norwood, 14; Rahway H. S., 21; Somerville A. C., Thanksgiving Day, a. m., Nov. 26; Mohegan A. C., of Brooklyn, p. m., Nov. 26; Flemington A. C., Nov. 27. All the games will be played on home territory with the exception of the Somerville game which will be played at Somerville.

SIDE LIGHTS ON TIMELY TOPICS NOTED IN PASSING.

Persons who think it is cunning to string newspaper reporters or editors by giving them false or libelous information in order to satisfy their own selfish aims will be interested to learn that the statutes provide that "whoever willfully and maliciously states, delivers or transmits by any means whatever to the manager, editor, publisher or reporter of any newspaper, magazine publication, periodical or serial for publication therein any false or libelous statement concerning any person or corporation and thereby secures the actual publication of the same shall upon conviction thereof be punished by a fine not exceeding $500 or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or by both fine and imprisonment."—Portland, (Me.) Argus.

It was not exactly a "quilting bee" that P. V. R. VanWyck, of Stelle avenue, had at his home some days ago, but the affair had to do with bees of the honey variety, and Mr. VanWyck in trying to get his collection into winter's quarters had a battle royal. He accomplished his purpose, but not until the swarm gave him a lively chase and at the same time nipped him about his face and hands. Those who have had similar experiences can appreciate Mr. VanWyck's difficulties in hiving the bees. He was a long time in completing his task, but when he succeeded in getting the bees where they belonged, he was suffering much pain from numerous bee stings. As a result Mr. VanWyck was detained from his business duties as engineer for the New York Telephone Company, and it was not until the latter part of the week that he was able to go to New York. His face and hands were swollen to abnormal proportions and the pain was intense.

A Purgative Pleasure.

If you ever took DeWitt's Little Early Risers for biliousness or constipation you know what a purgative pleasure is. These famous little pills cleanse the liver and rid the system of all bile without producing unpleasant effects. They do not gripe, sicken or weaken, but give tone and strength to the tissues and organs involved. W. H. Howell, of Houston, Tex., says: "No better pill can be used than Little Early Risers for constipation, sick headache, etc." Sold by L. W. Randolph.

LITERARY.

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle left us in doubt at the end of "The Hound of the Baskervilles" about what became of Sherlock Holmes. Sir Arthur has now written especially for Collier's Weekly a new series of stories, connected, though each complete in itself, begun last week with "The Adventure of the Empty House."

The most effective methods for "The Administration of Public School Systems" are set forth by C. B. Gilbert in the October-December Forum. He urges particularly that the business side of school work should be conducted on business principles, by persons directly responsible to those who appoint them.

The aerodrome or air runner of Professor Langley, of the Smithsonian Institution, had four silken wings and three propellers, one for steering; and when launched from a house-boat off Wide Water, Va., August 8th, she sailed or flew "erratically," that is, she cabbled; and she came down kerplunk! after a voyage of about 200 yards. The silken sails were rent; her steel frame-work was battered; the whole concern was stuck, head-first, in mud. Mr. Manley, Professor Langley's chief assistant aerodromist, declared that "the experiment was entirely successful."—From "With the Procession" in Everybody's Magazine for October.

—The regular October meeting of the Common Council will be held Monday evening, October 5. It is expected that some definite action will be taken at that time regarding the macadamizing of certain streets.

Little Hickory.

And now it is gravely announced by a Republican authority that if Kean is the only candidate for United States Senator, Jackson, of Middlesex, will vote for him. This should please the Elizabeth statesman some, but further reflection will lead him to the conclusion that "Little Hickory" has not yet been assigned by the voters to a seat in the Senate.—Paterson Guardian.

PRACTICAL DEMONSTRATION.

Mrs. Barry Displaying Corsets at Woodhull & Martin's.

There is probably no part of a woman's toilet that receives as much attention as the kind of corset worn. It is the one important question discussed by the fair sex and in view of the fact that there are so many styles and makes, it is difficult some time to make a selection. A model corset is desired and those who have seen and examined the Colton Invisible Lacing Corset, now being demonstrated at Woodhull & Martin's store are at once impressed with the fact that this corset will do all that is claimed for it. Mrs. Barry, who is thoroughly versant in these matters, has charge of the demonstration and she takes great pleasure in showing the garment. With this corset the finest textures can be worn without any fear of the lacings showing through or that the strings will bunch and spoil the smoothness of the fit. The corset should be seen to be appreciated, and Woodhull & Martin carry a full line in all the sizes.
